NO FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR CATCH-AND-HOLD DIVIDERS

Death-Alley Safety Delayed

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS

Catch-and-hold barricades for Death Alley, a stretch of the Long Beach Freeway upon which 20 people have died in traffic since Jan. 1, have been approved by the state's Division of Highways.

Construction, however, may be a year away.

A spokesman for the state says no funds are budgeted for the $150,000 project in the fiscal year that began in October. If the protecting barricades can be built in 1963, the financing must come from some type of special fund.

THE CITY of Long Beach, responsible for a portion of Death Alley, is waiting until the state acts.

Death Alley, worst traffic killer in the history of Long Beach, is that portion of the freeway from Artesia Street south to the ocean.

Traffic experts have condemned it as poorly lit, inadequately protected and poorly policed.

* * * *

DEATH ALLEY'S tragic record was exposed by The Independent, Press-Telegram exactly two weeks ago today. At that time, nine fatal accidents had killed 15 people. Since that expose, two more accidents have snuffed out the lives of five more people.

One of those accidents, killing two people, occurred the same day The Independent, Press-Telegram exposed the hazards of the freeway. The other, destroying three lives, took place last Wednesday.

The State Division of Highways' Sacramento headquarters has approved the installation of chain-link barricades between the northbound and southbound lanes, according to a letter it sent the city last week. Lt. Orville James of the Long Beach Police Department's traffic bureau has sharply criticized the absence of barriers that would prevent careening cars from crossing the weedy divider strip and causing tragic head-on collisions.

However, despite the state's approval of the barriers, they may not be installed for some time.

As an interim protection, Lt. James announced Saturday, the traffic division of the local police department has been instructed to place additional emphasis upon law enforcement on Death Alley.

Lt. James' comments, disclosed two weeks ago, included the opinion that more strict policing, to halt drunken or careless drivers, was necessary to reduce the alarming toll of Death Alley.

THE "CATCH and hold" chain link barriers approved by the state are the same type now in use on the Santa Ana, Harbor and Golden State Freeways. Their construction, according to traffic engineers, permits them to stop

Suspect Quizzed in Girl Slayings

A 32-year-old itinerant, booked in Pecos, Tex., on the technical charge of hitchhiking, was being grilled Saturday night as "the best suspect yet" in the murder of an 11-year-old Torrance girl and the unsolved disappearance of another.

The suspect is Herbert Owen Broderick, sometime resident of Huntington Beach and Norwalk.

He has been in the Pecos jail five days. Two of the Southland's leading homicide investigators have been subjecting Broderick to lie detector and "truth drug" serums for two days.

* * * *

BRODERICK is being questioned in the kidnap-murder of Dorothy Gale Brown, who vanished from her Torrance home July 3, and whose nude body was found in the surf near Huntington Beach on July 4.

He is also being questioned in connection with the disappearance of Karen Lynn Tompkins, also 11, on Aug. 18, 1961. No trace of her has been found.

DOROTHY GALE BROWN
Body Found in Sea

The girls lived about four blocks apart.

Torrance Police Lt. Don Hamilton said his department has been looking for Broderick ever since last July 5.

"He lived very close to the place where we found the girl's clothes, near Huntington Beach," Broderick said. He refused further details.

Pecos, Tex., authorities flatly refused even to describe their prisoner. But they did say he had been arrested on a "traffic" charge—hitchhiking — and is held in lieu of $40.50 fine. The Los Angeles County Sheriff's department added this information:

"Broderick was not arrested originally on investigation of the crimes against these children. He was arrested in Pecos for a traffic violation, then held on suspicion of rob-

GEN. CLAY TAKES A PEEK
Retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, 65, President Kennedy's advisor on Berlin, pulls himself up and clings to the Berlin Wall Saturday for a look into East Berlin. Clay's performance not only stunned two Communist guards on the other side, but also amazed West Berliners who had never seen a tourist scramble up the 9-foot wall.

JFK, Cabinet Study Home 'Peace Corps'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy appointed Saturday a cabinet-level committee of seven to determine whether it would be a good idea to launch a domestic "national service program" similar to the Peace Corps operating overseas.

The President picked his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to be chairman. The attorney general already has made a preliminary study and turned in a report that favors the new program.

The attorney general envisioned it as a method for giving Americans of all ages a chance to answer the President's challenge in his inaugural address to ask what they can do for their country. Robert Kennedy said: "We need to offer visible avenues for service to these people."

* * * *

ROBERT Kennedy's report proposed that the national service corps be open to all persons from high school graduates to retired people, with a one-year term of voluntary enlistment, compared with two years for the present Peace Corps. Volunteers would get enough pay to cover living expenses and would receive a small sum in addition at the end of their enlistments.

In addition to Robert Kennedy, the committee will consist of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, Budget Director David Bell and Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver.

Nixon Says Campaign Was 'Last'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, in his first public statement since losing California's election for governor, confirmed Saturday that he doesn't plan to run again for public office.

In a telegram received by several newspapers, Nixon declared the California race was "my last campaign for public office."

The defeated Republican candidate, in a Nov. 7 news conference, conceded defeat to Gov. Edmund G. Brown and indicated he was through with public life. At one point he declared: "This is my last press conference."

But some politicians, including Gov. Brown, have indicated their belief that

Greek Seamen Set for Bite of Turkey

By SHERM WILLIAMS

How good is Long Beach?

Wonderful!

And have Americans forgotten the story behind Thanksgiving Day?

Absolutely not!

That is one lesson that can be learned from the aftermath of a story telling the plight of 32 seamen aboard the Greek freighter Hera.

The Hera was seized for debts 46 days ago when she sailed into Los Angeles harbor. She is to be sold at auction Nov. 26. The crew hasn't received regular pay since August. They have received some partial payments, but by any standards are short of money.

They face an uncertain future. They are worried about their families. And 45 days within the tantalizing sight of the lights of the city can be a harrowingly long time for men penned on a ship.

But they have not given up their ship and say they won't until the auctioneer slams his gavel down: "Sold!"

Proud men, the seamen don't want charity. They admit though that they would welcome diversion. That, the Southland seems to have promised them. The story about the Hera and her crew appeared Friday. In the story, one young crewman said wistfully, "I would like to know about Thanksgiving."

The response was immediate.

Los Alamitos Naval Air Station personnel volunteered to help the Hera's crew have a good Thanksgiving. J. E. (Mac) McClintock, general manager of Pierpoint Landing offered to "help in any way we can." The Long Beach Harbor department said it was looking into ways of providing ship-to-shore transportation for the men.

The Hera has no workable motor lifeboat and water-taxi service is limited

Seven Die in Mojave Collision

BARSTOW (AP) — A car and a pickup truck crashed on a Mojave Desert highway Saturday with such force that the frame of the truck was twisted "like a wishbone." Seven persons were killed and one was critically injured.

Coroner Edward P. Doyle of San Bernardino County said the crash occurred on U.S. Highway 66 about 35 miles east of this Southern California town.

Doyle identified the dead as: George E. Decker, 39, Yermo, driver of the truck; his passengers, Odell Davis, 48, Barstow, and Jack Wriston, 28, Yermo; Ronald J. Hamm, 20, Columbus, Ohio, a sailor driving the car; his passengers, Robert Milton Herman, 22, Conover, N.C.; Mrs. Rita Berlin, 50, and her daughter, Pamela, 15.

PLANNED ECONOMY KILLING INDUSTRY, LEADERS ASSERT

Cotton, a Big L.B. Export, Dying

By LOU JOBST
I. P-T Marine Editor

FRESNO—In California cotton is king, but the $400-million-a-year industry is a troubled giant.

With 800,000 acres under cultivation and the highest field productivity in the world, cotton, in 40 years, has become the state's chief cash crop — more than twice as big as citrus.

But despite this and improved techniques which promise even greater yields the industry is losing markets on two fronts:

Abroad, fast-expanding foreign competitors, many put into business by U.S. money and know-how, are taking away traditional customers.

At home, business is being lost to increasingly aggressive competing synthetic fibers.

This situation, especially the international aspects, has far-reaching economic implications for Long Beach, the cotton-cargo capital of the western U.S., and Los Angeles, a major cotton port.

"We're caught in a two-way squeeze," says Julian Dewberry, president of the Fresno Cotton Exchange. "U.S. cotton prices, fixed by federal support controls, are too high.

"This has encouraged foreign countries to further expand their operations . . . and makes it difficult for us to compete realistically with the synthetics."

Dewberry's alarm is shared by virtually every group in the industry including a committee of the National Cotton Council which this week called for a drastic cut in the 33-cent-per-pound support price fixed by the U.S. government.

For 10 years Long Beach has been California cotton's chief export center and although Los Angeles handles considerably less tonnage, cotton has been a consistent fourth-ranking export there since the Korean War.

Although the cotton-cargo business has not been particularly noted for its stability in the past (it has ranged from a low of 115,000 bales to a high of nearly 700,000 bales annually at Long Beach since 1954)—this relatively steady stream of commerce has dwindled to a trickle.

Since July fewer than 80,000 bales have passed over L.B-L.A piers.

Some experts gloomily predict that total cotton exports this year may be off as much as 80 per cent.

This means that a big

L.A.C. Says:
Just What Does More Liberal Mean

We are hearing that President Kennedy is encouraged by the good showing of his party candidates in the election, although it was considerably reduced in numbers. It is supposed to be a "more liberal" Congress which will insure passage of measures the previous Congress rejected. It raises the question as to just what is expected in the way of liberalism from this new Congress.

When Alger Hiss—a convicted perjurer who had passed on our government secrets to the Russians—was dignified by a television criticism of Richard Nixon, the liberals insisted Hiss was entitled to tell his story. It was not pointed out that he had told his story before a judge and jury of 12 average citizens who found him guilty. But Nixon has been the target of "liberals" ever since he brought out these facts about spying in high offices of the government. This story is vividly told in the current Reader's Digest. By using Hiss in a program titled "The Political Obituary of Richard Nixon" it was demonstrated that there are powerful—or stupid forces—that support philosophies that endanger the safety of this nation. It brought an appreciation of Richard Nixon many people had not had before.

There is good reason to believe the voters were influenced by the President's action in the Cuban quarantine. That came at a crucial point in the campaign. It was a move in opposition to the Communist military build-up in Cuba. Public opinion supported this action long before it was taken. It was an opinion opposed to what many people thought was too much liberalism in appeasing the Communists in Cuba—and in our own country.

An example of how "liberalism" is often misjudged is shown in the Communist-tinged "People's World." The San Francisco edition of this paper came out four days before election. It was vile in it attacks against Nixon. It was in line with its attacks ever since the Alger Hiss case. But the left-wingers consider it the great spokesman for liberalism.

Here are a few of its headlines: "Nixon's last hopes—war fever smears." It printed a picture of actor Sterling Hayden with the explanation "addressing crowd of 3,500 which gathered in San Francisco Civic Plaza to demand halt to blockade of Cuba; peaceful resolution of crisis." One of its columns is headed "profiteers ordered blockade of Cuba."

This publication was circulated throughout the state four days before election. And yet Attorney General Mosk says the people should not have been concerned about the issue of communism in the campaign. He seems to think it is no longer a threat. Many people agree with him in feeling the CDC and left-wing activities were emphasized too much. But this does not change the fact that these groups are largely responsible for the softness we have shown toward communism—and it would appear are continuing to show.

The true liberal is one who believes in the principal of the individual rights of others. He also recognizes that there must be laws and rules to protect these rights. But no person has the right to shout fire in a crowded theater when there is no fire—and no American has a right to sabotage the government of his country. That is what the so-called "liberals" do when they defend or support any group that advocates the violent overthrow of this government.

That is a part of the Communist program. No such speaker or group should be dignified by being permitted to speak in our schools or on school property. It is not that they influence their listeners—but rather a demonstration of our weakness in accepting them as privileged to expound their treason without restraint. They are dedicated to using violence as well as words.

This is no time to be soft on such groups. They should be denounced by the governor and President and those who can be proved to be subversive should be deprived of their citizenship and any benefits of the nation they would destroy. We disagree with Mr. Mosk as does J. Edgar Hoover. The subversive Communist danger in this country is every bit as great as it was 10 years ago.—L.A.C.

Kennedy Asks Russ to Decide

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy is seeking a prompt, decisive reply from Soviet Premier Khrushchev on removal from Cuba of about 30 jet bombers capable of delivering nuclear bombs against U.S. targets.

Kennedy is reported to have made clear to Moscow through diplomatic channels that for the United States time is running out on the bomber issue and the Soviet government should make its position known without delay.

Officials said the President had not fixed any time limit for new moves if the jets were not taken out of Cuba but it was considered significant in official quarters that the President had set a news conference — his first since Sept. 13 — for 6 p.m. next Tuesday.

AUTHORITIES said it seems obvious that when he goes before the American people to make a report on the Cuban situation at that time he will want to have uncertainty over the bomber issue cleared up.

If Khrushchev has by then refused to make good on his commitment of Oct. 28 to take out of Cuba the weapons Kennedy considered offensive, the President, it is understood, may order new measures to deal with the situation. Among those under consideration is a blockade ban on shipment of petroleum products to Cuba. This would deny jet fuel for the planes.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant said Saturday he had forwarded to U.S. officials new Cuban and Soviet proposals for settling the Cuban crisis. He declined, however, to disclose them, and Cuban, Soviet and U.S. delegation sources could not be reached for comment.

Thant told newsmen he passed the proposals on Thursday — the same day he received a letter from Prime Minster Fidel Castro warning that Cuban antiaircraft batteries would shoot down any U.S. reconnaissance planes flying over Cuba.

* * * *

CASTRO ALSO stuck to his "peace with dignity" proposal which contains five demands for settlement of the crisis. These include U.S. withdrawal from the Guantanamo Bay Naval Base in Cuba and a lifting of trade embargoes.

A U.N. spokesman said Tuesday that Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov and Cuban Chief Delegate Carlos M. Lechuga had discussed "specific joint proposals" with Thant that day. But next day he said Thant had not yet relayed them to the United States because he was not authorized to do so.

automobiles from crossing the divider strip, and also to keep them from bouncing back into the lanes from which they originated.

Assistant City Traffic Engineer C. S. Thompson says that the chain-link type of barrier will also reflect automobile headlights, thus eliminating a complaint by Lt. James that motorists cannot follow the highway lines at night, because of lack of reflectors.

* * * *

THOMPSON also told The Independent, Press-Telegram that:

"When the state installs the barriers on its portion of the freeway, I am sure the city will match the project for the area it is responsible for" (south of Pacific Coast Highway).

However, Thompson also noted that the city—like the state—has no budgeted funds for the project.

A spokesman for Edward Telford, metropolitan district engineer for the Division of Highways, reported Saturday that Sacramento headquarters, in approving barriers for the Long Beach Freeway, has ordered plans and specifications drawn for the project.

* * * *

SIMILAR notification has been sent the office of City Engineer Jess Gilkerson.

Telford's office, through its public relations section, said that the barriers have "always" been planned for the Long Beach Freeway, but that priority has gone to other freeways because they have higher traffic counts.

The Los Angeles office of the Division of Highways, in a letter to Gilkerson, held out hope last week that "financing can be arranged." However, Telford's office said funds could not be budgeted until the 1963-4 fiscal year, which would indicate that construction of the barriers could not begin until October, 1963.

Telford's spokesman did hold out some hope for earlier work on the project:

"It is possible," he told The Independent, Press-Telegram, "that we could get an allocation from a special fund."

Such an allocation, he said, is not being sought at this time.

Politics Out, Says Nixon

Nixon may have been speaking in the heat of a losing campaign and may return to public life.

In his telegram, he also questioned the importance of Alger Hiss' television appearance "when weighed on the scales against thousands of wires and letters from patriotic Americans."

The telegram said:

"As I begin a long-delayed vacation, I want to thank you for your recent editorials and the objective news coverage of my activities during the 16 years I have been in public life.

"Looking to the future, I hope that my voice can help to preserve and extend the kind of opportunity for all Americans which it has been my privilege to enjoy.

"What few disappointments have been my lot in the world of politics are as nothing compared to the mountain-top experiences which it has been my privilege to enjoy.

"There is no more striking example of this truth than the events of the past week. What does an attack by one convicted perjurer mean when weighed on the scale against the thousands of wires and letters from patriotic Americans?

"My parting advice to all those contemplating a political career is simply this: is is not whether we win or lose that counts, but whether we fight to the best of our abilities for the cause in which we believe."

Robot Planned to Build 'Cottage' on Moon

BY LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

A cozy lunar "cottage," fully equipped with furniture and electricity, could be landed on the moon and readied by a wheeled robot as a haven for our arriving astronauts, a Douglas scientist declares.

A cylindrical shelter containing the robot vehicle could be launched from earth and soft-landed on the lunar surface, according to C. William Henderson, of Douglas' Missile and Space Systems Division.

The robot would emerge through a nose door, emplace a portable nuclear reactor for power, then scoop up lunar soil and spray it over the shelter, burying it for protection against meteoroids, radiation and temperature extremes.

Operation of the robot would be directed from earth and monitored by television and telemetry, Henderson said.

His proposal was included among scores at technical sessions of the American Rocket Society's 17th annual meeting, which ends today in Pan Pacific Auditorium, Los Angeles.

Participating in the meeting, termed the most outstanding space exposition ever held on the Pacific Coast, were more than 6,000 of the nation's leading space scientists.

Among new developments announced at the weeklong meeting was the tiniest known spacecraft, small enough to hold in your hand.

Produced by Space Technology Laboratories, the pyramidal satellite, called the TRS or Tetrahedral Research Satellite, weighs less than a pound and a half.

One of the small space vehicles was launched recently into orbit from Vandenberg Air Force Base piggy-back aboard an Air Force research and development satellite.

Its job will be to map since radiation and radio back data to be used in updating maps of the Van Allen radiation belts which ring the earth and which can affect planning of manned space flights.

A new TV-type camera that can give a crystal-clear picture of a roomful of people with no more illumination than a single lighted cigarette made its debut at the meeting.

The camera is so sensitive that it can spot a basketball at 100 miles, according to its creators, Bendix Corporation engineers.

Called the BX-7, the unit is designed for use in rocket blast-off areas, where it would enable range safety officers to track rockets until certain they are functioning properly.

Shown at the meeting was a subminiature scientific computer no larger than a portable typewriter, yet so versatile it can play a game of chess or guide a spaceship to the moon.

The computer, made by Minneapolis-Honeywell, is so fast that it can do 3,000 additions in the time it takes to blink your eye.

About the size of an unabridged dictionary, the computer can solve as many computations as there are words in the dictionary . . . in only 5.4 seconds.

Also exhibited was a new miniature gyroscope no larger than a pint-sized soup can which is the most accurate gyro in the world, according to the Sperry Gyroscope Co.

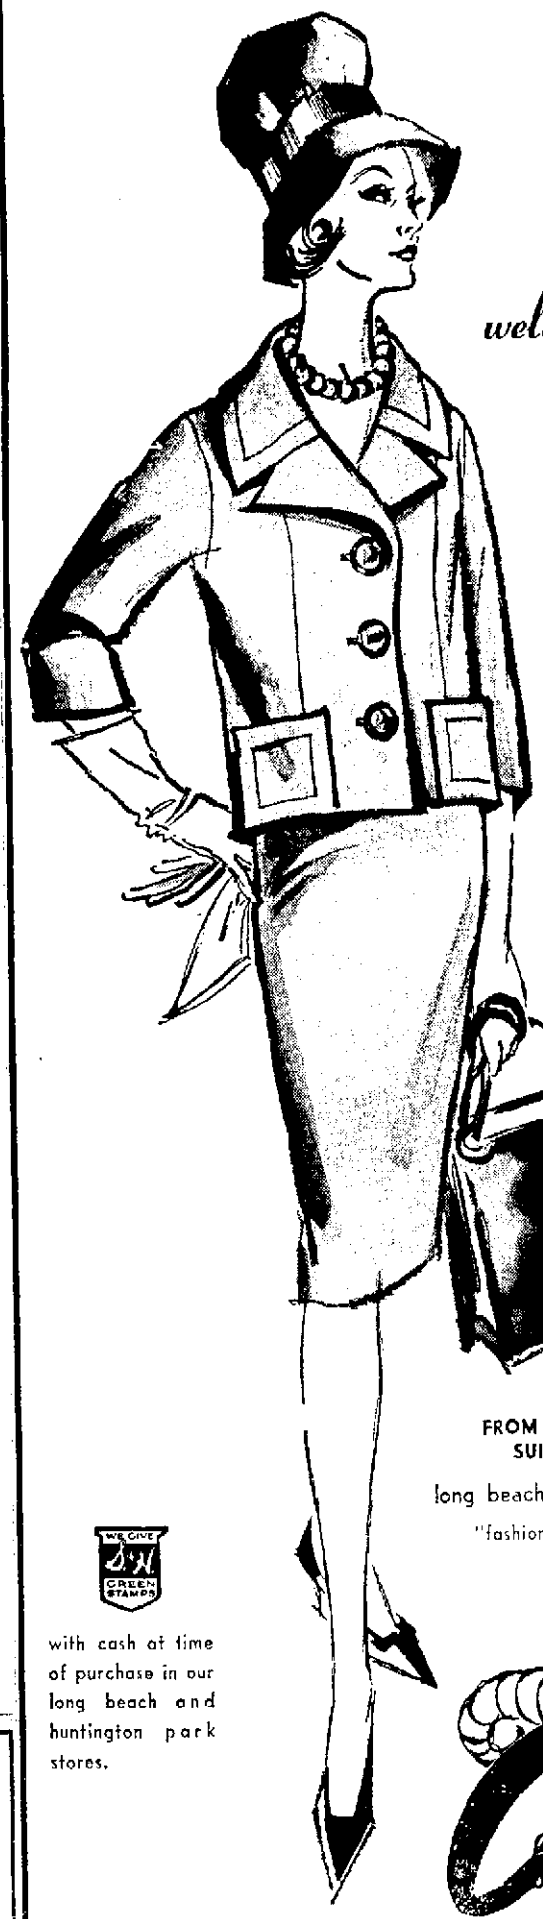

The gyro's sensitive rotating wheel floats on a cushion of hydrogen rather than the usual ball bearings. As the wheel spins, the gas stiffens to hold the wheel on dead center to within billionths of an inch, virtually eliminating the gyro "drift" which is common in ball-bearing devices.

TINY SATELLITE KNOWN as TRS (Tetrahedral Research Satellite) built by Space Technology Laboratories, weighs only 1.47 pounds, cost $25,000. It was put into orbit by the Air Force Space Systems Division to study Van Allen radiation.

THOUSANDS OF BALES OF CALIFORNIA COTTON STORED ON PIER A, LONG BEACH PORT

State's No. 1 Crop Throttled

portion of the state's expected harvest of 1.7 million bales, now 60 per cent completed, will be headed for surplus bins.

With this goes a drying up of important port revenues; 80 cents per ton or about 20 cents per bale.

The problem is simple. Despite an 8½-cent-a-pound subsidy on export cotton paid by the federal government the domestic product still is a cent higher than cotton produced abroad, principally in Mexico, Egypt and South America.

Many farm leaders such as Dewberry and agricultural journalist Sid Cox feel a solution, at least in California, is equally simple.

Cut the support price, increase acreage allotments for planting and outproduce the foreign competitors, says Cox.

He points out that California has the highest yield per acre in the world (two bales as compared to ½ bale in Mississippi), and the technology and mechanization to increase its total production severalfold.

"The potential (harvest) is unlimited," agrees Dewberry. "Cotton isn't near the gamble it once was."

The California cotton industry is the most scientific and highly mechanized in the world. The fields are planted and harvested by huge complex machines and the plants are fed laboratory-developed diets. The cotton is pulled and the seeds are removed by high-speed gins, operated by four men, which can turn out 20 bales an hour.

State and federal agronomists carry on a continuing research program in seed hybridization, soil improvement and pest control.

These conditions plus year-around sunshine and plentiful water from Northern California have made the San Joaquin Valley the richest cotton belt in America. Fresno and Kern are the first- and second-ranking cotton-producing counties in the U.S. and contribute a major portion of the California harvest which is the second-biggest in the world.

California cotton growers, offered the alternative of higher support prices or increased acreage allotments under the Eisenhower administration, overwhelmingly chose bigger plantings — about 8 out of 10, Cox claims.

"I think that sentiment still stands, perhaps is even stronger now," said Cox.

Synthetic competition for cotton manufacturers is not new. Nylon took the tire industry by storm some years back because its casing was safer than cotton.

Now, claim the cotton-marketing experts, the synthetics are moving into markets where cotton is the better manufacturing material for such products as towels and clothing.

Since the end of 1960, consumption of competing fibers has gone up 34 per cent, while cotton has risen only 10 per cent.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Arrest by FBI Angers Cubans

(Combined Wire Services)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The Cuban delegation will protest to the United Nations over the arrest by the FBI of one of its attaches in a sabotage conspiracy case, authoritative sources said Saturday night.

The Cuban delegation itself withheld comment but it was believed the Cubans would base their protests on the claim that the attache, Roberto Santiesteban Casanova, had diplomatic immunity.

Casanova and two others were arrested Saturday in New York by fast moving federal authorities. The officers smashed a ring of pro-Castro Cubans who allegedly planned a widespread sabotage-terror campaign through two states with explosives supplied by the Cuban mission to the United Nations.

The FBI said Casanova carried a pistol and "secret explosive formulas." Agents said he tried to swallow the formulas when caught. It was reported that the plotters' plans to set off bombs and explosives in New York department stores and oil and gasoline refineries across the Hudson River in New Jersey were ready to be put into effect.

$6 Million Heroin Raid

GLENDALE (UPI)—More than $6 million worth of heroin was confiscated Saturday in one of the biggest narcotics hauls in California history.

Six men and two women were taken into custody in a series of raids that climaxed nearly three months of investigation by state narcotics agents and local police. Arrested were Francisco Rodriguez, 33, Los Angeles, described by officers as the ringleader, and his brother, Manuel, 31, Torrance; Robert Valdemar, alias Bobby Vilu, 24, and his wife, Maria, 26, Los Angeles; Donald Meseda, 24, Highland Park, and his brother, Daniel, 24, Los Angeles; and Ernest H. Flores, 31, and his wife, Anparo, 32, Los Angeles.

Indians Routed by Chinese

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Chinese Communist troops, carrying out their biggest offensive in nearly a month, drove outnumbered Indian troops from defense positions in the Walong area at extreme east end of the Sino-Indian border, a defense spokesman said Saturday.

The spokesman said there were heavy casualties on both sides and that fierce fighting was still raging in the area where a Chinese breakthrough would imperil the borders of Burma 25 miles away and India's rich Assam Valley and the Digboi oil fields 80 miles to the south.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department announced Saturday the United States has given Pakistan specific assurances against India's use of American weapons for any attack on Pakistan. The announcement was made at the same time the U.S. and Indian governments published an exchange of notes obviously designed to give further reassurances to Pakistan.

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Praja Socialist Party in Assam state is planning to organize a 10,000-man "suicide squad" to resist the Red Chinese invasion, reports published here said Saturday.

Adenauer Regime Faces Crisis

BONN (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer failed in two meetings Saturday to persuade his coalition partners to withdraw their demand for the resignation of Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss—a demand that could topple the government.

A spokesman for the Free Democratic Party, junior partners in the coalition, said the party had given Adenauer until Monday evening to change his mind. If he does not, the spokesman said: "We will withdraw our five ministers from the cabinet."

Infant on Rectory Doorstep

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A priest found a blue-eyed, red-haired infant on the doorstep of a church rectory Saturday along with a note from his parents saying they both were dying of cancer.

The Very Rev. Kenneth R. O'Brien of St. Peter's Catholic Church told police he was awakened by a telephone call this morning. A man told him: "There is a baby on your doorstep."

The priest rushed downstairs and found a three-month-old boy in a bassinet. The note, signed, "a loving and sorrowful mother and father," said the father was dying of cancer of the spine and the mother from a brain tumor.

Sea-Tragedy Bodies Found

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—American craft sighted a capsized lifeboat and bodies in the Atlantic 260 miles northeast of Bermuda on Saturday as hope virtually vanished for any of 18 seamen missing since they abandoned the burning Greek freighter Captain George on Thursday.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Mendota, coordinating an air-sea search that covered a 2,500-mile area, picked up three bodies and reported sighting three others.

FOR IBC PAGEANT

Chain of Modeling Schools to Pick 48 State Lovelies

By BOB SANDERS

A nationwide chain of modeling schools has been selected to conduct beauty contests in 48 states to choose delegates to the International Beauty Congress here next Aug. 8 to 18, Oscar Meinhardt, executive producer, announced Saturday.

Final details have been worked out between IBC officials and representatives of Nancy Taylor, Inc., of New York, operators of a chain of 350 charm studios throughout the 48 states, Meinhardt said.

A formal, written contract will be drawn up at a later date, he added.

* * * *

EARLIER this week officials of the National Press Photographers Association, which has selected the United States representative for the past three years, announced the NPPA was severing relations with the IBC.

Kirk Braun, chairman of the NPPA beauty pageant, said his organization could not make changes in their plans in time for the 1963 IBC contest. The NPPA has already made plans to hold their annual convention in Jackson, Wyo., next June. Meinhardt insisted that the United States contest be held here the first three days of the IBC pageant.

The IBC will make arrangements to sponsor an organization to conduct the beauty contests for delegates from Alaska and Hawaii, Meinhardt said today, since the Taylor organization does not have schools in those states.

* * * *

BOTH MEINHARDT and IBC president James Crooker expressed elation over the agreement with the Nancy Taylor Studios.

"This arrangement is ideal to secure not only beautiful state delegates to the congress," Crooker said, "but also delegates who possess charm, poise and personality."

"The Nancy Taylor organization and the IBC are planning an extensive campaign to publicize the International Beauty Pageant throughout the United States and secure contestants who will greatly enhance the pageant here."

L.B. Man's Murderers to Plead Personally Monday for Lives

By JAMES McCAULEY
I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Two hoodlum brothers, admitted murderers of Long Beach accountant Ian Shuttleton, will tell a judge here Monday why they shouldn't be executed.

Their last-ditch decision to testify personally came as the second major courtroom surprise in a week. The other shocker was when they suddenly changed their plea from innocent to guilty of first-degree murder and kidnapping.

The defense had said late Friday it wouldn't call any more witnesses in the three-day hearing over whether the brother murderers will be executed or imprisoned for life.

* * * *

BUT THE no-testimony strategy was scapped later with the announcement there would be testimony Monday from Galen Lokey, 20, who drove the Shuttleton vacation trailer into the country during the shooting after he and his brother had invaded the trailer in a holdup attempt.

Then Bobby Lokey, 23, the triggerman who gunned down Shuttleton when the Long Beach accountant tried to defend his wife from Bobby's advances, revealed through his attorney that he also will testify.

Earlier, Bobby had rested his defense case. But the prosecution and Judge Leonard Friedman agreed to let Bobby take the stand.

* * * *

THE LOKEYS waived a jury hearing as to their penalty, and Judge Friedman will make the decision on whether they live or die. Their last-minute plans to testify could be linked to a tongue-lashing the judge gave both defense and prosecution Friday.

"You have not provided enough information on the social background of the Lokeys," he said.

The defense has tried to picture the Lokeys as products of a bad environment, and argued that they had no intention to kill. Bobby and his wife live in a $25-a-month rented shack, and the killers' mother has been married three times.

* * * *

BOBBY AND Galen are expected to enlarge on the remarks about their background when they take the stand Monday.

Shuttleton, 22, his wife, Valerie, 21, and their daughter, Keri, 20 months, were asleep in their vacation trailer beside Highway 99 south of here Aug. 15. The Shuttletons were aroused by knocking and shouts of "This is the law."

When Shuttleton opened the trailer door, the Lokeys forced their way in. Mrs. Shuttleton, a Long Beach department-store employe, testified they demanded money, locked her husband in the closet and Bobby began molesting her. When she screamed, her husband broke out of the closet and became locked in the fatal scuffle with Bobby.

* * * *

MOMENTS later she heard shots. Shuttleton cried: "I've been hit." He collapsed on the bed, holding his abdomen. He died a few hours later in a hospital.

Mrs. Shuttleton suffered only bruises where she had been jabbed by Bobby's gun. Keri, their baby daughter, slept through the terror.

The Shuttleton home in Long Beach was at 4013 Virginia Road. But Mrs. Shuttleton has moved back with her parents at 1604 Luray St. since her husband was murdered on their vacation.

Adlai Gives Eulogy for Mrs. FDR

NEW YORK (UPI) — In an eloquent eulogy to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said Saturday that her death brought perhaps the greatest grief to the world since her husband died 17 years ago.

A crowd estimated at 10,000 — a cross-section of the great and small who called Mrs. Roosevelt "the First Lady of the World"—gathered at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine to hear Stevenson's memorial.

* * * *

HE WORE a red academic robe from Oxford University as he read his eulogy, surrounded on three sides by the more than 1,000 invited guests.

There sat Mrs. Roosevelt's family; her daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Halsted, and her sons — James, Elliott, Franklin D. Jr., and John.

Also attending were Negro singer Marian Anderson, former Postmaster General James A. Farley, and actress Faye Emerson, former wife of Elliott.

Little Change Seen in '63 Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said that barring a worsening of international tensions there is likely to be little overall change in retail food prices in 1963.

A fond outlook report said retail prices of livestock products — meats, milk and dairy products, and poultry and eggs — may average slightly lower than this year.

But prices of foods from crops may be fractionally higher.

U.S. Residents in Venezuela Calm Despite Threats

By WATSON S. SIMS

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)— During the tension created by the arms blockade of Cuba a form letter appeared in mail boxes of many of the 17,000 U.S. residents of Caracas.

"For each Cuba-bound ship sabotaged by you we will answer with drastic action that will make you reconsider your decision," said the letter. "In the case of a direct invasion of Cuba we will invoke a decree of war to the death until not one single American remains alive in our territory."

The letter, signed "National Guerrilla Command of Armed Forces of National Liberation," caused little stir in a country that has lived in dents for decades.

The strongly pro-U.S. government of President Romulo Betancourt dismissed it as a sign of frustration in pro-Castro elements among Venezuela's 40,000 Communists, many of whom advocate overthrow of the government.

• • • •

"LETTERS never hurt anyone," said a U.S. citizen who quired. "You get used to things like this."

But precautions have been taken by dozens of U.S. firms operating in this city of skyscrapers and packed highways.

A typical front office boasts a shotgun guard as well as a pretty receptionist. Calling cards will not get visitors past the guard. Escort or other formal identification is required.

The guards began appearing after a series of incidents involving U. S. establishments: a bomb went off in a bathroom of the U.S. Embassy; another bomb injured five persons at a hotel operated by a U.S. company; and five gunmen shot up offices which have some $4 billion invested here.

The most damaging than in any other country except Canada.

• • • •

THE U.S. businesses could not easily withdraw, even if they wished. Their interests in the substations were blown up by Betancourt angrily declared they would have become closely allied with Venezuela's during the many years in which American capital has flowed into this country. U.S. oil companies alone have $1 billion invested here. Operating on a basis of 70 per cent of profit, U.S. developers have built many of the Betancourt government's new apartments, highways, and industrial plants.

CAUGHT in the middle, the American community has generally maintained its composure, but few U.S. citizens lack some story. One was at a party when a homemade bomb rolled from under the host's chair and failed to explode. Another resident had just left the apartment when a bomb exploded in a water closet.

Arrests of Communist Party members of Congress, made this one of the largest in prison. Many terrorists are in prison.

They provide the Betancourt government more than 50 per cent of its total income. The president has asked the Communist Party. Arrests seem likely even for Com-

Pentagon Cautions Lockheed on Strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pentagon told Lockheed Aircraft Corporation Saturday it may look elsewhere for missiles if a strike hits the giant aerospace manufacturing firm.

Lockheed promptly declared that it is ready to continue vital missile work in event of a strike, and the Machinists Union continued plans for a strike vote Sunday among the 20,000 members it claims at Lockheed.

* * * *

LOCKHEED manufactures the Polaris missile, a key weapon in the United States' arsenal, which can be fired underwater from a submarine to drop a nuclear warhead on an enemy target 1,200 miles away.

The Pentagon warning came in a statement declaring that Lockheed "stands alone" among missile firms in refusing to accept recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board in settling a labor dispute.

* * * *

THE BOARD had recommended that Lockheed permit its employes to vote on a proposal for a union shop, which would require all workers to join the union. Lockheed, in contrast to other aerospace firms, has refused to accept this recommendation.

Therefore, the Pentagon said, it is looking into alternate means of missile production "so that work on the vital programs can go forward in the event of a stoppage at Lockheed."

Fetes Slated for Crew of Greek Ship

by the ship's financial problems to two or three times a week.

More calls poured in.

Families called to ask if they could help the Hera crew have a good holiday. Knott's Berry Farm extended an invitation for the crew to visit there. Callers worried about what the men would do on days other than Thanksgiving.

Indications were that other events would be offered the men during the remainder of the time before the Hera is sold.

Meantime, an informal committee has been banded together to try Monday to work out a program for the seamen and make arrangements for their Thanksgiving dinner.

They will try to work out details of the Thanksgiving dinner and arrange transportation to other events which may be offered the seamen.

"AFTER HE had been arrested on these charges, the Federal Bureau of Investigation was routinely notified, and they matched up his description with the bulletin issued in July."

The sheriff's office dispatched Sgt. C. T. Human, its top homicide investigator, to Pecos. With him went Sgt. W. H. Nitz of the Torrance Police Department.

Returning to this area late Saturday, they classified Broderick as " a good suspect."

Said Nitz:

"He denies knowledge of the crime. We will make a further investigation before asking for a murder warrant, or his extradition."

The Torrance department said Broderick lived "two miles or so" from the scene of the Brown slaying, that he was a family man "with a stepdaughter" and had "a criminal record" but refused to answer further questions.

In Los Angeles, the sheriff's office frankly admitted the two detectives had taken Broderick from Pecos to Midland, Tex., for "truth serum" tests.

* * * *

LT. HAMILTON, the Torrance officer originally in charge of the Brown case, said:

"We know this man has more knowledge of the crimes than he has told us. He has failed every lie detector test when questioned about the girls. He has contradicted himself, although he has not admitted anything."

Hamilton, declining further details, described Broderick as "a family man who lived in Huntington Beach and Norwalk." Neither the Huntington Beach police department nor the Norwalk sheriff's station could find evidence at the residences.

* * * *

ONE NEIGHBOR of Karen Lynn Tompkins told The Independent, Press-Telegram that "the name is familiar."

The all-points bulletin originating from the Torrance Police Department described Broderick as five feet, 11 inches in height, weighing 165 pounds, and having brown hair and eyes. The Pecos sheriff's office refused to confirm any detail of this description.

Broderick was subjected Saturday to tests under the influence of sodium pentothal, administered by Dr. W. A. Jones in Midlands. Results of the tests were not made public.

James McVicker, a reporter for the El Paso Times, told the I.P-T that the results of the tests may be announced Sunday.

BRODERICK became the 1,189th person arrested or grilled in the two cases. He is the only suspect, however, not questioned after the Brown girl disappeared.

The first of the two crimes for which Broderick is being grilled is the disappearance of Karen Lynn Tompkins, an 11-year-old Torrance schoolgirl who vanished on her way home Aug. 18, 1961. She lived at 21110 Dalton Ave. More than 10,000 people joined a state-wide search for her, more than 500 people were questioned.

She vanished without trace.

THE SECOND case concerns the kidnap-murder of Dorothy Gale Brown, also 11, who lived in a trailer house at 1820 Torrance Blvd.

Her body was found July 4, nude and bumping against a kelp reef off Coruna del Mar's Rancho Cerritos Beach, 18 hours after she vanished. Personal effects were found in a slough near Huntington Beach.

Reserves' Shakeup Due Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department now plans to launch its controversial, often-delayed reorganization of Army Reserve and National Guard forces in the first week of December, it was learned Saturday.

Bitterly contested in Congress, Reserve circles and some statehouses, the overhauling was sidelined most recently by the Cuban crisis and could be delayed further if it heats up again.

* * * *

THE DEFENSE Department's official spokesman told newsmen Nov. 6 that the Army still was working on revision and there would be an announcement in two or three weeks. That schedule has now slid into December.

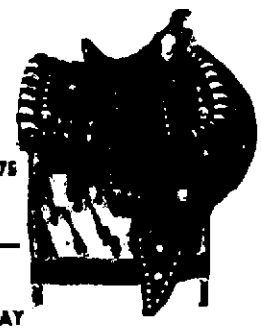

The key features of overhaul plans are said to be exactly those set forth by the Army and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara early this year.

Four National Guard divisions and four divisions of the Organized Army Reserve will be cut down to much smaller brigade size. About 70-company-size or smaller units also will be eliminated.

Desert Tests Show Man's Early Activity

LAS VEGAS, (UPI) — A windswept section of desert some 10 miles north of this gambling resort has become the scene of a scientific expedition attempting to show man lived in the Western Hemisphere 32,000 years ago —about 15,000 years earlier than records indicate.

Dr. Richard Shutler Jr., curator of anthropology for the Nevada State Museum and leader of the museum's Tule Springs expedition, said the work of archaeologists, paleontologists and geologists already produced finds that are creating international interest.

The project, financed by a basic grant of $42,000 from the National Science Foundation to the Nevada State Museum, began in early October. Also participating is the Southwest Museum of Los Angeles. Dr. Shutler heads a contingent of 28 men and women on the expedition.

* * * *

IT HAD BEEN known for some time that the Tule Springs site—ideally located along a wash below the Las Vegas mountain range—might contain valuable information.

The first animal bones were found there in 1933. Subsequently, charcoal samples from the area produced a radiocarbon date of 28,000 years. And in 1956 a stone scraper and a hearth were discovered, indicating that man lived there at about the same time.

Much of the traditional laborious hand methods of archaeological excavations has been eliminated in the Tule Springs project, replaced by more modern methods.

A 32-ton earthmover loaned by Allis-Chalmers removes from 25 to 30 cubic yards of material at a time, the unit's hydraulic controls permitting precise regulation of the depth of each cut. The operator takes off only several inches of earth on each pass down the excavation area so that archaeological evidence of early man will not be destroyed.

* * * *

TWO TRENCHES, each several hundred feet long, already have uncovered a mammoth leg bone and a mammoth's tusk. Charcoal from what was believed to have been campfires was discovered after the first week's work. Radiocarbon dating tests showed deposits ranged in age from 26,000 to 32,000 years.

Dissected bones of mammoths, camels, horses and bison removed from the desert trenches indicate that man had killed and feasted on the animals of pre-historic time.

And the excavations have turned up stone flakes from such artifacts as bone tools and stones chipped away for form knives, choppers, scrapers and hammers.

Scientists hope through these discoveries to reconstruct the chronology of more than 30,000 years of man's activity.

COLD-BALLOON 'CURE'

Ulcer Freezing Termed Perilous

By BEN ZINSER
Medical Editor

The safety of a new method of treating one type of peptic ulcer has been questioned by a medical specialist.

Dr. Eugene Baldridge, interviewed after a talk to doctors at St. Mary's Hospital, predicted that dangerous complications are to be expected in the treatment of duodenal ulcer by freezing the stomach.

Dr. Baldridge is an instructor in medicine in the department of gastroenterology at the University of Southern California School of Medicine.

* * * *

THE NEW TREATMENT method to which he referred is that of freezing a stomach by passing a cold balloon into it. Recent reports in a medical journal say this gives dramatic relief to patients suffering from ulcer of the duodenum, that part of the intestine just beyond the stomach.

But Dr. Baldridge says experiments with animals in Southland laboratories have shown the procedure sometimes gives the animals ulcers of the stomach itself.

In addition, perforation of the stomach has occurred in some instances. Quick cooling has even "shattered" the stomach in certain cases, he reported.

* * * *

"I EXPECT you'll be hearing of complications in human patients who undergo this treatment," Dr. Baldridge said.

Dr. Baldridge said an anti-allergy drug called Periactin is proving of value in the treatment of a complication that sometimes occurs after ulcer surgery.

The complication, called the "dumping syndrome," is marked by weakness, faintness and nausea soon after a meal. The condition is thought to be a result of the too rapid entrance of food into the intestines.

In some cases, Periactin, a tablet taken by mouth, can benefit persons beset with this trouble, Dr. Baldridge said.

His talk was the second in a series of scientific lectures arranged by Dr. H. Richard Casdorph, medical education director at St. Mary's Hospital.

Dumke Stresses Quantity, Quality

Three hundred delegates to the Western Speech Association's 33rd annual convention wound up the three-day meeting at the Lafayette Hotel Saturday by hearing Dr. Glenn Dumke, chancellor of the California state college system, explain the most immediate pressing need of American education.

Dumke, in a speech comparing higher education in Europe and the United States, said that America's problem is shared by European nations.

The problem: Combining quantity with quality education.

* * * *

EUROPE, he explained, has traditionally emphasized quality education for an elite few. But the European nations are finding out now that their approach is no longer adequate, that more than an "elite few" are needed for the nations to survive in today's demanding international economic competition. Europe, therefore, is studying the American mass education system.

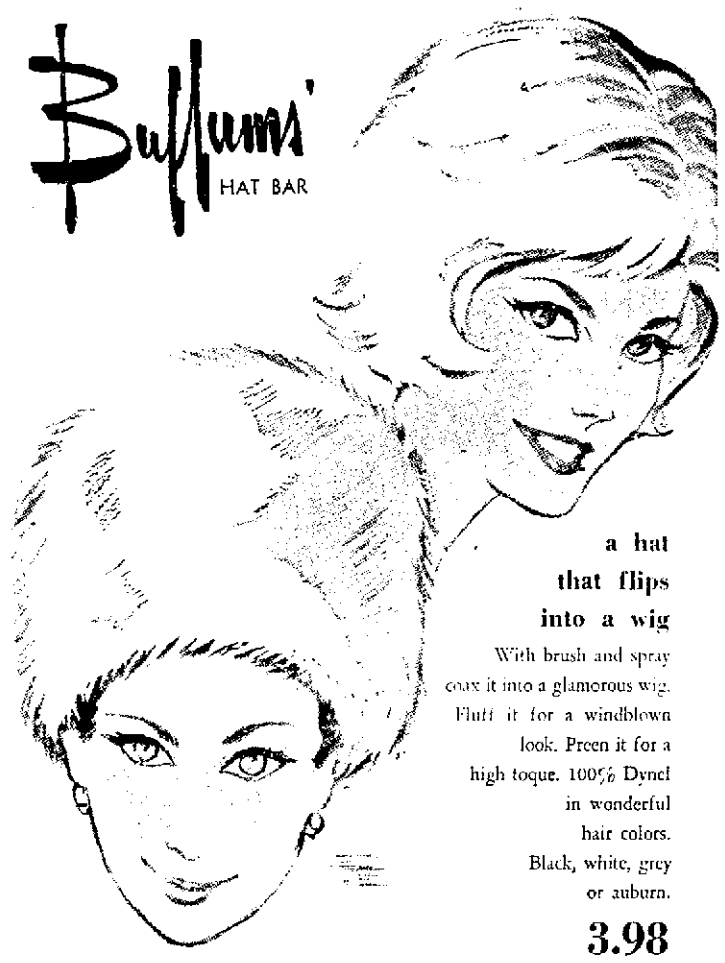

On the other hand, the United States, Dumke continued, has apparently solved the problem of democratic education of the masses, but the problem remaining is the achievement of "maximum development of individual potentialities at all levels."

The convention chairman was Joseph A. Wagner of Long Beach State College.

STORE HOURS: 9:30 TO 5:30 MONDAYS AND FRIDAYS 9:30 TO 9:00 PHONE HE 6-9841

THANK heavens, another rummage sale is history. For a while our garage can again become a place to put an automobile and to store some of the personal effects of our family, instead of a depot for the stowage of odds and ends gathered from households here and there by the zealous members of my wife's sorority.

Of course, the cause is a good one. The sale was held yesterday and the proceeds will go to a scholarship fund or something like that. And that makes me a rat if I complain. So this is no complaint, it is just some observation. All in good fun, I say, huping to keep the peace.

Our office dictionary defines rummage beautifully: "A careful searching with the turning over of things; hence, an upheaval, confusion."

THE confusion begins at our house about six months before the sale.

The girls get a date at one of those sales rooms downtown, and the accumulation begins. Friends are signaled and, anxious to get rid of some things that have been cluttering up their places, leave them at ours. Our own junk that we ought to dispose of in some way is retained and added to the pile (unless I can surreptitiously sneak it out).

"Save it for the rummage sale" is the slogan that spells confusion and storage room disaster.

In the corner of the bedroom, a pile of clothing begins to develop. It grows slowly until sale day, and I have to be alert or a favorite old sports coat or something else I treasure will be hidden there.

Finally, the important night-before comes, and in station wagons and sedan trunks the stuff goes to market.

THERE'S another angle, involving husbands.

They're expected to do some of the physical labor involved in getting the rummage to the sales room and, on sales day, to hang around and do duty as extra salesmen.

It's interesting work if it doesn't interfere with a football game, a round of golf, or something else frivolous one wants to do.

A while back my wife overheard me talking on the telephone to somebody about a trip on the weekend of Nov. 16-18. It was the annual Chamber of Commerce trek to the Colorado River, a favorite outing of mine.

Her eyes were big and serious when I hung up.

"I heard you say the weekend of the 16th-18th," she said. "Have you forgotten about the rummage sale?"

I had, but suggested I was hardly essential to its success.

She replied that it's very important to have some men around and then applied the clincher.

"You've forgotten that I'm the president of our alumnae this year," she said. "How will it look if the president's husband is out traipsing around in Nevada or somewhere? You know I'm an understanding and tolerant wife, and never put my foot down about your doing anything, but . . ."

The bus with the gang left for the Colorado Fri. a.m. without me.

HONESTLY, the sales themselves are fascinating. They involve a tremendous amount of dickering and compromising on price and some amazing bargains are struck. They expose a side of human nature that one doesn't often contact.

Moreover, I always end up buying a few things myself at ridiculous prices, and have been known to buy some things that, the day before, belonged to me already. Once an item has gone to the sales room, it's no longer ours.

That's about the story. I hope the youngster who gets that scholarship money makes the most of his or her educational opportunities.

She's A Real Whirly-Girlie

By BILL DUNCAN

SANTA ANA—Ellen Gilmour is a whirly-girlie in an unusual profession.

Miss Gilmour, the prettiest attraction at Orange County Airport, operates a training school for helicopter pilots.

She learned to fly the rotary-wing craft while doing public relations work for a Miami, Fla., helicopter service; returned to California for a nightclub act (she's also a professional nightclub entertainer) and, when business got dull, opened her own helicopter training school.

In addition to flying and nightclub entertaining, Miss Gilmour has ventured into midget car racing, taxi driving (in New York City), newspaper work and radio work.

A member of the exclusive 50-member International Whirly-Girls organization, she holds card number 34 in the worldwide club for women who have licenses to fly helicopters.

Miss Gilmour started flying at the age of 16 in a Waco biplane in her native New York. She was one of the youngest female pilots to qualify for a license and has more than 3,000 hours in fixed-wing aircraft.

"I had flown just about every fixed-wing craft and the idea of piloting a helicopter seemed thrilling. I couldn't afford the lessons (then it cost $75 an hour) so I agreed to do publicity for the Florida firm in trade for lessons," she recalls.

Learning to fly a helicopter is much easier than a fixed-wing aircraft, she said, "It's more challenging, too," she comments.

She has checked out in nearly every model of helicopter—including big turbine-engine types.

ANYBODY REMEMBER?

He Survived, Knows Slaughterer of War II

By DICK EMERY

A Hungarian - language newspaper, printed in New York, ran a Page 1 picture a few days ago of an old Nazi photograph.

The picture shows Nazi SS Capt. Werner Lemke, bottle in hand, lounging with a group of smiling women and men.

"Does anyone know about this man?" the caption asked. "He is jailed in Frankfurt, Germany, and witnesses are needed for his prosecution as a war criminal."

* * * *

DR. HENRY W. KRAUS, rabbi of Southwest Temple Beth Torah in Gardena, remembers Capt. Lemke.

"It was Capt. Lemke who in 1944 came to my Hungarian town, rounded up all 2,000 members of my congregation and herded us like animals for slaughter to concentration camps.

"Yes, I remember Capt. Lemke.

"As chief procurer in the area for Adolph Eichmann, he took 500 families — fathers and mothers, grandparents and children, the well and the sick alike—and of all those 2,000 persons of my congregation, only eight survived to see the war end!

"Could I ever forget that man? My own father, my own mother, all my own family, were in that herd of 2,000. They are all dead—killed in the Auschwitz death factory in Poland."

Rabbi Kraus survived Auschwitz, and Buchenwald, and Magdeburg, and was liberated from Flosenberg by the American 3rd Army on April 23, 1945.

"I have written, offering what I know of Capt. Lemke. I remember even small details about that man.

* * * *

"FOR VENGEANCE? No, I have no vengeance. But the men like Eichmann and Lemke must be brought to trial to show mankind in the 20th Century what can happen when God and faith are abolished.

"The accused Nazis tell us they were fighting communism. The Communists? The Nazis? They are the same one, and you will be a slave."

Rabbi Kraus became an American citizen a few months ago, and on Nov. 6, for the first time in his life, he could vote in a free election.

"It was the happiest day of my life," he said.

City Joins State in Fight on Tide Oil Fund Suit

Move Asks All Funds Go to L.B.

By GEORGE WEEKS

The City of Long Beach is joining with the state in resisting a lawsuit which, on its face, might give the city all the revenues from offshore oil production rather than only one-half.

A suit for an injunction and declaratory relief, filed by Lewis W. Twombley, a Long Beach taxpayer, is scheduled for hearing at 2 p.m. Monday before U.S. District Judge Thurmond Clarke in Los Angeles.

Twombley, in a complaint filed Oct. 1 by attorney Frank Aldrich of Long Beach, argued that the federal Submerged Lands Act of 1953 had the effect of giving the city title to the offshore lands without the restrictions imposed by the state grants of 1911, 1925 and 1935.

* * * *

THE 1953 legislation has usually been interpreted as restoring to the states such title, subject to trusteeship grants.

City Atty. Gerald Desmond and his aides were reluctant to discuss their arguments in advance of the trial.

However, a brief filed with the court by Desmond and three assistants says in substance that the law is well established and the 1953 act gave the city no rights it previously did not have. Other signers of the brief were Asst. City Attorneys Brady and Deputy Malcolm Uptegraff.

This position is the same as that taken in a brief filed by Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk and an assistant, Ernest Sanchez.

The suit seeks to enjoin City Auditor Murray T. Courson from making further payments to the state under the terms of 1956 state legislation, a compromise between the city and state that grew out of the 1955 Mallon case decision.

L.B. Youth Helping on Red Cross Plan

Howard Brightman, 16, of Long Beach, will represent this area at the Pacific Area Advisory Council of the Red Cross in San Francisco.

The council meetings begin today and will run through Wednesday.

Brightman, of 4219 Gaviota Ave., attended the Red Cross national convention in Seattle last May.

He is a junior at Poly High School. In addition to his Red Cross work, Brightman serves with the "Volunteens" a group of teenagers who work at Memorial Hospital.

He also is an amateur radio operator, and during the summer taught swimming to handicapped children.

"I like to keep busy," he explains.

The Red Cross Youth Advisory Council provides the organization with suggestions for its youth activities program.

Major Vitek Wins SAC Citation

Major Lumir J. Vitek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Vitek, 151 Claremont Ave., has been cited for his work as safety officer for the 4042nd Strategic Wing (SAC) in Michigan.

The Wing has completed its second straight year of accident-free operation of aircraft, and has been presented a SAC Hall of Fame Certificate of Achievement for outstanding performance. The wing flys KC135 "Stratotankers" and B52 "Stratofortresses."

Major Vitek has been safety officer of the wing since its activation. The citation states that through "close personal contact with maintenance personnel and aircrews, and the daily monitoring of flying and flight line activities, he has created an acute awareness of potential hazards" that resulted in more than 23,000 accident-free flying hours.

City Park Garage Set for Debut

The $2.1-million Lincoln Park Garage—largest motorists' accommodation in Long Beach history—will be opened for public use and inspection at 9 a.m. daily Monday through Thursday.

A two-story, underground parking facility that was created by tearing up, excavating —and then restoring — the city's best-known downtown public recreation center, Lincoln Park Garage will accommodate 488 cars at a time.

* * * *

IT IS, in appearance and facility, similar to underground downtown parking operations in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Toronto, Pittsburgh, and other major cities of the continent.

Although owned by the city, Lincoln Park Garage is financed by bonds and management is supplied by Lincoln Park Parking, Inc., an organization of Long Beach businessmen and civic leaders. When paid for, the property will become completely city-owned.

* * * *

OPERATION of the garage will be in the hands of System Auto Parks and Garages, Inc., the nation's largest private parking concern.

Moran and Co., general contractor, and Del E. Webb Corp., principal subcontractor, joined with 14 other contractors to excavate, install and build the parking facility.

The Slaughter in 'Death Alley'

BECAUSE OF THE ABSENCE of $150,000 worth of safety construction work, motorists are dying at a startling rate on a stretch of the Long Beach Freeway known as "Death Alley."

Recently a reporter for this newspaper described the hazards of "Death Alley." While the story was being published, news arrived of still other deaths there.

As of this writing, 20 persons have died since Jan. 1 along that fatal stretch of freeway south of Artesia Blvd.

We have our fingers crossed and we are uttering a prayer, for it is entirely possible that some bewildered and unlucky motorist may outdate the previous sentence.

* * * *

THE TROUBLE IN Death Alley is caused by poor safety conditions on a roadway built for high-speed travel. Since this stretch is poorly lighted, drivers have difficulty following the highway lines at night, and when drivers swerve onto the divider strip, nothing is there to prevent them from plowing into the oncoming traffic.

The State Division of Highways reports that it has approved barricades of a type built to catch hurtling cars and prevent them from bouncing around in the passing traffic. Approval is one thing, installation another. No money for the project was budgeted in the fiscal year which has just begun.

Only by drawing from some special fund can the state put those barricades down "Death Alley" in the year 1963.

The city of Long Beach, which is responsible for part of this stretch of freeway, has been awaiting action by the state and has also failed to budget funds for the necessary improvements.

* * * *

THIS IS AN EMERGENCY. Lives are being lost. The normal fiscal procedure is too slow. Now that the problem in "Death Alley" has been illustrated all too vividly, state and city must abandon that normal procedure and draw upon whatever other means there are for financing the project.

We refuse to believe that a state which spends billions of dollars a year and a city which spends millions cannot scrape together on short notice the $150,000 needed to help stop the slaughter on this short but deadly stretch of freeway.

Let's do it!

Medicare Could Now Pass Senate

By Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Medicare, beaten in the Senate this past session by 52-48, could now pass by a vote of 52-48. However, predictions are that the administration will not push for passage until the summer of 1964, just in time for the Presidential election.

The shift in the Senate's lineup was created by the defeat of six senators who voted against medicare—now replaced by Kennedy Democrats—and the defeat of two Democrats who voted for it and lost to Republicans.

* * * *

LINING UP FOR FEDERAL jobs now are at least a dozen Democrats who lost on Nov. 6. Prominent among the "jobless" are Rep. Sidney Yates, who failed to unseat Sen. Everett Dirksen (he'll get a judgeship); Wilson Wyatt, drubbed by Sen. Thruston B. Morton in Kentucky, and Richardson Dilworth, who lost a bitter Pennsylvania gubernatorial battle to Rep. William Scranton. Then there's Robert M. Morgenthau, who gave up his D.A.'s job in New York to take on Nelson Rockefeller, and Gov. Mike DiSalle of Ohio, who lost while singing the New Frontier's praises.

A different type of commodity is represented in Richard Richards, who left the sanctuary of the California state Senate to take on, in the role of sacrificial lamb, the popular Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel. This has been considered here as state rather than New Frontier strategy, and so while Richards quite possibly is owed something nice, it isn't owed by the federal patronage dispensers.

THE WASHINGTON POST, a liberal newspaper, has given strong support to President Kennedy's medicare program. The editors were therefore horrified the other day to read in an early edition of the paper an analysis of the recent election which said the new Congress would not improve chances for passage of "the medicare bill." Needless to say, the misprint was hastily corrected but probably not before it was spotted by eager Republican eyes.

THE HARVARD CLASS of 1940 is already laying plans for its 25th reunion in June, 1965. Washington members of the class met recently to make arrangements for the traditional money gift to the university by the 25th reunion class. After names of classmates residing in the Washington area had been parcelled out among various solicitors, the name of one classmate was conspicuously missing, "Who," asked the meeting's chairman tentatively, "will solicit Kennedy, John F.?" A heavy silence enveloped the room, finally broken by a prominent Republican. "I will," he said. "But we'd better do it right away. After all," he added optimistically, "by the time reunion comes around, he'll be a private citizen."

CHALK UP ANOTHER of those rare but happy occasions—an international sporting event which didn't end up in a first class row. The annual International horse race was held at Laurel Park last Monday. The French horse, Match II, won, followed by the American ponies, Kelso and Carry Back. The nice thing about it was that no one had any complaints. Everyone from Russians to Americans said simply that the best horse had won.

Bolivia's Former U.S. Envoy Clashed With Castro Backer

WASHINGTON—Diplomatic circles are churning over the manner in which one Latin American ambassador who opposes Fidel Castro had a showdown with his foreign minister who champions Castro, and was either fired or resigned.

The ambassador is Victor Andrade of Bolivia, who has done more for his country than perhaps any other member of the diplomatic corps by getting one-third of the Bolivian budget supplied out of U.S. aid. The foreign minister is Jose Fellman Velarde of Bolivia who once gave a job to Che Guevara, No. 1 Communist in Castro's entourage.

PEARSON

Andrade is sailing for Bolivia shortly to run for President. This, he figures, will let the Bolivian people decide whether they are either for or against Castro; for or against the United States.

Though Ambassador Andrade has flatly refused to discuss the incident, this column can reveal that it began when Fellman was first appointed foreign minister, at which time Andrade wrote President Paz Estenssoro a strong letter. He pointed out that when Fellman was head of the Bureau of Information he had hired Che Guevara, then exiled from Argentina, as a writer.

Later, when Fellman got a job as a newspaper columnist, he had written articles highly critical of the United States. This, Andrade told the president of Bolivia, was not the type of man to make foreign minister of a country heavily dependent on the United States for financial support.

Ambassador Andrade was in an excellent position to write this letter because he had served as foreign minister himself and had been a leader of the revolutionary party which kicked out the tin barons. His astute diplomacy had even nullified the heavily subsidized propaganda of the tin barons that Bolivia had gone Communist.

The showdown between the anti-Castro ambassador and his pro-Castro foreign minister came last September, as the Latin American foreign ministers arrived in Washington en route to the U.N. Assembly in New York. Andrade told Foreign Minister Fellman his sixth sense told him the United States was about to move vigorously against Cuba and that Bolivia should go on record against Castro in advance. It should not hang back and refuse to cooperate with the United States as in the past.

Fellman, however, refused. He told his ambassador he had stayed in the United States too long, insinuated that Andrade had sold out to the U.S.A.

Ambassador Andrade, a powerful man with a chest developed from climbing the high plateaus of Bolivia, got up and almost hit his foreign minister. Fellman is a small man, so he didn't. But Andrade promptly wrote a letter to President Paz, tendering his resignation. Fellman then told the press that he had fired Andrade.

The ex-ambassador of Bolivia is one of the few diplomats who golfed with Eisenhower, also had close friends among Democratic leaders. He lunched with Senate leaders on occasion in the private office of Vice President Johnson. And it was this wide friendship and astute diplomacy which continued the American policy of contributing one-third of the Bolivian budget. Without Andrade in Washington, the State Department and Congress may take a new look at the foreign aid situation.

NOTE — Ambassador Andrade expects to tour Bolivia at the grass roots, consult leaders, and, if the climate is favorable, run for president in 1964.

SEN. EVERETT McKinley Dirksen, the GOP Senate Leader, sometimes called the Hamlet of the Corn Belt, seemed a little subdued in a Capitol elevator the other day, following his hard-won victory over the Democrat Sidney Yates.

Dirksen may have been cogitating on the slings and arrows of office-seeking, as veteran politicians are wont to do.

"Now that it's all over, how do you feel, Senator?" inquired Washington correspondent Ed Reardon.

"I won't dwell on the details, Ed," replied Dirksen. "Let's just say that it's great to be alive and in one piece."

SENATE leaders will fly around the world to check trouble spots. One comforting thing about looking for trouble spots, no matter where the plane lands you're in the right place.

Use of Troops at 'Ole Miss' Has Cost Nation $2 Million

WASHINGTON—The use of troops at the University of Mississippi has cost the federal government more than $2 million. This figure has just been revealed by the General Accounting Office in a communication to Sen. A. Willis Robertson, Democrat of Virginia, who is chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

The figure covers only the extra cost of transportation and other expenses that would not otherwise have been incurred for the federal troops, and includes all costs resulting from the calling of the National Guard into federal service. It does not take into account as yet any of the expenses of the U. S. marshals, the FBI and other divisions of the Department of Justice. The expenses have been tabulated up to Nov. 1.

LAWRENCE

The total expense, including the mobilization of 34,000 troops in Mississippi and adjacent states, may eventually reach at least $4 million, according to unofficial estimates. There are federal troops as well as U.S. marshals still on duty in the vicinity of the University of Mississippi.

Just what legal function these troops are performing today is not clear, the court order has been complied with, inasmuch as James Meredith has been enrolled as a student in the university. It now is the obligation of the state of Mississippi and of the local authorities to maintain order. There is no federal law or court decision which gives the President the right to use the armed services merely to await a contingency in which a state may fail or be unable to protect the residents of a state against violence.

If every riot or disturbance growing out of a debate or dispute over a federal court decision were to be policed by the federal government, the states would be deprived of their right to do their own policing.

The contention will be made by the state that the use of federal troops to put down a local riot was a violation of the Constitution and was not sanctioned by any law of Congress or by any court decision. In fact, the troops and armed marshals were ordered into action before the full Supreme Court of the United States had passed upon an appeal from a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision that Meredith must be admitted to the university. A citizen has the right to refuse to comply with a court order or decision and to take the risk of a conviction for contempt and then imprisonment. But he also has the right to petition for an appeal all the way up to the Supreme Court of the United States.

It is often contended that Supreme Court decisions are "the law of the land," but the decisions of the highest federal court actually are only "the law of the case." Many cases differ from one another in facts and circumstances. John C. Satterfield, who served as president of the American Bar Assn. until last summer, dwelt on this very point in a speech before the National Convention of the American Legion shortly after the Mississippi incident. He is one of the lawyers recently called in by the state of Mississippi. He said:

"Courts are not governed by predilections and desires. They are governed by facts which appear in the records. Other cases decided upon other records between other parties and under different circumstances are only persuasive precedents until they are overruled. Until overruled, they may be differentiated by differing facts and differing elements.

GOP Rally to Weinberger May Clip Divisive 'Wings'

GUIDELINES for the leadership and reconstruction of the Republican Party in California were cinched in taut moderation ths weekend, the apparent rein men to be Cap Weinberger and Tom Kuchel.

Presidents of all three statwide GOP volunteer party organizations joined previously committed state party leaders in defending state chairman Weinberger "from divisive attacks by conservative spokesman Joseph C. Shell."

WEINBERGER

Mrs. Lucile Hosmer, president of the California Federation of Republican Women; Fred Hall, president of the California Republican Assembly, and Harry Keaton, president of California Young Republicans endorsed Weinberger's stewardship. Shell's case. It lost.

That moderation is the chosen course of the GOP is implicit in some past battles of these spokesmen. Hall won his seat against an all-out right wing assault from Glendale stationer Darven Paddock. Keaton won his against a similar opposition led by rightist Bob Gaston. U. S. Senator Kuchel's colors are victory on an unmistakable platform of moderation.

Three Birch Society nominees for Congress lost, including two incumbents. Knowledgeable and skid-proof American Bill Knowland used "poppycock" and "ridiculous" to assess the "soft-on-communism" charge used by some in his party against Pat Brown. At the same time he stumped for and endorsed Richard Nixon.

This does not mean the opposition does not have a case. It always has in a two-party system. But its tools for victory must indeed be valid issues on a building program, hammered legitimately against provable dry rot and structural weakness.

That means, in my opinion, the party can not identify with the now-shopworn speech of a former movie and TV star who speaks for 30 minutes or an hour on his compendium of horrors about America. The true list may in truth be even longer but this is portraiture out of context. And it seems irrelevant to him that despite his catalogue of our country's shortcomings it is still best. To whom would he have us look for example?

NOR CAN the party salute the florid words of one of its candidates—words which won him an honor medal for saying, in part, that America's educational system wrought the "spineless . . . spiritless" ones who turned coat in Korea.

This same paean to patriotism had not a word for the 5.7 million Americans who served there; the 54,000 dead there; the 103,000 wounded there. The handful on whose defections he writes purple words is of course to be deplored but, as an indictment of this country's way of going, is hardly worthy of statistical mention.

I COUNT IN the dozens of friends killed in World War II, some of whom I saw die 10 at a time. I think they won honor medals, too, on an ultimate deed, not a self-serving word.

Dead liberals and dead conservatives, certainly, lay in those shot-down planes. Their goal was common, their extremism was sacrifice. In today's debate, some of them would be called "soft on communism."

These new turns in GOP leadership perhaps will vitalize the great common goal of national excellence and, hopefully, bury the generality.

Sick at Heart Over Hiss on TV

EDITOR:

I just read the article of ABC vs. Nixon and I am sick at heart.

I retired from military service and I would like to believe I am a real American.

To let a convicted perjurer testify against Richard Nixon with full use of broadcasting facilities is an act equalled to saying Brutus was right in his actions. This goes down deeper than Democrat or Republican—this is a disgrace to the American way of life.

Alger Hiss is, was and will remain a traitor to his own country, and no amount of words change this. Richard Nixon may have made mistakes — but not even his enemies could call him a traitor.

Kennedy Most Costly President

EDITOR:

I wonder how many of your readers know that John Kennedy is not only our richest President, but he is also our most expensive. He has two Presidential yachts worth $500,000 of taxpayers' money; their maintenance costs us $83,000 a year. He has four helicopters worth $2,200,000; plus a new jet and two Presidential planes worth $6,200,000. Upkeep and crews for these cost $616,000 a year.

He has requested Congress to supply four more servants to the White House staff to help with Mrs. Kennedy's new White House projects, bringing the total staff members to 76. He also wants $50,000 a year more for maintenance of these projects.

By contrast, Herbert Hoover, who made his own millions, not only refused his Presidential salary, but personally paid White House expenses and donated Camp David to this nation.

Agrees Only in Part With Hiss Editorial

EDITOR:

I agree, in part, with your editorial, "WRONG ROLE FOR HISS." My disagreement is in the lack of a positive stand. I know of no one who will disagree with the statement that the program was in bad taste.

On the other hand I fail to see how anyone could possibly uphold the action of ABC television in sponsoring such a program.

Alger Hiss was a man convicted in a Federal Court of perjury. The perjury consisted of failing to tell the truth when he was questioned about turning over State Department information to Russian agents. The fact that he was convicted of perjury on this charge certainly makes him guilty of treason.

How could any right-thinking American place a man with his background on a program, nationally televised, for the purpose of downgrading the reputation of an outstanding citizen, such as Richard M. Nixon?

Editorial on Hiss Commended

EDITOR:

You are to be commended for your excellent editorial regarding the "Wrong Role for Hiss" in your edition of Nov. 13, 1962.

Many of us, including the Schick Razor Co., have even stronger feelings than you do about Hiss' appearance. It might be well to point out that, until ABC uses better judgment and responsibility in such "sensational" appearances, we are fortunate to have NBC, CBC, and other independent stations to which to turn for "documentary" news.

Languages in the News

By Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Stumpf-Davis

Question from a reader:
What is Swahili? Who speaks it? Amin Suleiman, Youngstown, O.

Of the relatively new languages still in a formative period, Swahili is one of the most important. It is spoken by more than 25 million people throughout East and Central Africa and is a national language of Tanganyika, Ruanda-Urundi, Kenya, Uganda, Nyassaland, Zanzibar, and the Congo. As more African countries attain independence, Swahili will become increasingly important as an international language for East Africa.

Swahili was evolved from the original African Bantu languages mixed with a good deal of Arabic and was used for centuries by the African traders along the East Coast and in the interior. In fact, Kiswahili, the correct name of the language, means "Tongue of the Coast." It is still the language of safaris, and there will be someone who speaks it in any village of East or Central Africa.

Readers of literature about Africa and viewers of African adventure films have absorbed certain words that they will readily recognize in Swahili. These include simba (lion), safari (trip), bwana (master), Bantu (the men), and askari (gun bearer, soldier).

Breakers International Challenges Long Beach: See For Yourself the City's Outstanding Hotel!

The Breakers International Hotel and Resort, a Long Beach tradition reset in its original splendor, today challenges the people of Greater Long Beach: come see for yourself!

Nearly $1.5 million has been spent since Fred Miller, a man with a vision, began a program of recapturing for Long Beach the beauty, dignity and service of the city's greatest hotel.

Today Miller believes a cherished gem of Long Beach tradition has been restored. From Cellar Club to Sky Room, from lobby to guest room, the Breakers International stands ready to demonstrate to its community the position it has regained.

* * * *

"IN ACHIEVING elegance and sophistication," Miller says, "we have preserved our goal: accommodations, luxuries and pleasures to serve and satisfy every budget."

In tailoring the Breakers' luxuries to every budget, Miller has established Sky Room lunches from $1.25, dinners from $2.95; set up social cocktail hours at 60 cents; ordered hors d'ouvres served to guests; and scaled quality food and beverage prices to nominal figures.

"We don't aim these at the carriage trade," he says.

THE LOBBY of the Breakers International today is a showplace with great chandeliers, outstanding decor and rich furnishings. The world-famed Sky Room, overlooking the city and the sea, gleams in new decor. Viennese graciousness marks the restored Empire Room; the ultimate in crystal elegance is found in the Crystal Room; the Cellar Club throbs to the sound of jazz and dance; the Hi Ho Room has become a relaxed, secluded spot for rendezvous.

By far, however, the greater changes have taken place within the guest accommodations. There, hundreds of rooms have been redecorated from floor to ceiling.

Rich curtains and draperies, wall-to-wall color tone rugs, king-sized beds and elegant chairs, dressing tables and other items of furniture have come from the windows and floors of exclusive shops to grace the guest rooms.

LOBBIES SHINE in beautiful new carpeting and decor. The grounds about the Breakers International have been re-landscaped, the exterior of the huge building cleaned and re-decorated.

For Miller, the man with a vision, all this is a dream becoming reality.

Son of an oil worker, Miller was raised in the Long Beach area and attended primary, high school and college classes in Greater Long Beach before attending Loyola University School of Law.

After graduation, he was employed by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. from 1935 to 1941, graduating from the executive training class to positions of responsibility.

In 1941 he was appointed Civil Service Secretary by the Air Force and director of personnel for the Western Procurement District, having responsibility of all civilian personnel in 12 western states.

After the war, he became director and vice president of sales and traffic for the Flying Tigers Airline, resigning in 1948 to organize Millrich Engineering Corp., which subsequently merged with International Electronics Research Corp., Burbank. It is one of the largest suppliers of electronics components for the Department of Defense. He serves as chairman of the board for that company, and also the Mono-Twin Aircraft Corp.

THE TOWERING beachfront hotel in Long Beach, formerly known as the Hilton, was a personal challenge to Miller. He bought it in January of 1962, and immediately restored its original name, Breakers International.

Miller saw the city of Long Beach, and its greatest hotel, as institutions on the verge of greatness.

He launched a $1.5 million rebuilding program designed to restore to the Breakers its original position as the center of the city's travel and resort life, and the hub of its social and commercial activities.

The restoration of the building has been under the direct supervision of Hugh A. Gibbs, A.I.A., famous Long Beach architect.

From deep in the multi-basements to the tower went inspectors and contractors. Wiring was ripped out and new conduits installed. Ventilating systems were added. 350 doors and 454 windows were ordered to replace the old. More than $350,000 in new furniture was ordered installed, along with sound-systems for FM radio and maid calls.

Television sets — 200 of them—were purchased, many of them color sets.

MEANWHILE Miller surrounded himself with top management executives. N. L. (Len) Hill as director of food sales and service, and customer relations; Wirth P. Cunningham as beverage manager and purcrasing agent; and Steve Miller, son of the owner, as assistant manager.

In a statement to patrons of the Breakers, Miller said recently:

"No matter which room you choose, when you check in at Breakers, your view from your room will be a living ever-changing panorama of palatial beauty.

"In its rare downtown shoreline setting, the Breakers is surrounded by scenic vistas such as these:

"The United States Fleet; fishing fleets; the Long Beach International Harbor; Downtown Long Beach; the International Amusement Center, including the Auditorium, Arena, Nu-Pike, marina and the rising Pier J — site of the coming World's Fair.

"Today there is a splendor restored to Long Beach, within the means of all. We challenge the city to inspect the new Breakers International."

Russia Fires 32nd A-Shot

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union set off another nuclear explosion in the atmosphere Saturday, the Atomic Energy Commission announced Saturday night.

The explosion was of low yield — producing a force equal to 20,000 tons or less of TNT—and occurred in the Semipalatinsk area of Siberia, the AEC said. The test was the 32nd announced Russian shot during the current series.

Long Beach has been chosen as one of 10 California cities for workshops to instruct key personnel of the construction industry in techniques of building fallout shelters.

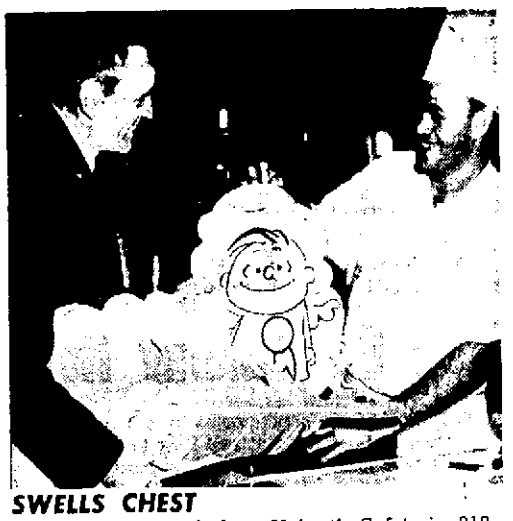

The session here is scheduled for Nov. 30 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the 268-seat Health Department Auditorium on Pine Avenue near Willow Street, it was announced Saturday.

Sponsored by the U.S. Civil Defense Office, the workshop is open to architects, engineers, contractors and others concerned with shelter construction.

Champion Bands Coming Here

—Staff Photos by Kent Henderson

WILSON HIGH BAND STRUTS OUT ON PARADE

High school marching band champions from Northern California will compete with their Southland equivalents Saturday in the 22nd annual All-Western Band Review.

The competition will be in a parade of more than 6,500 musicians that will begin at noon at Falcon Avenue and Ocean Boulevard, and will move west to Cedar Avenue.

Grossmont High School, perennial sweepstakes winner, will head the southern groups, seeking the Mayor's Trophy for the seventh time. San Diego County units will include El Cajon Valley, El Capitan, Mt. Miguel and Hilltop.

Anaheim High School, Western High from Anaheim and Lakewood High schools are considered strong Southland competitors.

Merced High School's "Marching 100" has been expanded to 120 bandsmen this year and is rated a top contender from the north.

Awards will be presented Saturday night in the Arena. The evening program will feature a special concert by Long Beach Municipal Band, a baton-twirling demonstration by Bob Roberts, former national champion, and finals of the Senior Girls Division of the California State Baton Twirling Championships.

Local groups involved in the review include Marvin Marker's Long Beach Junior Concert Band, Long Beach Amusement Company, California National Guard, Civil Air Patrol, Mobil Oil Company, Beach City Chevrolet, FM Station KLON, Lybian Guard, Breakers International Hotel and a number of City departments and divisions.

Rafferty Outlines His School Plans

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dr. Maxwell Rafferty, newly elected superintendent of public instruction, Saturday outlined seven points that he said will be stressed when he takes office in January.

Rafferty told a meeting of the Small School Boards Association that under his administration:

1. Teachers will be judged on their success in imparting subject matter to their students, not their success in conducting "life adjustment" courses.

2. The Department of Education will supply local boards with guidelines for adding additional positions, such as associate superintendents, which are not now in existence.

3. Phonics will be stressed in learning to read.

4. The great heroes, stories and facts of American history will be stressed from the first grade on.

5. The department will compile a list of the great children's classics, and schools will be urged to carry them in their libraries.

6. The department will recommend abandonment of group psychological testing in local districts. Rafferty said he particularly doesn't like the Science Research Association's Interest Inventory tests, and the Princeton Testing Bureau's S.T.E.P. series. He said they contain objectionable questions such as "Do you like your father or your mother better?" He added that the department cannot force districts not to use them.

7. Voluntary unification of school districts will be encouraged. Rafferty emphasized he is opposed to compulsory unification.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Car Passenger Falls Out, Killed

A Costa Mesa man was killed Saturday when a car door flew open and he fell out in Silverado Canyon.

Officers said James E. Strickland, 49, was a passenger in a car driven by Roger B. Mitchell, 20, of 211 N. Garnsey St., Santa Ana.

Mitchell took Strickland, of 2310 Santa Ana Ave., to a hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Fraternity House Vandalized

That bit about "when the cat's away the mice will play" was realistically proved to members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon at Long Beach State College.

While the fraternity brothers were attending a football game, someone ('tis rumored the opposition) entered the unlocked house at 1830 E. Ocean Blvd., and toted most of the furniture to the front yard.

The perpetrators then created a wild mess inside the house and made, like away, with 57 honored trophies, police said today.

Relected to National Board

Mrs. Milton B. Smith of Long Beach, long an active volunteer member of Camp Fire Girls, Inc., will serve another term on the national board of directors, it was announced Saturday.

MRS. SMITH

The National Council, at its annual meeting in Cleveland, Ohio, passed a resolution to extend its program to include girls of all races, faiths, nationalities and economic levels.

Plans include enlargement and upgrading of the national staff and development of experimental programs in 10 or 15 metropolitan areas to work with culturally deprived girls.

Library-Book Circulation Soars

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Circulation of books and magazines by the county public library, which set a new record last month, is on the upswing and appears headed for an all-time high next March.

County Librarian John D. Henderson reported last week that circulation in October was 801,336, the highest recorded for an October in the library's 50-year history.

Library business traditionally hits its peak in the spring, Henderson said in predicting that total circulation would pass 900,000 for the first time in history in March. All-time high for the county system was 899,195 volumes last March.

Diving Students Signing Up

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Registration is under way for Los Angeles County's 12th annual course to train instructors in skin and SCUBA diving. It will close Dec. 1.

Teh course is sponsored by the county Department of Parks and Recreation in affiliation with the National Association of Underwater Instructors and the National YMCA.

Because several hundred applications normally are received and the course can accommodate only 30 persons, the county department will conduct precourse examinations.

Music Workshops Scheduled

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

How to conduct an orchestra will be the topic of two advanced music workshops, one on Dec. 8 and one on Dec. 15, in Bovard Auditorium at the University of Southern California.

The workshop, open to high school seniors and older, will be sponsored by the county Department of Parks and Recreation in collaboration with the USC Music Department.

AFL-CIO Plans Big Pilot Drive in Southland

By BILL SUMNER
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The AFL-CIO has its sights zeroed in on almost every walk of life in its forthcoming organizational drive in Southern California. From the policeman on the beat to the scientist in the think factory, the serenade is going to be "solidarity forever."

While specific targets have not been announced, and will not be for some time, the broad outline of the so-called pilot program, scheduled to begin Jan. 2, indicates that almost every type of non-union payroll will be covered.

Franz Daniel, AFL-CIO assistant director of organization, said that Long Beach and Pasadena are among the target centers in Southern California. Daniel, who will direct the Southern California drive, said he would open and staff offices for the program shortly after Thanksgiving.

* * * *

THE AFL-CIO and local unions have put up about $325,000 to support the one-year test run, aimed at organizing 400 of the 5000 unorganized concerns and institutions of Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Special emphasis will be placed on manufacturing plants, restaurant and hotel workers, various white collar professions and government employes on the local, county, state and federal levels.

This last, Daniel said, will include teachers, the police and firemen. In the case of the last two categories, "the right to strike is to be forgone," he said.

* * * *

HE SAID, too, that the various scientific and engineering research institutions of the area—such as Pasadena's Jet Propulsion Laboratory—were not exempt from the AFL-CIO's organization plans.

Even scientists have grievances, he said.

"They don't get recognition for their real accomplishments," he said. "There is office politics and there are power plays a democratic organization could solve."

And, with a smile, he said, "We don't think the class struggle applies here. We don't think they are wage slaves."

* * * *

HE PREDICTED the most resistance to the drive would come from the while collar professions although, he said, the labor movement is rapidly becoming a white collar force.

And, he said, "There is a real need for a democratic organization in the teaching profession—they have a very strong union in the Los Angeles area now."

Daniel is a big-burley, soft-spoken veteran of the labor movement who first joined the picket lines while studying for the ministry in the late 1920s.

DANIEL, 58, graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1927 and went from there to Union Theological Seminary, interrupting his studies from time to time to picket and hand out pamphlets in the drive to organize New York's garment workers. He was thrown into jail several times for his activities, but in the course of things decided to give up the cloth for the labor movement.

"I got to know people like Norman Thomas," he said. "And Reinhold Niebuhr. I was interested in civil liberties and free speech. This became the important thing."

Rubber Record Due

NEW YORK (AP) — U. S. consumption of rubber this year was forecast at a record high of 3.79 billion pounds or about 21 pounds for every man, woman and child.

The total is the weight of about 40,000 products ranging from elastics to tires, and includes the rubber in about 95 million pairs of canvas footwear.

GAD Civil Defense Series Set

Three public lectures and a combination television-classroom series on civil defense are announced for this week by the General Adult Division of Long Beach City College.

Charles Dean Fisher opens a new illustrated series on "The Troubled East" at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Rogers Junior High School auditorium, Monrovia Avenue and Appian Way. First topic is "The Crossroads of Civilization: Turkey, Syria, Jordan and Iraq."

Ted J. Gordon, chief engineer for the Saturn program at Douglas Aircraft Co., will be the second speaker on "The Move Into Space" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the City College auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Avenue.

Gordon formerly served as test conductor for Thor and Thor-Able launchings at Cape Canaveral and directed the firing of the Pioneer I moon probe. He is now in charge of development and construction of the S-IV upper stage of the Saturn space vehicle, this country's entry in the race to put men on the moon.

Study guides for a new television workshop course on "Individual and Family Survival" may be obtained at the General Adult Division office, 701 Locust Ave. First program of the series will be shown at 10:30 p.m. today over Channel 5.

The new TV series supplements adult civil defense classes offered by local school districts. A new four-week class opens Wednesday at 9 a.m. in Bixby School auditorium, 5251 E. Stearns Street.

Mrs. Alice C. Wright continues the "Creative Reading and Writing" lecture series at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Jefferson Junior High auditorium, Seventh Street and Grand Avenue. Her topic is "Factual Writing Can Be Creative."

7 on Gale-Lashed Sea Tower Saved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An Air Force helicopter Saturday rescued seven stranded civilians from a storm-battered Navy research tower 30 miles southwest of Bermuda.

The H19 helicopter from Kindley Air Force Base in Bermuda, flown by Capt. D. B. Maurras, picked up three of the civilians shortly after noon. It then returned for the remaining four and brought them to safety.

The Navy said that for the last three days the tower has been lashed by waves cresting at 45 to 60 feet, and by winds up to 70 miles an hour. It had been stripped of its radar and radio antennas, and other appendages.

THE TOWER stands atop a submerged vulcano in the Atlantic and is a relay point for hydrophones used in Navy underwater sound investigation.

The rescued were civilian employes of the Land Air Corp. of Chicago. They are: Anton Savarcs, Chicago; Modris Avotins, Chicago; William Krogman, Marine on St. Croix, Minn.; Raymond Wills, Marysville, Ind.; Johnny Prince, Gastonia, N. C.; Jimmy Prince, Spartanburg, S. C., and Ben Sullivan, Winona, Miss.

Castro Clears Sky of Planes

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban military authorities Saturday ordered the skies over Cuba cleared of all domestic commercial airline flights by 4:50 a.m. today, according to a Havana Radio broadcast monitored here.

The broadcast gave no reason for the order, but there was immediate speculation that it could be connected with Premier Fidel Castro's threat to shoot down U.S. surveillance planes flying over Cuba.

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Professional basketball came to Long Beach on an artistically successful plane Saturday night as the L.B. Chiefs opened their ABL campaign with a 105-96 win over the previously unbeaten Kansas City Steers.

A crowd of 2,294 was on hand for the historical opener in the Long Beach Arena. The teams duel again tonight at 8.

The Chiefs were always in the lead after a first-quarter 26-26 deadlock, holding a 51-49 halftime edge and 76-71 third-quarter margin.

* * * *

The Chiefs scored seven "home run" plays (3-pointers) with the long-distance shooting Warley netting four of them.

In a pre-game ceremony, Chief coach Al Brightman was presented with an Indian war bonnet by councilman Ray Kealer. The war hat was appropriate for Brightman as he screeched at officials Bill Fassler and Doug Harvey all night.

* * * *

AT ONE point in the first quarter, Brightman became incensed at the tactics of the Steers' 6-9 center Gene Tormohlen and dashed onto the floor, grabbing Tormohlen in a bear hug. The entire Chief team ran off the bench to render any assistance, but the wrestling match was broken up by the officials.

Brightman pressed home one point later in the game, however, as he walked back onto the floor to correct the officials, and for his labors the Chiefs were awarded an extra shot.

Warley registered Long Beach's first points with a 30-foot 3-point shot to push the Chiefs into an initial 3-0 lead. From that point, the lead changed hands constantly throughout the first quarter.

Huskies Riddle UCLA

Coffey Leads Assault in 30-0 Romp

By JEROME HALL
I. P-T Staff Writer

SEATTLE—A monstrous new star burst upon the western football scene here Saturday while a devastating thing was happening to the UCLA Bruins.

Propelled by the powerized running of Junior Coffey and fed by the fomented frenzy of the 54,000 frozen faithful, the Washington Huskies administered a crucificial beating that must rank among the worst the Westwooders ever have absorbed.

The score was 30-0. The defeat was worse.

The defeat was complete, utter and absolute. The Huskies appeared fired by the memory of that embarrassment in the Coliseum a fortnight ago and so did the spectators.

* * * *

UW STADIUM was turned into a quasi Roman Colosseum as the Huskies' rooters shouted "pretend they're Trojans." When the Bruins finally did muster a scoring threat in the final minute of the game, the chant went out to "hold that line."

The Huskies weren't playing the UCLA Bruins, they were playing that game with USC as they rammed, smashed, boomed and crashed for 463 yards while the Bruins were just trying to get on the scoreboard.

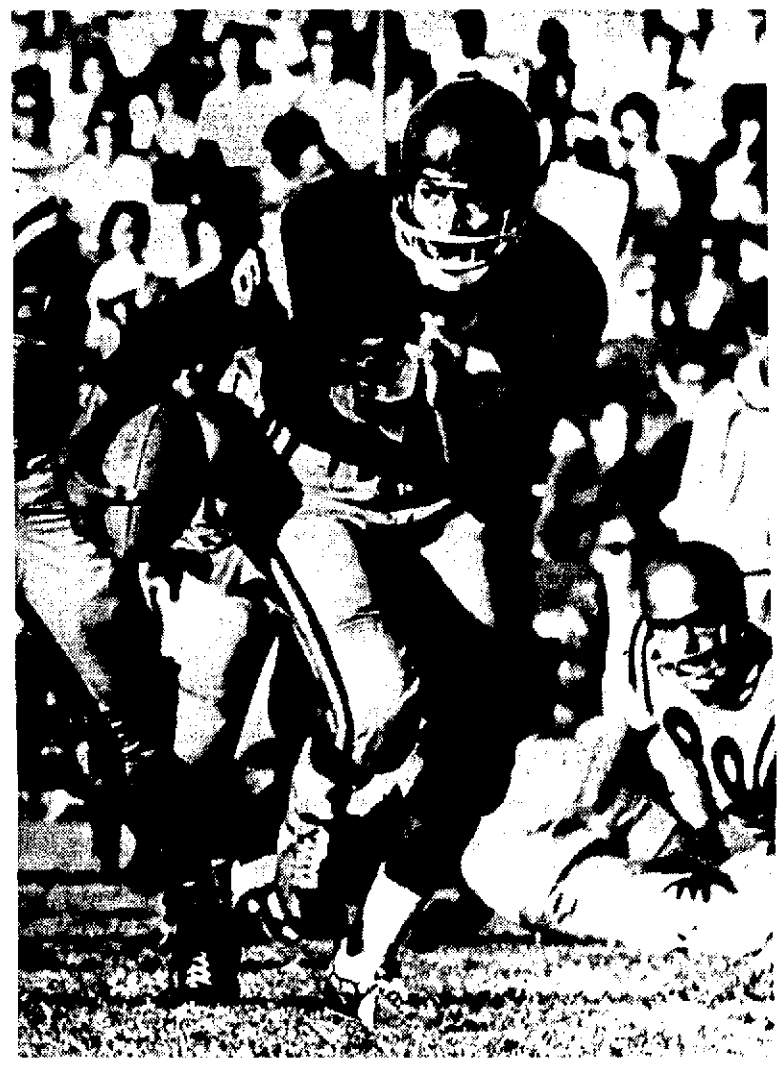

But when their scoring thrust to the Husky 13 died for want of a first down with just 45 seconds remaining, the shutout was complete. It was the first time in the past 36 games the Bruins have failed to score.

* * * *

PERHAPS THE biggest surprise of the day was that the natives didn't shoot down the Bruins' chartered airplane as it climbed into the gray and cold northwest sky after the game.

It's necessary to go back a

TROY'S BROWN TOUCHDOWN-BOUND

—Staff Photos by Bob Shumway

Trojan halfback Willie Brown flashes his tackle-defying form en route to 54-yard touchdown gallop that gave Southern California a 13-6 victory over Navy in the Coliseum Saturday.

Navy Fumble on Goal Line Ruins Upset

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

USC's top - ranked Trojans had their gold football pants nearly scared off them by a 17-point underdog Navy team Saturday in the Coliseum, but the unbeaten Men of Troy had the most horseshoes and emerged with a 13-6 triumph.

The largest crowd of the Southland college season (51,701) also saw the most exciting football game of the year as both clubs scrapped like cats and dogs for the entire 60 minutes.

The under-rated Middies almost pulled out an unbelievable victory in the game's last two minutes and 50 seconds when fullback W. Patrick Donnelly smashed to the Trojan goal line, where he fumbled and a Trojan recovered in the end zone!

* * * *

LONG BEACH'S Willie Brown broke the game open in the third period with a sensational 56-yard sprint down the north sideline that gave the Trojans their first breathing space of the afternoon—their final 13-6 victory margin. Brown had his finest day as a Trojan, registering 143 yards in eight carries for a brilliant 17.9-yard average.

The Middies shocked the big throng before many of the patrons had become comfortable in their pews. Controversial Wayne Hardin's Navy club posted its only points of the chilly afternoon just 80 seconds after the contest had started.

Trojan halfback Ken Del Conte gave the sailors their big break by fumbling the opening kickoff on USC's 22. The Middies' Ron Testa recovered there and the boys from Annapolis were off like P-T boats.

* * * *

With the way nearly devoid of Trojans, Roger simply tucked the ball into his own arm and skirted his right flank for the entire 18 yards to Troy's end zone. Fred Marvin's attempted placement was blocked by Gary Potter, but the Middies still

Vikings Clobber Corsairs, 48-20

By KEN PIVERNETZ

Homer Williams and Duane Nixon combined for seven touchdowns Saturday night at Veterans Stadium as Long Beach City College overwhelmed Santa Monica, 48-20, to close out its second unbeaten season in history.

The win, accomplished before a crowd of 5,100, and a Jr. Rose Bowl delegation, enabled the Vikes to become the highest scoring team (per average, 30.1) in the school's annals and wind up with an 8-0-1 record.

More important, the victory left Jim Stangeland's crew remaining in the run for the roses that will be decided today in Pasadena.

* * * *

AHEAD only 12-8 at halftime, Long Beach put together its best 15 minutes of football this year in the third period, scoring three quick touchdowns to break the game wide open.

Williams ran for three TDs and scored another on a 75-yard return of an interception pass to tie a school one-game touchdown record set by Gerry McDougall and equalled by Dee Andrews.

Nixon also had his best night, scoring three times, two on long passes from Jim Dunn, and the other on a three-yard run.

* * * *

Sindell, who entered the game with 1,793 yards-passing yards, completed 12 of 24 for 172 yards.

The game was all over six minutes into the third quarter.

It only took that long for

MIDDIE BACK COMES UP SHORT (AND WITHOUT FOOTBALL) IN TYING TD TRY

Staff photographer Bob Shumway snapped this key picture which proves Navy fullback Pat Donnelly didn't make it into end zone with what might have produced the Middies a tie or win against USC Saturday. Donnelly is inches short and already had fumbled the ball. Pete Beathard made the tackle and Gary Potter (not in picture) recovered the ball. Only 2:40 remaining when crucial play occurred. USC won, 13-6.

Sunday's Pearls

Sunday pearls from the readers' pulpit:

. . . A Fullerton man, Philip S. Reeder, 1928 W. Valencia Dr., thinks so much of Long Beach's sports potential that he forwarded the following letter to Joe Foss, commissioner of the American Football League.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

". . . If the rumors are true that Oakland will go to Kansas City and New York to New Orleans — and if sports history is any criteria—this mass shuffle of leaving the West Coast would seal the door on your AFL. Here is my solution:

"1. Stick with the Chargers in San Diego (a good sports area with rapidly increasing population).

"2. Beef up the Raiders (now in Oakland), leave the San Francisco bay area in favor of the northwest—Portland, a large municipal stadium plus professional sports enthusiasm exists there.

"3. Move Dallas to the Eastern Division (providing another Texas opponent for Houston).

"4. Bring the New York club to the most underrated, sports-starved area in the U.S.—Long Beach, Calif. This would provide a natural opponent for San Diego.

"Long Beach has live wire newspaper sports coverage exceeding that of Los Angeles newspapers. Southern L.A. County and Orange County have been without a major league team because of the shadow of Los Angeles. This is an unnatural condition.

"I am sure if the AFL surveyed this area, the facts would be astounding: Eastern—Buffalo, Boston, Dallas, Houston; Western—Long Beach, San Diego, Portland, Denver."

. . . The AFL has surveyed Long Beach, albeit briefly. That league, among others, is eyeing Long Beach attendances for Chief games—for important future decisions. (And thanks to Mr. Reeder for his kind comments on the I, P-T sports coverage.)

"TO FURTHER PROMOTE the overall Long Beach sports program why would it not be possible to have an annual city championship game between L.B. City College and L.B. State College? Such a game played at Veterans Stadium every Thanksgiving Day or perhaps the following Saturday afternoon could add materially to our city's expanding athletic prestige. Unquestionably there would be sufficient attendance to make the venture financially sound. Why not call it the Long Beach Drumstick Bowl?" (signed) T. R. Arthur, 3936 Walnut Ave.

. . . A game between a four-year school and a two-year school would be impossible to schedule. The contest might be interesting year-in-and-out, but obviously State College would have nothing to gain and EVERYTHING to lose.

"I perused last week's wire service football ratings and found that USC, after thoroughly trouncing a good Washington team, failed to move up on first place Northwestern, who squeaked by a poor Indiana team. This only backs up my suspicions that weekly gridiron ratings, like Russian peace moves, mean absolutely nothing." (signed) Lem Snowden, Long Beach.

. . . Nothing is right, particularly when the West Coast NEVER is adequately represented in any wire service poll.

"In watching the TV showing of the World Series, a very noticeable factor in the defeat of the losing clubs was the inability of their batters to hit the first pitch (usually a strike) and then foul off the next pitch, thereby having two strikes immediately. It is a wonder to me why managers do not tell their batters to hit at the first pitch regardless, and thereby cut down this more-than-average occurrence." (signed) Harold E. Weeks, 1714 Petaluma Ave.

"I'M TAKING a sporting chance that you can find space for your readers in behalf of people who don't even have a sporting chance for life unless they get help. They get up hungry every morning, never have enough to eat during the day, go to bed hungry every night. That goes for more than half the people of the earth. I have a feeling sports fans will respond generously when they know that every $1 they send to CARE Food Crusade, New York 16, N. Y., will deliver a package of life-giving food to a needy family overseas. Will you help us spread the word?" (signed) Sam Kaufman, CARE, 660 First Ave., N. Y. 16...

. . . The word is out. Let's hope it spreads.

"Tonto Bars Hank is back at Los Alamitos race track after spending the spring in clover. He was wedded to 55 mares, each of whom brought him a dowry of $1500. Most stallions find the daily work at a race track exceedingly boring after a spring with the mares, but Hank now pays strict attention to business, something he did not always do." (signed) Publicity Dept., Los Alamitos Race Course.

. . . In the words of Major Hoople: Har-rumph!

Bucks Trounce Oregon, 26-7

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State got a lot of offensive help from a couple of sparingly-used defensive players Saturday as the Bucks defeated Oregon 26-7 in an intersectional contest before 72,828 fans.

The rainy-day crowd was as much a shocker as the score since it was the smallest throng to see Ohio in action here in several years.

Bill Mrukowski, senior from Elyria, came out of the discards to quarterback the Bucks to victory. Two weeks ago he was so low on the totem pole he did not even make the trip to Iowa. But he was good enough Saturday to score two touchdowns and pilot the Ohio club faultlessly.

Chuck Mamula of Martins Ferry, a junior defensive tackle, scored his first points as he took over the place-kicking chores for injured Dick Van Raaphorst. Mamula made good with two conversions and field goals from 25 and 40 yards —the two defensive newcomers scoring 20 of Ohio's 26 points.

The Bucks capitalized on Webfoot errors in handing the West Coast club its second defeat in nine games, and breaking its own tradition of losing alternate games this season.

The Bucks moved 70 yards in 14 plays, 24 in 7 and 32 in 7 for their touchdowns. Fullback Dave Francis scored the first one after Ron Snidow's kick had carried only 12 yards.

Mrukowski got the second one after Bill Spahr recovered Bruce Snyder's fumble on the Oregon 24, and the quarterback also counted the third one after Bill Armstrong had intercepted Bob Berry's pass on the Webfoot 32.

Oregon exploded for a 69-yard touchdown drive in 8 plays in the second quarter, with Berry hitting Greg Willener with a 15-yard fourth-down pass. It came after Larry Hill had rolled around end for 33 yards. In the same series sensational Mel Renfro had gone for 39 yards only to have the play called back by a clipping penalty.

The Webfoots threatened again in the fourth session with Berry taking to the airways, but the 79-yard drive died on the Ohio 1, as Renfro fumbled and Matt Snell recovered for the Bucks.

Jayhawkers Hold Off Late Cal Bid 33-21

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas fullback Armand Baughman bulled through California defenses for 142 yards and three touchdowns, offsetting Craig Morton's dead-eye passing, and Kansas took a 33-21 intersectional football victory Saturday.

The Jayhawkers led 21-0 late in the first half, but the spirited Golden Bears stormed back with a touchdown in each of the last three periods.

Then Kansas wrapped it up with a 73-yard march with 2½ minutes left. Halfback Gale Sayers, used as a decoy most of the last half, broke 23 yards around right end for the touchdown.

* * * *

BAUGHMAN carried 32 times, breaking a 21-year school record for most attempts. Sayers picked up 81 yards, raising his season figure to 1,053. He is the seventh Big Eight player to gain over a thousands yards rushing in one season and the first in five years.

Morton, a 6-foot 3½-inch, 210-pound sophomore, fired three touchdown passes for the Bears, who were anxious to atone for a 53-7 flogging by Kansas a year ago and give Cal coach Marv Levy a winning start on a brand new two-year contract.

Baughman, a 6-foot, 195-pound junior, had the full back chores all to himself with Ken Coleman injured, and made the most of it. He accounted for 73 yards in the first three Kansas scoring drives, all on the ground.

* * * *

THEN JIM Blakeney's 75-yard kickoff return brought Cal to life. Morton was dumped for a 12-yard loss, his third long loss in the first half, but came back with a 33-yard TD pass to Tom Blanchfield.

Williams, Nixon Combine for 7 TDs

the Norsemen to take the second-half kickoff and travel 68 yards in nine plays, with Dunn's pass to Nixon covering the final 49.

H. Williams intercepted a pass on the second play of the ensuing kickoff and Dunn again found Nixon for 35 yards on the first play to put the game safely on ice.

* * * *

DUNN HAD one of his better nights, hitting 10 of 15 aerials for 202 yards.

The first half was a different story as Long Beach found itself trailing for the first time this year.

The Corsairs took the opening kickoff and scored on the third play from scrimmage to stun the partisan Viking crowd with the easy way they were able to move on the vaunted LBCC defense.

Corsair fullback Bob Bozell went 53 yards on a draw play and nearly stumbled on the LBCC 45 before recovering his balance and outrunning Charles Williams into the end zone.

Sindell hit tackle George Chumo for the two-point PAT and it was 8-0 with 1:30 gone.

The aroused Vikings then came back and traveled 64 yards in 12 plays with Williams and Nixon doing most of the damage on slants and end sweeps.

Nixon slanted three yards off right tackle for the score with 6:35 left. Nixon's PAT pass fell incomplete and it was still 8-6.

* * * *

SANTA MONICA then came right back with the ever-dangerous Sindell, operating from the shotgun and a split-T, calling plays with imagination. The Corsairs actually crossed the LBCC goal line, but an offsides penalty saved Long Beach and gave it new life.

The go-ahead TD came on a 44-yard, seven-play drive with Dunn going to the air to connect with Rich Croson and Nixon on key back-to-back plays for gains of 16 and 20 yards respectively.

Williams dived into the end zone from two yards out and it was 12-8 as the half ended.

Williams wound up gaining 115 yards on 28 carries to break the LBCC single-season freshman record set by Lonzo Irvin in 1960. His 96-point regular season total is fourth best in history.

DECISION TODAY ON JRB FOES

The 11-man Junior Rose Bowl board of management meets today at the Huntington - Sheraton Hotel in Pasadena to select the opponents for this year's game on Dec. 15.

Long Beach and Santa Ana are the top western contenders while Columbia Basin, Wash. and Henderson County, Tex. seem to have the inside track for the eastern bid.

Six members of the board are representatives of the Calif. Junior College Athletic Assn.; the remaining five are delegates from the sponsoring Pasadena Jr. Chamber of Commerce.

The western team will be announced Monday morning, and the eastern team Monday afternoon.

DONS CRUSH FULLERTON FOR 9TH WIN

FULLERTON — Santa Ana College crushed Fullerton, 36-12, Saturday night to register its ninth consecutive win and keep it in prime contention for a Junior Rose Bowl bid.

Quarterback Dunn Marteen sparked Santa Ana, scoring two touchdowns and passing for a third. The Dons never trailed after scoring once in the first period.

OSU's Baker Sparkles; Campbell Paces Cougars

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Amazing Terry Baker rushed and passed for 389 yards and moved into second place among college football's all-time gainers as Oregon State downed winless Colorado State, 25-14, Saturday.

In the process, Baker helped OSU end Vern Burke set a single season collegiate record for pass receiving yardage. Burke made 10 catches for 108 yards and a season total of 972 yards.

* * * *

BAKER surpassed John Ford of Hardin-Simmons and Georgia players Frank Sinkwich and Zeke Bratkowski on the all-time list and now has 4,848 yards in his three-year career. His total for this year is 2,144 yards.

Saturday's performance was the third time this season that Baker amassed over 300 yards.

However, Baker stands no chance of catching the all-time leader, Johnny Bright of Drake. Bright's career total was 5,903 yards. Baker has one game remaining — next week against Oregon.

Oregon State — held to a 7-6 halftime lead by a Colorado State team determined to break a 24-game losing streak—scored twice in the first six minutes of the third period. Then OSU withstood a freak Colorado State touchdown to improve its season record to 7 victories and 2 defeats.

Baker had 231 yards passing and 168 rushing.

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Washington State University staged a desperate last-period 68-yard scoring drive in snow and mud to break a 14-14 tie and defeat underdog University of Idaho 22-14 Saturday in a traditional football battle.

Washington State end Hugh Campbell, who already held half a dozen national pass catching records, tied another Saturday when he caught five passes for 63 yards. This gave him a career total of 2,274 yards, equaling the collegiate record set in the 1947-49 seasons by Bill Klein of Hanover.

It was Campbell's fifth reception that got the Cougars their winning score.

Stanford Trims San Jose St., 21-9

STANFORD (UPI)—Quarterback Steve Thurlow passed 54 yards into the end zone to Danny Spence for a touchdown just before the half Saturday to pull Stanford from behind and set the stage for a 21-9 Indian victory over oft-beaten San Jose State.

Stopping determined Spartan drives on the three, nine, 11 and 28-yard lines in the early going, the Indians took just 51 seconds to travel 76 yards one minute before the intermission to take an 8-3 lead.

San Jose State had scored on a 20-yard field goal by Bob Paterson just two minutes earlier.

Stanford got its second touchdown in the third quarter on Clark Weaver's two-yard plunge. This one was set up on a pass interference penalty call that gave the Indians a first down on the San Jose State nine.

* * * *

THE OTHER Indian score came in the final period and was set up on a fumble recovery on the Spartan 42. Five plays later, Thurlow sneaked over from the five.

San Jose State's lone touchdown came early in the last quarter when the Spartans went 75 yards in three plays. The big gainer was Walt Roberts' 56-yard broken field run and the score came on a 12-yard pass from Rand Carter to Roberts.

The victory was the fourth of the year for Stanford against five defeats — and it was the eighth loss for the Spartans, who have one win and a tie.

WYNN

Man to Man

VILLANUEVA

By JERRY WYNN

My seven-year-old son saw his first Ram game recently, and was disappointed to discover that his favorite player, Danny "Billywada," did not run or pass or tackle . . . just kick.

But the Rams aren't kicking about "just kick" Danny Villanueva this season. He has been the one great success story of an unsuccessful club.

Raked over the coals for a poor season in 1961, the popular Ram toe-reador has made a remarkable comeback.

He is currently leading the NFL in punting with a superb 46.4 average for 60 kicks. At this rate, he is certain to surpass Bob Waterfield's Ram record of 44.6, established in 1946 when Danny was nine years old.

Villanueva also has connected on six of 10 field goals (one was blocked) including efforts from 49 and 51 yards, the latter tying a club record. He has topped the club in scoring the past two years, and is in front again.

How does it feel, Danny, to be leading the league in your first full year as a punter?

"It's hard to feel good about anything personal with the club having a bad year, but I'm really thrilled. I never did consider myself a punter. I didn't know I was No. 1 until Tuesday when coach Svare came into the dressing room to congratulate me. I thought it was a wonderful gesture on his part."

Did you ever get discouraged when things weren't going well for you last season?

"Yes, to the point where I was ready to throw it in. I thought perhaps my kicking was just an illusion and I was kidding myself. After the season, I was undecided about coming back but Chuck Benedict (Rams' public relations assistant) kept calling me at home and encouraging me. I needed a boost, and I'm very grateful to him."

What has been responsible for your big improvement as a punter this season?

"Bob Waterfield. It's as simple as that. When he let Jim Bakken (rookie place kicker drafted by the Rams) go, he told me he was going to go with me all the way, and he spent a lot of time working with me. People always said he didn't say much, but he was tough with me. Maybe I'm the type of kid who needed it."

What did Waterfield teach you?

"The main thing was cutting down my steps. I was taking too many and it ruined my timing. He threatened me with everything before I learned the right way."

You have a new holder in Ed Meador this season. How important is a holder to a place-kicker?

"You can't measure it. Before this year, my mind was wandering. Now I'm not thinking of anything but kicking the football. Eddie's by far the best holder I've ever had. He's the quickest and most consistent in his movements. That's the key. I start my move instantly seeing him move instantly."

What has been responsible for the rash of blocked kicks this year?

"Fortunately, I've only had blocked this year and had five blocked last year. But before this year, every one took field goals for granted. The only rushers I ever worried about were Night Train Lane and Erich Barnes. Now every team is working on blocking kicks. What they're doing is pulling one blocker down, and running right through him. It's technically defensive holding, and I think the officials will start to call it."

Who do you consider the best punter and place-kicker in the NFL?

"Yale Lary of the Lions is without a doubt the best punter I've ever seen. As for place-kickers, I never had much of a chance to study Lou Groza. I rate Pat Summerall the best. He had good snap and his technique was almost flawless."

Which of your kicks as a Ram gave you the greatest thrill?

"The 51-yarder against Dallas this year. It was a personal thing. I'd always heard people say, 'He's too little. He can't kick that far.' It was something I had to prove to myself. There was also that one I made to beat Green Bay my rookie year. (Danny kicked four field goals, the last from 12 yards with 11 seconds left to give the Rams a 31-30 win at Milwaukee in 1960.) I'd like to have a little repetition of that when we play them this year.

A No. 1 punter and No. 1 competitor is Danny "Billywada."

Gophers Edge Purdue

TD Pass Produces Win, 7-6

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota's passing attack, ineffective much of the time, struck like lightning for a touchdown early in the fourth quarter to give the Gophers a 7-6 victory over Purdue Saturday.

Quarterback Duane Blaska, able to complete only 6 of 21 passes to that point, hit end Ray Zitzloff on a 29-yard scoring strike with 10:23 left in the game. Colin Versich added the extra point.

The Minnesota victory set up next week's showdown for the Big Ten championship against Wisconsin at Madison. Both are 5-1 in the conference.

Zitzloff took the ball away from two defenders, Tom Bloom and Ronald Meyer, at the Purdue three and slipped into the end zone for the game's lone touchdown.

* * * *

Skip Ohl's two booming field goals from the 26 and 37 got Purdue its 6-0 halftime bulge.

Purdue tried gamely to come back in the late stages on the passing of Gary Hogan and DiGravio. However, Minnesota's secondary backs were equal to the assault.

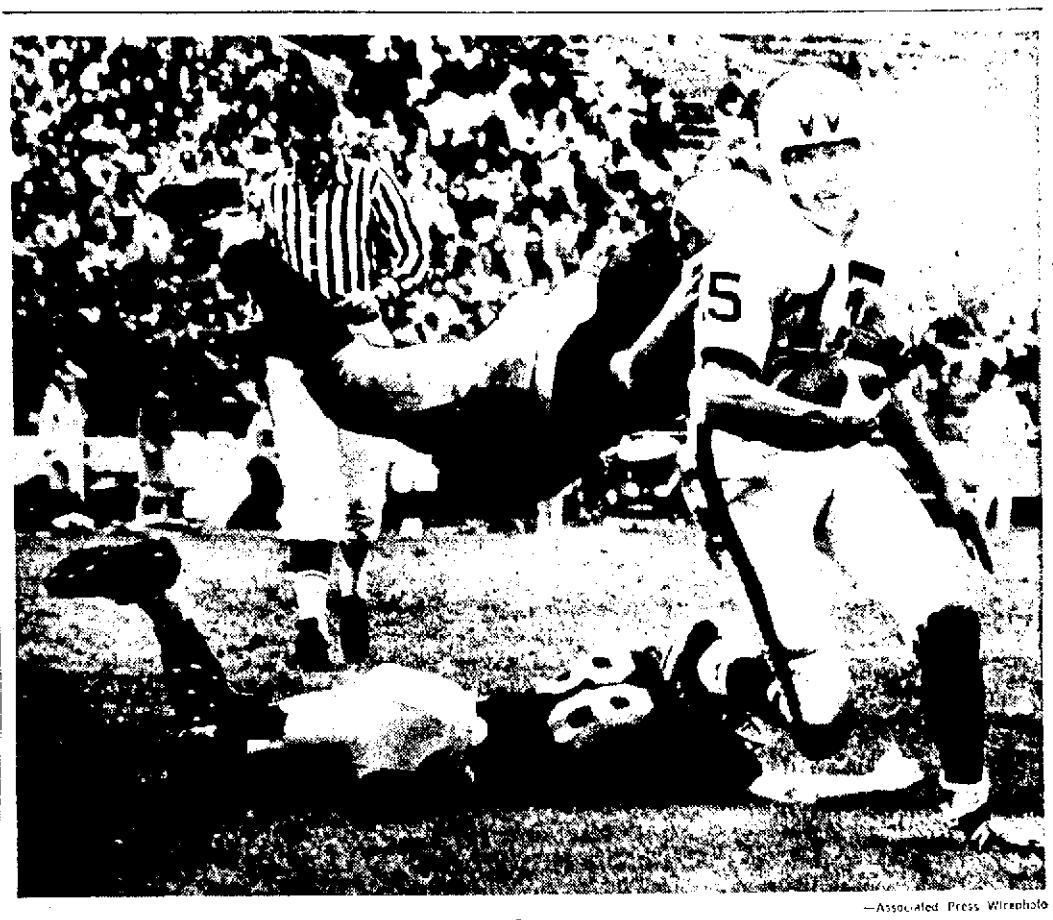

The Boilermakers became the sixth team this season to fail to score a touchdown against the Gophers. The loss gave Purdue a 3-2 conference mark.

* * * *

PURDUE did manage to roll up 110 yards rushing, a small total against most teams, but good considering Minnesota has yielded less than 50 yards average thus far.

Minnesota found the Purdue defense almost equal. The Gophers gained only 143 yards on the ground and 79 through the air.

BADGER CAUGHT AT TOP AND BOTTOM

Wisconsin Badger quarterback Ron VanderKelen appears stunned as two Illinois tacklers hit him at once in second quarter. Flying off the right shoulder is Illini center Dick Butkus. On the ground, but helping to trip up runner, is Rich Callaghan.

Badgers Near Bowl Bid

Spartans Rip Wildcats

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Shadowy halfback Lou Holland scored four touchdowns and zoomed fourth-ranked Wisconsin to an easy, but important Big Ten conquest of lowly Illinois 35-6 Saturday.

The triumph apparently gained Wisconsin a Rose Bowl bid, even though the Big Ten season will not close until next Saturday.

Holland, 5-feet-10, 180-pound junior, produced three first-quarter touchdowns on his first four plays of the game as the Badgers hiked their Big Ten record to 5-1 and their over-all mark to 7-1.

The Badgers, who were brilliantly led by quarterback Ron VanderKelen, on this bleak, dreary dad's day at Illinois, set the stage for a clinching Big Ten title finale against Minnesota next Saturday at Madison, Wis. In view of Minnesota's 7-6 conquest of Purdue Saturday, plus the fact the Gophers are ineligible for a Rose Bowl bid, the Badgers apparently nailed down a Pasadena post-season trip.

HOLLAND scored on scrimmage runs of 35, 18 and 15 yards and speared a 16-yard scoring pass from VanderKelen in his remarkable performance.

Illinois, which had scored a resounding upset of Purdue two weeks ago, scored its only touchdown with 34 seconds remaining in the first half, and then on a fluke play.

After Wisconsin had surged to a 28-0 lead, the Illini counted on a 13-yard pass from Mike Taliaferro which was deflected on the goal line by Badger defender John Fabry into the hands of Illini halfback Trenton Jackson for a touchdown.

The second half became a lackluster struggle, almost resembling a weekday scrimmage, in which the only touchdown came on Holland's 35-yard run in the third quarter.

Holland's four touchdowns was one shy of the five scored in one game by Illinois' immortal Harold (Red) Grange in the epic 1924 Illinois-Michigan game.

NEBRASKA SLIPS BY OKLA. ST.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska hammered out touchdowns in the first two times it got the ball and then held on for a 14-0 football win over Oklahoma State Saturday to keep its Big Eight title hopes alive.

Penalties and miscues prevented the Huskers from cashing in on other scoring opportunities.

The win leaves Nebraska with an over-all 8-1 mark—5-1 in conference play. The Huskers' chance for a trip to the Orange Bowl now rests on the outcome of the season finale against Oklahoma.

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—Michigan State exploded Northwestern's shimmering dream of a Big Ten championship and a Rose Bowl berth Saturday, staging a tremendous defensive effort to earn a 31-7 triumph over the nation's seventh-ranked team.

The Spartan victory ended Northwestern's Big Ten season with a 4-2 slate without a chance for even the title or a finish high enough for a Rose Bowl nod.

It was a dismal finish for the Wildcats, who won their first six games and became the nation's No. 1 team and the national leader on offense for a while. Michigan State shut off Northwestern's strongest point, its passing, and then clamped down on the rushing game.

* * * *

THE WILDCATS' ace passer, Tom Myers, was thrown seven times for losses totaling 48 yards while trying to throw. He completed only eight of 25 passes for a measly 47 yards. Even worse, two of his throws were intercepted by Herman Johnson and returned 51 yards. One of the interceptions set up a 1-yard touchdown plunge by the Spartans' George Saimes.

Northwestern's running game was restricted to only 39 yards, for a total offense of 130 yards. And Michigan State, despite losing the ball four times on fumbles, had the power when it counted.

END LONG JINX, 28-14

Hawkeyes Strike Late to Subdue Wolverines

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Iowa quarterback Matt Szykowny rifled a 47-yard touchdown pass to Sammie Harris with only 2 minutes, 43 seconds left Saturday to power the Hawkeyes to a jinx-ending 28-14 win over Michigan.

The Hawkeyes added another touchdown with only 45 seconds left to wrap up the Big Ten victory in their final home appearance of the year. It was only Iowa's third win over Michigan since 1924 and marked the first time Iowa had beaten Michigan on the Hawkeye field in the 22-game series which spanned 26 years.

Harris' climatic touchdown was his first of the season. He took the ball on the 3-yard line and narrowly missed stepping over the sideline as he ran into the end zone.

Iowa slammed the door shut on Michigan's hopes a few moments later when guard Earl McQuiston intercepted a Wolverine pass on the Michigan 27. With only 45 seconds left, reserve quarterback Bob Wallace hit Dick Turici with a 4-yard pass to even the Hawks' Big Ten record at 3-3 and an overall record of 4-4 for the season.

Both teams showed plenty of offensive punch in the first half as they traded touchdowns with long plays highlighting the scoring drives.

HAWKEYE RAMS FOR 11

Iowa halfback Larry Ferguson barrels through Michigan defenders for 11 yards in early moments of Saturday's game. Wolverine fullback Harvey Chapman (46) slows down Ferguson.

IOWA STATE GLIDES PAST HAPLESS KSU

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Tom Vaughn, a speed merchant wrapped up in a compact 5-11, 195-pound bundle, shattered Kansas State's defenses Saturday with three touchdowns and led Iowa State to a 28-14 Big Eight conference victory.

A sparse Homecoming crowd of 9,500 had scarcely settled under their blankets on this chill, gray day, when Vaughn collected his first six-pointer. He took the opening kickoff on his 13 and went 87 yards up the middle. His solo burst counted only eight seconds on the stadium clock.

4TH STRAIGHT SHUTOUT

Oklahoma Puts Muzzle on Speedy Tigers, 13-0

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners, reborn giants of the Midlands, cracked through sixth-ranked Missouri's vaunted defense for touchdowns at the start of each half Saturday for a 13-0 win over the Tigers.

The victory was Oklahoma's fifth in a row in Big Eight Conference play and put the Sooners in sole possession of the conference lead and allowed them to take a big stride toward becoming the conference's representative in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day.

Missouri suffered its first defeat; Nebraska also has lost only one conference game and the Sooners must beat the Cornhuskers next week to take the conference crown.

Oklahoma's defense stopped Missouri's rushing attack, best in the nation until Saturday, as cold as the wet 40-degree day.

It was the Sooners' fourth straight shutout.

Oklahoma's Jim Don Looney brought the opening kickoff back 40 yards to the Oklahoma 44. On the second play quarterback Monte Deere flipped a screen pass to halfback Virgil Boll who scampered 42 yards behind fine blocking to the Missouri nine-yard line. Looney took it over from the three after Deere picked up six yards on a pair of keepers.

Butch Metcalf's kick made it 7-0 with only 2½ minutes gone.

A big play also set the Sooners on the way to their second score. After taking the ball on the 20, fullback Jim Grisham slashed 30 yards up the middle and from that point the Sooners ground out the remaining yardage on power plays through the line.

Missouri, which had average 287.6 yards a game, could not get started against Oklahoma's tremendous defenses which repeatedly forced the Tigers into mistakes. Missouri, with star runner Johnny Roland bottled up throughout the game, managed only 111 yards on the ground and threatened only twice.

Roland, who was among the nation's leaders in individual rushing, was held to only nine yards by the alert, hard-charging Oklahoma line and his two fumbles halted both Missouri threats.

Missouri did not get a first down rushing until the fourth quarter. Its deepest penetration was to the Oklahoma 16 in the second quarter after Jerry Wallach had picked off a Paul Lea fumble. But Lea returned the favor by recovering a Roland fumble on the 16. Two plays later Sweat was killed on the 17 when Roland fumbled trying to pass.

TIDE TURNED BY GA. TECH, 7-6

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech used a new shotgun offense and old reliable fullback Mike McNames Saturday to upset top-ranked Alabama, 7-6, and hand the defending national champions their first football defeat in 27 games.

McNames, a 196-pound senior, intercepted a pass in the second period and raced 26 yards to the Alabama 14. Two plays later he went nine yards for a touchdown. And in the fourth period, his jarring tackle thwarted a two-point conversion try when Alabama went for broke after its touchdown and wound up a state of defeat.

Alabama charged back furiously in a last-minute drive and reached the Tech 14, but defensive specialist Don Toner intercepted a deflected pass with 39 seconds left to play and sealed the tremendous upset.

Tech employed a shotgun offense for the first time this year, and it enabled the Yellow Jackets to control the ball in the first two quarters, indirectly setting up their winning touchdown.

Passes	4-10	14-38
Passes intercepted by	4	1

Tech backed Alabama into its territory, and McNames intercepted sophomore quarterback Joe Namath's pass at the 40 to set up the killing score.

Alabama's touchdown in the final six minutes came after Tech quarterback Billy Lothridge fumbled a snap from center on fourth down while back to punt. He got the kick off, but an official ruled his knee touched the ground at the Tech 9. Alabama took it over in four plays with halfback Cotton Clark scoring his 14th touchdown of the season from the 2.

Alabama refused to go for a tie. Hurlbut sped to the right behind a convoy of blockers for a two-point conversion try, but McNames, assisted by tackle Ed Griffin, met him at the 1 with a crushing tackle.

The loss, Alabama's first since Tennessee beat the Crimson Tide early in 1960, may have affected Alabama's chance of going to the Orange Bowl, but this was not certain.

It was certain, however, that Tech would get a bowl plum as an upset reward.

Cassius Warns Sonny, 'Don't Pop Off!'

Cassius Clay is now being called the "Prophet of Doom" for heavyweight fighters because of his uncanny ability to name the exact round he'll dispose of his opponents.

As you know by now, he did it again Thursday. He said Archie Moore would fall in four . . . and he did.

After the fight, he told heavyweight champion Sonny Liston that he was next. "Man, you've got to fall in eight," he told the champ.

He also listed "time limits" on some of the other heavyweights. "Floyd Patterson would go in two, Ingemar Johansson in three and Cleveland Williams in five," declared the Louisville Lip.

CASSIUS CLAY
'The Lip' in Action

Clay and Liston engaged in a running verbal duel that started at ringside and continued at a dinner later in the evening.

At the dinner, Liston stepped to the microphone and said "I just hope I can last as long as Moore."

This, of course, drew a big laugh from Cassius. Liston quickly turned to him and said . . . "and by that I mean in my career. As for you, Cassius, I can say this: you may not last as long as Patterson."

Clay, naturally, had the last word. "If Sonny keeps popping off like that he'll be leaving in six!"

After Clay's tremendous victory over Moore, boxing men and the public as well are bound to take the youngster more seriously when he names the round after this.

HE GAVE MOORE A BRUTAL beating. Archie revealed that he was so dizzy from the scores of blows to the head that he stood up after the second and third rounds because "I was afraid I wouldn't be able to get up if I sat down."

Archie didn't land one effective punch. In the meantime, he has never taken so many clean punches to the head. Not even Rocky Marciano or Floyd Patterson worked him over as thoroughly in his two cracks at the heavyweight title.

Turning serious for a moment after the fight, Clay revealed, "I hated to beat up the old man, but he's a ranked fighter and I had to use him for a stepping stone to the championship."

Moore didn't go with one punch . . . but from the combination of well over 100 blows to the head.

Clay twice buckled his knees in the first round, had him rocky three times in the second and on the verge of going out through most of the third heat before putting him away in convincing style in the fourth.

WHAT NEXT FOR CLAY? Johansson appears to be the most likely opponent if the Swede will agree to terms after settling his income tax troubles with Uncle Sam. The bout would be held shortly after the first of the year in Miami.

If Johansson is unavailable, Clay might try Billy Daniels, one of his earlier victims, a second time.

Then Liston. Would he be ready for the champ? Archie thinks so. Then, too, just how good is Sonny? His one-round knockout of Patterson didn't prove much, especially after some real bums have made him look bad in previous fights.

Liston, meanwhile, expressed some doubt that a return match with Patterson would ever come off.

Sonny made a hit with the Southland press in several interviews Thursday during which he showed surprising poise and quite a sense of humor.

ASKED IF HE'D HEARD FROM Patterson recently, he quipped "No, I think he's still out."

But he seriously said that he wants to fight four or five times a year regardless of taxes and that if Patterson continues to "sit still" about arrangements for a return bout he would sign for another fight.

Big hassle over the return match concerns the site and the promoters. "Patterson wants the same promoters as the last time," Sonny said. "But why them? We haven't been paid off yet. Let's try someone else."

Also Patterson wants to fight in New York where Sonny presently is barred. "I won't go into New York now," he declared, "unless they gives me New York."

Someone cracked that for all the public cared, they could stage the fight in a telephone booth.

And Sonny left them laughing when he asked, "Do you think we'd fill it?"

Floyd Wants Sonny First, Clay to Wait

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson said Saturday he was not interested in a fight with Cassius Clay until after he has his return title fight with champion Sonny Liston.

"I lost my title to Liston in Chicago," Patterson said, "and I want that title back. The only way I can get it is to fight Liston again."

After he recaptures the crown, Patterson said, he then might be interested in a defense against Clay, the 20-year-old youngster who gained national stature when he knocked out Archie Moore in four rounds at Los Angeles last Thursday.

Patterson made his remarks in reply to an announcement Friday by Harry Markson, managing director of boxing at Madison Square Garden, that he was opening negotiations for a Patterson - Clay heavyweight challengers' fight at the Garden in January. According to Markson, the winner of that fight would then meet Liston for the title at Yankee Stadium in June.

'I'LL TAKE CLAY IN 4'

"The Lip" has been challenged by "The Voice."

Chuck Medick, the telephone voice of the Independent, Press - Telegram sports department would like to meet Cassius Clay in a talkathon to the finish.

Declares Medick: "He will fall in four," — four hours.

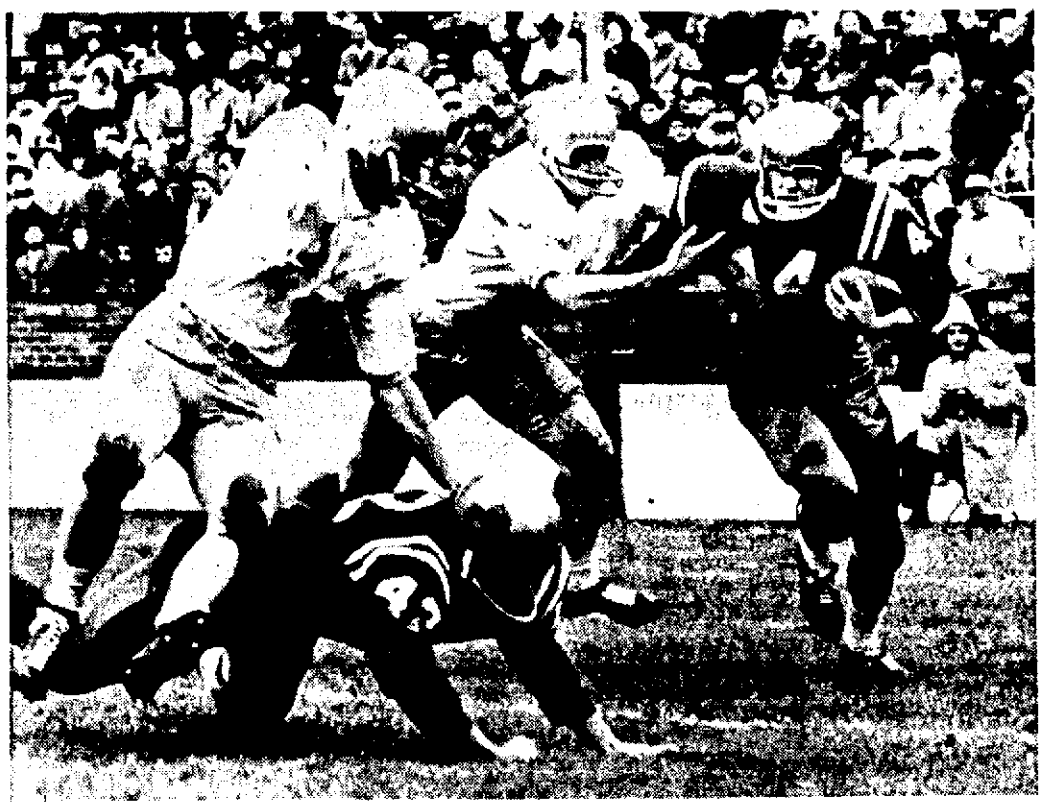

And Chuck adds: "I can also write better poetry than he," and offers as proof:

By CHUCK MEDICK

Cassius, you're the greatest,
That's what the fight fans say,
And lots of folks in this old town
Are with you all the way.

But don't go making Sonny mad,
Just leave that boy alone;
For Sonny's mean and big and tough
And has a heart of stone.

You better take a long, long rest
We'll see you if and when;
Cause if that Liston fist connects,
You won't be back again.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Three last-half touchdowns Saturday and a 21-7 interpair by junior halfback Tom MacDonald, launched sophomore-geared Notre Dame to sectional football conquest of North Carolina.

Three pass interceptions, a fumble recovery and a blocked punt (from Calif., and former Pius X prep star) in all filched three of quarterback Junior Edge's aerials to total eight for the season and match a Notre Dame record set in 1942 by Angelo Bertelli.

The Irish, gaining their third straight victory to square their record at 4-4, lagged 7-0 at half time then scored twice within three minutes during the third quarter.

MacDONALD'S banditry of a pass on the Tar Heels' 42 touched off a scoring drive in eight plays. Sophomore fullback Joe Farrell's 16-yard blast and Daryle Lamonica's 9-yard pass to Jim Kelly set it up. Farrell drilled over from the 1 and Ed Rutkowski hooted the first of his three extra points.

Three minutes later Farrell scored again from the 6 after MacDonald stole another edge aerial and returned it 23 yards to the 8.

Texas Overcomes Frogs, Near Title

FORT WORTH (AP)—Clutch runs by Jerry Cook and costly Texas Christian penalties carried Texas to a 14-0 triumph and within a half-game of the Cotton Bowl Saturday.

Undefeated Texas, with a 5-0-1 record, now can tie Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day and clinch the Cotton Bowl spot. It can win the Southwest Conference championship with a victory.

Paying no heed to a muddy field the Texas defense kept TCU inside its 32-yard line the first two periods, inside its 34 the next and only in the final quarter could the weary Frogs get as far as their 40.

Cook's 19-yard run and a pass interference penalty that set the ball on the TCU 3 gave Texas its first touchdown.

The other Texas touchdown came in the final period with a 12-yard run by Cook getting to the TCU 19 and then a personal foul put the ball on the TCU eight. Tom Wade pitched out to Ray Poage who ran around right end.

Razorbacks Rally, 9-7

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Arkansas Razorbacks scrambled for a touchdown and a field goal in the fourth quarter and beat battling Southern Methodist, 9-7, Saturday to keep alive their chances for a Southwest Conference title and a bowl bid.

But the real Porker hero was guard Mike Hales, who broke through and broke an SMU field goal attempt with one minute left. It was a third down try from the 17 by John Richey.

Rebels Stumble Over Tough Vols

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Louis Guy's 100-yard runback of a pass interception killed Tennesse's hopes for a tie Saturday and Mississippi rolled toward its first perfect football season in 70 years with a 19-6 victory.

The bruising game, played on a rain-soaked field, erupted into a swinging free-for-all late in the fourth quarter after Tennessee scored its lone touchdown on a 16-yard pass from Bobby Morton to John Hudson.

Ole Miss, the nation's third-ranked team, was ahead 7-0 in the 3rd period when Guy grabbed Mallon Faircloth's pass in the end zone and outran a horde of Vols for the score.

Tennessee was on the Rebel 4 at the time and making a strong bid to score and possibly tie the game.

Only Mississippi State, a bitter intra-state rival, stands between Ole Miss and its first unblemished season since it began inter-collegiate competition in 1893.

Mississippi's triumph, coupled with Georgia Tech's 7-6 victory over top-ranked Alabama, virtually assured the Rebels of the Southeastern Conference championship.

YALE (GOSH!) 'STEALS' TD, BUT BEATEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., (AP)—Princeton had to come from behind Saturday to whip Yale, 14-10, in their 85th meeting, but it developed later that Yale had scored an illegal touchdown.

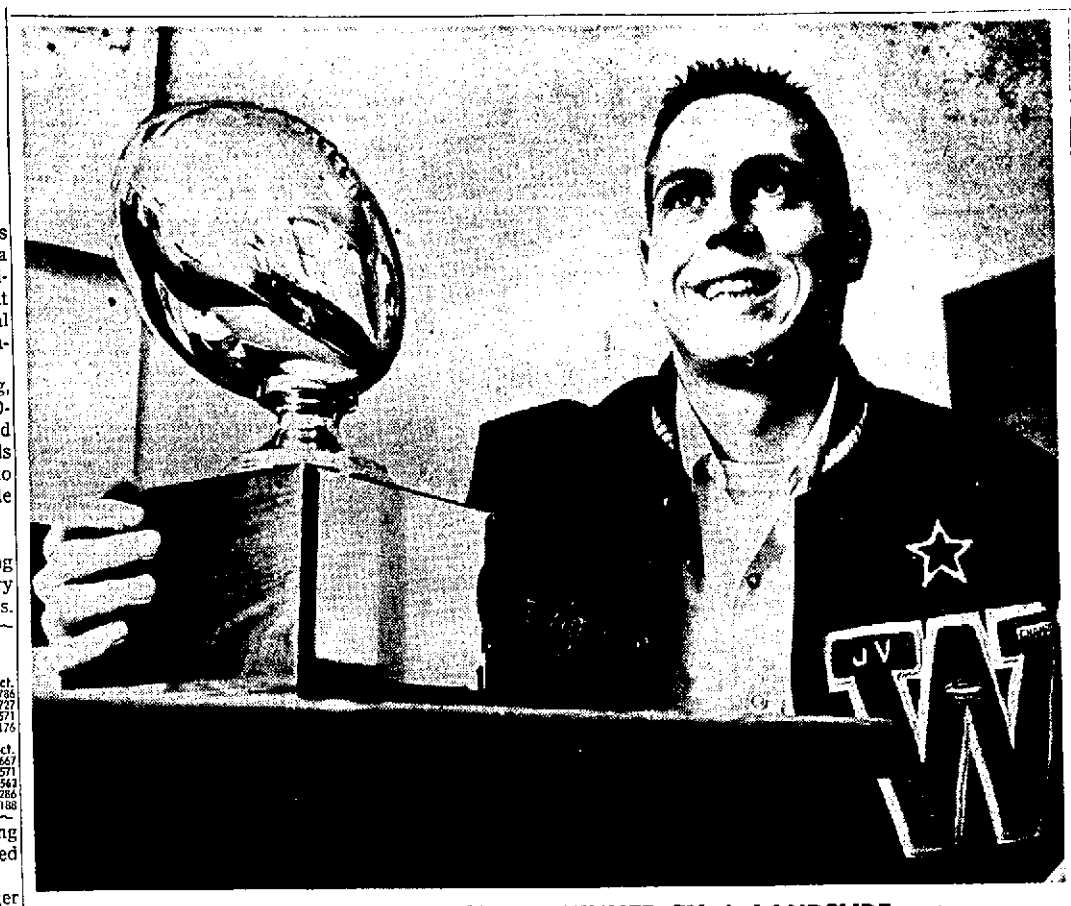

All four officials failed to notice that the pass that accounted for Yale's lone touchdown was caught by quarterback Ed McCarthy. Princeton did not protest the play.

The passer was fullback Pete Cummings, who threw in desperation just as he was being hit on a sweep. Poorly aimed, the ball went toward McCarthy in the end zone and the quarterback pulled it in.

After the game, Yale coach Jordan Olivar conceded the touchdown was illegal.

CRAIG VESTERMARK . . . WINNER BY A LANDSLIDE

WILSON QB IS MOST POPULAR PREP GRID

Wilson High quarterback Craig Vestermark is the most popular prep football player in Long Beach—at least 5,921 people think so.

That's how many votes the crew-cut senior amassed in the recently conducted "Most Popular Prep" contest, sponsored by the Independent, Press-Telegram.

His vote total was only a few hundred shy of the most ever polled. The margin of victory for the Bruin passing whiz was slightly under 2,000.

Vestermark received a foot-high trophy, with a gold-laden football mounted on it and his name inscribed on the base.

Panther Defense Stymies Cadets

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fullback Rick Leeson's extra point placement was the slender margin of victory Saturday as Pitt's underdog Panthers, humbled by Navy, rose up to defeat Army, 7-6, in a fierce defensive battle at Yankee Stadium.

Pitt capitalized on a second-quarter Army fumble on the Cadet 15, was helped by a five-yard penalty and then sent Bob Roeder blasting over from the four to set up Leeson's ultimately winning kick before a crowd of 23,917 chilled spectators.

Army went 32 yards for its score in the third period after a 10-yard runback by Dick Waldrop, with Joe Blackgrove ramming over tackle from the three. But an Army gamble for victory failed when Cammy Lewis was dropped while attempting a two-point run.

Much of the balance of victory was contributed, however, by Pitt punter Pete Billey. Once he bailed Pitt out with a 63-yard kick from his own five-yard line and his precision punting was a factor in keeping off Army throughout a chilled, dreary afternoon.

The once-beaten Nittany Lions were mulling bids from the Cotton, Sugar, Gotham and Liberty Bowls.

The 48 points was Penn State's biggest total since the 1959 rout of Colgate. It was the Lions' eighth straight over Holy Cross.

Orange Buries G. Washington

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse demonstrated that the best offense was a good defense Saturday as hard-charging Orange linemen spearheaded their team to a 35-0 victory over George Washington of the Southern Conference.

Three Syracuse tallies were set up by pass interceptions that were prompted by Syracuse harrassment of Colonial passers. Another Syracuse score came on a sensational 59-yard punt return by John Mackey, a halfback converted from end a week ago with brilliant results.

Baylor Pass Play Trims Air Force

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—Baylor stole an Air Force pass, turned it into a 21-yard touchdown aerial, then fought off the Airmen for a 10-3 football victory on slippery, snow-trimmed Falcon Stadium today.

On a 3rd-and-nine down, quarterback Don Trull passed down the middle to halfback Lawrence Elkins for a 21-yard touchdown strike.

Taking possession of the ball on his 48 with only 30 seconds left in the half, Trull connected on successive 17-yard passes to set up a 34-yard field goal by Carl Choate to give Baylor a 10-0 halftime lead.

A bitter 10-mile-an-hour wind and 25-degree cloudy weather chilled both teams and blew away Air Force's post-season bowl hopes.

Baylor's second victory in eight games left Air Force with a poor 4-5 record.

Halfback Kelly Roberts, a 168-pound offensive and defensive workhorse for the Texans, grabbed Air Force quarterback Terry Isaacson's second down pass and ran back to the Falcon 22 to pave the way for Baylor's second quarter touchdown.

New-Look Rams Underdog to Revenge-Bent S.F. Today

By JERRY WYNN

The Rams will seek to clinch the National Football League Championship (of California) when they engage the San Francisco 49ers at the Coliseum today.

A crowd of 45,000 is expected to see the defenses downgraded and the end zones unlocked when these old rivals tear it to each other starting at 1:35 p.m.

After scoring five points in two games while limiting the Lions and Colts to 26, the Rams are seething at their offensive bit and should benefit from a major lineup overhauling by coach Harland Svare.

The 49ers, burning to revenge the 28-14 defeat by the Rams at San Francisco three weeks ago, also are overdue for an explosion from their potentially high scoring attack. They gave indication of this by tallying 21 points against the Lions last week.

Despite the setback to the Rams and a four-game losing streak, San Francisco is a 2½-point favorite.

The old plea of the vendors "you can't tell the players without a program" will ring true for the Rams today as Svare will field an offensive lineup with seven position changes.

WYNN'S WINNER
49ers 34, Rams 31

Most important, Ron Miller will start at quarterback and the exciting rookie from Wisconsin seems certain to add life, if not touchdowns, to the impotent Ram offense.

One of Miller's passing targets will be Jon Arnett, converted to end from halfback. Dick Bass will run from left half, and rookie Art Perkins and old Ollie Matson will share duty at fullback.

The line also has been revamped with rookie Joe Carollo and veterans Duane Putnam and Les Richter receiving starting berths.

The 49ers will miss their all-pro offensive tackle, Bob St. Clair, out for the season with a knee injury.

This will be the final home game for the Rams until Dec. 16, when they host Green Bay in season's finale.

COME OUT, HANK, WHEREVER YOU ARE!

held an astonishing 6-0 lead with almost 50 minutes yet to play!

The Trojans dented the scoreboard five minutes into the second quarter on a 75-yard drive that consumed nine plays. The bread-and-butter plays were three Pete Beathard-to-Hal Bedsole passes that ate up 59 yards.

THE FIRST B & B excursion was good for 30 yards and shot USC into Navy territory—the Middies' 37. Three plays later, Beathard caught Bedsole again for 22 yards and a first down on Navy's 14. Pete had a four-leaf clover on this one as he was rushed hard and simply flipped the pigskin in the direction of the glue-fingered Bedsole.

Hal had to double back for the ball and when he nailed it, he got nailed himself by a horde of Navy defenders. Trojan rooters' hearts were in their throats as their All-America end came up limping.

Bedsole's injury was short-lived, however, as three plays later he was on the receiving end of Beathard's third pass during the drive — this one covering seven yards into Hal's hands in the Middie end zone.

Bedsole caught the pass in front of Navy halfback Ray Snyder, from Long Beach's Millikan High, but no collegian in the country could have stopped this touchdown. Bedsole bent low in front of Snyder and caught Beathard's whistling line drive almost off his shoe tips.

TONY LUPO added the conversion and the Trojans were back in business, 7-6.

Navy almost scored again before the intermission when it recovered a Bill Nelsen fumble on its own 49 and marched to the USC 3. On fourth down, Dave Sjuggerud's field goal attempt from the 3 went wide.

The Trojans' winning touchdown was set up by a major piece of fortune. Instead of losing the ball after an Ernie Jones punt, the Trojans regained possession 3:50 after the third quarter began when a Middie was detected roughing-up Mr. Jones.

On the next play, Willie the Wisp Brown took a reverse up the middle, cut down the north sideline and skittered 56 yards to pay dirt.

Willie's brilliant dash was aided magnificently by teammate Del Conte, who felled two Middies with a crunching block.

THIS TIME Lupo's attempted conversion also went wide—and that's all she wrote scoring-wise!

But the phenomenal Mr. Staubach wasn't finished yet by any means. Early in the final period, Roger moved his sailors to the Trojan 25, but halfback John Sal fumbled there and Troy's Marv Marinovich recovered.

Beathard gave Mr. Staubach another opportunity six plays later when he fumbled and Navy recovered on USC's 43. Staubach ran for 15, then passed to ex-St. Anthony star Ed Merino for another 16. Donnelly ploughed through tackle for eight more and the Middies had the ball on second down at Troy's 5-yard line.

On the next play, Donnelly seemed to go actually into USC's end zone but came a cropper with the aforementioned fumble, recovered by the alert Potter.

FUMBLES were the order of the afternoon, USC bobbling five times (losing four) and Navy fumbling four times (losing three).

"It was a game of miracles," commented Trojan coach John McKay, "but they evened up. It was a miracle they fumbled in the end zone. But it was a miracle they had the opportunity in the first place.

"This was probably our worst game of the season. But you have to give some credit to Navy for our poor showing. We expected a letdown, but we tackled poorly. Staubach looked like Red Grange out there."

Hardin didn't gripe about Donnelly's tragic play, although some spectators thought the fullback did go into the end zone before fumbling. (If he had fumbled after crossing the goal line, the touchdown would have counted.)

McKay summed up the game in his usual brilliant fashion by concluding:

"Navy is as good as anyone we've played. Possibly we were looking ahead to UCLA next week. But, gentlemen, please list that final score at the end of your story after you go through all our mistakes."

Final score: USC 13, Navy 6!

49er Win Sweetest Ever; Outlook Promising for '63

By AL LARSON

It's a shame 7,100 fans saw Long Beach State drop its opener 39-0 and only 2,993 loyal patrons turn out for the finale when the 49ers bowled over Cal Poly of Pomona in the season's biggest upset.

The 49ers lost four of their first five games, then did a turnabout by racking up four victories in their final five contests.

Friday night's 14-7 triumph over the previously unbeaten and untied Broncos from Pomona must rate as the sweetest victory in coach Don Reed's career. There's only one more, yet to be achieved, that could be sweeter. We'll let you guess which one that could be.

What about these amazing 49ers, who knocked off the nation's 13th ranked small college football power? Nine seniors, including co-captains John Reed and Gene Farrell, PAT kicker-deluxe Tom Turrill, punter Tom Fitzel, Mike Sweeney, Roger Zink, Casey Stangel, Paul Quisenberry, Mike Mattox and Gene Williams, closed out their careers in spectacular fashion.

The loss of this collection of beef, brain-power and experience will be keenly felt next season.

Next question. Will there be enough returning manpower to absorb the loss of graduating players? If so, what are the chances of the 49ers finishing higher in CCAA competition than this year? They wound up third with a 2-3 record.

Don Montgomery, the conference's second-leading pass receiver, and Joe Costanza, 175 pounds of dynamite at guard, will head a small but select band of returning juniors in the line. Others include Leo Austin, Rex Burrell, Darryl Wright, Don Crosby and Dick Parks.

Backs with another year's eligibility include Wayne Mickaelian, Jim White, Dave Shirley, Hank Edney, Curt Bennett and Bruce Hichman.

The heralded crop of sophomores features Dee Andrews, Chuck Anderson, Marty Johnson, Don Reed, Dwaine Robison and Rick Lussier.

In the end, if Long Beach State's sophs and juniors make normal progress and the 49ers land some key JC transfers, coach Reed should be able to cut into that first-half season drought. If so, beware Fresno and San Diego State.

Horn, Spivey Spark Chiefs Over Steers

half opened. He netted eight straight free throws and a field goal in the next eight minutes to pace the Chiefs to a 72-66 margin.

The hero in the stretch drive was Wilkinson, who joined the Chiefs only four days ago. The former Indiana all-America pushed home 12 of his 16-point total in the game's final seven minutes.

THE CLOSEST Kansas City got to L.B. in the second half was 96-93 in the last four minutes. Warley, at this juncture, killed off the Steers' late bid with his final 3-pointer.

The victory was a big one for the Chiefs as the Steers had won their first two games and were considered the class of the league. The leading Steer scorer was all-ABL vet-eran Bill Bridges with 21 points.

The commissioner, Abe Saperstein, was present and marvelled at the arena. "It is without doubt one of the very finest arenas for sports in the entire United States."

Los Alamitos Opens Meet on Monday

A double feature Monday will kick off what looks to be one of the greatest meetings in the history of the Los Alamitos Race Course.

The 30-day fall meeting, which runs through Dec. 22, will open with two stakes events—the $5,000 Bardella for 2-year-olds and the $5,000 Clabbertown G. Stakes for older horses.

The two main events top a nine-race program and are luring the top juveniles and older horses out of their barns. The Clabbertown G., the eigth race, has a classy field composed of Capridcck, Miss Jet Deck, Rebel Cause, Fly Straw, Alamitos Bar, Arizonan, Connie Reba, Vandy's Flash, and No Butt.

* * * *

DURING the meeting a nine-race program will be held daily except Sunday. Post time for the first race will be 1 p.m. on weekdays and 12:45 p.m. on Saturdays. Daily double wagering windows will close five minutes before first post time.

The highlight of this fall meeting will be the running of one of the richest races ever run in California, the $200,000 added Los Alamitos Futurity. It will be contested Saturday, Dec. 15.

TWO STARS are returning to the track after spending the spring at stud duty—Milo and C. G. Whitcomb's great Tonto Bars Hank and his arch-rival Dale Robertson's Rebel Cause.

Vandy's Flash, Brea Del Mar Ranch gelding which startled the quarterhorse world two years ago by running 350 yards in 17.5 seconds to set a record which still stands, is also back to challenge the young upstarts who have dominated racing while he was heeling an injury at Bob Grant's Escondido ranch.

Yachts Embark on Mazatlan Journey

A fleet of 30 of the West's sleekest sailing vessels Saturday embarked on the second Los Angeles-to-Mazatlan yacht race.

Skippers and crews aboard the vessels were greeted by excellent sailing weather as they pulled out of the harbor and headed for open seas. Skies were clear with the wind blowing from the North-Northwest 8 to 10 knots.

Pinky Shot Back After Firing 67

Charlie Sifford has a total of 137. A sizzling 31-33—64 by black-haired Jimmy Powell, a Texan who registers from Chino, advanced him into the 137 bracket also.

SCORES of tournament favorites included defending champion Jimmy Clark, 69-70—139; former national PGA champion Jerry Barber, 68-72—140; and ex-U.S. Open titlist Jack Fleck, 69-71—143.

SU MAC LAD LATE SCRATCH

Duke Rodney Winner

By ERNIE MASON

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Digennaro's Duke Rodney flashed to victory in the $50,000 American Trotting Classic as Western Harness Racing Association closed out the most successful meeting in its history Saturday.

Duke Rodney held off Silver Song and Rodare to win the 1⅛ mile event by a neck in the time of 2:15 2/5. This was only two-fifths of a second off the track record of 2:15 set in 1960 by Great Lullwater.

Duke Rodney went off as the 9-5 favorite in the race when Su Mac Lad was scratched after the all-time money winning champion failed to warm up properly about an hour before the race. Driver Stanley Dancer stated that Su Mac Lad might have a cracked bone in his right front.

* * * *

THE LARGEST crowd of the meeting — 19,557 — saw Duke Rodney defeat Silver Song by a neck, with Rodare another head back for third.

Duke Rodney paid $5.80, $3 and $2.60 across the board, while Silver Song returned $3.20 and $2.80. The show price on Rodare was $4.

Jim Dennis and Jimmy Cruise each wound up the day with a winner to remain in a tie for the driver championship. Both finished with 21 winners.

The meeting was 5.8 per cent over the 1961 season in attendance and showed an increase of 10.4 per cent over last year in handle. The daily handle average of $820,162 established a new WHRA record.

Saturday's handle of $1,432,699 also was an all-time high, while the crowd of 19,557 ranks as the sixth in Western Harness history.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sensitivo, an Argentine-bred 5-year-old, struck from behind in the stretch Saturday and won the $88,850 Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqueduct for the most important victory of his career.

Under Manuel Ycaza's well-judged ride, the son of Sideral-Ternura got up in the final strides to pick up the purse of $57,752.50 for Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bensinger.

At the end of the 1⅛ miles he was a mere head in front of Sunrise Flight. Sensitivo ran the distance in 2:42 1/5 and paid $13.40, $7.20 and $4.50 for his fifth victory in 17 starts this year, most of them in the Chicago area. Sunrise Flight, a member of the mutuel betting field, returned $6.00 and $4.80 and Hellenic Hero $8.00 to show.

AGUA CALIENTE (UPI)— Two cow-milking brothers from Tijuana, Mexico, won a total of $54,911.60 on a single $2 ticket in the 5-10 handicapping contest at Caliente race track.

The large payoff was paid to Jose Martinez, 33, a father of seven, and his brother, David, 22, unmarried.

SAN MATEO (AP) — Pine Creek Ranch's Steve Hill, the longshot in a field of nine, survived a foul claim and won an upset victory in the 10,000-added Burlingame Stakes at Bay Meadows.

Steve Hill paid $121.80, $39.80 and $15.20. Mr. Thong returned $9.20 and $5.20 and third-place Texas Bloc $6.60.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Good Record for Small Lake

The Escondido Mutual Water Company, which controls fishing on Wohlford Lake, five miles from Escondido, has released some amazing figures on fish catches for the 1962 season, now that all fishing at Wohlford is ended until next spring.

The figures prove that the put-and-take-and-pay plan really helps Californians who consider fishing their main outdoor recreation. This columnist has said before—and repeats it now—Southern California must have more of the same if our children and their offspring are to remember fishing as a way of having fun.

Wohlford had 165 days of angling and a total catch of 83,436 fish. Broken down by species, it went like this: 23,439 trout, 39,860 crappie, 4,092 bass, 12,996 bluegill, 1,598 channel catfish and 1,451 bullhead catfish.

Average daily catch was 506 fish with 11.5 fish to the boat. Sizes went like this: 60 precent of the trout ran three to the pound, 40 percent 1 to 4 pounds; crappie, six to the pound; bass, 1 to 4 pounds; bluegill, 2 or 3 to the pound; channels, 3¾ pounds average, some going to 8 and 9 pounds; bullheads, 10-inchers, some going about a pound.

Wohlford plants its trout and keeps careful control on other species.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—The Southern California Tuna Club, which normally meets every Thursday in its own room at the Lafayette Hotel, shifted to the Long Beach-Dominguez Gun Club last week for its annual trapshoot.

Forty-four ate a catered lunch and enjoyed a long afternoon of shooting. Dr. Floyd Todd won the trapshoot event, Art Macrate the skeet and Russell Pray was top man in the difficult duck-tower shoot. Art Macrate was the day's high scorer.

Committee chairman Carer Boswell was assisted by Elmer Decker, Vern Williams, Bert Paul, Herbert Adams and Art Macrate.

If you are not involved with too much family on Thanksgiving Day and want a bit of relaxation, try the traps, skeet or duck tower at the club, which is situated on Artesia Boulevard just off Central Avenue. Bob and Dorothy Davidson, who own and operate LBDGC, are calling it a shooters' holiday. Events start at 9:30 a.m.

Charles Breese, Frank Poarch and Frank Tallant hunted Thursday at Carl Mills' Preserve south of Bakersfield and returned to Long Beach with several braces of pheasants. They reported ideal hunting conditions and perfect dog work. Mills is famed throughout San Joaquin Valley for his wonderful dogs.

PHEASANT SHOOTING IN THE WILD, if you'd care to call it that, continued on a rather sparse basis after a fair to excellent opening. The season ends at one-half hour after sunset next Sunday, with the exception of Imperial County and part of Riverside County, where you may try through Dec. 9.

Pheasants in Imperial and Riverside Counties were planted birds and most of those ringnecks fell prey to hunters or predators almost immediately.

If you want to hunt that area, please don't do what a few nimrods tried in Imperial County. They tramped through irrigated fields, dragging heavy ropes between them in an effort to flush out the birds. Naturally, the farmers didn't like it. Would you? And still some men who delight in calling themselves "sportsmen" wonder why the hunter-farmer relations can't be improved.

If you wish to help such relations, do what several San Bernardino hunters did last weekend. The men, all members of the Inland Fish and Game Conservation Association, devoted two days to cleaning up litter in the Fobes, Wellman and Garner ranches of the San Jacinto-Santa Rosa area. They did the same thing last year and were invited to hunt deer in 1962. No doubt, they'll get an invitation in 1963.

DOVER PUBLICATIONS, INC., 180 Varick St., New York 14, N. Y., is putting some of the nation's top nature books into paper-back volumes. I had a look at the first releases last week and found the printing and binding extraordinary for a paper-back series.

The initial volumes were "Manual of the Trees of North America," in two volumes ($4), by Charles Sprague Sargent; "American Wildlife and Plants; a Guide to Wildlife Food Habits, ($2), by Alexander C. Martin, Herbert S. Zim and Arnold L. Nelson; "Birds and Their Attributes" ($1.85), by Glover M. Allen; "Common Spiders" ($1.35), by H. Emerton, and "Life Story of the Fish" ($1.50), by Brian Curtis.

You can easily guess which book I started first—"Life Story of the Fish"—and it's extremely interesting

Doubleday & Company, Inc., 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N. Y., put three first-edition, large-size, paperback volumes on the market last week.

Those were "The Trout Fisherman's Bible," by Dan Holland; "The Salt-Water Fisherman's Bible," by Erwin A. Bauer, and "The Varmint and Crow Hunter's Bible," by Bert Popowski. Each sells at $1.95 and the writers are among the world's most famous in the outdoor field.

CLASSIC CORD LINES TO BE REINTRODUCED

Tulsa Man Plans Up-to-Date Style of Sleek Front-Drive Auto for $3,000 to $4,000

By ROBERT SHAW

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A 10 year old boy leaned against a plate glass window to admire the long, low lines of a brand new 1936 Cord Phaeton and dreamed of the day he'd own one.

Now, 26 years later, that boy plans to return the classic front-wheel drive automobile to production.

Glenn Pray's version of the Cord, with dimensions eight-tenths those of the original, will embody the same sleek lines of the car that was last produced in 1937. But it will have modern components.

The body will be of fiberglass, and it will be powered by a 1963 Corvair engine through a Corvair transmission and differential package.

The air-cooled engine, Pray said, will simplify scaling down the dimensions of the new Cord, and since Chevrolet's Corvair has the whole power plant — engine, transmission and differential — in one unit, little modification of the power plant will be needed.

* * * *

FOR PRAY, 36, building a new Cord is just another step along a path he took two years ago when he left his job as an automotive teacher at Tulsa Central High School to devote full time to a hobby of remanufacturold Cords.

He plans to start his new Cord production with 100 of the new models.

"This will just test the market," he said, "and let us decide whether to go ahead with 500 to 1,000 or 5,000."

The tall, lean businessman, who dislikes wearing a necktie, isn't trying to compete with the automotive giants of Detroit.

"We're going to make a prestige car that's moderately priced," he said. "We'll be filling the little, narrow gap that Detroit can't afford to fill."

* * * *

THE CAR will sell for $3,000 to $4,000, Pray said. The price will include an airplane ticket so the new owner can drive his Cord away from the plant here. There will be no dealerships as such.

Pray said his auto will be aimed at the sports car market — the driver who wants a car that will stand out in the crowd.

He already has about 50 signed orders for the first run. One, he said, is from Gordon Buehrig, now with Ford Motor Co., who worked out the body design of the original Cord.

Buehrig has given his blessing for the revival of the old car, Pray said.

* * * *

WORKING drawings of the 1963 model are all but completed, and work is under way at Detroit on Clay models, Pray said. The models will be cast in plaster and templates will be made to ensure that every car that comes off the production line meets the standards of the original.

Pray, head of the Auburn - Cord - Duesenberg Co., said a new production company will be formed to manufacture the cars. He said he hasn't decided whether to finance the new company himself or to issue stock. "either way," he said, "it won't be any trouble."

* * * *

PRAY FIRST got the idea of reviving the classic look in sports cars six years ago, and since then he has tried to keep the vintage Cords from becoming extinct.

His company now is the world's parts and service center for Auburns and Cords.

In 29,000 square feet of space just northeast of Tulsa, Pray has a 10-man staff working in a complete body shop, parts department, machine shop and trim department. There are two dozen cars now being rebuilt or overhauled.

About 3,200 Cords were originally produced, Pray said, and of these about 2,000 still exist — in various states of repair.

* * * *

WHEN PRAY bought the remaining supply of parts for the cars two years ago, he also bought all the plans and drawings of the originals. If a part in not available, his machine shop can produce it to specifications or he can have it made.

For example, he has cylinder head blanks cast, and his staff takes care of the milling to fit the engine. But to get chrome trim to match the original, Pray had to have a special order made.

"We had to buy a mile of this to get it made the way we wanted it," Pray said, holding a handful of thin chrome strips that adorn the hood louvers of the Cord.

* * * *

He plans to expand his plant into new quarters near Tulsa in the next few weeks, and expects to roll the first 1963 Phaeton out of the plant by next spring.

After he gets the Cord on the market again (he doesn't believe in saying "if") he plans to start work on a new version of the 1963 Auburn Speedster, another Indiana-made classic that was last made in the 1930s.

Bruins Succumb to Husky Anger

dozen years to the Olszewski-led Cal Bears' 35-0 win over UCLA to find a comparable collapse. UCLA didn't get its second first down Saturday until the final minute of the third period. Penetrations to the 13, 25 and 48 were the only times the Bruins got across midfield.

Meanwhile, Washington used its second-string fullback, a sophomore named Coffey, to thrust the spear and twist it. He carried 14 times for 112 yards and scored both of the first-half touchdowns. Husky coach Jim Owens was sympathetic in the second half.

* * * *

COFFEY electrified the hometown fans. He started the game on the bench and each time he stood up to discard his warmup cape the crowd stomped and cheered. When he went into the game the crowd roared. When he ripped off long gains or piercing plunges, the spectators nearly unriveted the stadium.

Last week Coffey scored three of the four TDs against Cal (27-0) and his six-yard average for the year is equalled only by USC's Willie Brown and exceeded only by UCLA's Kermit Alexander among AAWU stars.

Alexander carried nine times Saturday for a total of 24 yards.

Said a crushed Bill Barnes: "USC must have a whale of a football team to beat these guys." The Bruins and the Trojans meet next Saturday in the Coliscum.

* * * *

SAID THE Huskies' coach: "I was surprised how easy it was."

The Husky landslide was delayed by some penalty trouble in the first period and they had to settle for a 3-0 quarter lead.

It was a fake punt on third down that provided the key yardage on UW's first series. The series ended with a field goal 34 yards in length and to give you an idea of what kind of day it was for Husky fortunes, it was the first field goal for the team this season. Lineman Jim Norton kicked it.

The second time Washington got the ball it moved to UCLA's 25 where a fourth-down line plunge was shy by two yards and the Bruins took over. At this point the Bruins made their only first down of the first half, a 17-yard pass from Larry Zeno to end Mel Profit.

* * * *

BUT THAT was the extent of the Bruin early threat and that was the end of the Husky frustration.

Coffey came into the ball game and took control of proceedings. He carried 10 times, gained 75 yards and boomed over for two touchdowns before the halftime rest period.

The Huskies went 64 yards for their first TD. Coffey dived over the middle from the two for the score. Key gains were provided by Charlie Mitchell, including a pass catch that he juggled as he ran along the sideline, gaining eight yards on a fourth-and-seven play at the Bruin 11.

Coffey thundered through the middle from the four to the second TD on the end of a 90-yard drive. As an example of what Coffey did for the home team this day, the Huskies were stalling at the Bruin 35 with a third down and 13. Coffey ran through the middle for 13 yards and the first down.

* * * *

WASHINGTON continued its brute-strength assault in the second half by intercepting a Zeno pass in the opening seconds—the 10th interception Zeno has thrown this season — and pile-driving 30 yards to the UCLA goal line where Bob Monroe fumbled on a plunge and UCLA stalled 'em off a little while.

But not for long. UCLA ran two plays and fumbled. Washington recovered, ran two plays and scored touchdown No. 3. Mitchell made it, going around right end from the 11, untouched. It was 24-0.

It went to 30-0 before the end of the third quarter as Nat Whitmyer rounded end for five yards at the end of a 67-yard drive.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Economists Optimistic on Upsurge, in Early '63

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Economists took another look at business prospects this week and some saw the likelihood of an early 1963 recession fading.

Improved reports on the economic pace, highlighted by booming automobile sales, inspired optimism.

And Kennedy administration officials renewed their call for a substantial income tax cut next year, arguing that an expected $7.8 billion federal budget deficit should be no deterrent.

The stock market responded with some good gains for the third week in a row. Brokers said small investors — their lost confidence at least partially restored — were coming back into the market.

* * * *

A POLL of 45 economists and business leaders showed that nearly two-thirds believe there will be no recession through next year. Those who still expect a letdown feel it will be mild.

The surge of new car sales is giving the economy "a potent shot of confidence," said Byron J. Nichols, general manager of Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge division.

"It could be that what has been happening to the automobile industry in recent weeks is the tip-off that general business conditions ahead will be much better than any of us have been led to expect," he added.

Another industrialist, William H. Shaw, manager of business economics in Du Pont's textile fibers division, said that if there is a recession it will come later, rather than early next year. He looks for another quarter or two of hesitant expansion.

* * * *

"THE CHANCES of avoiding recession in early 1963 look a little better now than they did four to six weeks ago," commented the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. "This change mirrors not only the Cuban episode, which seems likely to produce some increase in both military and civil defense spending, but also a moderate brightening of business news."

Martin R. Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, said he still expects a short, mild slowdown early next year but predicted the economy will make a better over-all showing in 1963 than it did this year.

The administration's announcement that it expected a budget deficit of $7.8 billion in this fiscal year — second highest in peacetime —was considered by some to have inflationary aspects.

The budget bureau said, however, that "with the existing level of unemployment and unused plant capacity, the deficit is neither inflationary nor dangerous to our balance of payments position."

* * * *

SECRETARY of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and Walter W. Heller, chief economic adviser to President Kennedy, asserted that the bigger than aniticpated budget deficit should not be allowed to get in the way of a tax cut.

Dillon told the President's labor-management advisory committee — made up of 170 industry, union and civic leaders—that "the tax structure we propose will generate budget surpluses as the economy provides full employment in the years ahead."

American travelers received some tax relief this week when repeal of wartime transportation taxes became effective. It was estimated the savings would total $150 million a year.

All eastern railroads added the 10 per cent tax on rail fares to their charges in an effort to improve their difficult profit positions. Southern and western lines passed the savings on to their customers.

* * * *

THE 10 PER cent tax on air fares was replaced by a five per cent "user charge" to aid in paying for airports, navigation aids and other government-financed facilities used by the airlines. None of the major airlines planned to boost fares.

New passenger car sales zoomed to a record of 217,861 for the first one-third of November, causing some manufacturers to boost their production schedules for this month.

To meet the demand, production this week was held at the high rate of an estimated 163,000, just under the record for the year. Last week's output was 165,032.

Improvement in steel production was another factor in making the outlook rosier. Output total 1,804,000 tons last week, up 1.5 per cent from the previous week.

Stylish New Buick A Golden Key To An Adventure in Palm Springs

RACY BUICK RIVIERA ADMIRED BY MANAGER HERB JENSEN
The all new Riviera by Buick arrives at Palm Springs' fashionable El Mirador resort hotel where motor-log party guested new wing adition.

By BILL EMERY
Automotive Associate

A crowd of boys watched our party pull out of the El Mirador fashionable resort hotel for an evening drive in Palm Springs.

"Hey, mister," one of them called out, "how about letting me have your car for the night? I'll give you my right arm!"

When I picked up the key to this stylish new Buick Riviera from Jim Willingham and Charlie Campbell, co-owners of Boulevard Buick at 1881 Long Beach Blvd., I had the feeling that I was taking possession of a pretty formidable piece of property. The voice from that crowd that night in Palm Springs pretty well sums up the consensus of all who viewed this luxury four-bucket seater during our too short possession.

With a "coke bottle" side profile and a rear profile reminiscent of a smartly pressed Marine about to stand inspection, the Riviera is harmoniously designed with universal appeal. And its appeal was magnetic whether driving on the freeways or setting at a curb.

For all its sporty overtones the Riviera is a true luxury creation. Its low center of gravity gives the car superb handling qualities on sharp corners and rough streets. Its 325 h.p. Wildcat V8 engine with dual exhausts and four-barrel carburetor give the car jet-engine thrust for instant agility and maneuverability.

The new Electro-Cruise is great on long trips. Just set a control on the speedometer to the speed of your choice and it is maintained automatically until you touch the brake.

When you're driving a car with air conditioning, there's no place like the desert, and with Palm Springs a scant two hours from Long Beach, Ray Ryan's El Mirador desert resort in Palm Springs fulfilled the other half of this dream combination. Managed by Herb Jensen, this widely-known 21-acre vacationland has many new innovations that are sure to please patrons visiting there this fall.

We were among the first guests in the new 100-room addition facing the swimming pool.

Another new addition is the Bavarian Room at the diving end of the pool. Solid massive doors with stained glass windows lead into the Bavarian's bar and lounge from either side of the pool and picture windows permit observation of swimming and diving activities.

Guests of the El Mirador do not want for entertainment and activities. Facilities are available for tennis, badminton, ping pong, shuffleboard, croquet and various other games. Near the pool is a complete health club for men and women.

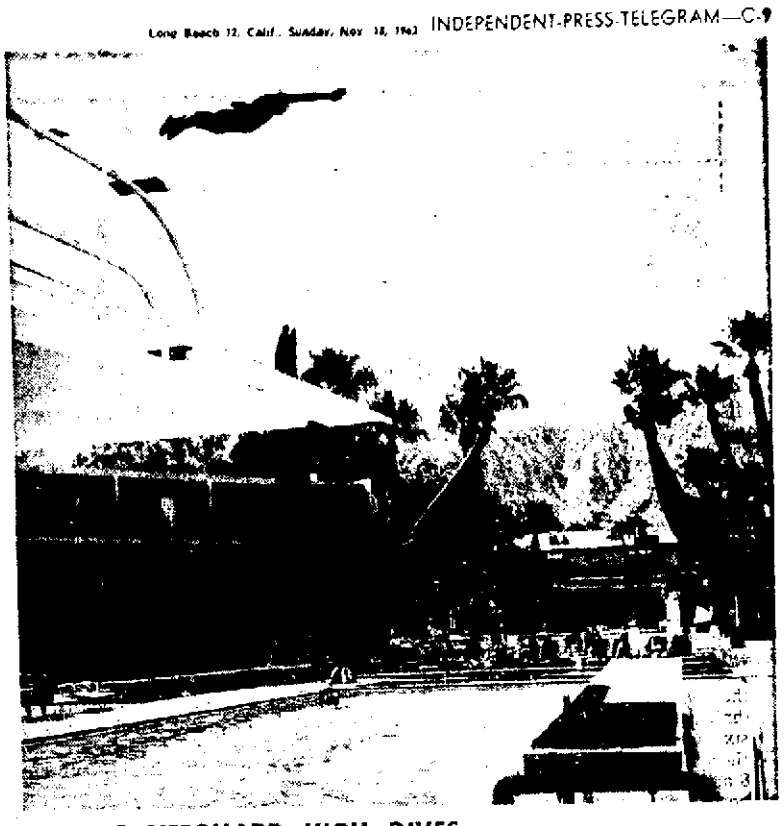

* * * *

GOURMETS will delight with the superb cuisine in the Silver Palm Room, Starlite Patio and South Pacific Room. And there are three cocktail lounges with entertainment and dancing.

Currently featured nightly are two separate bands, one for dinner music and dancing, the other strictly a show band. With the season just getting under way in Palm Springs, the Exciters — six guys and a gal — have made the El Mirador one of the most popular spots for entertainment in the fabulous resort community.

Reigning supreme in the act is blonde and beautiful Candy Johnson, who performs 25 variations of the twist nightly in an almost continuous three-hour frenzy.

Back in Long Beach, a gas check revealed about 12 miles per gallon city driving and just under 15 on the road.

Cuba Crisis Goes Up, Down Like a Cold-War Barometer

By NORMAN RUNNION
By United Press International

Like a barometer of the whole cold war, the Cuban crisis pressure gauges went both up and down last week.

On the one hand, there were hints from the United Nations that some progress was being made toward a settlement. Then on the other, Fidel Castro threatened to shoot down U. S. reconnaissance planes flying surveillance flights over the islands.

ALMOST A carrot-and-stick act, it reflected on an immediate scale what has been going on in the world since war's end in 1945, when there has been relaxation followed by crisis followed by relaxation followed by crisis.

At week's end, however, the United States was letting it be known that time was running short. The focal point of the immediate crisis remained President Kennedy's insistence that the Russians remove their IL28 bombers from Cuba and agree to some sort of international inspection system to verify withdrawal of offensive weapons.

If the Cuban crisis should in the end be settled—and followed by a period of relaxation—there was always Berlin on the horizon as a possible new flashpoint. To discuss this, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer came to Washington last week to confer with President Kennedy.

ADENAUER

A communique was issued Thursday saying that both men agreed on the necessity to defend Berlin. Yet Adenauer himself said at the start of his visit that diplomatic communiques usually are worthless and meaningless.

What was important about this visit was not the communique but the concrete results and understandings which Kennedy and Adenauer achieved in their private talks. Adenauer, it was said, left Washington with renewed confidence in the young American President's ability to handle anything that might arise with the Russians.

IN INDIA meanwhile, the cold war continued to be hot. The Communist Chinese, who have made no secret of their displeasure at Khrushchev's pullback in Cuba, continued their battle with Indian troops in the rugged mountain country. U. S. and British arms were made available to Indian troops last week.

A storm of reaction swept the domestic front after convicted perjurer Alger Hiss appeared on a television program tracing the political career of Richard M. Nixon. The American Broadcasting Co., which aired the show, was flooded by telegrams and telephone calls protesting the show.

James C. Hagerty, ABC vice president in charge of news, defended the program claiming it was a "fair presentation, giving both sides of a controversy." The show, taped by ABC commentator Howard K. Smith, was called "The Political Obituary of Richard M. Nixon."

Later in the week, two sponsors who held contracts with ABC tried, but failed, to cancel the pacts because of the showing of the controversial program.

ALSO ON THE DOMESTIC front, the government announced that the U. S. deficit for the current fiscal year will be $7.8 billion, the second highest in peacetime history. But despite this, administration spokesmen — including Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon—said Kennedy still is planning to cut income and corporation taxes next year. The argument was that a tax reduction is necessary to stimulate the economy.

Foreign trade is also an economic stimulant, and Kennedy acted on this. He named Christian A. Herter, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's last secretary of state, to be the U.S. government's chief planner and negotiator on foreign trade. The job was created by passage of the Trade Expansion Act this year, which revolutionized U.S. trade laws.

HERTER

For a while this week, the country was aroused by one of the biggest controversies since the Stamp Act helped lead to the American Revolution against the British. A total of 400 misprinted Dag Hammarskjold commemorative stamps found their way into the public domain and immediately became a collector's item—and a rich one at that. The Post Office Department, to the howls of stamp collectors, took steps to ruin the bonanza by running off thousands more of the erroneous stamps.

However, the department was thwarted in its move Friday when a court order halted the sale of the misprinted stamps. The order was obtained by collector Leonard Sherman of Irvington, N.J., who claimed the special sale unfairly deprived him of a chance to make $500,000 on the original misprint. Postal officials immediately sought to have the ban removed.

AND IN SPACE, the United States successfully fired its huge Saturn booster rocket for the third time. One day the Saturn will be used for the man-in-space program.

The final shot of the Project Mercury program will come next April, and the space agency announced last week that the astronaut will be Leroy Gordon Cooper, a 35-year-old Air Force major. He will make an 18-orbit flight.

First Transportation Census Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau, fortified by a $175,000 appropriation that took 14 years to clear Congress, announced Saturday it will begin a $2 million transportation census in 1963.

Naturally, the project will be delayed if Congress does not provide the remaining $1,825,000.

This will be the first census of transportation in the nation's history. It was authorized by Congress in 1948, but the bureau waited until October to get an initial appropriation for the work.

Because money has been hard to come by, the Census Bureau said the project will make maximum use of data now collected by other agencies. This also will avoid duplication.

For the same reason of economies, the program will consist of a series of surveys rather than one big spectacular. Selected individuals and firms will be questioned, and the findings will be projected to give a national picture.

The surveys, which will continue into 1964, will involve the travels of individuals, the transportation of commodities, the use of trucks, and the operating history of bus and truck carriers.

Selected individuals will be asked about out-of-town trips made during 1963, as well as some aspects of home-to-work transportation.

Census takers will want to know why people made out-of-town trips, how they traveled, how many family members accompanied them, the number of nights spent away from home, and overnight accommodations used.

The prime objective of the commodity transportation surveys will be to measure the volume of goods shipped by various methods, the length of the haul,

Increases in Standard of Living Shown in Government Studies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Saturday reported that American families are enjoying a steadily mounting standard of living as income gains continue to outstrip price increases.

New studies made public by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz showed, moreover, that the average family is required to spend a significantly smaller share of its income for the basic necessities of food, shelter and clothing than it did a decade ago.

MORE INCOME is therefore available for health care, savings, recreation and study and the things widely regarded as making life worth while.

The department's bureau of labor statistics made the comprehensive studies by sampling consumer income and buying patterns in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, New York City, San Francisco and Washington.

"It is a measure of both the fruits and the potential of our free economy," Wirtz said, "that the residents of these seven cities enjoyed an increase in their real purchasing power, over the past decade, of from 15 to 44 per cent."

Here are some of the survey highlights:

—Average after-tax income ranged from $5,412 in Atlanta to $6,869 in Boston with families spending around 86 to 95 per cent of this income, on the average, for current consumption.

—The proportion of income devoted to food, clothing and shelter has declined from 62 per cent in 1950 to 55 per cent in 1960. Shelter alone, however, takes a bit more share of income than it did.

—Family home ownership has increased by a third.

—Each of the seven cities surveyed reflected greatly increased outlays for personal insurance, a form of savings. The rise in insurance purchase over the decade ranged from 56 per cent in Chicago to 144 per cent in Detroit.

—In all the cities, the proportion of after-tax income going to gifts and contributions showed an increase.

—Seven to eight of every 10 families in the cities surveyed reported coverage under some type of health insurance plan.

"These and other facts uncovered in the survey point clearly to a continuing and substantial increase in the nation's living standards," Wirtz said.

They should also serve as a pointed reminder of an unacceptable contrast in American life today that there still exists areas of severe want in our most abundant society. Until this contrast is eliminated, our satisfaction must be limited."

Guantanamo Defenders Frustrated

By JACK V. FOX

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (UPI)—On a cactus-covered hill above Kittery Beach and overlooking Guantanamo's steel fence border with Cuba, the Marines of Baker Company have slept in foxholes for three straight weeks and they would like to know two things:

Why didn't they bust into Fidel Castro's Oriente Province as soon as they got here?

If they are not going to fight, when are they going to get out?

Their Chaplain tells them they will be out by the first frost. This week it was 95 in the shade every day.

It's not that morale is low in the company commanded by Capt. Barry Colassard of Great Neck, N.Y. This unit, in fact, is in high and joking spirits despite the heat, the bugs and sitting tight. One reason is that Colassard, a handsome young Syracuse graduate, has a tremendous sense of humor which communicates down to his men.

* * * *

ON TUESDAY Colassard's outfit was involved in a mock battle with an enemy theoretically coming across the fence. The captain had been tremendously busy supervising Seabees who are erecting pillboxes and fortifications on the hill until it resembles a tropical Maginot line.

Unable to spare the time for the exercise, Colassard instructed his radio man to inform batallion headquarters:

"The captian died a heroic death. He was last seen running toward the fence with a grenade."

Colassard said he deliberated first reporting that he had fled to the rear but decided against it.

Baker Company flew here from Camp Lejuene, N.C., arriving on Saturday, Oct. 20—two days before Kennedy's speech announcing the crisis.

"We didn't know where we were going until the plane landed and we stepped out in Cuba," said Cpl. Robert Sweda of Dunkirk, N.Y.

* * * *

THE MEN almost unanimously thought they were going into combat immediately and they were keyed up to it.

As the days pass, they grow more frustrated — particularly because they are so cut off from news of the high-level maneuverings in the Cuban crisis.

On the imediate front, only a few of them even get a look at a Cuban militiaman.

Along the road which parallels the fence, sentries stand rotating four-hour guard duty at hilltop posts, and a few patrol up and down the road. In the course of the day, they see perhaps 20 Cubans carrying Czech-made rifles and wearing Russian style helmets.

One of them waved to Pfc. William Bosley of Charleston, W. Va., inviting him to come over the fence. Then he shouted in Spanish. Bosley ignored him.

* * * *

ON THE HILLS on their side the Cubans have been busy photographing the Marine fortifications. An officer in the typical beret of the militia supervised the telescopic camera work.

Executive officer of Baker Company is Lt. Joseph Allegretti of Chicago. The 25-year-old Allegretti has been married only 13 weeks and he is one of those most anxious to get the answer whether they stay or go.

Colassard has been trying to get each man back once a week to the harbor area of the naval base. There are swimming pools, bowling alleys, baseball fields, fishing and sailing boats, nightly movies and well-stocked clubs for all ranks.

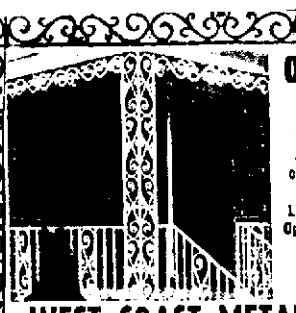

Not until a few days ago did the men get anything except C rations on the hilltop position. Now they are brought up one hot meal a day.

"Isn't this great," said the top sergeant. "It's 93 degrees and they send us chili."

NOW! YOU CAN LEARN...

SPANISH • FRENCH • GERMAN • ITALIAN • RUSSIAN AND ENGLISH FOR SPANISH-SPEAKING PEOPLE!

If you have ever wanted to learn a foreign language quickly and fluently, this is your chance. You learn a foreign language in the way we have all learned to speak—by listening to words and phrases, with the added advantage of being able to see and hear the words and phrases simultaneously.

Each of these language courses consist of four long-playing 10-inch hi-fi records (33⅓ RPM). You receive a handy conversational manual with each record. Through this modern record-teaching technique you can quickly become adept at Spanish, French, German, Italian, Russian, or English. You may find you want complete sets of several languages.

LOW COST OF $1.00 A RECORD

Are you a student, a traveler, a business man? The INDEPENDENT and PRESS-TELEGRAM is pleased to offer to every reader the opportunity to learn a foreign language that will assist in studies, travels abroad, or business. The speed-learning techniques incorporated in these language courses were pioneered and developed by teachers and educators to teach languages quickly to the armed forces during World War II. The recordings are made by educated natives of the countries whose languages you wish to learn! the conversational manuals have been approved by outstanding educators.

At the extraordinarily low price of $1.00 per record you may wish to get sets in several languages.

HERE'S HOW TO GET YOUR LANGUAGE RECORDS

Order as many records as you wish. Simply mail a SEPARATE order blank for EACH record, plus six differently numbered record coupons and one dollar for each record.

Record coupons will be published daily MONDAY THROUGH SATURDAY on Page A-2 or B-2 of the Independent and Press-Telegram. Start saving coupons at any time—coupons do not have to be consecutively numbered.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Brando Allegedly Very Nice Fellow

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Marlon Brando's in for quite a shock.

A newspaper columnist's going to write flatteringly of him.

BRANDO

Although Brando seems to dislike all columnists, including those who've endeavored to understand him, I'd like to point out in all honesty that he's charitable and generous in a secretive manner . . . he's evidently a good businessman for he collects "10 per cent of the gross" from "Mutiny on the Bounty" which should gross $25 million to $50 million . . . and he appears to have "done right" by the gals who have lost their hearts and their heads over him.

There he sat ever so patiently signing autographs—with never a scowl nor mumble nor scratch—at the "Mutiny" premiere. And when my B.W. commented that he was being singularly well-behaved, a cynic nearby said:

"He should be—for 10 per cent of the gross!"

* * * *

BUT SOME Tahitians whom I met there last summer, and were here for the premiere, rose up and cited some of his financial good deeds in Tahiti . . . including a costly operation for a crippled child.

"He seems to have pity for the girls who flip for him," interjected an American. "He's a mellowing Marlon."

Tarita — the Tahitian exdishwasher in the film who's now being introduced to American luxury by Brando —is a slight exception.

* * * *

"THE MUMBLER" married Anna Kashfi and he married Movita, the Mexican gal, a few years older, whom he always went back to, and he's reported to be good father to two sons.

He wouldn't pose for a premiere picture with Tarita despite the fact they've been constantly together—and one well-intentioned friend suggested he wouldn't because it might embarrass Anna and Movita.

"As for Tarita," exclaimed one with knowledge of Tahiti, "she couldn't care less. She's still on the wild side. She doesn't want to get married.

DISNEYRAMA ON ICE

Walt Disney's cartoon characters—Donald Duck to Dumbo—come to life in "Disneyrama," one of the productions in the 22nd edition of Ice Capades to play Nov. 27-Dec. 2 at the Long Beach Arena.

VINCENT PRICE . . . It Pays Well

KING OF HORRORS

Acts in Thrillers for Art's Sake

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Vincent Price, suave, debonair and better actor than most, seems an unlikely candidate for king of the horror films.

But king he is. And the choice is solely his.

The towering Price knows full well that his new title puts him on the same Hollywood status rung with Tarzan, Pa and Ma Kettle and Rin Tin Tin. But Vincent couldn't care less.

"HORROR MOVIES give me the time and money to indulge my hobby. Besides, they are loads of fun to do and loads of fun to watch," he says.

Art was his life before acting. Years ago, while studying at the University of London, a theatrical talent scout thought his 6-foot-4 frame and suave manner made him ideal casting for the consort Prince Albert.

While studying art by day, he appeared on the London stage by night in "Victoria Regina."

When the play came to Broadway with Helen Hayes as Queen Victoria, Price came along. His performance as Albert was a monument of American theater. That was 1935.

"AS YOU CAN see, I get my artistic expression outside of movies. I do the horror films because I enjoy myself—and they make me money."

The money, of course, supports his interest in art.

When the 3-D craze started some years ago, Warners came up with an old property "House of Wax" to cash in on the fad. Price was available and took the role.

The picture grossed $9 million and established Price as a boxoffice name.

New Game for the Status Conscious

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jim and Henny Backus live in Bel-Air like many another movie couple, but they are not status-seekers.

So it's not surprising that Henny would invent a new game—the Hollywood snob game.

Rules, as explained by Henny, are simple. For instance: Move up one if you stopped speaking to Peter Lawford before he married Pat Kennedy. Move up six if you have nothing to do with him after his marriage to Pat Kennedy. Move up 25 if you started ignoring him after his brother-in-law became president.

* * * *

MOVE UP 50 if your husband has made a picture with Liz Taylor since your marriage—and you're still married.

Move up 25 is you're a friend of Mrs. Richard Burton.

Move back two if you're not a silent picture buff. Move up three if you know who Gustav von Seyffertiz is.

* * * *

MOVE BACK 10 if you've never been given "A tour" of Jayne Mansfield's house with its heart-shaped fireplace, heart-shaped pool and its empty room with the foam rubber floor.

Move up one if you invite Cary Grant to your sit-down dinner parties. Move up two if he comes. Move up 10 if Dr. Ben Casey crashes.

Move back five if you refer to your friends' houses as the old Mabel Normand place, the Garbo house or the first Fairbanks bungalow.

* * * *

MOVE UP five if a studio hairdresser comes to your house to do your hair. Move back two if you step inside a beauty parlor.

Move up two if you've ever worn your arm in a sling to a premiere to avoid autograph hounds.

Move up five if you wear a full-length mink coat in the evening, no matter what time of year.

Walk with Gary Cooper to the Showdown in "High Noon"

The Wax Figure, Set, Costume So Realistic You'll Think You Are There

BUENA PARK, CALIF. (WM)—The sun's hot and the silence almost hurts your ears. You hear footsteps, spurs jingle, there is gunfire; men fall.

Memories like these flood back as you stand before the brave marshal in "High Noon," Gary Cooper. A fantastic living likeness has been captured in wax.

Hollywood's Greatest Stars

Gary Cooper is only one of more than 80 of Hollywood's brightest stars enshrined here. Such greats as Clark Gable, Rudolph Valentino, James Dean, Marilyn Monroe, Jean Harlow, Tyrone Power, Al Jolson—the biggest names ever to perform on the silver screen. From the silents to cinemascope. It's like visiting the major studios on their busiest day.

Excitement And Glamour

You'll see cameras, lights, sound booms, lavish costumes and sets, exact replicas from the star's most famous picture. All the excitement and thrills come alive as the history of Hollywood unfolds before your eyes. You'll chuckle at Charlie Chaplin in "The Goldrush"...you'll succumb to Rudolph Valentino's spell as "The Son of The Sheik"... you'll shrink with fear at the sight of "Frankenstein" ...and there's something new to view all the time.

Master Craftsmen

The magnificent talents of master craftsmen from around the world—Hong Kong, Spain, Hollywood, Mexico, France—have been utilized to create superlative wax figures which you see authentically costumed and placed in a replica of a set from one of the stars greatest motion pictures. There's nothing like the Wax Museum on the face of the earth.

A Fortune Spent

More than $1,500,000 has been spent to assemble this lasting tribute to the stars and the industry which has provided the people of the world with so much laughter, amusement and happiness.

Truly, here is an experience you shouldn't miss or one you will ever forget. Spend as long as you like walking among the memories these scenes and stars bring back to you. There's no hurry—you are here to enjoy yourself in this shrine to the stars...

Southland Progress Editor

Construction has started on a 14-story senior citizens building to be known as the John Brown Towers at 3737 Atlantic Ave.

Estimated at a cost of $3.5 million, the project is sponsored by the John Brown Schools Foundation of California, which has received formal approval from the Federal Housing Administration to construct the huge facility.

Formal groundbreaking ceremonies were held recently.

The 169 units will include efficiency, one- and two-bedroom apartments. Each apartment will be fully air conditioned and equipped with all-electric kitchens, wall-to-wall carpeting and draperies.

THERE WILL BE a central dining room for those desiring community dining, and an infirmary. Many indoor and outdoor recreational areas are planned to blend with the landscaping.

In addition to these there will be a fully developed social and cultural program in operation the year around which will consist of lectures, concerts, tours and all of the seasonal activities. Occupancy is anticipated early in 1964.

Residency in the project will be available on a monthly fee or rental basis determined by the size unit selected and the number of optional services available. The monthly fee will cover basic costs such

$4,300,000 Deal Made for Land at Yorba Linda

YORBA LINDA — Escrow has been closed on the purchase of a 430-acre parcel of land in Yorba Linda from Stern Realty by a group of investors headed by Avery and James McCarthy and George and Merlin Sant, prominent Southern California builders. Price of the transaction was $4,300,000.

Adjoining the Yorba Linda country club and easily accessible from the Imperial Highway Freeway now under construction, the property will be used for a community of fine homes, with a portion of it held for investment purposes.

IN DISCUSSING PLANS for the community, James McCarthy said, "We feel that this section of Yorba Linda has the potential to become the Beverly Hills of Orange County. In establishing a community here, we plan to work with present property owners to maintain the beauty of the locale, preserving the lovely contours of the land as much as possible.

To give ample time for planning and preparation of the new community, construction is not slated to begin until spring of 1964 and

Independenet FHA Setup Urged at Realty Session

The National Association of Real Estate Boards has approved a proposal at its Detroit convention calling upon Congress to make the Federal Housing Administration an independent body under the control of a board of directors appointed by the president, according to word from Long Beach realtors at the convention.

The proposal would remove the FHA from the control of the housing and home finance agency.

The convention proposal asserted that "Political and social welfare considerations are eroding the economically sound underwriting standards which have been the hallmark of this agency since its inception."

Dr. Robert Weaver, who is administrator of the housing and home finance agency, was quoted as saying the proposal would be "perfectly absurd."

"Making it an independent agency would be all right if it is to function purely for industry groups," he said.

Taubman Praises Chamber Executive

ment of what has been done these three years."

At the time Krusz was hired, Taubman said, "Our Chamber was in a very sad state. Our finances were all but non-existent, our members were dissatisfied and disgruntled, our city as a community had never been able to produce a real community spirit.

"We had many splinter groups, many pulling against each other and above all, no community pride," Taubman said.

Krusz began, Taubman said, by making a "very penetrating and objective analysis of our community and the Chamber. It took weeks of work and struggle and its presentation posed one of the greatest gambles he could take.

"It was presented to more than 100 citizens.

"You remember that day," Taubman told his fellow directors.

"It was incisive. It brought out skeletons from many closets. But the effect was electrifying. We saw our faults — we saw our assets. We came out of our lethargy and said in our hearts, we'll do something about this."

Taubman noted Krusz had begun the "Congress for Community Progress," and said it resulted in a final master plan of development for the city.

"He then set about putting the Chamber's house in order. The staff showed new faces—pretty ones too—and the staff was reorganized on a basis of intra-departmental responsibility," Taubman said.

"Quietly a program was initiated to establish a liaison with the city government and its diversions. Not much was heard about this, but in time our political managers began to listen and heed the Chamber as they realized our objectives were indeed parallel. We are not now antagonists," Taubman said.

"In the same way friendly and cooperative relationships were established with other community organizations. This insures unified effort on community projects."

Seahaven Offering 'Deerest' of Homes

Santa's reindeer — which arrived last week at Seahaven — have labeled Seahaven Homes the 'deerest' in Orange County! The 'deerest' location — so close to freeways and major highways — leading to major industry and for fast commuting to metropolitan areas. Schools for all ages (within walking distance, or with complete bus system); close to shopping and everything for recreation including the beach only three minutes away.

The features of the homes are the 'deerest', too. In Seahaven, you'll find just the size to suit your need, since you can choose from two bedrooms, three bedrooms or four bedrooms — and every home includes the latest deluxe Westinghouse all-electric kitchen — with the finest custom natural wood cabinets you've ever seen.

* * * *

THE BUYERS at Seahaven report the terms are the lowest in Orange County, and here is why: FHA monthly payments for the spacious four-bedroom home are only $95 including principal and interest — or the charming two-bedroom Sea Sprite is only $79 with FHA financing. Veterans can move in for nothing down!

When you visit Seahaven Homes — where you'll also see these two reindeer — you can compare and you'll know, a Seahaven Home is the best investment and the 'deerest' place to live.

From Long Beach take Pacific Coast Hwy. (101) to Beach Boulevard in Huntington Beach then north to Adams—then right to the Seahaven model homes.

Pan Am Revenues Up

Pan American World Airways total operating revenues for the third quarter of 1962 were $151,118,000, compared to $140,795,000 in the corresponding period of the preceding year, according to the income statement just mailed to stockholders.

Recreational Area With Apartments

Lincoln Arms in Anaheim boasts one of the most unique recreational programs in conjunction with apartment living anywhere in the West. The center itself covers one full acre of ground and includes a club-house encompassing 3,000 square feet of space for dancing, parties, group activities, meetings, etc., with a full kitchen for use by residents to provide refreshments and dinners for the foregoing.

A covered lanai for table tennis, lounging in front of the fireplace or just gathering to chat with a neighbor; the handsome heated pool for year-round use with a deck area large enough to place 100 chairs and lounges, are still more enjoyable features of the center. Professionals say the game of golf is won on the green—Lincoln Arms golfers will soon be able to sharpen up on their putting, for the green here will soon be ready. Shuffle board will test your skill but not your muscles—or if you prefer it the other way, try a fast game of volley ball.

* * * *

WHAT MAKES the story of this Recreation Center more unusual is that the residents themselves have the privilege of choosing and planning their own activities and programs appealing to all age groups have been successfully carried out. Lincoln Arms sponsors a bowling league and its residents are now enjoying a spirited winter league competition. Outdoor barbeque pits are available all year and residents may reserve the facilities of the center for private parties. There are unlimited possibilities for recreation and these are being expanded.

Situated just off Lincoln Avenue in Anaheim, Lincoln Arms is less than five minutes from the freeway, one block from a major shopping center, adjacent to schools—in fact, close enough to so many things as to make its location ideal for the average apartment dweller.

Following a tour of the recently opened recreation center at the Lincoln Arms Apartments, the smiles on Carolyne Neff, Mayor R. L. Coons of Anaheim, and F. E. Fabian, of Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, indicate their approval of its "Country Club" atmosphere and facilities.

S & S Lauded for Construction Speed

In tribute to the advance-of-schedule completion of Norwalk's fabulous "Unimart" in Norwalk at Alondra Blvd. and Maidstone Ave., Seymour Rabin, president of Unimart, has sent a letter of thanks to the general contractors, S&S Construction Co. Noted residential and and apartment contractors for many years, S&S Construction have now extended their commercial activities to a large scale operations in the field.

Rabin wrote: "We at Unimart are delighted with the top quality construction, materials and methods employed, and with the exceptional efficiency that enabled your organization to turn the beautiful new mart over to us, not only as promised, but so far in advance of schedule. The time gained has given us greater opportunity to 'dress' up the Mart and have it in ship-shape before its opening to the public. Sincere thanks and hearty congratulations for a job superbly done!"

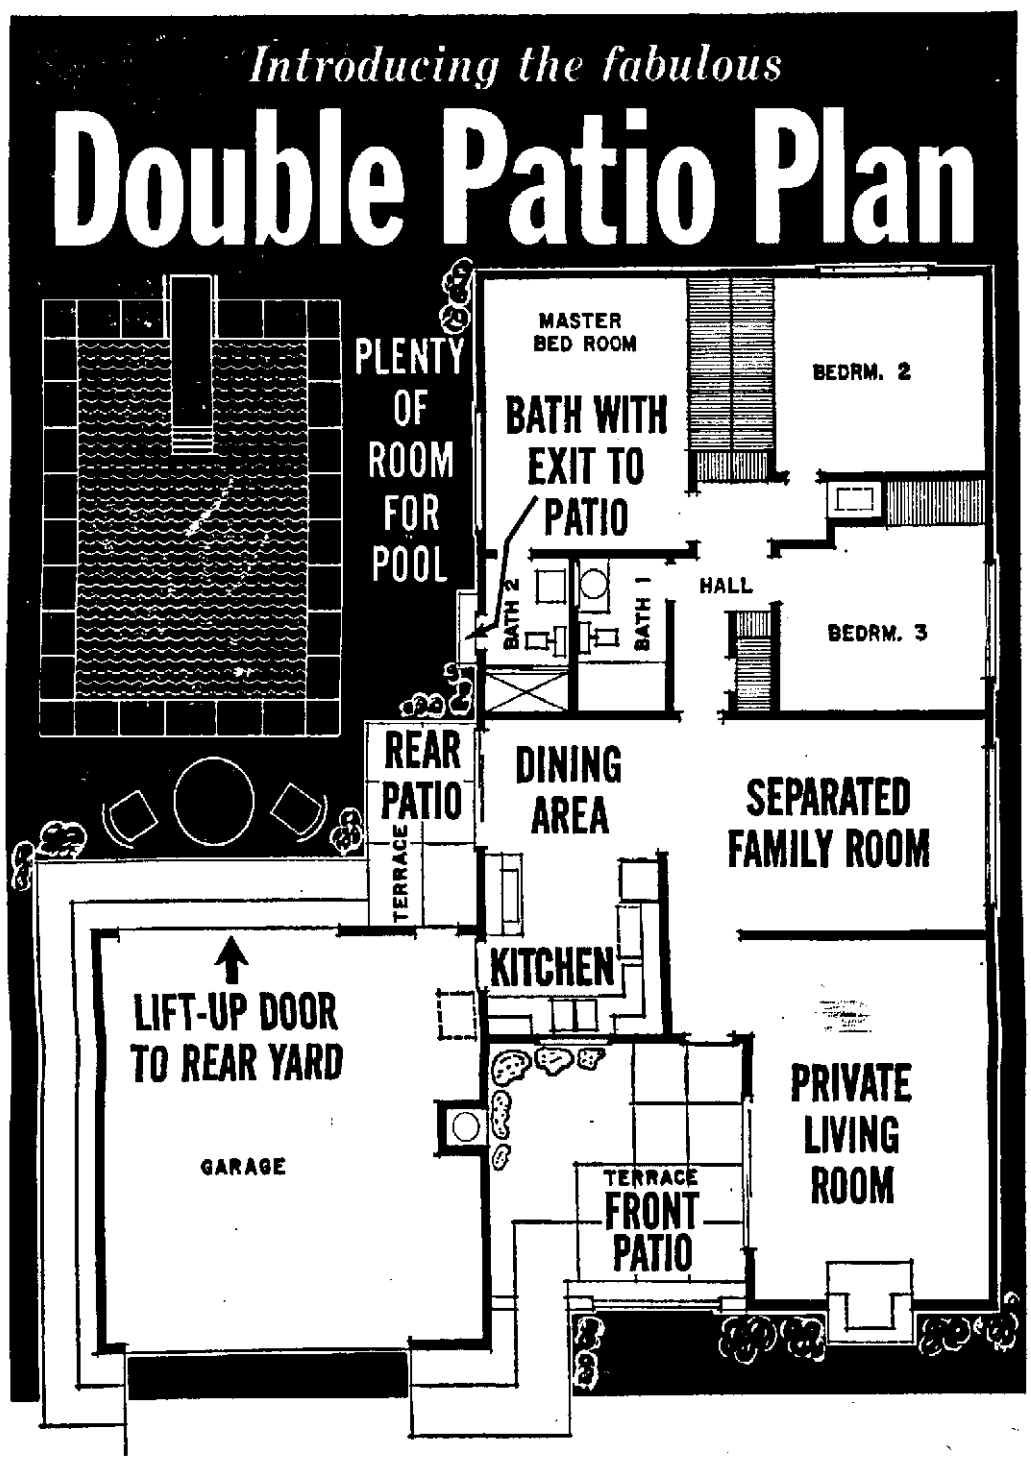

Encompassing approximately 108,000 square feet of "under roof" shopping, the new Unimart houses a Food Giant Market, a department store and a nursery.

Subdivision Draws Buyer Interest

Salesmen at Woodruff Park Estates, Bellflower's newest exclusive address, report huge enthusiastic crowds attended the recent grand opening.

Hundreds of viewers who went through the furnished model homes commented very favorably on all the de luxe features contained in the quality-built homes, a spokesman said.

It was added that though open such a short time, buyer response has been tremendous. More than 20 of the 50 homes already have been sold. Anyone desiring to live in close-in Bellflower is advised not to wait.

Woodruff Park Estates is a subdivision being built by Mel Corey and Max Medvin, Beverly Hills builders and developers who have built hundreds of prestige homes in Bellfower and vicinity.

The homes are ideally situated on Woodruff Avenue just north of Rosecrans in Bellflower.

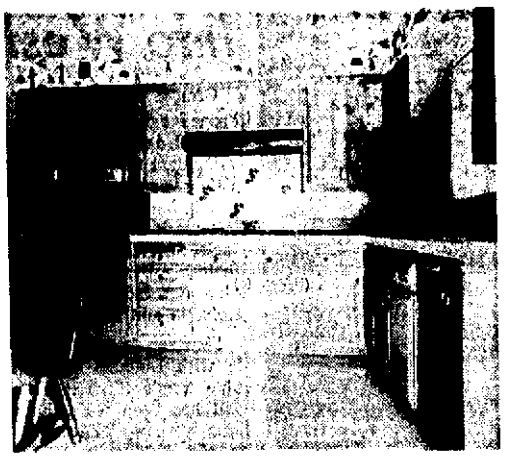

* * * *

THE PRICING at this all-Medallion community will range from $26,500 to $28,500.

Rylee and Cogburn are the sales agents. It was added that the economical impact of these homes, valued as a $1,500,000 subdivision, looms greatest in years so far as Bellflower is concerned.

All homes will feature three bedrooms, family rooms and two baths. Medallion kitchens will include GE ranges and double ovens, range hoods, fan light, GE disposer and dishwasher and de luxe tile.

Also featured will be Full-tone AM FM intercoms, wall-porches, fireplaces, hardwood and ash paneling, shake and shingle roofs, plastered walls, forced-air heating and other quality housing extras.

KITCHEN WITH APPEAL

Woodruff Park Estates in Bellflower is attracting many buyers and they find the kitchens of the homes have great appeal. Finest in cabinets and built-ins are provided, as shown here.

Dividends Due

Policyowners of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company will receive a record $40 million of policy dividends next year, it has been announced by Jerry J. Coursey, Jr., general agent for the Long Beach agency.

Cites Advantages in Co-op Apartments

Why should anyone pay to buy an apartment, and then pay rent to live in it? This is a usual question asked in the great misunderstanding over cooperative apartments. The answer is easy, explain officials of Anaheim Village. In paying for an apartment, the owner is investing in stock based on real estate. According to statistics, real estate has advanced in value at an average of at least 5% a year, the last 20 years.

Also, owners rather than renters tend to be less transient, more responsible and reliable. And because co-ops are usually sold on a pre-sell basis, the cost of preplanning a structure is lowered quite substantially.

Buying into a cooperative project gives the tenant-owner a vote in the corporation and an equal say in the running of the apartments. What may be most important is the fact that the monthly payment made is just that payment required to maintain the apartment. In other words, there is no profit added by a landlord and the payment made is approximately 65 per cent tax deductible reducing the amount quite substantially, the officials of the new cooperative development explain.

Ray Rowe, developer of Orange County's first cooperative apartments, said reservations are now being accepted. Apartment styles can be chosen from 14 basic floor plans, although construction of the project is not yet started. One-story and two-story units will be available and will include one, two or three bedrooms and one or two baths. Each apartment-home will have its own private terrace or balcony and modern Balanced Power kitchen, equipped with time-saving features. Monthly payments from $105 include principle and interest, taxes, insurance, maintenance and reserves.

A furnished model apartment may be seen at 741 N. Euclid.

Predicts Boom in Remodeling

Next year is predicted to be a peak period in home remodeling in the Southern California area, according to a spokesman for the Southern California Plastering Institute.

"In the years since the post World War II building boom, many homes have become too small for growing families. In other cases, the homes are badly in need of alteration or repair," the spokesman said.

The Institute representative went on to point out that "the addition of bedrooms and bathrooms will, in many cases, give older homes comparable floor space and facilities with homes now being built."

Woodland Heights Appealing

Throngs of shoppers are being impressed daily with the architectural planning, quality features, and prestige location of the new development of Woodland Heights in the community of Orange.

The homes, which are praised for their privacy, entertaining ability, and family livability, are available for from $23,900 to $25,900 with only $995 down.

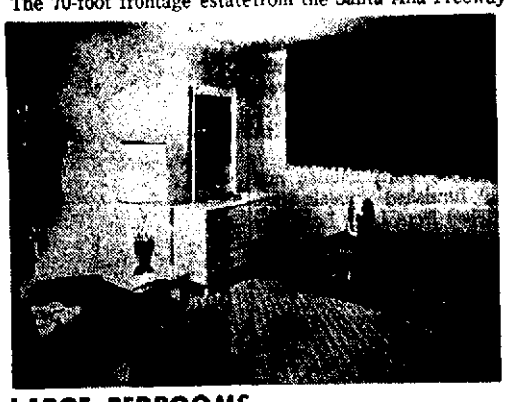

Scores of impressive exterior designs are now available as well as three and four bedroom plans.

* * * *

AMONG THE MANY reasons for the peak demand for these executive-type homes in Woodland Heights are the huge floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, slate entry ways, luxurious sunken Pompeii baths, elegant wall-to-wall carpeting, glamorous tiled kitchens with gleaming O'Keefe & Merritt appliances (built-in oven, range and automatic dishwasher), lovely wall murals, spacious kitchen and family rooms.

This new "Sponseller Built" development is near four elementary parochial schools, three Lutheran and one Catholic. Chapman College, a four-year liberal arts college, is also located in Orange.

The 70-foot frontage estate lots and lavishly furnished models are easy to reach from the Santa Ana Freeway.

Sound Construction Appealing to Garden Park Estate Buyers

Many purchasers of Garden Park Estates luxurious one and two-story residences, report that their home buying decision was greatly influenced by the fact that this is one of the few Orange County communities where sound construction employs the use of fire-resistant lath and plaster walls and ceilings, according to a spokesman for this development at Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Freeway.

A planned residential "walled" community, Garden Park Estates presents an exciting choice of conventional and contemporary exterior designs and a range of two-bath plans that includes two bedrooms with a convertible den, and three and four bedrooms with family rooms and dining rooms in the one-story elevations, plus the two-story homes with five big bedrooms.

* * * *

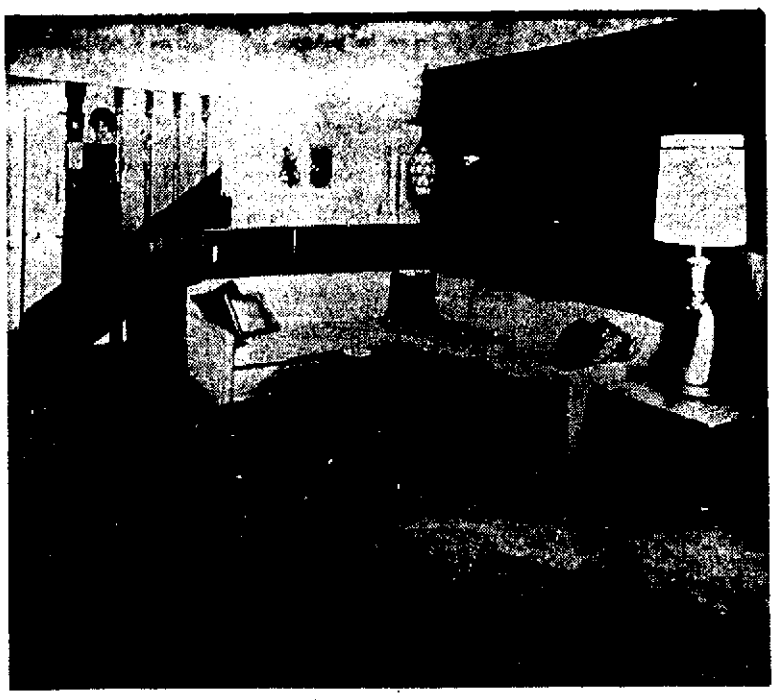

SPACIOUS, for they occupy two full stories, these last have three bedrooms on the second floor, one the master bedroom with its own beautiful fireplace. There are two large bedrooms on the first floor separated, for increased quiet and privacy, by the entry hall from the areas of activity. The second fireplace is the large living ruom.

Although Garden Park Estates residences boast many luxury and convenience features, full prices in the current unit are from just $17,800 to $25,600. Financing is extremely flexible, with choice of VA terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs, good conventional loans, Cal-Vet and choice of 30 or 35-year FHA loans.

Garden Park Estates and the furnished models, are reached from Long Beach by driving east on 7th St. past Long Beach State College, to Knott Ave. and the homes.

This master bedroom in a Garden Park Estates two-story model has a fireplace. Another fireplace is in the living room of this model.

WITH FOUR BEDROOMS

Park Estates, private walled community in Santa Ana, offers family-size three, four and five-bedroom homes in both one and two-story models. Pictured is room in two-story four-bedroom home with two baths and family room.

Two-Story Homes Seen Gaining

SANTA ANA — A definite trend toward two-story homes among Southern California homebuyers is indicated by a recent analysis of sales at Park Estates, Santa Ana, according to Farrow Realty, exclusive agents.

The new Henry C. Cox Co. development on Warner Avenue between Harbor and Bristol offers a wide selection of both one and two-story family homes, priced from $19,950. Three, 4- and 5-bedroom models are available with two baths and family rooms at the privately walled community.

History has shown that with prosperity and increased incomes, families tend to be larger, and two-story homes are more generally favored.

DICK MURRAY, Farrow Realty head, says that at the present time home sales throughout the country indicate a return to the traditional two-story homes. In addition he cites the separate formal dining room as a present popular demand dating back to earlier days.

Financial plans feature payments as low as $98.50 per month including principal and interest on GI no down; Cal Vet, FHA 5¼ per cent 35-year and conventional loans.

Decorator furnished models are open daily for inspection from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. at Warner Avenue and Raitt Street, Santa Ana.

First Family Moves Into Westmont Home

Orange County's new "space age community," the 1,100 home Westmont development in the Fountain Valley area of Huntington Beach, had its first occupants last week when Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shartzer moved into their big Bonus Room home, the developers, George M. Holstein and Sons report.

Shartzer, from Santa Maria, is with Douglas aviation in the firm's Skybolt division and has been with the firm nine years. The Shartzers with their children Diane, Johnny and Mary Jane were greeted as the new Westmont community's "first family" Friday.

* * * *

WITH THE NEW HOMES being occupied, the developer stressed that a good selection in the current unit is still available but going fast. "Buyers still have a limited number of plans and exteriors from which to choose and all with Christmas occupancy," the Westmont builders explained.

Priced from $19,995, the planned community is offering their three and four-bedroom homes with the big extra "Bonus Room" that gives buyers nearly 1800 square feet. The room is ideal for rumpus area, play room, or extra bedrooms, the Holstein organization pointed out.

* * * *

BOTH FHA and VA terms are available at the choice near-the-sea-location with cement driveways, extra big 7200 square foot lots, built-in gas kitchens, wood roofs, silent light switches, fireplaces, paneling, and many other features listed.

To reach the homes from the Long Beach area, stay East on Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St.) to Hwy. 39. Then turn right three miles to Westmont. The models are on the left side of the highway behind the new discount shopping center now being built to serve the area.

FIRST OF 1,100 FAMILIES

Mrs. Ray Haffdahl, saleslady, presents a bouquet to the first occupants of the giant Westmont community in Huntington Beach area. The newcomers are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shartzer of Santa Maria. Shartzer is with Douglas in the expanding Skybolt division. The new Douglas family is the first of 1,100 newcomers for the big Westmont community.

AT SITE OF JOHN BROWN TOWERS BUILDING

Work has started on high-rise John Brown Towers at 3745 Atlantic Ave. Participating in ground-breaking ceremony (from left): Hugh Gibbs, AIA, architect; Ray A. Myers, Myers Bros. Construction Co., Inc., builders; John Brown Jr., president of the John Brown Schools Foundation of California; and Clive Graham, realtor, influential in getting the project under way.

* * * *

IN MAKING the decision where to locate the John Brown Towers, the Board of Trustees selected a site in the Bixby Knolls area of Long Beach which was considered the finest available in Southern California because of its proximity to a shopping center, banks, post office, library, churches, good transportation and medical facilities.

Architect for the project is Hugh Gibbs, AIA, of Long Beach; and Myers Bros. Construction Co., Inc., of Los Angeles is the general contractor.

One of the driving forces in the long planning for the development has been Clinton H. Fowler, vice president of the Brown Foundation. He is credited with overcoming numerous problems along the way to start of construction.

The foundation was established in 1919. It now includes John Brown University at Siloam Springs, Ark.; Southern California Military Academy, Long Beach; Brown Military Academy, Glendora; and radio stations KGER, Long Beach, and KUOA and KUOA-FM, Siloam Springs.

NOW USED for dry farming, the land once was part of the Spanish land grant, Rancho Canon de Santa Ana, and belonged to Bernardo Yorba.

Reminiscing about the land, Harold Stern of Stern Realty remembered when the land was purchased by his father in 1926 as part of 2,000 acres. The price then was $150 per acre.

The tremendous increase in land values since that time is illustrated in the fact that the property was sold to the McCarthys and the Sants for $10,000 an acre.

Insurance Men Feted

Seventeen representatives of the Long Beach general agency of the Aetna Life Insurance Company were honored recently at a dinner at Vacation Village, San Diego, for their outstanding records in a national life insurance campaign.

Top man in the A. A. Norton General Agency was George P. Brown, who wrote a total of $300,000 in new life insurance protection during the month-long campaign. Other leaders were Ray Underwood of Long Beach, Vic Buzzelli of La Mirada and Sam Stewart of Gardena.

The Long Beach agency produced 287 per cent of its anticipated volume, writing more than $2.5 million worth of new life insurance protection during the October campaign, Norton stated.

East St., service station, $20,000; Interstate Electronics, 707 E. Vermont St., office, $12,000; City of Anaheim, equipment parking at 2135 Crescent Ave., $8,000;

CARNIVAL OF ART

By ELISE EMERY

Doors of Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., will swing open at 1 p.m. today for a week-long Carnival of Art.

The eventful program will be climaxed next Sunday with the fourth annual Art Auction, for which 325 professional artists have been invited to submit entries.

The carnival is a project of Friends of the Museum, and marks the first time an organization has taken over the museum for a week of activity.

How do the Friends—42 women and 2 men—feel about their undertaking?

"Wonderful—but edgy," they admit.

Each has labored for weeks on assignments and today will begin a final whirlwind of effort.

TODAY'S visitors may attend a reception from 1 to 5 p.m. and see for the first time 400 pieces of art to be auctioned next Sunday.

Oil paintings, water colors, ceramics, drawings, prints and sculpture will be displayed throughout the museum. Any work may be purchased at its pre-auction price, or viewers may select pieces for which they wish to bid later.

As in the past, the quality is kept high by restricting invitations to artists who have won recognition in juried exhibits or through leading commercial galleries. They come from as far north as San Luis Obispo, and as far south as San Diego.

Among those submitting works are Bettina Brendel, Dorothy Riggle, Margaret Bradshaw, Vic Smith, Elsa Nelson, Dick Swift, Larry Shep, Sister Mary Carita, Michael Arntz, Ward Youry, Robert Brants, Dr. Eugene Wallin, Anna Hayes, and Roland Shutt.

The museum will be closed Monday, according to regular schedule, and on Thanksgiving Day.

TUESDAY and Wednesday, pre-sales and previewing will continue; the museum will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

On Friday, Children's Day will feature fresh, delightful art produced by youngsters at the Friends' sponsored classes held at Long Beach State College, under instruction of Dorothy Lanier and Linda Penner.

Chairman of Children's Day is Mrs. Howard Hargrove; assistants are Mrs. Alfred Schmidt and Mrs. James Ferguson.

When the tots take over Friday, they will demonstrate their skill at collage and painting, and visiting children will be invited to participate as space allows. Members of the Friends will be on hand to see that all youngsters are served punch and cookies.

SATURDAY WILL belong to college students.

Those in Southern California schools, including the University of Southern California, Redlands University, the University of California at Los Angeles, Claremont and Scripps Colleges and many others will bring examples of their work. Many entries will be from Long Beach State and Long Beach City Colleges.

Their works will be on display and for sale from 1 until 4:30 p.m. They will not be included in the coming auction.

Mrs. Joseph E. D. Morris is chaiman of student day, and Mrs. Sumner Trent is co-chairman.

For the grand finale next Sunday, Frederick Black, director of the museum will greet guests and auction the first few items. He will be succeeded by Vito Romans, and later by Bob Jablonski, a member of the Friends, and Don Gill.

IN PREVIOUS years the auction was held out-of-doors, but will take place inside the museum this time.

"Last year, auction day was windy," explained a Friend. "Some of the women, raising their hands to put their hair in place, found their gestures were interpreted as bids, and almost wound up being owners of a work of art they hadn't intended to buy."

SUCCESS OF the auction is of vital concern, point out carnival co-chairmen Mrs. Bruce Murray and Mrs. Robert Hall.

"The Friends have pledged $500 for prizes in the museum's juried show this spring. We gave $500 last year, too, but that was after we had raised the money. This time, we've taken a chance and given our word in advance."

They sum up their undertaking this way:

WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson • I, P-T Women's Editor

LITTLE MISS Horner sat in a corner . . . and if her dinner partner didn't find her he's less of a kid than he oughta be—or thought he was—whatever the case may be.

That's the way things were Thursday when members of the Day Nursery Board returned to the world of childhood (or tried to) during annual gala dinner party at Rod and Cal Strong's home.

"Kids again"

The gimmick, and a surprise to all the men present, was that everyone was given the name of some nursery rhyme character. In addition the men were given some long ago clues to try and find their dinner partner. Slips of paper drawn said such cryptic things as, "She ate curds and whey" or "Your little Miss is quite contrary."

Baby bibs with names of Mother Goose favorites (made by Rod in her "spare" time during the hubbub of recent decorating) were de rigueur apparel. Making sure everyone had one firmly tucked under chin were party assistants Ruth and Maurey Hubbell and Frances and Henry Clock as the 38 hungry kids sat down to dinner. These included newest members of the usually august group . . . Joyce and Bert Paul, Louise and Paul McClaughry, Betty Barbee, Rubye and Lewis Kean, Ann and Sid Exley and Helen and Hugh Carter.

TRYING TO KEEP up with the Joneses last weekend would have required a suitcase if the keeping up was with Shirley and Howard. They winged off for San Francisco on one of those on-the-town type sprees. They drove a car back (for a friend) which enabled them to make enroute home stopover visits with Betty (nee McAfee) and Carl Stubenrauch in Palo Alto, Eunice and Ed Bramble in Hillsborough, Susan and Ken Fraser in Burlingame plus bonus visits in Monterey and San Simeon.

This will probably be Howard's last vacation from Convention Bureau chief chores until his resignation becomes effective first of the year. Everybody keeps asking him "Whaddya gonna do, whaddya gonna do?" and although he hasn't stated officially, as far as I know, I get the impression that he'll go into business for himself.

IF YOU WANT to build a travel appetite, just talk to Clare and Lynn Hossom. They're home from a complete heaven of a two month vacation tour of Europe.

First they flew to Scotland, rented a car and drove through the Highlands and moors of Loch Lomond. In Elie (across the Firth of Forth from Edinburgh) they were houseguests for a week of Sir and Lady Harvie-Wats whom they met five or six years ago aboard the Queen Elizabeth (and subsequently entertained here when the Harvie-Watts visited Southern California).

Well that was the grand beginning. After that they were in all the wonderful places . . . Austria, Italy, the Mediterranean (a 21-day cruise with stops at fabled ports), France and a final week in Paris. And that is only a mild sampling of their too-good-to-be-true travels.

* * * *

ENJOYING HER Christmas gift early is Dorothy Updike. Daughter and son-in-law, Joan and Bernard Cahier of Paris, France, arrived here last weekend, and will remain through Thanksgiving. Bernard and Joan were in Mexico City where he covered the Grand Prix races as part of his international sports reporting job.

* * * *

HERE . . . but not for much longer . . . are old (so they should pardon the expersion) favorite citizens of our town, Lorraine and Ed Penning. They arrived Monday, will take off again for current home in Portland today. Have been houseguesting with Hester and Brewster Gray.

IRREPRESSIBLE Pat Gilkie! She penned from Palm Springs that she let Walt out of her sight for about half an hour one day last week and when she caught up with him again he announced he had just bought a place down there. If I read the postmark right, they will have moved in by now (she said Thursday) with or without such things they didn't have as linens, blankets, pots or pans. "I need it like a hole in the head," wailed Pat (I have judiciously edited what she really said). Walt calmly countered with the airy rationalization that it was good breathing down there, would be beneficial.

* * * *

OLD FASHIONED hospitality like grandma used to offer will keynote Thursday all around town. As ovens bulge with turkeys here are how a few will spend the day: Betty and Homer Grant will host a family get-together for daughter and son-in-law, Sydney and Lt. George McCauley and grandson, Stephen, up from Coronado for the holiday. Dolly and Karl Ward will be at home with family and friends including daughter, Susan, due in from studies at Brigham Young U.

"Grandma type"

Jerry and Doris Young will cook up a storm for the family then pop the leftovers in the freezer while they enjoy a sunny jaunt to Phoenix. Lorraine and Harry Fulton will have the traditional family dinner at their home for her mother, Mrs. Will Winston, and the others including Willa and Dean Gilmore, Norma and Tom Brown and Nance and Bill Winston.

There'll be plenty of spiffy whiffs emanating from Tess and Francis Heusel's big kitchen, too, as they prepare for a throng of relatives.

* * * *

THERE'S NOTHING like a trip to Eugene, Ore., the way Nita and Joe Dunn just did it. In fact, a trip to Oregon is nothing like what the Dunns did. They went via Hong Kong.

That's a fact. After they had completed plans to go to Eugene to see son and daughter-in-law, Jim and Marylou, they won an expenses paid tour of the Orient. They have been in such places as Hong Kong, Taipai, Kyoto, Tokyo and Honolulu not to mention Las Vegas.

After they got back to the U. S. they picked up their car, drove to Nevada for a reunion visit with son, Jerry, who rendezvoused with them from his current stand in Oklahoma City. Then they drove him back to O. C., retraced their wheel tracks and did, in truth, eventually wind up at their original destination of Eugene. These devious, delightful travels ended Tuesday.

TRYING TO cover 1,000 miles in about six days, and counting on plenty of huffer puffer cooperation from the wind are the 38 sailboats currently vying in the annual Mazatlan race.

The race was scheduled to get under way at noon Saturday from the starting line at the Los Angeles Yacht Club. Alamitos Bay Yacht Club is being represented by "Bix" Bixby on his sleek craft, "Typee" and crewing for him are his son, Bixie, Sid Exley, Dick Russell, George Hart, Eric Erickson and Davy Crockett.

Flying the Long Beach Yacht Club burgee in the race is Stan Mashburn, skippering his 46-foot sailboat, "Kitten," and Clark Sweet at the helm of his 39-foot craft, "Jinker." Crewing for Stan are "Sandy" Lee, Dick Bell, Bill Goodwin, Lee Henley, Harry Moloscho and Paul Beecroft. Dunno whose aboard with Clark except that I heard one of them would be Haj Drake.

Most of the sailors wives will fly down to Mazatlan to be on hand for the always exciting finish line festivities.

STAIN-PROOFING

The other day a friend brought in her new Italian knit, worn once, white with a stain right in the front of the skirt. It was just too bad, for the stain couldn't be removed. Now there is no such thing as stain-proofing, but our Soft-n-Dry Sanitone process does make garments stain-resistant as well as water-resistant. Had the garment been so treated, this stain could not have entered the fabric fibers.

In a Jungle of Jumbled Jargonese

By MARY ELLIS
I. P-T Fashion Editor

Women may still have the last word—but fashion has more of them.

These days there are so many looks, so many silhouettes, so many "last word" in fashion that, were he living, Mr. Webster would have to work time and a half (union scale) to keep up.

In fact, after a week of covering resort-spring collections shown by California's top-flight designers. I feel like a walking encyclopedia of jumbled fashion jargon.

It's not like in the days of yore when, in a given season, THE look was a chemise or a man-tailored suit or a Gibson girl shirtwaist (by the way, I wasn't reporting fashions then).

Anyway, these days a fashion scribe on the scent of news and predictions has a pretty confusing time.

* * * *

IF YOU don't believe me, just take a look at notes gleaned from showings the past week.

Shown in the 34 collections previewed were the relaxed look, the blouson, the empire, the little boy look, little girl look, the western look, the playboy look, the princess, the fluid look, the nautical look and the demi-fit. For those who want to get away from it all, there's the French Foreign Legion look and the safari look.

Then, of course, there's the harried look of fashion editors.

It's rough enough just to keep up with dress styles. This year there's the sandal and the barefoot dress (new terms this season), the patio dress and the beach dress, the coat dress and the shirtmaker.

Also the cocktail dress and the after-five. The tennis dress (gone high fashion this season), the tent dress, the Bermuda dress, the sun dress and the moon dress (evening replacement for the sun dress), also the sheath, the shift, the shaft and the skimmer.

To outdo the "little nothing" dress, one designer has a "less than nothing" dress. Another has a fun dress called "The Thing." Still another has a fish tail and calls it the mermaid dress.

* * * *

AND then there are suits. There's the costume suit and the walking suit, the bolero and the cardigan, the cutaway and the sweater suit, the stroller, the theater suit and the Norfolk.

There are greatcoats and peacoats, Chesterfields and trench coats, all-weather coats, reversibles and cabana coats (just above the knees). One designer has a new penguin shape, another a lamp shade.

There are A-skirts and trouser skirts, tunics and overskirts, pencil skirts, tube skirts, wrapped skirts and match sticks, full skirts and slim ones (the accent this season in on slim skirts).

They may be tiered, paneled, pegged, fan-pleated, box-pleated, knife-pleated or permanent-pleated.

* * * *

SLEEVES ARE raglan, dolman, rolled, turned-up, puffed, flared, ruffled or not there at all. One designer has a new trick up his sleeve: they're removable.

Necklines are V-d (like in the new tennis dress), squared, scooped, cowled, jeweled, scarved and plunged. There are crew necks, turtle necks, and boat necks.

About fabrics. You would have to be a fashion astronaut to get around to them all. Newest are patents and leathers shaped into swimwear and sports clothes, also cloud-like fabrics fashioned into dresses that fold into a purse, come out completely uncrushed.

* * * *

BUT IT'S in casual and playclothes that designers really get carried away. They will go to any lengths to keep milady happy in this department.

Take pants. There are surfers, clam diggers, deck pants and bell-bottom trousers . . . calf-skinners, capris, toreodors, and matadors . . . deck-trousers, stretch pants, ski pants, and jeans . . . knee-skinners, hip huggers, sudan pants and safari pants. New this year are baseball knickers and surfcasters. One designer save teen-agers the trouble of cutting off their own jeans. Obligingly, he even leaves the edges frayed.

Pants are topped with popovers, skin diver blouses, cropped tops, fencer tunics, sailing shirts, skiff tops, bush shirts, jeep jackets, polo shirts, and, new this year, dugout shirts (baseball style). So you see how it is. I started out today to report the couture story but that will have to come next week —after I have alphabatized my thoughts.

Because, after all, how can a fashion scribe know what's in when she's so worn out?

Dazzling Dolls Travel

....in shopping bags!

A delegation of dazzling dolls "break the ice" for Ice Capades, the skating show that will open Tuesday, Nov. 27, at the Long Beach Arena for a six-day engagement. These hard-working ladies are garbed in exact replicas of costumes worn by members of the "Ice Ca-Pets."

Lavishly sequinned, feathered, rhinestoned and furred and insured for $500 each, the lovely girls travel chummily in ordinary paper shopping bags with their chaperone, Jeyne Brown.

Miss Brown reports that her miniature charges are good travelers, "but do have a tendency to lose sequins."

Costumes are the most costly item in a new Ice Capades. Performers in this year's show wear 550 costumes representing an investment of over $750,000.

The dolls wear a miniature of an actual skater's costume down to the wig and jewelry. They are used for testing color under lighting before the actual costumes are made.

The job of clothing an Ice Capades troupe offers some interesting problems. Beads and sequins must be waterproof, skirts must look full length, but clear the ice. Layers of synthetic fabrics are used for bouffant effects to avoid excessive weight. Jewelry is often sewn to the costume to facilitate quick changes.

The dolls have a year's tour of the United States and Canada in the bag as advance publicity women and then are retired to their main job back at headquarters. There they serve as a permanent costume record.

"LOOK MA, I'm skating!" And to the strains of Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody," in a gold lame overskirt, intricate design in black and white sequins and a blazing orange ruffled underskirt.

The Younger 'Baby' Needs the Attention

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I married the wrong man. I'm still in love with the guy I loved at 14. I married my husband on the rebound and said "yes," but I didn't love him.

I had a formal wedding and I didn't want to make anyone seem foolish. Now after two years of marriage I feel very, very foolish. My husband is like Hitler.

If you don't do as he wants—10 lashes for insubordination. But we have a baby and I cannot leave.

This other man loves my baby as if it were his own. He was at Mom's when I was having my pains and he said he felt each one. My husband didn't even care. All he worried about was the baby. Must I put up with him for the sake of my baby?—MOMMY.

DEAR MOMMY:

What Mommy needs is to stop being the baby. Your husband may lash out, but he loves your child. You did a foolish thing to marry without loving him, but you don't have to go right on being foolish.

When he demands subordination, rise to your full height as a woman and demand he desist. Then put your mind to loving your child's dad. Only a fool would run from one foolish match to another. You are a mother and it's up to you to DO the babying now. —M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My mother and daddy hate all my friends. They say they are cheap trash and like me only because we are rich. We are not rich and they are not cheap.

Honestly, Molly, my friends don't care whether I'm rich or poor and they ask me to their parties.

Now I have no friends at all because my mother called some of them and said how dared they invite HER daughter to one of their horrid parties. If you can help thousands of other people, surely you can help — SWEET SIXTEEN AND FRIENDLESS.

DEAR FRIENDLESS:

Your mother may not be correctly evaluating people, but you better value her advice anyway and see just who she'd want you to pal with. The day will come soon enough when you can pick or choose. I hope she is guiding you to know how to choose well.—M. M.

NOTE TO CHARG-A-PLATE: Clearing your accounts by charging him for his meals may be maddening, but it protects his credit creditably.—M. M.

MRS. JOHN W. GRAHAM affixes Alpha Omicron Pi's Thanksgiving seal to letter. Her design for the seal won over more than 50 entries in a national contest.

No Artist, but Her Seal Design Wins

By ELISE EMERY

A Long Beach housewife who admits, "I can't draw a thing," has designed a seal which promises to yield thousands of dollars for her sorority's scholarship fund.

In June, buoyant, blue-eyed Mrs. John W. Graham, 281 Santa Ana Ave., saw a notice in Alpha Omicron Pi's national magazine announcing a contest for a Thanksgiving seal design.

The seals were to be mailed to sorority members, who would be given the opportunity to buy them at one dollar a sheet.

The rules of the contest specified that only three colors could be used.

* * * *

"I KNEW I had to use black and white for the lettering, and our sorority color is red, so that problem was solved.

"I took my daughter Jane's crayons, grabbed a recipe card and dashed off the design in 15 minutes. I can't draw, so I traced the sorority's symbol, a red Jacqueminot rose, in the center of a square turned on end to form a diamond shape, added lettering on a scroll and that was that. There wasn't room for anything else."

* * * *

MRS. GRAHAM mailed her entry, then forgot it until late October when she had a phone call from Mrs. Verne W. McKinney of Los Angeles, president of Alpha Omicron Pi's Diamond Jubilee Anniversary Foundation, which administers the scholarship fund.

"Surprised when she told me I had won? You bet! That's hardly the word!"

Some 30,000 sheets of seals have been mailed to sorority members. Response has been enthusiastic. Within the first week, more than 2,000 replies — with money — came back to Dorothy Matchett of Chicago, treasurer of the foundation, and letters still are pouring in.

* * * *

OFFICIALS have set a scholarship fund goal of $1 million by Alpha Omicron Pi's 75th anniversary in 1972.

Although there is no material prize for the first place award—only the honor of winning—Mrs. Graham says happily, "I'm delighted if anything I can do will help us reach our goal. It's fun to repay, in small measure, for all the help and joy my sorority has brought me."

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Not a Safe Assumption

DEAR ABBY: We received an invitation to a wedding. It was addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. . . ." and then our names. Is it safe to assume that our children are invited? They are not babies. They are 9 and 11 and conduct themselves like a little lady and little gentleman. The people who sent it know we don't go anywhere without our children. The wedding is to be held in a fine hotel. We think attending adult functions helps develop poise in children. We will abide by your decision.—MR. AND MRS.

ABBY

DEAR MR. AND MRS.: I agree, attending adult social functions does indeed develop "poise" in children—but unless they are specifically invited, it develops ulcers in the hostess. Leave the little lady and little gentleman at home.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: You were right about the honor system not working. And it won't work until the students themselves make it work. And I don't mean "tattling" to the teacher. If they can put the screws on someone who dresses oddly, why can't they put the screws on someone who cheats? Young people should have integrity and I can see no better way of cultivating it than ostracizing those among their own peers who cheat. I'd like to know what the students think about this.—C.A.A. (Pastor)

DEAR ABBY: I am a volunteer group work leader. I have been a faithful reader of your column for many years. I used some of your letters to help discourage young people from going steady and now I have something for you! It's called the Ten Commandments for Teen-Agers. You are welcome to use it. I never did know who wrote it.—MRS. G. W. SCHULTZ

1. Stop and think before you drink.
2. Don't let your parents down. They brought you up.
3. Be humble enough to obey; you will be giving orders yourself one day.
4. Turn away from unclean thinking at the first moment.
5. Don't show off when you're driving. If you want to race, go to Indianapolis.
6. Choose a date who would make a good mate.
7. Go to church faithfully. The Creator gives us a week. Give Him back an hour.
8. Choose your companions carefully. You become what they are.
9. Avoid following the crowd. Be an engine, not a caboose.
10. Or better still, keep the original Ten Commandments.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Wonderful Things Happen to a Hastings Graduate

Dear Mrs. Hastings and Mrs. Krec:

Your time and energy spent on me during my classes with you are paying off double and triple-fold here in Tennessee. I cannot express my gratitude and sincere appreciation in words.

The people in this area are truly delightful. I enjoy each day spent more than the last. New experiences come my way everywhere.

Since my arrival in early September I have pledged Kappa Delta sorority, have been elected dormitory president for the year, was selected as pledge-of-the-week, and will represent Kappa Delta in the Sigma Chi derby figure contest next weekend.

None of these wonderful things would have happened to the Cathy Dodson that came to you a year ago!

I am having the time-of-my-life here at U-T, and wish to thank you so very much for your invaluable help in making all of this possible.

Most Sincerely,
Cathy Dodson

How Does South Go?

According to the proprieties of bridge, declarer is privileged to study as long as he wishes before playing to the first trick. Later any player may study if it is his lead or if he has a valid problem. If he wishes to plan later plays, he may study and announce that he is looking ahead. In all other instances he is supposed to play without long hesitation.

Few people play in this colorless fashion and almost everyone has little giveaways that may be of great help to alert opponents.

It is perfectly proper to take advantage of your opponents' mannerisms, but you do so at your peril.

TODAY'S hand is the contribution of our British cousins. The problem is to find South's best line of play against opponents he has never seen before.

South has to win all three heart tricks in order to make seven no-trump contract and according to the British author his correct play is to win the first club in his own hand, pause a few seconds and lead the jack of spades. He should study West's reaction for future reference. Then he should go up with dummy's ace, return to his own hand with another club and lead the jack of hearts. Should West play low in the same manner he should rise with dummy's ace and play East for the queen. Should West react differently, he should finesse against him immediately.

L.B. Symphony Concert Program Is Previewed

Long Beach Symphony Guild and Junior League of Long Beach opened their symphony season Tuesday morning at Virginia Country Club with a record breaking audience of more than 200.

Henry Lewis, assistant conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic, discussed the program which Long Beach Symphony Orchestra will play tonight at 8 o'clock when it opens its regular concert series in Long Beach City College Auditorium. The box office will open at 7 p.m.

In a rich, deep voice and gesturing frequently — almost as though he were conducting — Lewis spoke informally and warmly of the music. As a departure from the usual preview format, he used neither a musical instrument nor recordings to illustrate his points.

* * * *

THE PROGRAM will open with Suite from "Dardanus," a rearrangement of ballet music from the work composed in 1739 by J. Philippe Rameau for the Paris Opera.

"Theorist, composer and organist, Rameau wrote a treatise on harmony which was the most important of his time and has had lasting influence. In his own day, when the Paris Opera was known for its spectacular effects and elaborate ballets, Rameau was criticized for the lack of melody and harmony in his work. Today, however, we regard him as the most pure of classicists.

"This suite sounds very modern, with its use of contrapuntal and syncopated rhythms. We sense a kinship to Handel's "Water Music Suite."

* * * *

LEWIS NOTED that although pianist Malcolm Frager, tonight's concert soloist, is only 27 he has won the $3,000 "toughest of all international contests, Belgium's Queen Elisabeth Concours" and the prized American Leventritt Competition.

Tonight, with Lauris Jones conducting, he will play Prokofieff's "Concerto No. 2."

"This is a grand piece in the romantic style of Tchaikovsky or Rachmaninoff. It is most typical of Prokfieff with conventional music spiked with percussion and dissonant effects. The first movement begins with a beautiful melody and ends with a grand, long cadenza.

* * * *

THE SECOND movement

is a quick, lively scherzo. The third begins with a slow march rhythm and soon the listener realizes he is hearing Prokofieff's satiric humor, a very droll joke, making use of instruments in a surprisingly way. The composer is not quite serious and that is the way to listen — in a spirit of fun."

The rest of the program is devoted to Wagner.

"This composer is the audience's delight, but not always the conductor's.

"The conductor can be sure of one thing, though, when Wagner is on the program: the brass players, sometimes the bad boys of the orchestra, really come alive. They want to spend the whole time rehearsing Wagner."

* * * *

TONIGHT'S program will include Ride of the Valkyries and Magic Fire Music from "Die Walkure," and Dance of the Apprentices and Procession of the Mastersingers from "Die Meistersinger."

The "Die Walkure" numbers are powerful, sentimental, poignant, foreboding. The "Die Meistersinger" selections, in contrast, are happy, joyous and bright.

Lewis delighted his audience with some off-stage glimpses of his private life with his wife, opera star Marilyn Horne, formerly of Long Beach.

* * * *

"MUSICIANS TEND to be temperamental. This is not a problem when just one of us is performing, but when both of us are, things can be pretty tense!"

The speaker concluded with a discussion of recent difficulties besetting the Los Angeles orchestra, and with a question and answer period.

Dick Swift Wins $1,000 Award

By ELISE EMERY

Dick Swift, 115 Third St., Seal Beach, has won the Rocco Di Marco purchase prize art award of $1,000.

Swift is an associate professor of art at Long Beach State College. He competed in the third biennial National Religious Art Exhibition in Birmingham, Mich. and won with a set of 14 prints representing the "Stations of the Cross." His work also was named "Most Outstanding" in the national, invitational competition.

MEMBERS of Seal Beach Artists League put aside their big brushes and huge canvases and have produced an array of diminutive works for their "Little Show" of miniatures.

The small pieces will hang with the pre-Christmas show until January at the Art Center Gallery, Ocean and Main, Seal Beach. Hours are 1 to 5 and 7 to 10 p.m. daily, including Sunday.

Included in the Little Show are Dirk Smith's palette knife landscapes, Crandal Norton's monotone seascapes, president Al Danfeldt's water color scenes of the waterfront, and Marie Bucher's portrait of a child in an antique gold frame.

TWENTY-SIX lithographs by the Latvian painter and draftsman, Abel Pann will remain on view at Temple Israel Social Hall, Third Street and Loma Avenue, until Nov. 25. They depict scenes from the Book of Genesis and are on loan from the Magnes Museum in Oakland.

Pann studied art in Paris under Toulouse-Lautrec and was awarded the Prix Nationale of the Academie des Beaux Arts.

He visited Israel in 1913, then settled there in 1920 when he began his Biblical works. His illustrations represent the first colored lithographs produced in Israel.

The collection may be seen without charge during the day and evening whenever the temple is open.

LUCILLE STILLINGS of Long Beach Art Association is showing 20 paintings, most of them water colors, at Magnolia Theater during November.

The artist was an honored guest at the theater and one of the paintings on display, "The Lute Player," already has been sold.

Tuesday, LBAA members will attend an illustrated lecture by Dr. Josephine Schultz, "Reflections on European Art," featuring color slides she made during a European tour. Dr. Schultz is professor of art at Long Beach State College.

TO ACCOMODATE the huge crowds visiting the Tut-Ankh-Amun Treasures exhibition at Los Angeles County Museum, additional visiting hours have been scheduled.

The show may be seen from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sundays, Tuesdays and Fridays; from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. the rest of the week, including Mondays when the museum is ordinarily closed. There is a small admission fee. The exhibit will remain through Dec. 2.

More than 10,000 visitors saw the treasures during the opening weekend in November, and total attendance figures are expected to set a new high for exhibitions in Los Angeles.

ROBERT R. WARK, curator at Huntington Library and Art Gallery in San Marino, and lecturer in art history at the University of Southern California, will give an illustrated public lecture Monday at 8 p.m. in Room 101, Harris Hall, on the USC campus.

His topic will be "Rowlandson's Tour in a Post Chaise."

Thomas Rowlandson, 1756-1827, was a painter of English genre and a cartoonist during the reign of King George III. In 1780 he toured from London to the New Forest and the Isle of Wight. Wark retraced this journey in September, 1961, photographing locations and subjects of Rowlandson's sketchbook.

LBAA Juried Show Reflects Many Media

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

One of the most sparkling exhibits yet to be seen at the Villa Riviera gallery of Long Beach Art Association continues until the end of the month. It looks as though a number of the artist-members may hold back some of their better efforts for this Annual Fall Juried show.

While it would be difficult to quarrel with the knowledgeable jurying and awarding of Fred Black, director of the Long Beach Museum of Art, it must have been a challenging experience even for such an old hand. There is an intriguing variety of original personal statements in many media.

Dr. Eugene Wallin's "Untitled" water color combines surrealist overtones with a dynamic approach which evolves naturally from the work he has been doing in this medium for several years. This example seems more decisive and effective than earlier ones.

* * * *

JENTARO SHIMA'S carved wooden head has a timeless serenity that is perfectly beautiful and the more remarkable since it is, for him, an achievement reached in his seventh decade. "Allegory" by Ralph Tarzian is a large sheet metal sculpture of elipses which is eloquent indeed.

Grace Dimmick in both her winning "Enegma" and in "Pieta" revels in the luxury of paint and color. Lee Beck's "Matrix" has an iridescent light shining through the dark marine blues and brick hues of a dismembered human form, whereas her "Winter End" burbles with new life bursting in greens, yellow, and blues through a bank of winter snow.

* * * *

M. D. FORE brings to "Sunday Eve" an elegance of color and pattern with a mother and children of, apparently, some South Sea Isle moving between a shining white foreground and brown background. Fore's sophistication also comes through in "What Is A Weed?", a sephia and black line drawing of whirling abstract forms.

My only criticism of this show is that most works are priced above the venturing spirit of most amateur collectors. It has been my hope that this fine group would be the answer for the many interested people in the community who would like to buy an original work of art, but are not ready to invest in the three-figure category.

The ballet is based on "Alice in Wonderland."

Slate Two Workshop Sessions

In collaboration with the music department of University of Southern California, Los Angeles County Department of Parks and Recreation will sponsor an advanced music workshop on the art of conducting an orchestra on Saturday, Dec. 8, and Saturday, Dec. 15.

The seminar will be headed by Herbert Weiskopf, who is the conductor of the Beverly Hills Symphony.

Serving in a panel to assist Weiskopf will be the following musicians: Jay Rubanoff, artistic assistant for Hollywood Bowl; Dr. Raymond Kendall, dean of the School of Music at USC; and Dr. Robert Holmes, music director at Beverly Hills High School.

Bovard Auditorium, on the USC campus, will be the site for the workshop. Hours on Dec. 8 will be from 1 to 4 p.m., and on Dec. 15 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

* * * *

TO HELP defray the cost of leadership and incidentals, a pre-registration fee of $1.50 is required and may be sent to Earl Conklin, County Department of Parks and Recreation, 155 W. Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles 15.

Conductor Weiskopf, prior to World War II, was director of the Radio Symphony Orchestra at Prague, Czechoslovakia. Since the war he has been conductor of the Santa Barbara Symphony, and director of Opera at the Los Angeles Conservatory.

At the forthcoming workshops there will be audience participation in discussion with the panel and Weiskopf.

The workshops will include basic techniques applied to choral groups, orchestra in concert with instrumental and vocal soloists, and chorus.

MAJOR & MINOR NOTES

Konya Triumphs in Opera

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

In the beautiful home of Dr. and Mrs. Alex Kadvany in Long Beach I recently had the great privilege of interviewing the world-famous tenor, Sandor Konya. Both Dr. Kadvany and Konya are Hungarians and have long been friends.

My own high praise of Konya's singing with the San Francisco Opera both this season and last, has been reiterated in the New York press after his signal success as Walther in "Die Meistersinger" by Wagner during the first week of the Metropolitan Opera season this year.

Time magazine in recounting the magnificence of the new production which cost $125,000 and was a gift of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., relates: "Hungarian-born tenor Konya displayed a voice that had warmth, agility and power to spare. In his last act Prize Song he came as close as any man can to stopping a Wagnerian opera in its tracks."

Incidentally, this tremendous success at his debut has netted Konya a five-year contract with the Metropolitan Opera.

* * * *

"HOW IS IT that great tenors are always so handsome? I thought, as I sat beside this fascinating man. His beautiful blue eyes had darker blue pupils that dilated with enthusiasm or laughter. On the stage, too, his eyes are arresting with changing expressions. Soft, light brown hair was combed smoothly back and the small mouth covered dazzling white teeth. With so much perfection of features it was interesting to note how strong and full of character was this man's face. But the overall impression was one of kindness.

Sandor Konya

* * * *

AT 40 YEARS of age Sandor Konya has lived a lifetime already. As a boy soprano in Budapest, Hungary, where he was born, he sang over the radio and in the church choirs, and at 18 he entered the Franz Liszt Academy, studying piano, voice, composition, etc.

After two years the Germans swarmed over Hungary and Sandor became a soldier, fighting for his country's freedom. In 1944 he was taken prisoner by the Germans and sent to an English prison in northern Germany where he remained for one-and-a-half years.

"But when one can sing," he said, "the doors are always opening. I gave concerts at the different camps and made friends."

* * * *

ONE FAMILY took a special interest in the young man and bid him to their house for three months, during which time he learned to speak German. Using his German and posing as a native of a German province in Hungary, he was given special privileges and finally escaped to Berlin.

His beautiful voice brought him an audition at the Berlin Opera House in West Berlin.

"That is where I got my operatic training and experience," he said. Today he knows 48 operas and sings in German, French and Italian. In one week he will sing "Lohengrin" at La Scala in Italian and in German at the Vienna Opera. "Carmen" he sings in French.

* * * *

"LUCKILY, I am a fast learner," he told us. "I never go to the piano to study my roles. I read the score and memorize as I go."

This is a fabulous gift and a rare one.

His success in Bayreuth last summer was so extraordinary that women lined the path as he left the theater, throwing down their mink stoles for him to walk upon!

Dr. Connell to Play at Dedication

Dr. William F. Connell Jr. will play a recital next Sunday at 7:30 p.m. when First Presbyterian Church of Lakewood, 3955 Studebaker Road, dedicates its new Allen Electronic organ.

His program will include numbers by Purcell, Yon, Handel, Clerambault, Bach, Campra, Connell, Dupre, Frescobaldi and Gastorus.

Dr. Connell has played concerts throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico and recently was organ soloist at Hollywood Bowl.

* * * *

HE HAS been a member of the executive board of the American Guild of Organists for many years. In 1960 he was honored with membership in the Royal Canadian College of Organists.

He has studied with Ethel C. Holmes, Dr. T. Tertius Noble, Pietro Allesandro Yon and Marcel Dupre.

The public is invited to attend the recital.

Chapman College to Play First Concert of Season

Five compositions ranging from the 17th to the 20th centuries have been programmed for Chapman Symphony Orchestra's Fall Concert today at 0:30 p.m. in Chapman College Auditorium.

The free concert is the first of three to be presented this season by the college-sponsored community orchestra which is conducted by Dr. Ralph S. Smith, professor of music at Chapman.

Principal work on the program is "Symphony in G Minor" by Mozart.

Opening the program will be "By the Waters of Bahylon," an organ prelude by Bach which has been transcribed for orchestra.

Two works by English composers will also be performed by the orchestra, the "Trumpet Tune and Air" by Henry Purcell and the "Somerset Rhapsody" by Gustav Holst. The latter work is based on folk music from the Somerset region in England.

Concluding the program will be "Hungarian Peasant Songs and Dances" by Bela Bartok.

BOUQUETS FOR PEARL

Pearl McInnis can whip the drabest of blooms into an exciting floral masterpiece. For this, her 36 years of service at Virginia Country Club, members feel she deserves a few bouquets herself.

For Country Club Set . . .

A Pearl of Wisdom

By MARY NETH

Pearl is a jewel.

Anyone at Virginia Country Club will tell you so.

They all agree that Pearl McInnis has made their club an extra-special place.

For 37 years, this gracious grey-haired lady has pampered members — providing a personal brand of club planning that can't be equaled.

As assistant-manager-hostess, she never has arranged a party that lacked flair.

From floral centerpieces (her special talent) to food (her special interest), every club occassion has been THE occassion to Pearl.

Now, she is retiring.

Come February, she will say her final goodbyes and then, depart for Mexico for a long over-due vacation.

* * * *

SAYS CLUB member Art Lockhart, "There just aren't enough superlatives to describe Pearl. She has great talent and personality.

"She has known what we have wanted before we have," adds Mrs. Ray Green. "And, she's always so pleasant, so willing, so in command—how will we manage without her?"

Just what has made Mrs. McInnis such a stand-out hostess?

Perhaps, her success can be summed-up in a statement from Pearl herself.

"I've always felt," she says, "that club members deserve every little extra. The club should be an extension of home with the luxurious addition of personal attention and service."

But, this is not all that has made Pearl such a favorite. Her delight in the work has been a big factor, too.

"Every party I've given has been MY party and I've never felt qualms or lack of confidence in planning one," she continues.

* * * *

WHAT HAS this devotion to club meant to Pearl herself?

"It has rather eliminated my social life, but, has made up for it many times over in other ways. Where else would I have been able to express myself as creatively in flower arranging and party planning as here?"

Mrs. McInnis first came to the club in February of 1925.

Her first job? Waitress.

"My grand entrance was a smashing one," she says.

"The banquet tray I was balancing tilted and the contents crashed to the floor. I thought that was the end of my career. It wasn't. Everyone was quite lovely."

From waitress (she did learn to manage a tray, and now teaches others how), Mrs. McInnis moved up the ladder to head post, then became hostess and finally assistant to the manager.

She also has served as manager herself for two terms.

* * * *

DURING her years with the club, she has supervised parties, planned menus and hired and organized the staff.

She also has given lessons in table setting and flower arranging to teens and women's groups.

"Looking back I'd say the war years were the most memorable ones at the club," she says.

"We had terrific crowds (up to 400 for dinner). We were terribly busy but it was all very exciting. With the Red Cross station here, we really felt we were doing something important."

Besides her work at the club, Mrs. McInnis, who was widowed four years ago, has managed to rear a pretty wonderful set of offspring, too.

Her two sons, (both real estate brokers) and a daughter are all married and living in Southern California.

* * * *

WHAT ARE Pearl's plans for retirement?

She has decided to give courses in the social graces: entertaining and decorating.

"Unless I keep active I know I'll feel lost," she says. "The club has been much more than a job—it has been a big part of my life."

"My greatest job has been to greet guests at the club door—to catch their first reaction to the party decor."

"We will miss her," adds yet another club member. "Everyone knows and looks up to Pearl—she is a jewel."

Everything's Fair to Him

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I. P-T Food Editor

Chef of the Week

It sounds enigmatic but it's true! He works in-the-present on-a-specific future . . . the California World's Fair in 1967-68, Long Beach, yet, he won't, for one moment, make a personal plan for tomorrow.

He makes a fetish of being on time—and knows the importance of social amenities, yet, can't for the life of him, arrive at a party correctly attired. If it's informal, he manages to don the formal—if formal, he appears as the casual type. Connie (Mrs. McCannon), has decided to do her own checking on what-to-wear next time.

Professionally, today's Chef of the Week, Loren McCannon, is administrative vice president and assistant manager for the California World's Fair here.

McCannon was born on a farm in Greenwood, Ill. His arrival swelled the population to 101. He attended grammar school in Ringwood, Ill., population 200; progressed to the town of McHenry, 15,000 population, to attend high school.

* * * *

IN 1941, he came to San Diego, Calif., and joined the Consolidated Vultee Co. (now Convair). He remained more than two years as preflight inspector of B-24s.

World War II interrupted his plans. He joined the U. S. Army and was sent with the 27th Infantry to the South Pacific. He saw combat in Okinawa, before proceeding to Tokyo with the army of occupation.

Back to the States in April of '46, McCannon enrolled at San Diego State College. By attending summer classes and taking extra work, he graduated in three years with an AB degree.

In October, 1955, after five years as senior administrative analyst for the city of San Diego, he accepted the position of chief of budget and research division with the City of Long Beach. The following July he was appointed administrative assistant to City Manager Sam Vickers.

McCannon's next appointment came in April of '61 as assistant to City Manager John Mansell.

* * * *

IN THIS capacity his main interest was economic development, and thus was born "Long Beach Promotion, Inc." which is membered by a representative from all major civic groups. Its first job was coordination of the Arena construction project.

In his close contact with affairs of the city, he became more and more interested in the idea of a world's fair in Long Beach, and in September of this year he was appointed to his present position.

Aside from his city duties, McCannon has kept consistently active in the military. After he left the Army, he joined the California National Guard and was commissioned an operations officer, 4th Missile Battalion, Long Beach. It was the first National Guard Battalion to be converted in the Niki guard mission.

He remained with them until September of '61, when he transferred to the Army Reserve. With the rank of a major, he is associated with the Air Defense Army Reserve at Ft. MacArthur.

McCannon enjoys a game of golf when he can find time for it from his present project—rejuvenating an old home of 1906 vintage. With the assistance of "Mrs. Mac," they have finished the kitchen, the living room and are now ready to tackle the bedrooms. He has lost 15 pounds in the shuffle.

His recipe for pea soup is a family favorite. And those leeks in the above picture are NOT props — they're really real.

McCANNON'S PEA SOUP

2 quarts water
1 pkg. dried green peas
1 pkg. dried yellow peas
2 leeks—cut fine
1 bunch celery—cut fine
3 small onions—cut fine
Ham hocks (3 small)

Place in large dutch oven. Cook 3 or 4 hours over slow fire—or, for thick soup, all day. Add more water if necessary. Will serve 8 as main course. Reduce proportions for smaller quantity.

'BARBER OF CIVILITY'

Como Goes 'Home for the Holidays'

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UPI)—Perry Como, the well known Barber of Civility, was born 50 years ago in the town of Canonsburg, Pa., and grew up through a series of lazy Thanksgiving days in which the turkey trotted teasingly to table and the pumpkin found happiness in pie.

This wonderful guy (so nominated by all who have worked, played, or passed a random hello with him) will be going "Home for the Holidays" on his Wednesday night Thanksgiving show on NBC-TV (channel 4 at 9 p.m.). The place, as depicted on the show, will be a sort of everybody's-home-town, with the veteran Thomas Mitchell playing a variety of homey roles.

But, actually, Como will be toting a turkey home down in Jupiter, Fla., for his annual Thanksgiving get-together with his family and friends. Both the Como Thanksgiving and Christmas shows are taped long in advance so the whole cast and staff can take real-life holidays.

* * * *

ONE OF THE friendliest people you could hope to meet, Como caught a break in rehearsal, came over and plopped himself into a canvas chair and talked about his own private Thanksgiving time:

"We've been going there every year since we bought the, uh, tent we've got down there in Jupiter five or six years ago," he said. "One reason we go is that my daughter Terri goes to school near there.

"We cook up a couple of turkeys and we wind up with a houseful of people. My son David comes down all the way from school in Connecticut. I don't think my other son, Ronnie—he's 23 now—will be on hand because his wife is expecting her second child soon.

"How was Thanksgiving when I was a kid? Well, Canonsburg, where I come from, is strictly mining and steel. I'm one of 13 children. We couldn't have had relatives in for dinner because when all of us kids got in the house it was pretty loaded. But you know how Italians are—we made the visiting rounds later in the day.

* * * *

"YOU KNOW, I don't ever remember having a stuffed turkey when I was a kid. And when you tell people that, they say, 'What the heck did you have—a boiled turkey?' My mother used to cut up turkey like chicken, sort of in quarters, and put it in a great big pan in the oven with potatoes and things. I guess she did it that way because there were so many kids to feed, and you had to have a lot of turkey.

"My wife's home was in Meadow Lands, Pa., about three miles from Canonsburg. When we started going together, she came to dinner and she said: 'I never saw a turkey like that—where's the stuffing?' I said: 'I got news for you—they ain't gonna be no stuffing.'

"We've been married 30 years next July, and I met her a few years before that. I'm going to give her 30 more years, Doc, and if she doesn't get any better — she's out." And in a behind-the-hand aside, he added: "I'm not gonna tell you how much longer she's giving me."

"POOR WHITE TRASH" is coming!

Skelton Brings 'Mean Widdle Junior' to TV

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Red Skelton, who added the phrase "I dood it" to the language, will break his promise Tuesday by reviving "Junior," his "Mean Widdle Kid," on television, channel 2 at 8:30 p.m.).

The red head vowed 12 years ago that "Junior" was strictly a radio character and would not be done on television.

"I never wanted to do the kid on TV because visually it wouldn't come off so well," he said during a rehearsal at CBS-TV. "First of all I couldn't find anyone that much taller than me to play his mother.

"In radio the listeners could use their imaginations. But on TV how can you get the public to believe in a 55-year-old man, 6-feet-2, and with varicose veins running around in diapers?"

But that is exactly what Red has scheduled on his new hour-long show.

"I'M DOING IT THIS ONCE because the sketch is perfect for it," he said.

Until now Skelton has depended on his looney bin of daffy tried-and-true characters—Clem Kadiddlehopper, San Fernando Red, Cauliflower McPug, Dead Eye, Freddie the Freeloader, Bolivar Shagnasty and Lord Beaverhead.

His "mean widdle kid," however, was the most popular of them all during Red's radio heyday.

"Junior's" fame reached a peak during World War II when American bombers struck Tokyo. One famous headline read: "General Doolittle Dood It!"

"How you gonna top a thing like that," Skelton grinned. "After that experience I sort of put 'Junior' in moth balls."

TO A GENERATION of youngsters "Junior" was an escape valve for juvenile frustrations. He drove his parents to distraction in various bids for total independence from apron strings.

"But he wasn't delinquent," Red hastened to the defense.

"If he did something wrong, he knew he would be punished for it. Remember, he used to say: 'If I put the cat in the canary cage I get a whipping.' Then there'd be a thoughtful pause and he'd add, 'I dood it.'"

Oldtimers will recall that "Junior" was a great cryer, too. He would howl his head off after his ill-tempered mother had boxed his ears for such stunts as slicing bananas in the electric fan.

"If you ask me, 'Junior' is a shining example for American kids," Skelton said, chewing a foot-long cigar.

"He always knew right from wrong, even though he usually did the wrong thing. And every time he goofed his mother beat him up pretty good.

"My best memory of 'Junior' isn't funny. At the end of one wartime radio show 'Junior' told all the kids listening not to go to school the next day unless their parents gave them a dime to buy defese stamps. That week more defense stamps were bought in schools than ever before. The Defense Department gave me a special award for that."

RED SKELTON, playing "Junior, the Mean Widdle Kid," gives "Mother" Janis Paige a hard time during "The Red Skelton Hour" at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, channel 2. It's the first time Red has brought "Junior" to television. The "Widdle Kid" was one of Red's most popular radio acts.

OUR COVER

On his mark to dig into his Thanksgiving Day turkey is Quick Draw McGraw, "the slowest gun in the West."

Like the holiday fowl for most of our groaning tables, QD's cover bird came from the super-mart.

And well it is for slow-gun McGraw—and us, too—that times, if not tradition, have changed since the days of the pilgrims.

For few are the number among us who could match the turkey targetry of the pilgrims who bountifully provided their families—when the bounty was around to be fired at.

The aim of Thanksgiving, however, remains the same. It's a count-your-blessings day.

And when you tummies are full and you're feeling kind of slow-on-the-draw yourself, TV has several Thanksgiving Day specials ready to help you add the score.

Our club, the "Soupy Shufflers," wish to make you a member of our fan club.

In the past you've done wonderful articles on him.

But you also printed that your wife thinks he's "infantile." Well, I hope she's changed her mind now.

Peggy Morrison, Seal Beach

Thanks for the honor, but I'm afraid I must decline your membership offer. My wife won't let me join. Incidentally, she hasn't changed her mind.

* * * *

I want you to know how my husband and I enjoy "The Beverly Hillbillies." We think it's super.

We get more laughs out of that program, and as you know, a good laugh is the best tonic there is.

That program is a far cry from violence and sadness we see on most of the TV stations.

It certainly does one's heart good to watch those hillbillies.

Mrs. Muriel Fry, Long Beach

Any representatives of the American Medical Assn. who read this please be advised that Mrs. Fry is not advocating "The Beverly Hillbillies" as a heart tonic in the medical sense of the usage.

We are watching boxing from Mexico on channel 34. We wanted to watch the bullfights last night, but couldn't pick it up.

Tonight we found out why.

On our set it comes in on channel 74. Our set was purchased in Northern California six years ago.

Our UHF (ultra-high-frequency) hasn't been used in five years and it's interesting to be among the first to pick it up in Southern California.

Please tell us if channel 34's programs are coming from Mexico or Los Angeles.

Mrs. R. D. Gurzi, Long Beach

They are coming from Mexico in film shipments to be transmitted from Los Angeles. It is not necessary to purchase a set in Northern California to receive channel 34. Old Southern California sets can be converted—ask your TV repairman—for the purpose.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

In five years of daily television operation, ABC-TV's "Day in Court" has attracted more than 20 million viewers.

In the same period, it has helped pay for the college education of 35 honor law students at UCLA.

When the program was in the drawing-board stage, ABC budgeted $13,000 a year to retain an attorney to do basic research.

EDGAR ALLEN JONES

Professor Edgar Allan Jones Jr., who was slated for the TV judge job, had an alternate suggestion.

The $13,000 lawyer research fee, he contended, would simply buy a "mediocrity."

Why not take that money, instead, and allocate it among deserving law students, Jones proposed.

Let them do the basic research. Let them choose the type of cases to adapt for television airing.

Students in their third year of law school had the knowledge for the task. They would also be enthusiastic about the work.

ABC-TV agreed to try the plan.

Jones, who is a fulltime law professor at UCLA, put the plan in operation at his school.

HE INCORPORATED only one major restriction.

A student could not spend more than five hours a week on research for the television show.

This provision, Jones felt, would keep research for the TV program from overly interfering with a student's studies.

And the five hours certainly wouldn't be nearly as long a time as the selected student would have to work if he were to help finance his schooling with other part-time employment.

Jones does not select the students.

The choice is made by the school editors of "Law Review." The seven selected, all in their third year, all honor students, are chosen on a basis of scholarship and need.

When this fifth "Day in Court" TV year is over, ABC will have provided $75,000 for 35 honor law students.

For these students, educational television already is here.

New Comedienne

Garry Moore, whose Tuesday night CBS-TV show is without Carol Burnett's regular services this season, reportedly is considering another comedienne, Dorothy Loudon. She has been featured in the Broadway comedy "Nowhere to Go but Up."

OUR COVER

Southern California vineyards again have blossomed forth with a harvest of fine grapes, samples of which photographer Don FitzGerald caught in color—with Joan Hurst, Anaheim, the "Wine Queen" selected by the California Wine Advisory Board—for our cover. Grape production is California's largest fruit industry, with wine-making requiring most of the huge crop produced in the Southland. It is also one of the state's oldest industries. Miss Hurst's job, incidentally, is to invite visitors to the many Southland wineries to see wine-making at it height. More about the wine harvest on Page 7.

THIS WEEK

Wrestlers lack orchestral accompaniment, but when they begin their massive maneuvers there's music in muscle. Sometimes it's an aria in assassination or a rhapsody in rascality, mostly ending in a crescendo of right triumphing over might. Jerome Hall finds the music of mat mayhem in "Symphony in Sinew" in next Sunday's Southland.

Simple items, already at hand in most homes, go into making a shining tree for the table.

Christmas Tree of Foil

A GLITTERING Christmas tree for the table can be made quickly from aluminum foil, a coffee can, a wire coat hanger and a string of small Christmas beads.

Pack the coffee can with soil, punch a small hole in the center of the lid and insert a straight piece of wire coat hanger. Length of wire determines height of tree—a two-foot length is about right for an average table. Cover the can with foil.

Cut foil "branches" with pinking shears in long oval shapes, starting with the largest, about 10 inches long, and graduating down to about 11½ inches long. Make four of each size. Punch one end of largest size down over the wire next to can, pointing each of the four in different directions. Lightly crush one toward the center to give the tree a bushy look, turning up outward ends very slightly.

Keep adding branches to the wire, using smaller ones all the time, pointing them in different directions to give the tree uniformity, until the smallest ones are at the top. Fasten an ornament on top, drape a string of beads around the tree, decorate with colored glitter or angel hair and the tree is ready to place in the center of a large star cut from red felt or oilcloth. The tree can be used year after year.

Build a Castle for Christmas

By Lorena Fleissig

SUGGESTIVE of an Old World Christmas of medieval days is a catchy castle worked out of corrugated packing board such as finds wide modern use in shipping.

The decorative item pictured herewith was contrived from a base of this material used in packing an electrical appliance.

To make the castle towers shown here, the all-in-one piece of corrugated packing board is covered smoothly with gray-green wall paper. (Dampen the back of the paper with moist sponge and then apply paste).

A transparent rose window from a greeting card is set into a hole cut out and lined with gold braid. This window is charming if illuminated. Below this, a card representing a heavy cathedral door reveals a picture of the Nativity.

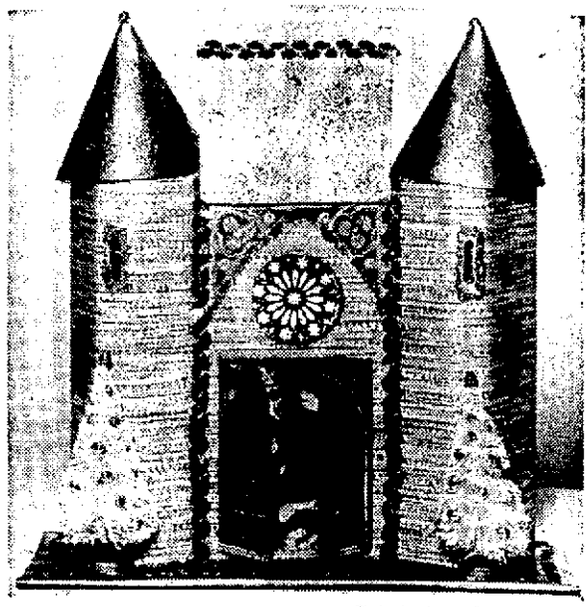

WHITE brushes are trimmed flush at the back and glued tightly to the towers form trees. Bright, narrow strips of satin ribbon of blue, red and green on a piece of copper shelf paper create magic windows with glittering gold borders.

The center roof is an oblong of cardboard sprayed with copper paint, bent over and secured to both sides. The cone-shaped roofs are paint strainers cut to fit and sprayed copper.

Brilliantly sequined (gold, green, red and purple) gold braid outlines the entrance and rooftop.

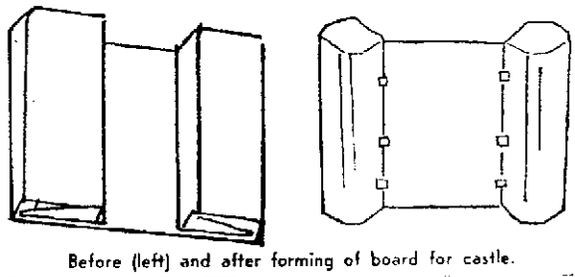

THE WHOLE structure is glued to a firm cardboard base (can be a sturdy box) covered with copper-colored shelf paper.

Braid and bits of braid ornament the base. A light spray of glue across the rooftops and a scant drift of gold glitter makes this a charmingly traditional decoration.

By Haskin

Q. When were television sets first sold to the U. S. public? When did commercial broadcasting start? C.L.

A. As an industry, television was launched on April 30, 1939, at the New York World's Fair, when Radio Corporation of America introduced a large set for public use and made receivers with 8x11-inch screens available for public purchase. On May 2, 1941, the Federal Communications Commission authorized commercial television effective July 1, 1941. It began on that date with 21 stations licensed in the country. First license went to WNBT, the NBC station in New York, which instituted service with four commercial sponsors.

Q. Did the Spanish found Mexico City? P.C.

A. Mexico City goes back to the days of the Aztecs. Tenochtitlan, a magnificent city, occupied the site of the present Mexico City from about the year 1300 and was capital of the Aztec empire. Cortez conquered and devastated it, 200 years later, and on its ruins built a new city as the Spanish capital in the New World. Mexico City's center is still the square which Cortez laid out.

Wine Harvest

California wines rank among the finest in the world and the wine industry is important one in the state. Above, vineyard and a winery at Cucamonga.

Wine Queen Joan Hurst views a field harvest of grapes with Ed Accamazzo, co-owner of "Original Cucamonga Winery." Wineries invite public tours.

By Don FitzGerald

IT'S WINE harvest time again and a colorful tradition which dates back to the founding days of California is unfolding among Southland vineyards, virtually unchanged in nearly 200 years.

For the vintner's art came to California along with its pioneer Spanish missionaries. Padre Junipero Serra is credited with planting the first wine grapes in 1769, near the San Diego Mission. Since then this "old world" art has flourished through generations of hard work to rank contemporary California wines among the best anywhere.

Today, just one hour's drive from home for most Southlanders, lies the vast Cucamonga wine-growing district, this nation's largest wine grape-producing region. The fall harvest there is in its last stages now with most of the grapes having been picked. Some squeezing will go on for another week or two but most vintners have their crops well on the way to becoming another fine vintage wine.

VISITORS to the many wineries in Cucamonga, Guasti, Etiwanda and Alta Loma this weekend will witness a ritual unchanged since Biblical times and before. Modern day wine-makers must rely on nature to ferment the fresh sweet juice into basic wine just as did ancient Greeks and Romans. Nature too will mature this wine to table perfection within wooden casks—or an amphora for that matter. No improvement on nature's way has yet been found.

Wine makers will show that if a handful of ripe grapes is crushed into a cup, it will turn into wine. Modern equipment and methods only allow greater production and quality control.

Wine making is a hospitable business. Virtually all regional wineries welcome visitors and are proud to explain and display their traditional skills. Many larger wineries have organized tours with guides explaining aromatic processes being witnessed. Most visits climax with a complimentary "wine-tasting" session.

HELPING the wine-maker these days is this country's trend to prepare gourmet foods—for along with a finer dinner menu comes the need for fine complementary wines. Many weekend travelers are finding winery visits the answer to more knowledgable wine selection.

Having seen the grapes picked, crushed, fermented, aged and bottled, and then to have made your selection from on-the-spot tasting, the resulting pleasure is sure to be just as rewarding today as it was to Padre Serra nearly 200 years ago.

We Still Give Thanks for Maize

At re-enactment of first Thanksgiving, a woman in Pilgrim costume cuts corn from cob at a table laden with corn, clams, lobsters, squash, wild pears and grapes. The scene is at "Plimoth Plantation" at Plymouth, Mass.

Plimoth Plantation Photos

Squanto shows Pilgrims how to fertilize corn with herring or alewives in planting.

By Betty Hardesty

MAIZE SAVED the lives of our Pilgrim Fathers, made possible their first Thanksgiving and was responsible for the survival of the Plymouth Colony. Maize, American Indian corn which had nourished natives of the Western Hemisphere for at least 3,600 years before the Pilgrims tasted it in 1621, has truly been called "the grain that built a hemisphere."

For the corn plant, whose extent and value exceeds that of all other cereals combined, Americans still give thanks. It is a national tradition reflected in harvest festivals, art, design, corn palaces, song and tales, especially of Thanksgiving.

The historic significance of Indian corn is featured in modern times in Plymouth, Mass., at "Plimoth Plantation," a reproduction of the colony. Summer visitors may see the maize waving in front of the replica of the first house. In spring, junior high school students re-enact the planting of corn as the Pilgrims were taught by the Indians. At Thanksgiving, women in Plymouth costume prepare maize as it was cooked for the first celebration.

ABUNDANT, adaptable and nourishing, maize altered many of the Pilgrams' habits and methods of eating and living after 1621, as corn products have continued to do for us throughout the growth of the colonies and the United States. Food stores brought by the Pilgrims were poor and inadequate: the beef and pork were tainted, the fish was rotten, butter and cheeses corrupted. European wheat and seeds did not mature well and, according to Gov. Bradford in "Of Plimouth Plantation," "the grim and grizzly face of starvation stared at them."

Fish and game were plentiful but the Pilgrims had no experience, training or equipment to obtain native foods. A plague in 1617-19 had left eastern Massachusetts comparatively bare of inhabitants at the time of the settlement at Plymouth. Unused corn fields of the Indian cultivators who had died were taken and planted by the weak, emaciated Plymouth men who might have lacked the strength to clear new fields. In April they "planted their corne, in which service Squanto stood them in great stead, showing them both ye manner how to set it, and after how to dress and tend it."

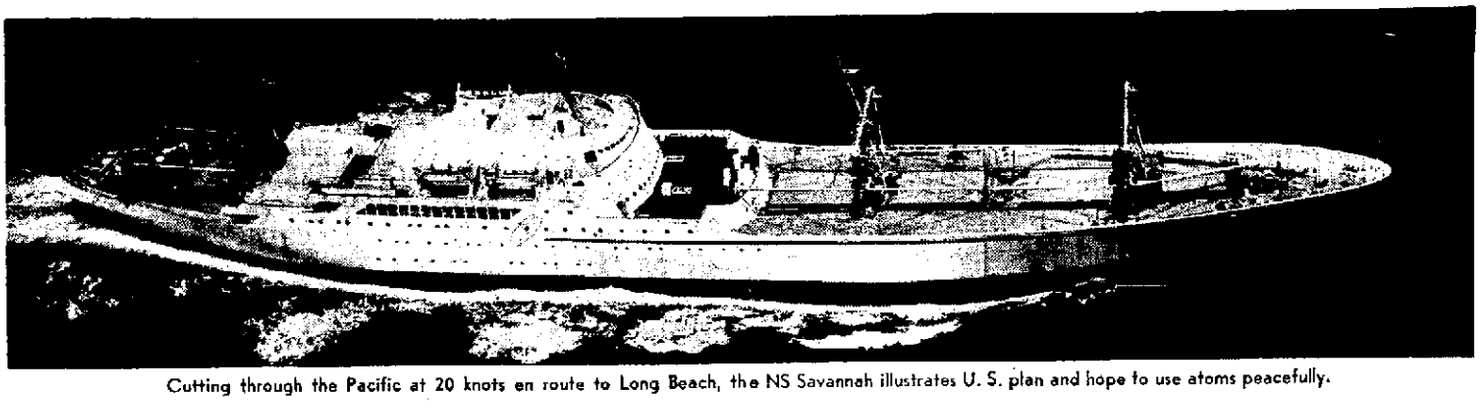

IN EACH hillock, three herring were placed spokewise, with their heads toward the center. With the several grains of corn dropped into the hole, seeds of squash or beans were also planted in the same hill, "the earth being mounded higher and higher as the plants grow." Twenty acres were planted to corn in 1621 and it was estimated by J. A. Godwin, writing "The Pilgrim Republic" in 1888, that there were 66,800 hills requiring 40 tons of fish.

The Indians used enclosures of stakes called weirs, to impound such quantities of herring as described by a Dutch official, De Rasieres, in 1627: "In one tide there were commonly 10,000 to 12,000 fish to be trapped at one setting of the weir." He also told of their practice of rotating crops and of allowing part of the land to lie fallow each year.

From this first spring planting came the most productive industry of the colony. At first the fields were communal, with poor results but on the third year when the governor granted each family a definite plot of land for their own, disaffection subsided. Soon the preparation of corn meal and corn dishes was a daily chore. Many foods used today are made from Indian corn and are still cooked just as the Indians taught the Pilgrims. Even Indian names persist: hominy, pone, suppawan and succotash. In those days, corn-on-the-cob was roasted on hot coals by steaming in wet seaweed or leaves but the favorite of the Indians was in stew with meat, fish, beans and squash.

THE HIGH nutritional value of Indian corn is explained by the fact that corn is an efficient plant for trapping the energy of the sun and converting it into food. Grown in every state and on three-fourths of all farms in the U. S., corn is the backbone of modern agriculture as it was in Plymouth. Mangelsdorf in "Mystery of Corn" calls it the most important plant in America. Its mystery lies in the absence of any trace of a wild parent, all known being cultivated varieties. The oldest found in North America goes back at least to 2000 B. C. but any boy would recognize it in spite of its smallness and primitive characteristics.

Although mankind consumes only small amounts of corn as vegetable, cereal and meal—transformed into meat, milk, eggs and other animal products—it is basic to civilization. In fact, if the corn crop of a recent year in U. S. was loaded into trucks containing 50 bushels, there would be enough to girdle the world at the equator nine times. Such abundance contrasts with the Pilgrims' ration of one bushel per family per year for which they gave thanks.

Cutting through the Pacific at 20 knots en route to Long Beach, the NS Savannah illustrates U. S. plan and hope to use atoms peacefully.

Skipper of the Savannah is Commodore Gaston de Groote.

Atom Era Dawns in the Maritime World

Southlanders to see A-power in action as nuclear ship Savannah visits Long Beach

Savannah Ultra Safe

The NS Savannah is considered foolproof against the worst possible disasters including:

COLLISION — A ramming ship would have to penetrate 17 feet of reinforced ship structure, a heavy collision bulkhead, a 2-foot collision mattress composed of 6 alternate layers of one-inch steel and three - inch laminated lumber and a 4-foot thick concrete and lead wall to reach the reactor containment vessel. The containment vessel weighs 275-tons and has steel walls 2½-inches thick. Safety experts say such an occurence is impossible.

SINKING — In this case the reactor automatically shuts down and a one-way valve allows flooding of the reactor, but prevents contaminated water from escaping. Should the ship sink in depths where salvage is impossible, lines would be lowered and the reactor would be filled with cement and abandoned.

RADIATION AND RUNAWAY REACTOR —The ship has 25 radiation monitoring stations. Should the radiation level exceed prescribed safe levels an alarm is sounded. Instruments also scan nuclear and non - nuclear elements and can automatically shut down the reactor. Should these fail, and the reactor begin to melt, mathematically improbable, the water in the cooling system would convert to steam and automatically cut off the reactor.

By Lou Jobst
Southland Magazine Marine Editor

SOUTHLANDERS will get a first look at nuclear energy in action when the world's only atomic-powered merchant ship, the NS Savannah, sails into Long Beach Harbor, November 28.

The 22,000-ton Savannah will spend about three weeks on her maiden visit to Southern California—eight days at Pier A in Long Beach followed by brief sea trials and a week in Los Angeles Harbor.

During that time the general public will go aboard at an expected daily rate of 12,000 persons to inspect the only nonmilitary nuclear vessel in the Free World.

One of the key purposes of the $42 million ship is to demonstrate peaceful use of the atom and to win worldwide acceptance of nuclear-powered merchantmen as both safe and practical.

IN THIS MISSION to date she has traveled more than 9,500 miles, including a visit to the World's Fair at Seattle.

Construction of the Savannah was first proposed by President Eisenhower in his famous Atoms for Peace speech of 1955. Congress authorized the project the following year and the keel was laid at Camden, N. J., on National Maritime Day, May 20, 1958.

More than a score of nations, including the USSR, which at the time was secretly building the nuclear-powered icebreaker Lenin, sent delegates to the shipyard to watch the construction.

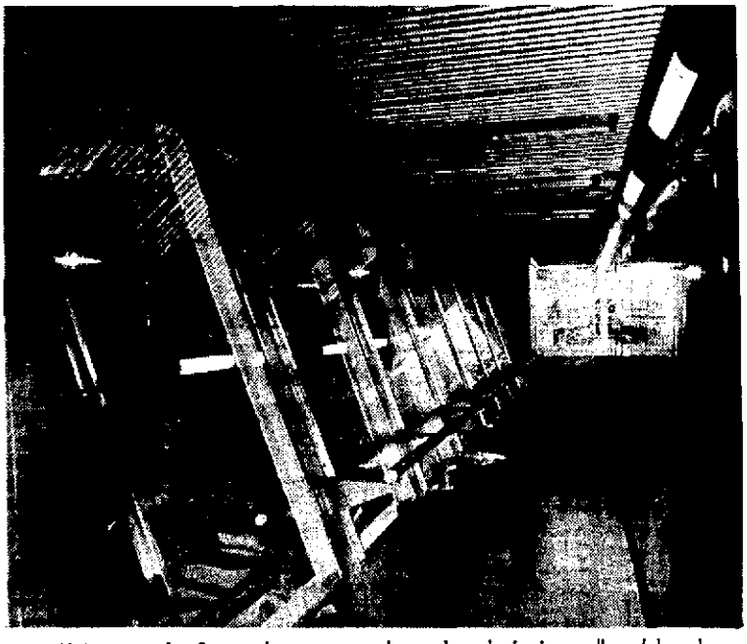

At her 1961 launching, the NS Savannah was christened for the SS Savannah, a 320-ton packet which became the first vessel to cross the Atlantic under steam power in 1819.

BOTH HAD their critics. The original Savannah had been called "Fickett's steam coffin"; the new namesake was termed "the smokestackless wonder" and the "floating fusion firecracker" by some. There the similarity ended.

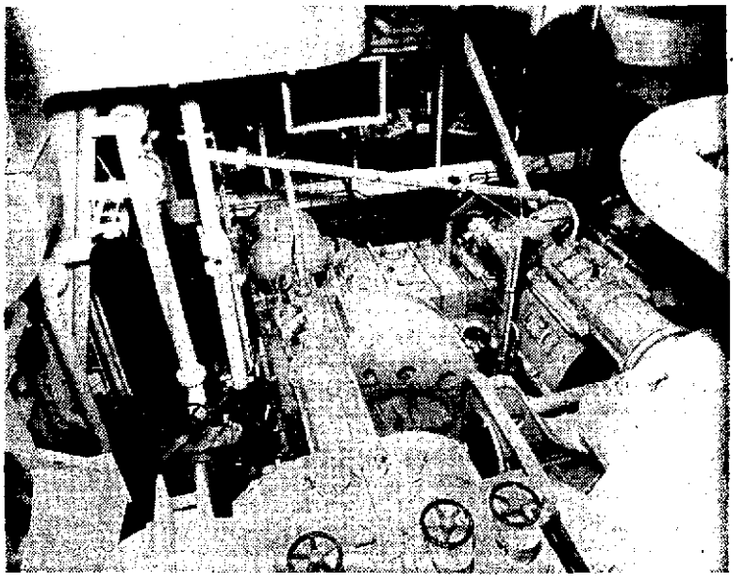

The 19th Century Savannah carried 100 tons of coal and 25 persons. Her engine generated 90 horsepower and the crossing to Liverpool took 90 days.

The 20th Century Savannah is 595.5 feet long and her reactor, powered by a uranium mixture, generates 20,000 horsepower and a cruising speed of 20 knots. She can carry 60 passengers and a crew of 110 and 10,000 tons in cargo. She can travel 350,000 miles—16 times around the world—without refueling.

Visitors to the Savannah may pass along glassed viewing gallery (above) to see the power center that drives this graceful and long-ranging vessel.

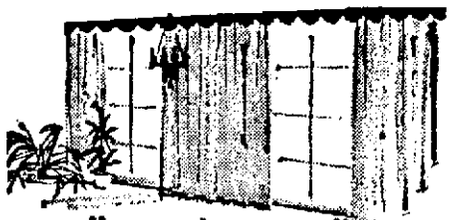

Engine room, propulsion system and reactor console are visible from the gallery. Some 12,000 visitors daily are expected during six-day call here.

What happens on USC and UCLA campuses before the 'Big Game'?

Pranks on the College Level

By Jerome Hall

THIS is the week that things come a bit unraveled at our major institutions of higher learning.

This is the week that the leaders of tomorrow take on a distinct resemblance to the children of yesterday — or maybe even the children of today.

This is the week of the Big Game.

For the next six days, students at the University of Southern California and the University of California at Los Angeles are going to be absorbed in studies. They're going to be studying ways to harass the rival undergraduates.

USC's red brick buildings may take on a new hue — splattered blue. The sun may dawn on bright red flag poles all across the UCLA campus. But whatever pranks are pulled this week, they'll have to be good ones to top the capers that have been pulled by students at both universities the past decade.

Perhaps the most ingenious stunt in the annals of intercollegiate harrassment was pulled off the day before the USC-UCLA football game of 1958.

AFTER WEEKS of planning that would have done the Brinks bandits proud, the USC students accomplished their goal. They had sneaked into the print shop where the Daily Bruin campus newspaper was printed, obtained copies of the stories that were to be used in the Big Game edition, and the USC students published a bogus edition of the UCLA paper.

Then the students kidnaped the truck driver who was delivering the Daily Bruin to the UCLA campus and replaced the genuine edition with the illegitimate one. Same stories, but the statements in them were slightly altered.

Next day the Daily Bruin blossomed forth with such stories as:

"I can't see any hope for our team," says the UCLA head football coach. The star athlete on the Westwood campus was quoted as saying "I'd feel much better about our chances against those terrific Trojans if we had a couple of players who understood the game."

Tommy Trojan, USC campus statue, has suffered long in the crosstown rivalry. Here he wears an anointment of paint a la UCLA.

IT WAS A GOOD trick, and it had to be to top the one the USC students pulled the year before. In 1957 a truly dedicated boy at USC had a plan. It was his idea to sabotage the card stunts that the Bruin rooters were to put on at halftime—card stunts that are famous the country over.

But how?

Well, this USC student joined the UCLA rally committee. Beginning with the first week in August, he showed up for meetings, posing as a UCLA student.

Week after week he finished his classes at USC, rushed 20 miles or so through heavy traffic to the UCLA campus and walked in nonchalantly to rally committee meetings as though he had just stepped from the next building.

Finally, his big chance was at hand. He struck in the dark of night only 12 hours before the Trojan-Bruin kickoff. With some quick juggling of multi-colored cardboard squares, he accomplished an astounding feat.

NEXT DAY, all the UCLA card tricks had a large "USC" in bright red and gold lettering in one corner. The card trick manager, standing on the field in front of the rooters, was dumbfounded. When the first design was flashed to the USC students sitting on the opposite side of the field, a tremendous cheer went up. The card trick leader quickly changed to the second design — and the "USC" was still in the upper corner, shining brightly to the Trojan rooters across the way, who yelled a little louder.

The card tricks were quickly changed from one to the next, but the result was always the same. Mr. Infiltrator had fixed every one.

That stunt was repeated by Caltech students in the 1961 Rose Bowl game, with the University of Washington rooting section the victim. That caper was accomplished by invading a dormitory at Long Beach State College where the Washington rally committee was quartered.

YEAR AFTER YEAR the schools have continued their trickery, but through it all, never has there been any serious trouble, which is remarkable when you consider how youngsters' tempers sometimes flare when the sacred ground of the campus is threatened. But there's sel-

UCLA students paint their giant C blue again, after Trojans had painted it red one night before rival teams met on the gridiron. Other stunts are more elaborate.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

'Contemporary Discount'

By Stella George

DECOR BECAME a family project when Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Lombrozo and their four children chose their home at 2662 Salmon Dr., Rossmoor, as the dwelling best suited to their needs.

Some of their wishes that were met here included a large entertaining area separated from the bedroom wing, and a living area, including kitchen, with easy access to the back yard.

The home has a large entry, a spacious living room with high beamed ceiling, separate dining room, kitchen, small family room off the kitchen, four bedrooms, and two baths.

Mrs. Lombrozo dreamed of a decorating scheme that would be attractive, individual and, above all, not too expensive. Her means of achieving this goal is interesting, and all her dreams came true.

She calls her decor a combination of "Early Attic" and "Contemporary Discount." It is probably more appropriate to say that the home is charmingly Californian with definitely elegant touches.

THE ENTRY has a slate floor as does the dining room beyond. The living room is carpeted in white. The total effect of the decorating theme in the living room is tasteful and pleasing, furnishings are obviously customed to the surroundings. The "behind-the-scenes" story of some of the pieces is interesting. The curved, comfortable couch was once two old sectionals which were recovered, with another matching piece added. The luxuriously large coffee table was an old dining room table, cut down from the top of the legs, rather than the bottom, so that the carved detail still remains. The stereo cabinet was the buffet that matched the table, now a low floor cabinet. "Heirloom" tables were purchased from a discount house at a cost of $5 each.

A Jaylis divider separates the dining room from the kitchen. On the other side of the kitchen is a small family room where every member can watch TV and dine in comfort and style.

WALL COVERING in the kitchen and family room is worthy of note. It appears to be white brick. Actually it is a vinyl fabric that looks like brick. The covering on the wall behind the couch in the family room brings forth another story: Mrs. Lombrozo's father is an expert woodcarver who learned the trade in Russia many years ago, and his business has taken him into many magnificent homes belonging to wealthy and famous people. This particular wallpaper once adorned a wall of a star's home. He saved a small piece which is equally suitable for the wall in the Lombrozo's family room; in fact, it is more than suitable, it was "made" for the room.

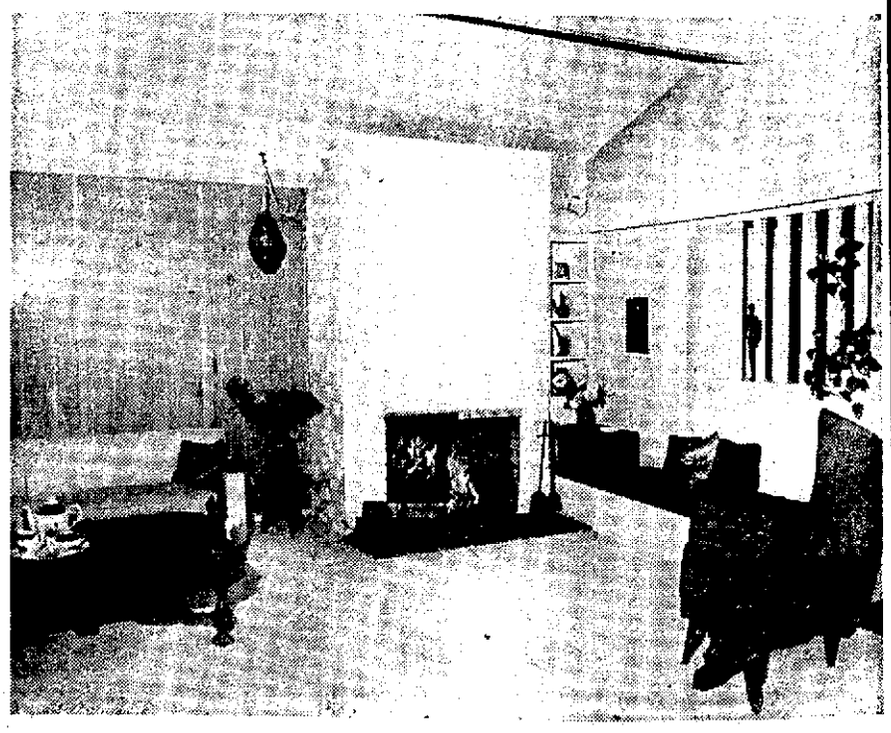

The Lombrozo's allowed the children to help select and plan the decorating scheme of their rooms. The oldest boy's room (like the others) is designed to make it appear much larger than it actual size and to provide plenty of play space.

The box bed was made to order. Storage drawers under the bed accommodate toys, clothes and treasures. The bed looks like a couch in the daytime with its bright red cover. A refinished used oak desk has bookshelves above and bulletin space convenient for daily reminders and thumb-tacked memoirs. Antlers decorate the walls, lending a masculine touch.

THE GIRL'S room is dainty and feminine with a frilly bedspread and dressing table skirt to match. A maple rocker and desk complete the functional pieces, with necessary bookshelves above the desk.

The two younger boys share a room that is expertly furnished to make both boys happy. Two boxbeds with storage drawers below each one afford a private place for personal belongings of each boy. Between the beds is a bright red rug (on top of the champagne carpet underneath). A circus motif prevails: cornices are red and white striped; there is a giraffe bookcase; and the gay red color that predominates in both bright bedspreads.

In the master bedroom shutters cover the windows. The bedspread is quilted antique satin in a pale lavender shade. One corner is devoted to desk and work area. The "early attic" chests were refinished in antique style with the final coat of paint rubbed in with steel wool.

The Lombrozos have plans for adding to the home in such a way that it will increase the present size about one-third. As it is today, it is an excellent home for a family of six, with every room used and enjoyed to the fullest.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Modern Efficiency, Traditional Charm

Family room, where much of modern living is done, is in handy association with the kitchen through folding doors. This is an artist's conception of the layout.

Center hall assures excellent traffic circulation to all areas, including the basement. Note the bathroom arrangement, 1½ baths in a single compartmented unit.

By Jules Loh

IN today's headlong search for economy and efficiency and all the other house-ad adjectives designed to lure budget-minded couples, many modern homes wind up with about as much warmth and charm as a supermarket.

It doesn't have to be the case—which is precisely why this attractive, and modern, three bedroom home was chosen as the house of the week. It is design B-88, by architect Lester Cohen.

The comfortable look about this house—its trim flagstone front porch, picture window with leaded panes, long planter box, cupola with weather vane atop the garage—almost belies the up to date efficiency of the interior design.

But the floor plan shows it is a well-ordered home suited to the taste of the most practical homemaker.

FOR EXAMPLE, look at the bathroom arrangement. Technically it would be described as a bath and a half, but all the facilities are in one compartment unit. There are two toilets, two washstands and one tub, and the result is a complete family bathroom, a private bathroom for the master bedroom, and a powder room for guests. The towel closet, incidentally, contains a laundry chute emptying into the basement.

Though the house contains only 1,396 square feet of living area, its rooms are spacious and well planned. The living room, in fact, is 19 feet across the front and, flowing as it does into a dining ell, more than 20 feet front to back.

The 15x11-foot family room is separated from the 13x9-foot-8 inch kitchen by folding doors, thus offering either two private rooms or one large informal living expanse.

INCLUDING the double garage, the house is 69 feet wide by 39 feet deep. The design calls for wood siding throughout, with accents of vertical board siding in the front on the living room side and brick on the front bedroom side.

Cohen paid as much attention to the grace and charm of the interior of this home as he did the exterior. An indication is the alcove fireplace, a feature not usually found in smaller homes.

Note also that the fireplace is in the family room rather than the living room, an economical move (it shares the flue with the kitchen range) as well as a practical one. As Cohen explained it: "A family spends most of the time in the family room; why not have the fireplace there where they can enjoy it?"

Combining modern efficiency and the warmth of traditional design, this home offers 1,396 square feet of living area, with a full basement and double garage.

The three bedrooms are sized to accommodate nicely a family of as many as six, with bedroom No. 3 well suited for a den if only two bedrooms are used. All have ample closet space, and the closets are arranged to serve as sound buffers between rooms.

STORAGE SPACE in the remainder of the house also is plentiful. A full basement as well as double garage solves the major problem, and there is a coat closet in the foyer and a linen closet convenient to all three bedrooms.

The kitchen is large and well ventilated, with full view of both sections of the rear terrace. There is a rear service entrance to the kitchen, in addition to sliding glass door entrances off the terrace to the dining room and family room.

The center hall arrangement—another feature frequently passed over in homes of this size—makes for excellent traffic circulation throughout the house. The family room-kitchen area, living room-dining room area, bedroom area, and basement stairs, all are accessible without having to pass through any area to get to another.

To obtain plans, address Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., enclose 50 cents and request House of the Week Study Plan, Design B-88.

Ranunculus, brightly colored "buttercup" of spring, can be planted now through winter in two ways. Turkey With a Touch of Flame

Thanksgiving feasts need not always follow the traditional pattern, and roast stuffed turkey flambe—with a stuffing variation—is a most delectable departure.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

THANKSGIVING bird with a gourmet fling is roast stuffed turkey flambe—with a variation in the stuffing to include fruit and sausage. It's a delight to the eye and a treat to the palate!

While the turkey roasts, brush on an orange-honey glaze for a shine that will reflect the candles on the table and make outside slices extra crisp—crusted and tasty. Ring the bird with fruit on a warm serving platter and flame it with brandy or bourbon. Watch while the flames die down and the alcohol burns away, leaving only the delicious flavor; then carve and do what watering mouths dictate!

12 pound turkey
Salt, pepper
½ teaspoon ginger
Fruit and Sausage Stuffing below
½ cup melted butter or oil
½ cup orange juice concentrate
¼ cup honey
¼ teaspoon ginger
2 teaspoons dry mustard
¼ cup brandy or bourbon

Rub turkey with salt, pepper, ginger. Stuff turkey cavity. Truss turkey with skewers and string, and rub with melted butter or oil. Roast 4 hours in a 350° oven. Then glaze bird by brushing with mixture of orange juice, honey, ginger and dry mustard. Roast ½ hour more. Brush with glaze several times. At serving time, place bird on a warm serving platter. Warm brandy in ladle or small pan. Ignite at the table, pour flaming over bird. When flames die down, serve as usual—all alcohol is evaporated and flavor remains behind.

FRUIT AND SAUSAGE STUFFING

1 pound broken sausage meat
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
2 cups mixed dried fruit
2 quarts firm bread cubes
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon marjoram
½ teaspoon sage
½ cup water or stock
2 tablespoons brandy or bourbon

Brown sausage meat and remove from skillet. Reduce drippings to ¾ cup, and saute celery and onion. Cut fruit into big, colorful pieces, and add to skillet with sausage meat, bread cubes, seasonings, water or stock and liquor. Quick trick: Brown sausage, celery and onions as directed. Prepare 2 packages herb-seasoned stuffing mix as directed, and add with sausage meat and cut up fruit to skillet. Enough stuffing for a 12-pound turkey.

Recipe of the Week

WILD RICE is a magic phrase in conjuring up stuffing for fowl, and its magic is mixed with mushrooms in winning this week's $5 prize for best recipe for Miss Carolyn Kramer, 1771 Park Ave., Long Beach 15. The recipe:

Wild Rice and Mushroom Stuffing

1/3 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup butter
1 cup chopped mushrooms
1/4 pound sausage meat
3 cups boiled wild rice
1 teaspoon salt

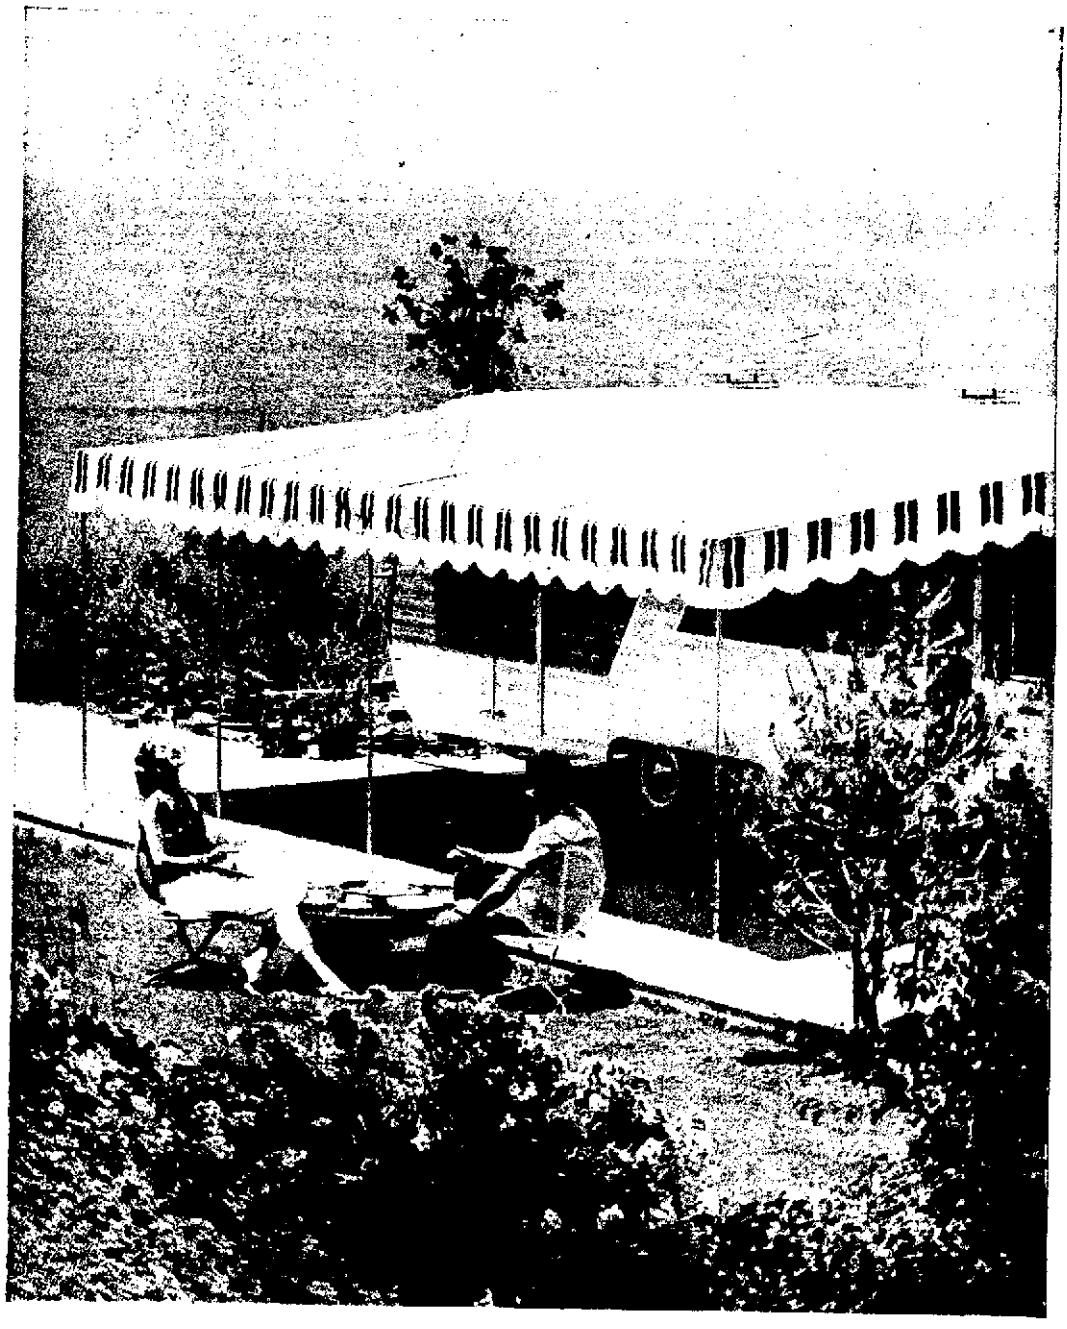

Saute onion in two tablespoons butter for five minutes or until lightly browned, and remove from pan; and cook for five minutes, then remove from pan. Fry sausage meat until lightly browned, stirring constantly; remove from heat and stir in onion and mushrooms. Add wild rice and salt, mixing lightly. This makes a light stuffing for goose, turkey, chicken and capons. Makes five cups stuffing or enough for a 10-pound bird.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Thousands take the "trailer way" to

Sun and Carefree Living

Trailers Offer Fun, Relaxation

For "getting away from it all" the trailer is rapidly becoming an important phase of modern living. So luxurious are some of the trailers that "getting away" means only from tedium. All comforts go along.

Travel trailers today are rapidly becoming man's vehicles for "getting away from it all." In addition to the annual vacation, a trailer owner can easily plan a dozen weekends or more out of the crowded urban areas. Lakes, desert, mountains become accessible . . . and all within the family budget. No advance motel reservations or accumulating restaurant bills for a hungry family crimp the travel trailer owner.

Sportsmen like to bring their "headquarters" with them. Travel trailer clubs are springing up by the hundreds. Neighbors enjoy group vacations, share potluck dinners and companionship.

According to the Trailer Coach Association and the Mobile Home Manufacturers Association, 500,000 Americans are already enjoying travel trailers.

And there'll be 10 million citizens living in mobile homes by 1970, the same organization maintains, pointing to forecasts compiled by economists and housing experts. Present rate of growth to "the trailer way" is about 250,000 newcomers annually. Retired citizens are discovering the economical advantages of park living. Fine deluxe and modern parks are being developed at the rate of about 1,000 a year. Rents average from $40 to $65. Available are central recreation clubhouses, swimming pools, shuffleboard courts, pitch and putt golf courses.

Although mobility is a factor in the psychology of trailer ownership, persons only move once in every three years. Nine out of ten who make the choice never go back to climbing stairs or cutting grass in conventional dwellings.

Include chapels, libraries, underground television wiring, and the appeal of individual or group activities like bridge and bicycle and hobby clubs and you have the attractions which are putting people on wheels.

Modern mobile home parks are designed by top architects and cost between $250,000 and a million dollars to construct. They are not even distant relatives of the old parks which sprung up out of necessity in the early days of trailering.

Military personnel and professional workers also form big segments of this expanding market, according to the Trailer Coach Association.

Mobile homes, by definition, are the larger trailers used more or less for permanent or semi-permanent dwellings. Travel trailers are the smaller units used for weekend and annual vacations. Both are financed like automobiles, both are offered as completely furnished packages.

Atom-Era Ship

Visitors also will be permitted to view the vessel's modern facilities. Above, dining room accommodates 60.

THE NUCLEAR reactor, which is of the same design as those used in atomic submarines, acts as an atomic furnace to generate steam to turn the ship's turbines and propeller shafts.

It is located about midship and is encased in a radiation-safe containment vessel and protected by a series of bulkheads and "mattresses."

Its core is composed of 17,000 pounds of enriched uranium oxide (a mixture of U-235 and U-238 pellets) and supplies enough energy to last 3½ years, replacing about 90,000 tons of fuel a conventional ship would use.

This fantastic space-saving allowed the builders to turn the Savannah into a true luxury ship. She is fitted with six complete decks which contain 30 cabin-suites, oversized public rooms and a swimming poul. She can seat 75 people in her dining room and has five elevators.

TO ALLOW public view of her engine room and reactor console control station a glass-enclosed gallery was built.

"Wherever possible new materials, new concepts of building and design were employed," said a spokesman of the Atomic Energy Commission, joint owner of the Savannah with the U. S. Maritime Administration.

"The Savannah is, among other things, a prototype. From her we will learn techniques and information which will be used in future generations of nuclear-powered ships."

dom been anything worse than some shaved heads.

No matter how heavy the guard around USC's athletic symbol, Tommy Trojan, somehow a UCLA raiding party seems to penerate it to paint the huge statue blue and gold, the UCLA school colors.

One recent year more than 100 USC students, armed with clubs, set up an all-night vigil at the site of the statue, which is at the main intersection on the USC campus.

So some UCLA students hired a helicopter and dumped 100 pounds of what Bandini is famous for. They hit the statute right on the nose.

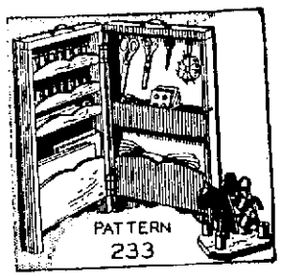

Poor Tommy Trojan has been painted and scraped more often than a battleship. One year an invading raiding party brought along a welding torch and next morning the Trojan symbol of superiority was found to have stabbed himself in the back with his own sword.

NEXT YEAR, several buildings at UCLA were painted red. It cost the USC student body fund about $2,000 in cleanup charges for that one little caper alone.

It's been good, clean fun. It's been a lot of laughs. But the undergraduates at both schools have been in a slump the last couple of years.

But who knows? Maybe somewhere right now there is a strategy meeting. Plotting a way to get hold of a grizzly bear that will eat the Trojan horse.

You Make It

Two gifts to make for Christmas are shown here. The hinged sewing case holds everything for major jobs. The little donkey carries essentials for mending. He is an appealing novelty if you make things to sell. Pattern 233, which gives full-size cutting guides and directions, is 35c. It is also one of four patterns in the Gifts to Make from Wood Packet No. 68—all for $1. Address orders to: Pattern Dept., Southland Magazine, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

MEDICINE AND YOU

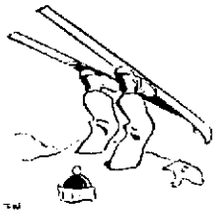

Soft Water Toll Mystifies

By Ben Zinser

Scripps-Howard Newspaper Medical Science Writer

SOFT WATER has been implicated in a higher rate of deaths from heart and blood vessel disease.

According to a British researcher, persons living in cities with soft water die of cardiovascular diseases at a rate more than one-third higher than those who live in communities with hard water.

The researcher, Dr. Jeremy N. Morris, London, says he has no idea why this is so. Dr. Morris is chief of sociologic research for the British Medical Research Council.

Soft-water cities in the study included Manchester, Liverpool, Glasgow, Edinburgh and Dundee. Here the death rate from all forms of cardiovascular disease, for both men and women 45 to 74, was about 110 per 1,000.

The rate in hard-water cities, however, is between 70 and 80 per 1,000. Hard-water cities studied were London, Croydon, Bristol and Norwich.

BAD NEWS for skiers: Safety bindings have no effect upon the rate of skiing injuries, according to a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Four Sun Valley, Idaho, physicians report that the use of safety bindings has increased greatly in the past 10 years. Yet there has been no significant difference in the number of ski accidents, they say.

The doctors estimate that fewer than 50 per cent of skiers used release bindings in 1952. Almost all skiers at Sun Valley wear them now, they note.

EMOTIONAL distress has nothing to do with onset of the common cold, says researcher David Tyrrell.

Dr. Tyrrell is director of the Common Cold Research Unit at Harvard Hospital in Salisbury, England.

Emotional factors may start a nose running—but this is not the same as a cold, he says.

STEAM ROOMS appear to offer no health benefits, a consultant to the AMA Journal reports.

Dr. David I. Abramson, Chicago, says a steam room is unwise for those with any serious organic disability, such as hardening of the arteries, heart disorders or an overactive thyroid. The high humidity would probably place an excessive load upon the patient with even mild or moderate disability of the heart and lungs.

HYPNOSIS can allay the fears of individuals who think they're going to have a heart attack.

The claim is that of Dr. Nathan Schecter, Ottawa, in a report to the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis.

Hypnosis reduces the patient's reaction to stress, Dr. Schecter says.

CAPSULES: A London pathologist, Dr. Francis E. Camps, recommends crash helmets for pedestrians. Such helmets could be modeled after the English bowler, he says, and could prevent many fatal injuries. . . . Very obese persons often have a dread of being alone, yet they fear crowds, says Dr. Sydney Margolis, professor of psychiatry at the University of Colorado. . . . A New York study of 1,600 adults discloses that obesity is seven times more frequent in lower-class than in upper-class women. . . . A nervous skin itch called neurodermatitis is on the increase among the aged, particularly elderly men living alone, a New York doctor reports. Dr. Sadie H. Zaidens says the condition occurs primarily in dependent men whose daily job routine has been taken from them.

BOOK REVIEWS

In the Days of the Dons

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

SPANISH soldiers from Mexico, then the missionaries settled early California.

The story of the missions often has been told; that of the great landowning families, descendants of the officers and men of His Majesty Carlos III's army, is equally colorful if less familiar.

"THE CALIFORNIA DONS" by Edna Deu Pree Nelson (Appleton - Century - Crofts, $5.50) tells the story of these military leaders and their families.

The dons were ordered by the king of Spain to set up military posts at San Diego and Monterey to protect the coast against foreign invasion (the Russians showed interest in extending their Alaskan holdings farther south) and to provide safe harbor from buccaneers for the treasure-laden Manila galleons.

Some of the dons were scions of noble families; others were soldiers of fortune. For 75 years they controlled California, gradually acquiring the most fertile and advantageous lands.

WILLI HEINRICH

This promising German author for the first time writes about Americans in "THE LONELY CONQUEROR" (Dial, $4.95) about a Negro sergeant on duty with the American army in Germany.

Through intermarriage of leading families and the settlement of retainers and friendly Indians on their lands, an almost feudal society was set up, which remained until the occupation of California by the United States in 1846.

"The California Dons" tells of the establishment of this society, and of the men and women, the customs and daily life that characterized it. Of real interest to those who love California.

CANAANITES, Cretans, Tyrians, Sardinians, Phoenicians, Carthagenians, Scythians, Tartessians, Bactrians—you call the role and the answer is silence. Ivar Lissner not only, in "THE SILENT PAST" (Putnam, $6.95), calls the ghostly role, but fits the places of these often mysterious, to most people forgotten peoples, into the totality of man's culture.

The chapters are brief, and in some cases excessively so. Take, for example, the people of ancient Tartessus, gateway to all ancient Iberia, a people rich in mines and cattle. Until recent years little was known of the Tartessians. Here was a major civilization with a literature and social order expressing that civilization. We could stand more than a handful of pages on them; we are grateful, however, for the little we get and the lucidity with which Lissner makes them live again.

"LITTLE GIRL" is the title of this picture by Harvey Zucker. It's from "U.S. CAMERA INTERNATIONAL PICTURES, 1963" (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $4.95).

DORIS LESSING, the novelist of British parentage, of Persian birth, and of South Rhodesian childhood and adolescence writes, in "THE GOLDEN NOTEBOOK" (Simon and Schuster, $5.95) of a complex woman, a free woman in every sense, Anna, a successful author. Anna has kept four notebooks. One, with a black cover, records her early years in Africa. A red covered notebook deals with her life and disillusionment as a Communist. A yellow notebook is in fact a novel, whose heroine is herself. A golden notebook kept when she loves an American writer and insanity threatens her, brings all the others together. It is writing with a wide sweep.

Happy Display for a Yule Day

Six-foot-tall Santa, sleigh and reindeer delight NBC-TV actress Janet Dey.

TIME brings many changes —but not to Christmas. The whole world bows before this season with its time honored customs, the wide-eyed wonder of children and the spirit of peace, Christmas is one time for everyone in the family to participate . . . the youngest and the oldest. It's an open season for do-it-yourselfers.

An outdoor display makes your home a bright spot in the neighborhood and helps spread the Christmas spirit.

By Steve Ellingson

It needn't be expensive when you do it yourself. The Santa display (see photo) is colorful and easy to make.

The large pictures are printed in bright, waterproof colors and the display will last for many seasons. Just glue them on plywood or hardboard and saw them out. Complete directions are included. Four deer are shown but you may order only one or eight, as you wish.

HERE'S HOW to order: Send name and address to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., with check, currency or money order for: No. 189, Santa, $2 each; No. 257, sleigh, $2 each; No. 256, deer, 75 cents each; No. 298, Merry Christmas sign, 35 cents, or No. C-17 which includes Santa, sleigh and eight deer, $8 (you save $2).

Architect's Sketchbook

By Bill Meyerriecks

CHANCES are good, if you have a boy in the family, that Santa Claus will be bringing a train set to your house this Christmas—and if so he should be tipped off that space-saving storage such as this foldaway table (see photo) will be most appreciated.

A train table is really necessary to get the most out of a train. Unless the boy can mount his track permanently and build on his starter set, there's little hope he'll stay interested.

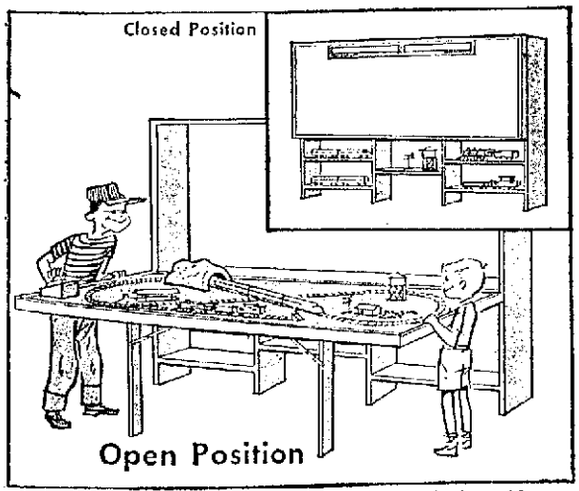

The table illustrated is one solution for the storage problem and it can be used in bedroom, basement or other dual purpose area.

Track and accessories up to 8 inches high are mounted permanently on a 4 by 8-foot hollow panel (all track wiring can be hidden inside). When not in use, the entire layout is folded easily up and away into a wall cabinet with overall depth of 10⅝ inches. Closing the cabinet exposes a set of shelves where locomotive, coaches and tall accessories can be stored.

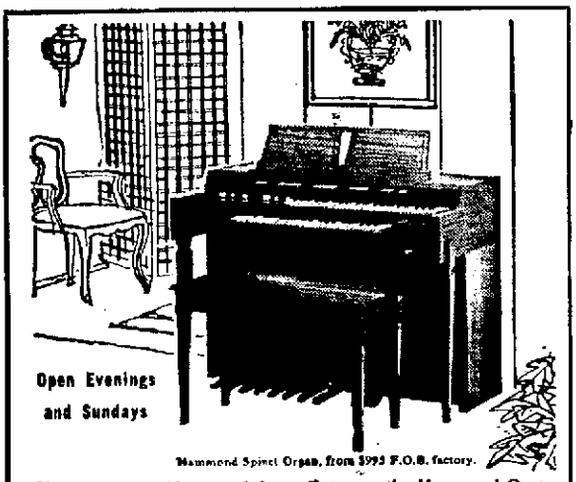

If desired, you can mount the unit so that it folds down over a single bed, thus getting double use out of the space in a bedroom usually taken up by the bed.

Principal materials required are 1½ sheets of ¾-inch plywood, one sheet of ¼-inch ply and another of ⅛-inch hardboard, plus some 1x2 and 1x3 pine.

TO ORDER, specify Sketchbook Plan S-80 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

If Santa is bringing a train set, he should be told this 4x8-foot, foldaway train table will be welcome.

GRADE CARD

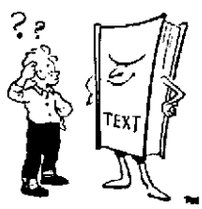

Dull Book, Dull Boy

By Harry Karns
Education Research Associates

QUESTION: "Our children no doubt could do better work than they're doing. But sometimes I think the educators could write better school books, too. What do you think?"

ANSWER: I think you're right.

Rudolph Flesch once said that textbooks are written by educators for other educators rather than for the benefit of students. This is one of those generalities for which Mr. Flesch has become famous. Many fine textbooks are being written for children. Still, there's much truth in what he says.

Not long ago, I visited a midwestern school and picked up a book used in the seventh-grade course in industrial drawing. The sentences were long and involved. The entire text bristled with technical words and phrases. The writing was dull and colorless, designed to induce sleep rather than impart knowledge.

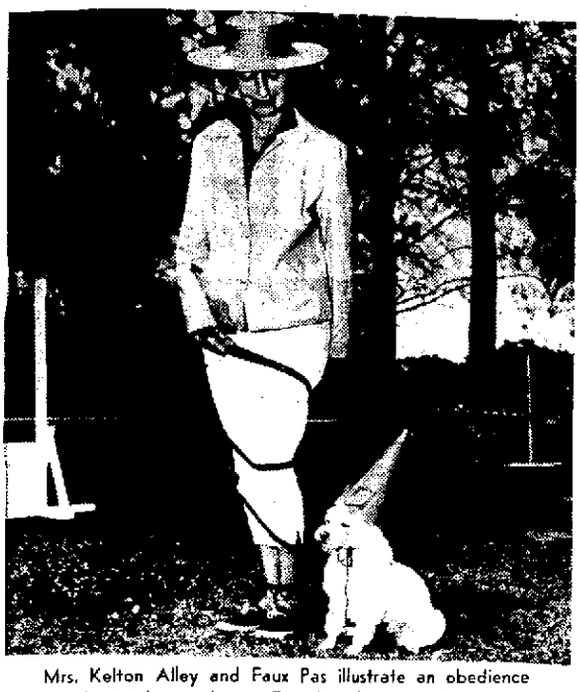

I asked the teacher if he had any special problems with students. "Yes," he said. "They come trooping up to my desk to ask questions that are answered right there in the book. They don't read their assignments."

Poor kids! They were being criticized because the people who wrote and selected the text had failed to do a good job. By the way, I discovered later that this same text is used by grown-ups in an adult education course—and the adults don't understand it very well, either.

A GOOD textbook for children is written in simple words and sentences. When the author presents material new to his audience, he starts at the first and explains the material step by step and with appropriate examples. The author refers frequently to things familiar to the child in his every day life. At all times, the youngster feels that this book is something he can conquer. When he does not have that feeling, he will be frightened and unsure, and he will not read that book.

What can the parent do about a bad book? As a stopgap measure, he can sit down with the child and translate it into English—in brief, do the author's work for him. As a long-range measure, he can find out who picks these atrocities and what can be done to improve the standard of selection.

Mrs. Kelton Alley and Faux Pas illustrate an obedience match mistake—and poor Faux Pas draws the dunce cap.

A Test for Dogs

By Eleanor Avery Price

LAKEWOOD Obedience Club holds its fall practice today at the American Legion Hall in Hollydale, 11401 S. Garfield Ave. Dog owners need not be club members to participate. In fact, Mrs. Kelton Alley, shown (see illustration) with Mrs. Judy Chamber's toy poodle, Faux Pas, in a dunce cap showing what dog and trainer should not do, is from Woodlands Hills and a member of the Companion Dog Training Club, and likely as not this "boo-boo twosome" will be there.

So, if you are a dog owner, why not brush up your dog and get him on the path toward point trials? You'll have fun. There will be a catering service on hand, or you may take a picnic lunch. Judging starts about noon.

IT IS NOT TRUE, as some people think, that obedience is just a "back door" to dog shows. A great many wise dog owners have awakened to the fact that the education of themselves in the proper care and organized training of their dogs leads to better behaved pets as well as closer companionship between dogs and their owners. And this awakening is one of the nicest things that could happen to you and your dog.

It won't happen all at once. You'll need a copy of Regula-

Hawaii Offers More for Golfer

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

HAWAII, which always has boasted about having just about everything for everybody, now can crow about offering more and more to the golfer.

The first of two oceanside courses opens this week on the island of Kauai. An 18-hole layout, it will be known as the Wailua, and will be open to the public.

Golfers, however, won't find the Wailua exactly a paradise because trade winds — which air condition the Hawaiian Islands — create some beautiful natural hazards not usually found on golf courses.

For example, the 475-yard men's par-4 Second hole is justly called "the beast." It has a slight dog-leg to the left and is bordered by the Pacific Ocean for the full length, with winds blowing from the left.

And, as if this were not enough, the 240-yard Third hole has following winds, and the 450-yard Fourth is played against the wind.

THEN THERE'S the 17th, known as the "beach hole." On this one, the green is on the very edge of the sands, and the elevated tee faces out toward the sea.

But duffers will have something to look forward to at the end of their rounds. The new clubhouse includes a restaurant, lounges, lockers, pro shop and snack bar.

The second new course — the Royal Lahaina — opens formally Dec. 14-16. It will have 36 holes near the site of the almost - completed Sheraton-Maui Hotel.

REGULATIONS regarding booking procedures for the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo, just announced by the Bureau of Olympic Preparations of the Tokyo Metropolitan Government provide:

Admission tickets to the various Olympic events will be sold only to overseas visitors who hold confirmed space at hotels or ryokan (Japanese-style inns) in the Tokyo area for the dates on which the tickets are valid. Special hotel reservation certificates will be issued for this purpose to those holding space during the Oct. 10-24 period of the Games.

Applications for hotel and ryokan reservations will be accepted by individual hotels and inns beginning Dec. 1 of this year, and will apply to the 17-day period from Oct. 9-Oct. 25, 1964, covering the full duration of the Games plus a day before they begin and one day after the closing ceremony. A deposit of 50 per cent of the room rate must accompany requests for space, the remaining 50 per cent not later than July 31, 1964.

LAS VEGAS' famed Strip will be dominated before too many months by a 22-story, 510-room addition to the Dunes Hotel, on which construction has just started. The structure will cost $8 million.

Also started on the Strip is the new Imperial "400" Motel, between the Sands and Desert Inn Hotels. With 129 units, it will be the largest in the Imperial chain.

WHICH REMINDS that Harvey's "Top of the Wheel" has opened atop Harvey's Wagon Wheel casino-hotel on South Shore of Lake Tahoe—an already flourishing lounge and restaurant with a South Seas decor.

IF YOU'RE READY for a drive, don't forget that the poinsettia fields have started to bloom in boisterous color along Hwy. 101 north of San Diego, near Encinitas.

AND, if you want to fight the mob, see the Hollywood Santa Claus Lane Parade of Stars Wednesday night. Personalities — many of them movie people — and floats will be identified over a public address system.

Bird Paradise

Once known as "The Land of the Hummingbird," Trinidad in the Caribbean still has large numbers of this species, as well as great flocks of scarlet ibis and cocricos. Once part of the South American mainland, the island has the variety of flora and fauna normally found only on a great land mass.

Tallest among famed Hawaiian hostelries is luxurious new Foster Tower Hotel, located at Prince Kuhio Beach in Waikiki. It is 25 stories tall. Richard Foster is in charge.

DELAPLANE

"I will be reaching retirement age (65) next year. We will have a small pension. Only my wife and myself, in good health. Is there a country that welcomes such people? Where our buying power would be better than here?"

NO COUNTRY is making a specialty of getting the permanent tourist — though one should. A year-round buyer might make them more money.

Mexico is making a bid for retired U. S. people. They have a new tourist classification called "visitante-rentista." Papers through any Mexican Consulate.

This allows you to take car, household goods, etc. into Mexico without paying duty. Also you do NOT have to cross back into the U. S. every six months to renew your tourist status. You can renew three times in Mexico—a total of two years' residence.

After that, you take out other papers—not very difficult. The first requirement is that you have $160 a month income plus $80 for—your wife. (Same amount for each child over 15.)

You can live pretty well in smaller Mexican towns for $200 to $250 a month for two.

Portugal looked like a good retirement place to me. They estimated you could do pretty well outside Lisbon for $300 a month. About $400 per couple in Lisbon.

I WENT TO an excellent modern house owned by an American, an hour's drive from Lisbon. Warm weather. Private beach. Overlooking the sea and a small Moorish fishing village. Nicely furnished with stove and refrigerator, this cost $12,000. Living costs about $350 with household help.

Spain is a cheap country. The south is particularly good. But the beach property is expensive. I would estimate Spain in the country at $400—$500 would be better.

The Central American countries are not expensive. But I think you'd get bored to death. Even in the capitals there isn't much to do.

If you want to get home to see family and friends, Mexico is best. Closer and cheaper transportation—you can be in the United States in two days.

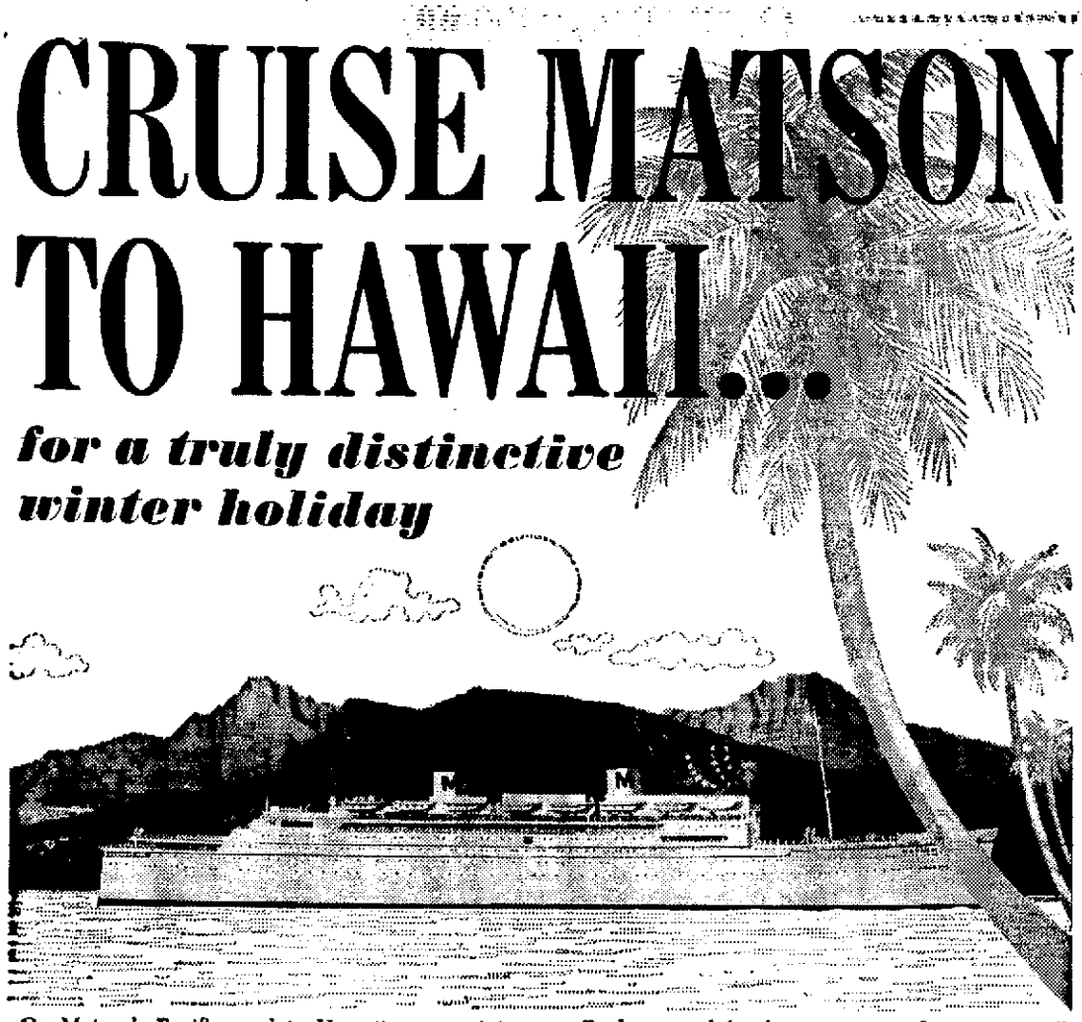

I wouldn't make a decision on this until I had lived in a hotel in the town for two or three months. It's surprising what you miss. What you take for granted here that you don't get in another country.

YOUR GARDEN

Euonymus for Showy Foliage

By Walter Finch

FOR SUCH a sizable family of shrubs, the Euonymus group is remarkably little known by gardeners. And considering the many uses to which its members can be put, the surprise is that much greater.

Euonymus, perhaps, is one of those garden journeymen which does everything well. They are not spectacular, but like boxwood and juniper, they help to firm up the garden picture, adding substance and character to the permanent framework.

To use them, you can have a handsome ground cover from one Euonymus; or an evergreen cover for your wall. You can train another Euonymus as a tree or shear it as a box-like hedge. From still another you get handsomely variegated foliage, which contrasts pleasantly with most evergreens around it. Still another turns rose-red in fall. This last is one of the few deciduous varieties to be found in the west.

SO VARIED are these members of the one family that it would be well to consider them one by one. Here, according to the California Association of Nurserymen are the varieties most apt to be found in California.

Evergreen Euonymus is the patriarch of the family. It is a tall, arching shrub, less spectacular than some of its more modern offspring, but durable enough to have held its own over the years. Foliage is remarkable for its persistent greenery even when subjected to extremes of desert heat or seashore winds. It can be pruned as a tree and will actually resemble one in time, but it is far more commonly found when sheared into a compact hedge.

Closely related to Evergreen Euonymus, most of them variegated sports, are Golden Euonymus, Gold Spot, Silver Queen, Silver King or President Gauthier, Small Leaf or Box Leaf, a variegated form of Small Leaf, Dwarf Flame, and the prostrate forms such as Wintercreeper and Purpleleaf Wintercreeper, good for ground cover.

Rose Inventory

November is a good time to take stock of what's what in the rose garden. A reminder from the California Association of Nurserymen that bare-root rose planting begins next month prompts us to consider the possible replacement of roses we are no longer happy with. Once you decide to uproot one rose and plant another, don't wait until the last bloom drops. Take it out now and turn the soil to let it air for a month or so. Working steer manure and compost into the spot is not a bad idea, either.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . Select trees for autumn foliage this week. You can get a good idea of what's most colorful by checking your local nursery.

Spring-blooming bulbs should be in the ground as soon as possible.

When tuberous begonia tops yellow off, remove the bulbs from the ground strip off the dead leaves and wash dirt from the bulbs and store them in a cool dry place until spring.

Snails and slugs love cool, wet weather. Use bait and/or pellets to control them.

Use pots of blooming chrysanthemums to give your garden that special touch of fall. Simply sink the pots in the ground where you need color.

Handy material in ornamental stone line is Featherock, volcanic rock quarried in the High Sierra. As veneer it lightens the load on weight-bearing walls — it weighs only one-fifth the weight of ordinary stone. It bonds well with mortar, is durable and chemically neutral. It also lends itself to landscaping, as shown above, and is easily hewn into free forms, figures and planters.

Colorful Shrubs for Winter

By Joe Littlefield

Viburnum robustum is a hardy shrub of slender growth habit that produces flowers of pinkish hue in winter.

CAMELLIAS are the most colorful, most bloomful of winter flowering shrubs, regardless of whether they are shade plants or sun-loving shrubs. The flowers of several types last longer, too.

Chandleri elegans, with pink and white variegated flowers of anemone form, is a graceful arching shrub that may be used for espalliering on fence or wall. Glen 40 is a slow growing, more compact type, the red blossoms have formal shape. Jordan's Pride has pink and white, variegated, large and semi-double flowers with a slight fragrance. It is a vigurous upright grower.

Keep these distinct shapes in mind when selecting camellias whether for ground planting or in containers. By so doing you'll be able to select just the "tailored" shrub needed.

Other attractive winter-blooming shrubs for sunny locations are heathers, viburnum robustum, viburnum suspensum, a number of cassias, rosemary, pittosporum tobira, melianthus, to name but a few. You'll just have to visit your local nursery this winter and check up on winter-blooming shrubs, then select those you favor for your garden.

VIBURNUM robustum is one of a few winter-blooming shrubs that grow sylph-like, instead of spreading. The masses of miniature hydrangea-like flowers are pinkish white in color and yield needed winter color. The dark green leaves are not susceptible to mildew like the older relative viburnum tinus. This shrub often grows slender and up to around ten feet tall. It may be pruned back to keep it at a lower height, and for more bushy growth. It tolerates considerable cold weather, too.

WE'VE FOUND heathers need lots of peat moss mixed with soil, because the plants develop countless numbers of hair-like roots, more like the azaleas. A mixture of one-half soil and one-half pre-moistened peat moss is just about right if the plants are set out in sunny locations.

Cassias, with yellow, fragrant flowers, are somewhat more susceptible to frost. Plants grow faster than most others due to less hard branch wood.

ROSEMARY, in bush or prostrate form, is a tough shrub, taking any amount of heat, and lots of cold. Once well established in the ground they get by on less water than most ornamental blooming shrubs. Plants are more like native shrubs that are drought resistant; not tolerating too much water. In winter, the small, blue flowers are attractive.

By Dorothy Jonson

Autumn is a lovely time in the garden all over the Southland. The heat of summer has subsided and left us all with the desire to be out of doors. Most of us like to work in our gardens and there are important things to be done right now.

One of these is to treat the soil, especially around fruit trees, to eliminate borers, the great underground enemy.

Give the trees a long, slow, deep irrigation first and wait until the water has had a chance to make the soil evenly moist. Then treat the soil around the trees, following the directions on the label of the bottle, with the ether product that has proven so effective . . . it contains the ether known as ethylene dichloride. This material spreads itself through the moist soil and kills the borers in all cycles without harming the tree or shrub. Do this quite late in the fall, after the borers have gone underground to hibernate for the winter.

Points on Working Dogs

tions and Standards for Obedience Trials containing much helpful information from the American Kennel Club, 221 Park Ave. South, New York 3, N.Y. And you'll need to associate with other obedience enthusiasts and their dogs whenever possible so you can practice with someone putting you through the various routines.

Here are a few points on working a dog:

Watch your mannerisms. You must control your tendency to pull on your ear, scratch your head, shrug your shoulders, etc., for in the obedience ring you will be penalized for any motion or sound that could possibly give a cue to your dog.

YOU WILL need someone to stop, start, and otherwise direct you, for in the ring the judge will be specifying what he wants. You will not be on your own.

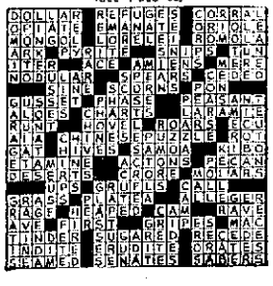

Keep in mind that obedience is needed most at moments of emergency or distraction. You may some day need to "drop" your dog when he starts out into a street, or to bring him to "heel" when he goes after the postman. Don't alibi your dog for misconduct on the grounds that things excite him. You are not being cruel when you teach your dog that he will receive the consequences of his own actions.

Observe other handlers and their dogs at every obedience event you can attend. Then practice, practice, practice, and always keep your sense of humor.

ALLIANCE Cat Club and Seaside Cat Club show Nov. 24-25 at Huntington Park Recreation Center. Kittens will be judged Saturday.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief data on METZ. —Mrs. J.H., Cypress.

J.H.: METZ is a German surname with a dual origin. It is primarily traced to an ancestor who once resided in the city of Metz in the French-German border duchy of Lorraine. The city-name Metz is shortened from the term "Mediomatrici," translated as "place of the middle-spear-people," the title given the natives by the Romans 1800 years ago. The Roman Latin name was first shortened to Metis, then to Metz. Another source was the given-name Matthias meaning "gift of god," altered in the Middle Ages to the nickname Matz, then to Metz.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin and shield on SPRING.—S.S., Long Beach.

S.S.: SPRING is English, with a source handed down from an ancestor baptized "Springan," meaning "active one." Alternately, Spring was used by owners of a home located by a "spryng" which supplied them with water. The Spring coat-of-arms has three gold five-leaved rosettes between three red diamonds on a chevron across a silver shield. John Springe, an American forefather, was recorded at Watertown, Massachusetts in 1647.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on DUDLEY.—C.H., Long Beach; D.D., Anaheim.

C.H., D.D.: DUDLEY is from a town by that name in the English county of Worcestershire near the city of Birmingham. Dudley began as "Duddas-leah," deciphered as "people's pasture meadow." Percival de Duddelegh is in records of 1272. The Dudley shield is black emblazoned with a running red deer between two standing lions and a man's left hand on a silver stripe across the center. Thomas Dudley, born in Northampton, England, in 1576, came to New England in 1630. He served four terms as Massachusetts governor; founded the city of Cambridge, Mass., and was major-general of all colonial armies in 1644.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you the origin of O'BYRNE. —A.O., Norwalk.

A.O.: O'BYRNE is from the Gaelic Irish clan name O'Beirn, translated as "sons of the bear." The bear was a warrior baptismal symbol used frequently in old Erin. Two divisions of the O'Beirn lineage are recorded in Ireland, one branch living in Mayo, the other in Roscommon. The family shield is red, emblazoned with a silver chevron between three silver right hands.

1 out of 2 women suffer from P.M.T.*

...but don't know what's wrong

*Pre-Menstrual Tension may be an unfamiliar term to many women, but its symptoms are very familiar. In the week before periods, the body accumulates excessive water, then bloating, pressure on nerves and organs result, causing tension and discomfort. You become headachy and irritable—even gain weight.

Now, in Pamprin Tablets medical science offers an effective, yet simple and inexpensive relief. Pamprin safely removes the excess water from the body, thus easing tension . . . easing it as no aspirin or simple pain-reliever can.

At the same time, doctors find, Pamprin has a wonderfully calming, soothing effect on the irritability, "nerves", and emotional upsets common to pre-menstrual time.

What's more, many women who ordinarily suffered cramps and backaches once their periods began, found surprising relief, too. Pamprin will not disturb your normal period—contains no hormones, narcotics or harmful sedatives.

Get Pamprin at your druggist . . . before your next period. Or for a generous free trial supply of Pamprin Tablets, send your name and address today to Chattem Laboratories, Dept. S, Chattanooga 9, Tennessee.

NOW! HELP STOP PILES FROM BECOMING ULCERS

Doctors warn: Untreated Piles can become Anal Ulcers and Fissures

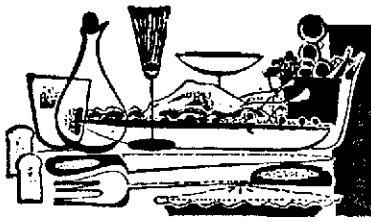

Effective clinically-tested home treatment stops itch...relieves pain...helps clear up piles fast!

Your doctor will tell you not to let hemorrhoids (commonly called Piles) go untreated. Even a "mild case" can develop serious complications—infection, anal ulcer sores, fissures.

New PARACIN contains 3 ingredients prescribed by many doctors to help stop these complications, help stop piles from becoming ulcers!

Clinical tests prove PARACIN quickly eases pain and stops itch. Reduces swelling. Helps heal infected skin tissue. Soothes the irritation. Makes elimination less painful, more natural. Guards against new infection.

PARACIN home treatment comes to you in both ointment and suppositories, for external and internal application, to help stop piles from becoming anal ulcers and fissures. Available without prescription.

JIM HAMMOND
Lots of Turkeys

THIRTEEN turkeys for dinner? Sounds like quite a few, doesn't it?

That's the number of turkeys served on an average Sunday at Clifton's, a gigantic, palace-like cafeteria at 5006 Pepperwood Ave., Lakewood Center. But that statistic pales into insignificance when compared with the number of turkeys Clifton's serves on Thanksgiving.

Last year the pretty girls behind the serving counters at Clifton's carved up 65 turkeys on Thanksgiving. And Jim Hammond, manager-host at the cafeteria, estimates that his large organization will serve even more this year. Last year the restaurant accommodated 2,800 guests on Thanksgiving, moving them smoothly and efficiently through the serving lines.

Clifton's popularity stems directly from the fact that it serves excellent, wholesome food at a price anyone can meet. The features on Sundays (and on holidays such as Thanksgiving) is the deluxe, seven-course dinner for $1.77, served from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Included is a choice of one of 50 fresh, delicious salads; whipped potatoes, vegetable of the day, bread or roll and butter, dessert from 30 selections, and beverage. The Sunday and holiday entrees include baked ham, chicken, pot roast of beef, roast turkey with cranberry sauce and several other items. Second and third coffee refills are served at the tables by gracious waitresses. The children enjoy 59-cent dinners, including turkey, which entitle them to free gifts from Clifton's treasure chest.

During the week, Clifton's serves fine luncheons for 82 cents, including entree, salad, potato or vegetable, rolls, dessert and beverage.

NO FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR CATCH-AND-HOLD DIVIDERS

Death-Alley Safety Delayed

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS

Catch-and-hold barricades for Death Alley, a stretch of the Long Beach Freeway upon which 20 people have died in traffic since Jan. 1, have been approved by the state's Division of Highways.

Construction, however, may be a year away.

A spokesman for the state says no funds are budgeted for the $150,000 project in the fiscal year that began in October. If the protecting barricades can be built in 1963, the financing must come from some type of special fund.

• • • •

THE CITY of Long Beach, responsible for a portion of Death Alley, is waiting until the state acts.

Death Alley, worst traffic killer in the history of Long Beach, is that portion of the freeway from Artesia Street south to the ocean.

Traffic experts have condemned it as poorly lit, inadequately protected and poorly policed.

• • • •

DEATH ALLEY'S tragic record was exposed by The Independent, Press-Telegram exactly two weeks ago today. At that time, nine fatal accidents had killed 15 people. Since that expose, two more accidents have snuffed out the lives of five more people.

One of those accidents, killing two people, occurred the same day The Independent, Press-Telegram exposed the hazards of the freeway. The other, destroying three lives, took place last Wednesday.

The State Division of Highways' Sacramento headquarters has approved the installation of chain-link barricades between the northbound and southbound lanes, according to a letter it sent the city last week. Lt. Orville James of the Long Beach Police Department's traffic bureau has sharply criticized the absence of barriers that would prevent careening cars from crossing the weedy divider strip and causing tragic head-on collisions.

However, despite the state's approval of the barriers, they may not be installed for some time.

As an interim protection, Lt. James announced Saturday, the traffic division of the local police department has been instructed to place additional emphasis upon law enforcement on Death Alley.

Lt. James' comments, disclosed two weeks ago, included the opinion that more strict policing, to halt drunken or careless drivers, was necessary to reduce the alarming toll of Death Alley.

• • • •

THE "CATCH and hold" chain link barriers approved by the state are the same type now in use on the Santa Ana, Harbor and Golden State Freeways. Their construction, according to traffic engineers, permits them to stop

Suspect Quizzed in Girl Slayings

A 32-year-old itinerant, booked in Pecos, Tex., on the technical charge of hitchhiking, was being grilled Saturday night as "the best suspect yet" in the murder of an 11-year-old Torrance girl and the unsolved disappearance of another.

The suspect is Herbert Owen Broderick, sometime resident of Huntington Beach and Norwalk.

He has been in the Pecos jail five days. Two of the Southland's leading homicide investigators have been subjecting Broderick to lie detector and "truth drug" serums for two days.

• • • •

BRODERICK is being questioned in the kidnap-murder of Dorothy Gale Brown, who vanished from her Torrance home July 3, and whose nude body was found in the surf near Huntington Beach on July 4.

He is also being questioned in connection with the disappearance of Karen Lynn Tompkins, also 11, on Aug. 18, 1961. No trace of her has been found.

DOROTHY GALE BROWN
Body Found in Sea

The girls lived about four blocks apart.

Torrance Police Lt. Don Hamilton said his department has been looking for Broderick ever since last July 5.

"He lived very close to the place where we found the girl's clothes, near Huntington Beach," Broderick said. He refused further details.

Pecos, Tex., authorities flatly refused even to describe their prisoner. But they did say he had been arrested on a "traffic" charge—hitchhiking — and is held in lieu of $40.50 fine. The Los Angeles County Sheriff's department added this information:

"Broderick was not arrested originally on investigation of the crimes against these children. He was arrested in Pecos for a traffic violation, then held on suspicion of rob-

GEN. CLAY TAKES A PEEK

Retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, 65, President Kennedy's advisor on Berlin, pulls himself up and clings to the Berlin Wall Saturday for a look into East Berlin. Clay's performance not only stunned two Communist guards on the other side, but also amazed West Berliners who had never seen a tourist scramble up the 9-foot wall.

JFK, Cabinet Study Home 'Peace Corps'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy appointed Saturday a cabinet-level committee of seven to determine whether it would be a good idea to launch a domestic "national service program" similar to the Peace Corps operating overseas.

The President picked his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to be chairman. The attorney general already has made a preliminary study and turned in a report that favors the new program.

The attorney general envisioned it as a method for giving Americans of all ages a chance to answer the President's challenge in his inaugural address to ask what they can do for their country. Robert Kennedy said: "We need to offer visible avenues for service to these people."

• • • •

ROBERT Kennedy's report proposed that the national service corps be open to all persons from high school graduates to retired people, with a one-year term of voluntary enlistment, compared with two years for the present Peace Corps. Volunteers would get enough pay to cover living expenses and would receive a small sum in addition at the end of their enlistments.

In addition to Robert Kennedy, the committee will consist of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, Budget Director David Bell and Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver.

Nixon Says Campaign Was 'Last'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, in his first public statement since losing California's election for governor, confirmed Saturday that he doesn't plan to run again for public office.

In a telegram received by several newspapers, Nixon declared the California race was "my last campaign for public office."

The defeated Republican candidate, in a Nov. 7 news conference, conceded defeat to Gov. Edmund G. Brown and indicated he was through with public life. At one point he declared: "This is my last press conference."

But some politicians, including Gov. Brown, have indicated their belief that

Greek Seamen Set for Bite of Turkey

By SHERM WILLIAMS

How good is Long Beach?

Wonderful!

And have Americans forgotten the story behind Thanksgiving Day?

Absolutely not!

That is one lesson that can be learned from the aftermath of a story telling the plight of 32 seamen aboard the Greek freighter Hera.

The Hera was seized for debts 46 days ago when she sailed into Los Angeles harbor. She is to be sold at auction Nov. 26. The crew hasn't received regular pay since August. They have received some partial payments, but by any standards are short of money.

They face an uncertain future. They are worried about their families. And 45 days within the tantalizing sight of the lights of the city can be a harrowingly long time for men penned on a ship.

But they have not given up their ship and say they won't until the auctioneer slams his gavel down: "Sold!"

Proud men, the seamen don't want charity. They admit though that they would welcome diversion. That, the Southland seems to have promised them. The story about the Hera and her crew appeared Friday. In the story, one young crewman said wistfully, "I would like to know about Thanksgiving."

The response was immediate.

Los Alamitos Naval Air Station personnel volunteered to help the Hera's crew have a good Thanksgiving. J. E. (Mac) McClintock, general manager of Pierpoint Landing offered to "help in any way we can." The Long Beach Harbor department said it was looking into ways of providing ship-to-shore transportation for the men.

The Hera has no workable motor lifeboat and water-taxi service is limited

Seven Die in Mojave Collision

BARSTOW (AP) — A car and a pickup truck crashed on a Mojave Desert highway Saturday with such force that the frame of the truck was twisted "like a wishbone." Seven persons were killed and one was critically injured.

Coroner Edward P. Doyle of San Bernardino County said the crash occurred on U.S. Highway 66 about 35 miles east of this Southern California town.

Doyle identified the dead as: George E. Decker, 39, Yermo, driver of the truck; his passengers, Odell Davis, 48, Barstow, and Jack Wriston, 28, Yermo; Ronald J. Hamm, 20, Columbus, Ohio, a sailor driving the car; his passengers, Robert Milton Herman, 22, Conover, N.C.; Mrs. Rita Berlin, 50, and her daughter, Pamela, 15.

PLANNED ECONOMY KILLING INDUSTRY, LEADERS ASSERT

Cotton, a Big L.B. Export, Dying

By LOU JOBST
I.-P-T Marine Editor

FRESNO—In California cotton is king, but the $400-million-a-year industry is a troubled giant.

With 800,000 acres under cultivation and the highest field productivity in the world, cotton, in 40 years, has become the state's chief cash crop—more than twice as big as citrus.

But despite this and improved techniques which promise even greater yields the industry is losing markets on two fronts:

Abroad, fast-expanding foreign competitors, many put into business by U.S. money and know-how, are taking away traditional customers.

At home, business is being lost to increasingly aggressive competing synthetic fibers.

This situation, especially the international aspects, has far-reaching economic implications for Long Beach, the cotton-cargo capital of the western U.S., and Los Angeles, a major cotton port.

"We're caught in a two-way squeeze," says Julian Dewberry, president of the Fresno Cotton Exchange. "U.S. cotton prices, fixed by federal support controls, are too high.

"This has encouraged foreign countries to further expand their operations . . . and makes it difficult for us to compete realistically with the synthetics."

Dewberry's alarm is shared by virtually every group in the industry including a committee of the Natonial Cotton Council which this week called for a drastic cut in the 33-cent-per-pound support price fixed by the U.S. government.

For 10 years Long Beach has been California cotton's chief export center and although Los Angeles handles considerably less tonnage, cotton has been a consistent fourth-ranking export there since the Korean War.

Although the cotton-cargo business has not been particularly noted for its stability in the past (it has ranged from a low of 115,000 bales to a high of nearly 700,000 bales annually at Long Beach since 1954)—this relatively steady stream of commerce has dwindled to a trickle.

Since July fewer than 80,000 bales have passed over LB-LA piers.

Some experts gloomily predict that total cotton experts this year may be off as much as 80 per cent.

This means that a big

L.A.C. Says:
Just What Does More Liberal Mean

We are hearing that President Kennedy is encouraged by the good showing of his party candidates in the election, although it was considerably reduced in numbers. It is supposed to be a "more liberal" Congress which will insure passage of measures the previous Congress rejected. It raises the question as to just what is expected in the way of liberalism from this new Congress.

When Alger Hiss—a convicted perjurer who had passed on our government secrets to the Russians—was dignified by a television criticism of Richard Nixon, the liberals insisted Hiss was entitled to tell his story. It was not pointed out that he had told his story before a judge and jury of 12 average citizens who found him guilty. But Nixon has been the target of "liberals" ever since he brought out these facts about spying in high offices of the government. This story is vividly told in the current Reader's Digest. By using Hiss in a program titled "The Political Obituary of Richard Nixon" it was demonstrated that there are powerful—or stupid forces—that support philosophies that endanger the safety of this nation. It brought an appreciation of Richard Nixon many people had not had before.

There is good reason to believe the voters were influenced by the President's action in the Cuban quarantine. That came at a crucial point in the campaign. It was a move in opposition to the Communist military build-up in Cuba. Public opinion supported this action long before it was taken. It was an opinion opposed to what many people thought was too much liberalism in appeasing the Communists in Cuba—and in our own country.

An example of how "liberalism" is often misjudged is shown in the Communist-tinged "People's World." The San Francisco edition of this paper came out four days before election. It was vile in it attacks against Nixon. It was in line with its attacks ever since the Alger Hiss case. But the left-wingers consider it the great spokesman for liberalism.

Here are a few of its headlines: "Nixon's last hopes—war fever smears." It printed a picture of actor Sterling Hayden with the explanation "addressing crowd of 3,500 which gathered in San Francisco Civic Plaza to demand halt to blockade of Cuba; peaceful resolution of crisis." One of its columns is headed "profiteers ordered blockade of Cuba."

This publication was circulated throughout the state four days before election. And yet Attorney General Mosk says the people should not have been concerned about the issue of communism in the campaign. He seems to think it is no longer a threat. Many people agree with him in feeling the CDC and left-wing activities were emphasized too much. But this does not change the fact that these groups are largely responsible for the softness we have shown toward communism—and it would appear are continuing to show.

The true liberal is one who believes in the principal of the individual rights of others. He also recognizes that there must be laws and rules to protect these rights. But no person has the right to shout fire in a crowded theater when there is no fire—and no American has a right to sabotage the government of his country. That is what the so-called "liberals" do when they defend or support any group that advocates the violent overthrow of this government.

That is a part of the Communist program. No such speaker or group should be dignified by being permitted to speak in our schools or on school property. It is not that they influence their listeners—but rather a demonstration of our weakness in accepting them as privileged to expound their treason without restraint. They are dedicated to using violence as well as words.

This is no time to be soft on such groups. They should be denounced by the governor and President and those who can be proved to be subversive should be deprived of their citizenship and any benefits of the nation they would destroy. We disagree with Mr. Mosk as does J. Edgar Hoover. The subversive Communist danger in this country is every bit as great as it was 10 years ago.—L.A.C.

Kennedy Asks Russ to Decide

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is seeking a prompt, decisive reply from Soviet Premier Khrushchev on removal from Cuba of about 30 jet bombers capable of delivering nuclear bombs against U.S. targets.

Kennedy is reported to have made clear to Moscow through diplomatic channels that for the United States time is running out on the bomber issue and the Soviet government should make its position known without delay.

Officials said the President had not fixed any time limit for new moves if the jets were not taken out of Cuba but it was considered significant in official quarters that the President had set a news conference—his first since Sept. 13—for 6 p.m. next Tuesday.

* * * *

AUTHORITIES said it seems obvious that when he goes before the American people to make a report on the Cuban situation at that time he will want to have uncertainty over the bomber issue cleared up.

If Khrushchev has by then refused to make good on his commitment of Oct. 28 to take out of Cuba the weapons Kennedy considered offensive, the President, it is understood, may order new measures to deal with the situation. Among those under consideration is a blockade ban on shipment of petroleum products to Cuba. This would deny jet fuel for the planes.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant said Saturday he had forwarded to U.S. officials new Cuban and Soviet proposals for settling the Cuban crisis. He declined, however, to disclose them, and Cuban, Soviet and U.S. delegation sources could not be reached for comment.

Thant told newsmen he passed the proposals on Thursday—the same day he received a letter from Prime Minster Fidel Castro warning that Cuban antiaircraft batteries would shoot down any U.S. reconnaissance planes flying over Cuba.

* * * *

CASTRO ALSO stuck to his "peace with dignity" proposal which contains five demands for settlement of the crisis. These include U.S. withdrawal from the Guantanamo Bay Naval Base in Cuba and a lifting of trade embargoes.

A U.N. spokesman said Tuesday that Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov and Cuban Chief Delegate Carlos M. Lechuga had discussed "specific joint proposals" with Thant that day. But next day he said Thant had not yet relayed them to the United States because he was not authorized to do so.

automobiles from crossing the divider strip, and also to keep them from bouncing back into the lanes from which they originated.

Assistant City Traffic Engineer C. S. Thompson says that the chain-link type of barrier will also reflect automobile headlights, thus eliminating a complaint by Lt. James that motorists cannot follow the highway lines at night, because of lack of reflectors.

* * * *

THOMPSON also told The Independent, Press-Telegram that:

"When the state installs the barriers on its portion of the freeway, I am sure the city will match the project for the area it is responsible for" (south of Pacific Coast Highway).

However, Thompson also noted that the city—like the state—has no budgeted funds for the project.

A spokesman for Edward Telford, metropolitan district engineer for the Division of Highways, reported Saturday that Sacramento headquarters, in approving barriers for the Long Beach Freeway, has ordered plans and specifications drawn for the project.

* * * *

SIMILAR notification has been sent the office of City Engineer Jess Gilkerson.

Telford's office, through its public relations section, said that the barriers have "always" been planned for the Long Beach Freeway, but that priority has gone to other freeways because they have higher traffic counts.

The Los Angeles office of the Division of Highways, in a letter to Gilkerson, held out hope last week that "financing can be arranged." However, Telford's office said funds could not be budgeted until the 1963-4 fiscal year, which would indicate that construction of the barriers could not begin until October, 1963.

Telford's spokesman did hold out some hope for earlier work on the project:

"It is possible," he told The Independent, Press-Telegram, "that we could get an allocation from a special fund."

Such an allocation, he said, is not being sought at this time.

Politics Out, Says Nixon

Nixon may have been speaking in the heat of a losing campaign and may return to public life.

In his telegram, he also questioned the importance of Alger Hiss' television appearance "when weighed on the scales against thousands of wires and letters from patriotic Americans."

The telegram said:

"As I begin a long-delayed vacation, I want to thank you for your recent editorials and the objective news coverage of my activities during the 16 years I have been in public life.

"Looking to the future, I hope that my voice can help to preserve and extend the kind of opportunity for all Americans which it has been my privilege to enjoy.

"What few disappointments have been my lot in the world of politics are as nothing compared to the mountain-top experiences which it has been my privilege to enjoy.

"There is no more striking example of this truth than the events of the past week. What does an attack by one convicted perjurer mean when weighed on the scale against the thousands of wires and letters from patriotic Americans?

"My parting advice to all those contemplating a political career is simply this: is is not whether we win or lose that counts, but whether we fight to the best of our abilities for the cause in which we believe."

Robot Planned to Build 'Cottage' on Moon

BY LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

A cozy lunar "cottage," fully equipped with furniture and electricity, could be landed on the moon and readied by a wheeled robot as a haven for our arriving astronauts, a Douglas scientist declares.

A cylindrical shelter containing the robot vehicle could be launched from earth and soft-landed on the lunar surface, according to C. William Henderson, of Douglas' Missile and Space Systems Division.

The robot would emerge through a nose door, emplace a portable nuclear reactor for power, then scoop up lunar soil and spray it over the shelter, burying it for protection against meteoroids, radiation and temperature extremes.

Operation of the robot would be directed from earth and monitored by television and telemetry, Henderson said.

His proposal was included among scores at technical sessions of the American Rocket Society's 17th annual meeting, which ends today in Pan Pacific Auditorium, Los Angeles.

Participating in the meeting, termed the most outstanding space exposition ever held on the Pacific Coast, were more than 6,000 of the nation's leading space scientists.

Among new developments announced at the weeklong meeting was the tiniest known spacecraft, small enough to hold in your hand.

Produced by Space Technology Laboratories, the pyramidal satellite, called the TRS or Tetrahedral Research Satellite, weighs less than a pound and a half.

One of the small space vehicles was launched recently into orbit from Vandenberg Air Force Base piggy-back aboard an Air Force research and development satellite.

Its job will be to map since radiation and radio back data to be used in updating maps of the Van Allen radiation belts which ring the earth and which can affect planning of manned space flights.

A new TV-type camera that can give a crystal-clear picture of a roomful of people with no more illumination than a single lighted cigarette made its debut at the meeting.

The camera is so sensitive that it can spot a basketball at 100 miles, according to its creators, Bendix Corporation engineers.

Called the BX-7, the unit is designed for use in rocket blast-off areas, where it would enable range safety officers to track rockets until certain they are functioning properly.

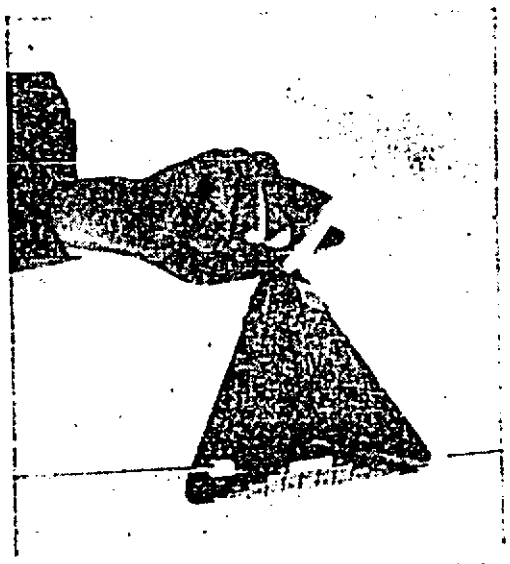

Shown at the meeting was a subminiature scientific computer no larger than a portable typewriter, yet so versatile it can play a game of chess or guide a spaceship to the moon.

The computer, made by Minneapolis-Honeywell, is so fast that it can do 3,000 additions in the time it takes to blink your eye.

About the size of an unabridged dictionary, the computer can solve as many computations as there are words in the dictionary . . . in only 5.4 seconds.

Also exhibited was a new miniature gyroscope no larger than a pint-sized soup can which is the most accurate gyro in the world, according to the Sperry Gyroscope Co.

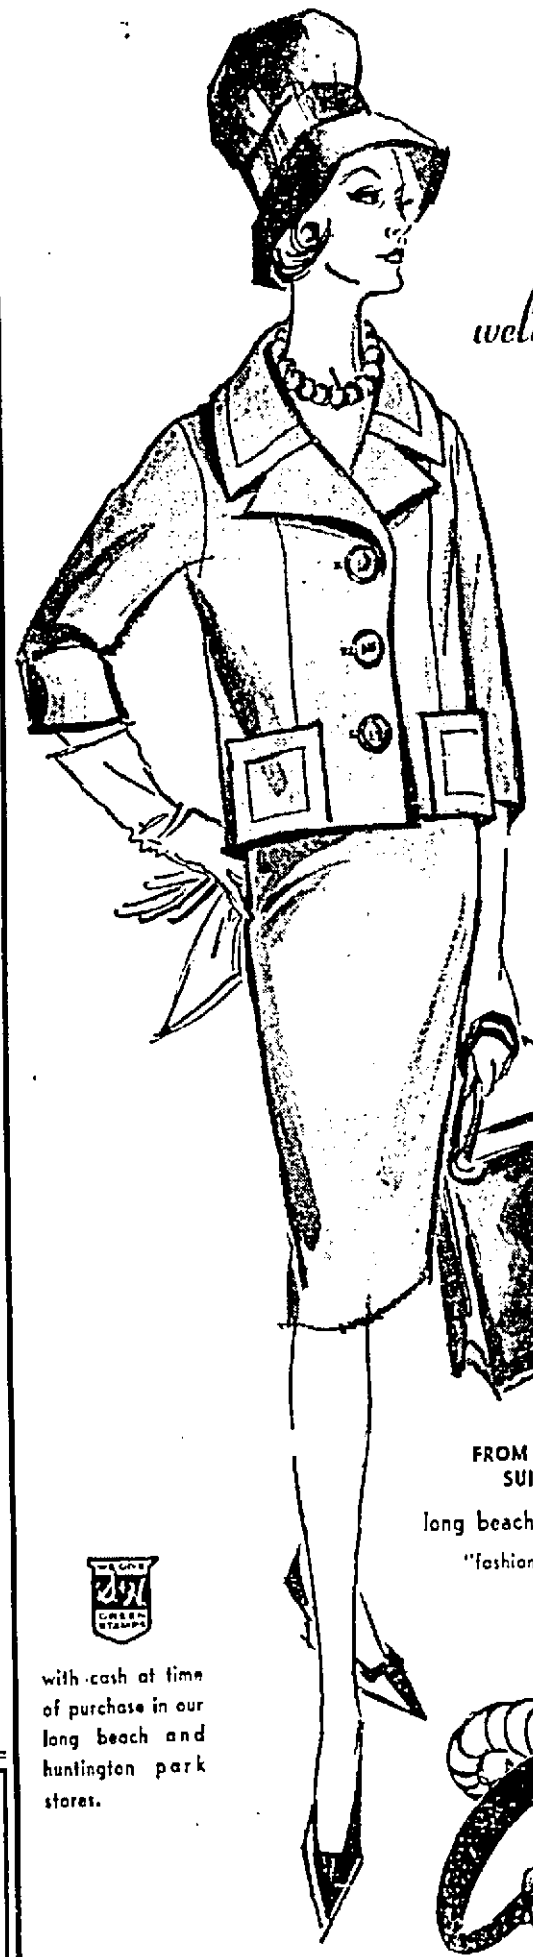

The gyro's sensitive rotating wheel floats on a cushion of hydrogen rather than the usual ball bearings. As the wheel spins, the gas stiffens to hold the wheel on dead center to within billionths of an inch, virtually eliminating the gyro "drift" which is common in ball-bearing devices.

TINY SATELLITE KNOWN as TRS (Tetrahedral Research Satellite) built by Space Technology Laboratories, weighs only 1.47 pounds, cost $25,000. It was put into orbit by the Air Force Space Systems Division to study Van Allen radiation.

THOUSANDS OF BALES OF CALIFORNIA COTTON STORED ON PIER A, LONG BEACH PORT

portion of the state's expected harvest of 1.7 million bales, now 60 per cent completed, will be headed for surplus bins.

With this goes a drying up of important port revenues; 80 cents per ton or about 20 cents per bale.

The problem is simple. Despite an 8½-cent-a-pound subsidy on export cotton paid by the federal government the domestic product still is a cent higher than cotton produced abroad, principally in Mexico, Egypt and South America.

Many farm leaders such as Dewberry and agricultural journalist Sid Cox feel a solution, at least in California, is equally simple.

Cut the support price, increase acreage allotments for planting and outproduce the foreign competitors, says Cox.

He points out that California has the highest yield per acre in the world (two bales as compared to ½ bale in Mississippi), and the technology and mechanization to increase its total production severalfold.

"The potential (harvest) is unlimited," agrees Dewberry. "Cotton isn't near the gamble it once was."

The California cotton industry is the most scientific and highly mechanized in the world. The fields are planted and harvested by huge complex machines and the plants are fed laboratory-developed diets. The cotton is pulled and the seeds are removed by high-speed gins, operated by four men, which can turn out 20 bales an hour.

State and federal agronomists carry on a continuing research program in seed hybridization, soil improvement and pest control.

These conditions plus year-around sunshine and plentiful water from Northern California have made the San Joaquin Valley the richest cotton belt in America. Fresno and Kern are the first and second-ranking cotton-producing counties in the U.S. and contribute a major portion of the California harvest which is the second-biggest in the world.

California cotton growers, offered the alternative of higher support prices or increased acreage allotments under the Eisenhower administration, overwhelmingly chose bigger plantings — about 8 out of 10, Cox claims.

"I think that sentiment still stands, perhaps is even stronger now," said Cox.

Synthetic competition for cotton manufacturers is not new. Nylon took the tire industry by storm some years back because its casing was safer than cotton.

Now, claim the cotton-marketing experts, the synthetics are moving into markets where cotton is the better manufacturing material for such products as towels and clothing.

Since the end of 1960, consumption of competing fibers has gone up 34 per cent, while cotton has risen only 10 per cent.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Arrest by FBI Angers Cubans

(Combined Wire Services)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The Cuban delegation will protest to the United Nations over the arrest by the FBI of one of its attaches in a sabotage conspiracy case, authoritative sources said Saturday night.

The Cuban delegation itself withheld comment but it was believed the Cubans would base their protests on the claim that the attache, Roberto Santiesteban Casanova, had diplomatic immunity.

Casanova and two others were arrested Saturday in New York by fast moving federal authorities. The officers smashed a ring of pro-Castro Cubans who allegedly planned a widespread sabotage-terror campaign through two states with explosives supplied by the Cuban mission to the United Nations.

The FBI said Casanova carried a pistol and "secret explosive formulas." Agents said he tried to swallow the formulas when caught. It was reported that the plotters' plans to set off bombs and explosives in New York department stores and oil and gasoline refineries across the Hudson River in New Jersey were ready to be put into effect.

$6 Million Heroin Raid

GLENDALE (UPI)—More than $6 million worth of heroin was confiscated Saturday in one of the biggest narcotics hauls in California history.

Six men and two women were taken into custody in a series of raids that climaxed nearly three months of investigation by state narcotics agents and local police. Arrested were Francisco Rodriguez, 33, Los Angeles, described by officers as the ringleader, and his brother, Manuel, 31, Torrance; Robert Valdemar, alias Bobby Vito, 24, and his wife, Maria, 26, Los Angeles; Donald Meseda, 24, Highland Park, and his brother, Daniel, 24, Los Angeles; and Ernest H. Flores, 31, and his wife, Anparo, 32, Los Angeles.

Indians Routed by Chinese

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Chinese Communist troops, carrying out their biggest offensive in nearly a month, drove outnumbered Indian troops from defense positions in the Walong area at extreme east end of the Sino-Indian border, a defense spokesman said Saturday.

The spokesman said there were heavy casualties on both sides and that fierce fighting was still raging in the area where a Chinese breakthrough would imperil the borders of Burma 25 miles away and India's rich Assam Valley and the Digboi oil fields 80 miles to the south.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department announced Saturday the United States has given Pakistan specific assurances against India's use of American weapons for any attack on Pakistan. The announcement was made at the same time the U.S. and Indian governments published an exchange of notes obviously designed to give further reassurances to Pakistan.

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Praja Socialist Party in Assam state is planning to organize a 10,000-man "suicide squad" to resist the Red Chinese invasion, reports published here said Saturday.

Adenauer Regime Faces Crisis

BONN (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer failed in two meetings Saturday to persuade his coalition partners to withdraw their demand for the resignation of Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss—a demand that could topple the government.

A spokesman for the Free Democratic Party, junior partners in the coalition, said the party had given Adenauer until Monday evening to change his mind. If he does not, the spokesman said: "We will withdraw our five ministers from the cabinet."

Infant on Rectory Doorstep

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A priest found a blue-eyed, red-haired infant on the doorstep of a church rectory Saturday along with a note from his parents saying they both were dying of cancer.

The Very Rev. Kenneth R. O'Brien of St. Peter's Catholic Church told police he was awakened by a telephone call this morning. A man told him: "There is a baby on your doorstep."

The priest rushed downstairs and found a three-month-old boy in a bassinet. The note, signed, "a loving and sorrowful mother and father," said the father was dying of cancer of the spine and the mother from a brain tumor.

Sea-Tragedy Bodies Found

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—American craft sighted a capsized lifeboat and bodies in the Atlantic 260 miles northeast of Bermuda on Saturday as hope virtually vanished for any of 18 seamen missing since they abandoned the burning Greek freighter Captain George on Thursday.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Mendota, coordinating an air-sea search that covered a 2,500-mile area, picked up three bodies and reported sighting three others.

Chain of Modeling Schools to Pick 48 State Lovelies

By BOB SANDERS

A nationwide chain of modeling schools has been selected to conduct beauty contests in 48 states to choose delegates to the International Beauty Congress here next Aug. 8 to 18, Oscar Meinhardt, executive producer, announced Saturday.

Final details have been worked out between IBC officials and representatives of Nancy Taylor, Inc., of New York, operators of a chain of 350 charm studios throughout the 48 states, Meinhardt said.

A formal, written contract will be drawn up at a later date, he added.

* * * *

EARLIER this week officials of the National Press Photographers Association, which has selected the United States representative for the past three years, announced the NPPA was severing relations with the IBC.

Kirk Braun, chairman of the NPPA beauty pageant, said his organization could not make changes in their plans in time for the 1963 IBC contest. The NPPA has already made plans to hold their annual convention in Jackson, Wyo., next June. Meinhardt insisted that the United States contest be held here the first three days of the IBC pageant.

The IBC will make arrangements to sponsor an organization to conduct the beauty contests for delegates from Alaska and Hawaii, Meinhardt said today, since the Taylor organization does not have schools in those states.

* * * *

BOTH MEINHARDT and IBC president James Crooker expressed elation over the agreement with the Nancy Taylor Studios.

"This arrangement is ideal to secure not only beautiful state delegates to the congress," Crooker said, "but also delegates who possess charm, poise and personality."

"The Nancy Taylor organization and the IBC are planning an extensive campaign to publicize the International Beauty Pageant throughout the United States and secure contestants who will greatly enhance the pageant here."

L.B. Man's Murderers to Plead Personally Monday for Lives

By JAMES McCAULEY
U. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Two hoodlum brothers, admitted murderers of Long Beach accountant Ian Shuttleton, will tell a judge here Monday why they shouldn't be executed.

Their last-ditch decision to testify personally came as the second major courtroom surprise in a week. The other shocker was when they suddenly changed their plea from innocent to guilty of first-degree murder and kidnapping.

The defense had said late Friday it wouldn't call any more witnesses in the three-day hearing over whether the brother murderers will be executed or imprisoned for life.

* * * *

BUT THE no-testimony strategy was scapped later with the announcement there would be testimony Monday from Galen Lokey, 20, who drove the Shuttleton vacation trailer into the country during the shooting after he and his brother had invaded the trailer in a holdup attempt.

Then Bobby Lokey, 23, the triggerman who gunned down Shuttleton when the Long Beach accountant tried to defend his wife from Bobby's advances, revealed through his attorney that he also will testify.

Earlier, Bobby had rested his defense case. But the prosecution and Judge Leonard Friedman agreed to let Bobby take the stand.

* * * *

THE LOKEYS waived a jury hearing as to their penalty, and Judge Friedman will make the decision on whether they live or die. Their last-minute plans to testify could be linked to a tongue-lashing the judge gave both defense and prosecution Friday.

"You have not provided enough information on the social background of the Lokeys," he said.

The defense has tried to picture the Lokeys as products of a bad environment, and argued that they had no intention to kill. Bobby and his wife live in a $25-a-month rented shack, and the killers' mother has been married three times.

* * * *

BOBBY AND Galen are expected to enlarge on the remarks about their background when they take the stand Monday.

Shuttleton, 22, his wife, Valerie, 21, and their daughter, Keri, 20 months, were asleep in their vacation trailer beside Highway 99 south of here Aug. 15. The Shuttletons were aroused by knocking and shouts of "This is the law."

When Shuttleton opened the trailer door, the Lokeys forced their way in. Mrs. Shuttleton, a Long Beach department-store employe, testified they demanded money, locked her husband in the closet and Bobby began molesting her. When she screamed, her husband broke out of the closet and became locked in the fatal scuffle with Bobby.

* * * *

MOMENTS later she heard shots. Shuttleton cried: "I've been hit." He collapsed on the bed, holding his abdomen. He died a few hours later in a hospital.

Mrs. Shuttleton suffered only bruises where she had been jabbed by Bobby's gun. Keri, their baby daughter, slept through the terror.

The Shuttleton home in Long Beach was at 4013 Virginia Road. But Mrs. Shuttleton has moved back with her parents at 1604 Luray St. since her husband was murdered on their vacation.

Adlai Gives Eulogy for Mrs. FDR

NEW YORK (UPI) — In an eloquent eulogy to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said Saturday that her death brought perhaps the greatest grief to the world since her husband died 17 years ago.

A crowd estimated at 10,000 — a cross-section of the great and small who called Mrs. Roosevelt "the First Lady of the World"—gathered at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine to hear Stevenson's memorial.

In the 601-foot long nave of the great Gothic Church Mrs. Roosevelt used to attend with her husband, Stevenson —her friend, political ally and fellow United Nations delegate—called her "one of the great figures of our age."

* * * *

HE WORE a red academic robe from Oxford University as he read his eulogy, surrounded on three sides by the more than 1,000 invited guests.

There sat Mrs. Roosevelt's family; her daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Halsted, and her sons — James, Elliott, Franklin D. Jr., and John.

Also attending were Negro singer Marian Anderson, former Postmaster General James A. Farley, and actress Faye Emerson, former wife of Elliott.

Gen. Tharin Tells of Marines

Maj. Gen. Frank C. Tharin, USMC, will discuss "The Marine Corps Today" at the dinner meeting of the Long Beach Chapter, Military Order of the World Wars, at Allen Center Wednesday.

Gen. Tharin is commanding general of the Third Marine Aircraft Wing, El Toro Marine Air Corps Station, near Santa Ana.

GEN. FRANK C. THARIN
M.O.W.W. Speaker

In World War II, as a captain, he was one of the several combat pilots on duty at Wake Island and, following its capture by the Japanese, was a prisoner of war from Dec. 23, 1941, to Sept. 14, 1945.

The Long Beach chapter of the M.O.W.W. is headed by Lieut. Col. John W. Doran, who will preside.

75 Whites Live in City of 925

PRINCEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Princeville's white citizens—all 75 of them in a town of 925 Negroes—are happy with their life here, Mayor Ray Matthewson says.

There's no problem with politics, no suggestion that schools should be integrated. The town's major problem is one that concerns every citizen, how to stop flooding from the Tar River.

Matthewson is a Negro, as are all of the members of the town council of Princeville in northeastern North Carolina.

Matthewson, who is serving his fourth two-year term as mayor, said in an interview that most of the white minority group supports him in the mayoralty elections.

Most of the white residents rent homes or apartments from Negroes, and work in nearby Tarboro. One daily in the Classified section white citizen owns a small grist mill.

Little Change Seen in '43 Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said that barring a worsening of international tensions there is likely to be little over-all change in retail food prices in 1943.

A food outlook report said retail prices of livestock products — meats, milk and dairy products, and poultry and eggs — may average slightly lower than this year.

But prices of foods from crops may be fractionally higher.

U.S. Residents in Venezuela Calm Despite Threats

By WATSON S. SIMS

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—During the tension created by the arms blockade of Cuba a form letter appeared in mail boxes of many of the 17,000 U.S. residents of Caracas.

"For each Cuba-bound ship sabotaged by you we will answer with drastic action that will make you reconsider your decision," said the letter, "In the case of a direct invasion of Cuba we will invoke a decree of war to the death until not one single American remains alive in our territory."

The letter, signed "National Guerrilla Command of Armed Forces of National Liberation," caused little stir in a country that has attracted U.S. investments and residents for decades.

The strongly pro-U.S. government of President Romulo Betancourt dismissed it as a sign of frustration in pro-Castro elements among Venezuela's 40,000 Communists, many of whom advocate overthrow of the government.

* * * *

"LETTERS never hurt anyone," said a U.S. citizen who has lived in Caracas eight years. "You get used to things like this."

But precautions have been taken by dozens of U.S. firms operating in this city of skyscrapers and packed highways.

A typical front office boasts a shotgun guard as well as a pretty receptionist. Calling cards will not get visitors past the guard. Escort or other formal identification is required. The guards began appearing after a series of incidents involving U. S. establishments: a bomb went off in a bathroom of the U.S. Embassy; another bomb injured five persons at a hotel operated by a U.S. company; and five gunmen shot up offices of the English language newspaper. The most damaging blow came Oct. 27 when four substations of a U.S. petroleum company were dynamited.

Betancourt angrily declared the substations were blown up on direct orders from Havana. He has asked the Organization of American States to act.

There is little sign of flight by U.S. business interests which have some $4 billion invested in Venezuela, more than in any other country except Canada.

* * * *

THE U.S. businesses could not easily withdraw, even if they wished. Their interests have become closely allied with Venezuela's during the many years in which American capital has flowed into this country. U.S. oil companies alone have $3 billion invested here. Operating on a basis of 70 per cent of proceeds to the Venezuelan government, U.S. developers have made this one of the largest oil exporting countries.

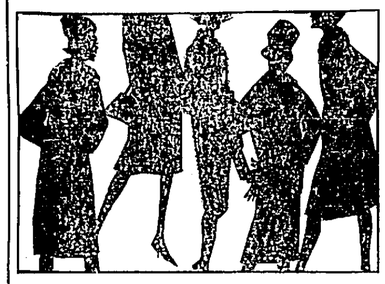

They provide the Betancourt government more than $1 billion yearly, about 60 per cent of its total income.

The Betancourt government wants more, rather than less, foreign investment, and some U.S. capital is still coming in.

The president has asked the Supreme Court to outlaw the Communist Party. Arrests seem likely even for Communist members of Congress. Many terrorists are in prison.

* * * *

CAUGHT in the middle, the American community has generally maintained its composure, but few U.S. citizens lack some story. One was at a lawn dinner party when a homemade bomb rolled from a nearby cliff. The bomb came apart and failed to explode. Another resident had just left a bathroom when a bomb exploded in a water closet.

Pentagon Cautions Lockheed on Strike

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Pentagon told Lockheed Aircraft Corporation Saturday it may look elsewhere for missiles if a strike hits the giant aerospace manufacturing firm.

Lockheed promptly declared that it is ready to continue vital missile work in event of a strike, and the Machinists Union continued plans for a strike vote Sunday among the 20,000 members it claims at Lockheed.

• • • •

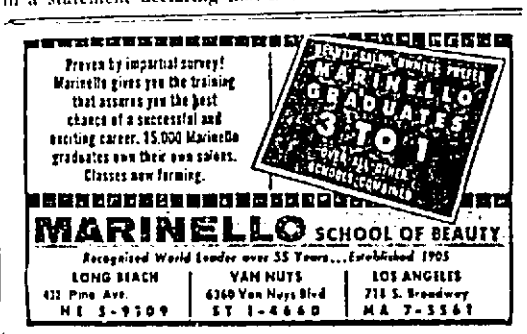

LOCKHEED manufactures the Polaris missile, a key weapon in the United States' arsenal, which can be fired underwater from a submarine to drop a nuclear warhead on an enemy target 1,200 miles away.

The Pentagon warning came in a statement declaring that Lockheed "stands alone" among missile firms in refusing to accept recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board in settling a labor dispute.

• • • •

THE BOARD had recommended that Lockheed permit its employes to vote on a proposal for a union shop, which would require all workers to join the union. Lockheed, in contrast to other aerospace firms, has refused to accept this recommendation.

Therefore, the Pentagon said, it is looking into alternate means of missile production "so that work on the vital programs can go forward in the event of a stoppage at Lockheed."

Fetes Slated for Crew of Greek Ship

by the ship's financial problems to two or three times a week.

More calls poured in.

Families called to ask if they could help the Hera crew have a good holiday. Knott's Berry Farm extended an invitation to the crew to visit there. Callers worried about what the men would do on days other than Thanksgiving.

Indications were that other events would be offered the men during the remainder of the time before the Hera is sold.

Meantime, an informal committee has been banded together to try Monday to work out a program for the seamen and make arrangements for their Thanksgiving dinner.

On the committee are Lt. Cmdr. Charles L. Marshall, public information officer at Los Alamitos; McClintock, Frank H. Black Jr., Long Beach Harbor Dept.; James Green and Tom Cox.

They will try to work out details of the Thanksgiving dinner and arrange transportation to other events which may be offered the seamen.

Suspect Quizzed in Girl Slayings

bery for Denver, Colo., police.

"AFTER HE had been arrested on these charges, the Federal Bureau of Investigation was routinely notified, and they matched up his description with the bulletin issued in July."

The sheriff's office dispatched Sgt. C. T. Human, its top homicide investigator, to Pecos. With him went Sgt. W. H. Nitz of the Torrance Police Department.

Returning to this area late Saturday, they classified Broderick as " a good suspect."

Said Nitz:

"He denies knowledge of the crime. We will make a further investigation before asking for a murder warrant, or his extradition."

The Torrance department said Broderick lived "two miles or so" from the scene of the Brown slaying, that he was a family man "with a stepdaughter" and had "a criminal record" but refused to answer further questions.

In Los Angeles, the sheriff's office frankly admitted the two detectives had taken Broderick from Pecos to Midland, Tex., for "truth serum" tests.

• • • •

LT. HAMILTON, the Torrance officer originally in charge of the Brown case, said:

"We know this man has more knowledge of the crimes than he has told us. He has failed every lie detector test when questioned about the girls. He has contradicted himself, although he has not admitted anything."

Hamilton, declining further details, described Broderick as "a family man who lived in Huntington Beach and Norwalk." Neither the Huntington Beach police department nor the Norwalk sheriff's station could find evidence at the residences.

• • • •

ONE NEIGHBOR of Karen Lynn Tompkins told The Independent, Press-Telegram that "the name is familiar."

The all-points bulletin originating from the Torrance Police Department described Broderick as five feet, 11 inches in height, weighing 165 pounds, and having brown hair and eyes. The Pecos sheriff's office refused to confirm any detail of this description.

Broderick was subjected Saturday to tests under the influence of sodium pentothal, administered by Dr. W. A. Jones in Midlands. Results of the tests were not made public.

James McVicker, a reporter for the El Paso Times, told the I.P-T that the results of the tests may be announced Sunday.

KAREN LYNN TOMPKINS

BRODERICK became the 1,169th person arrested or grilled in the two cases. He is the only suspect, however, not questioned after the Brown girl disappeared.

The first of the two crimes for which Broderick is being grilled is the disappearance of Karen Lynn Tompkins, an 11-year-old Torrance schoolgirl who vanished on her way home Aug. 18, 1961. She lived at 21110 Dalton Ave. More than 10,000 people joined a state-wide search for her, more than 500 people were questioned.

She vanished without trace.

THE SECOND case concerns the kidnap-murder of Dorothy Gale Brown, also 11, who lived in a trailer house at 1820 Torrance Blvd.

Her body was found July 4, nude and bumping against a kelp reef off Corona del Mar's Rancho Cerritos Beach, 18 hours after she vanished. Personal effects were found in a slough near Huntington Beach.

Reserves' Shakeup Due Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department now plans to launch its controversial, often-delayed reorganization of Army Reserve and National Guard forces in the first week of December, it was learned Saturday.

Bitterly contested in Congress, Reserve circles and some statehouses, the overhauling was sidelined most recently by the Cuban crisis and could be delayed further if it heats up again.

• • • •

THE DEFENSE Department's official spokesman told newsmen Nov. 6 that the Army still was working on revision and there would be an announcement in two or three weeks. That schedule has now slid into December.

The key features of overhaul plans are said to be exactly those set forth by the Army and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara early this year.

Four National Guard divisions and four divisions of the Organized Army Reserve will be cut down to much smaller brigade size. About 70-company-size or smaller units also will be eliminated.

Desert Tests Show Man's Early Activity

LAS VEGAS, (UPI) — A windswept section of desert some 10 miles north of this gambling resort has become the scene of a scientific expedition attempting to show man lived in the Western Hemisphere 32,000 years ago —about 15,000 years earlier than records indicate.

Dr. Richard Shutler Jr., curator of anthropology for the Nevada State Museum and leader of the museum's Tule Springs expedition, said the work of archaeologists, paleontologists and geologists already produced finds that are creating international interest.

The project, financed by a basic grant of $42,000 from the National Science Foundation to the Nevada State Museum, began in early October. Also participating is the Southwest Museum of Los Angeles. Dr. Shutler heads a contingent of 28 men and women on the expedition.

• • • •

IT HAD BEEN known for some time that the Tule Springs site—ideally located along a wash below the Las Vegas mountain range—might contain valuable information.

The first animal bones were found there in 1933. Subsequently, charcoal samples from the area produced a radiocarbon date of 28,000 years. And in 1956 a stone scraper and a hearth were discovered, indicating that man lived there at about the same time.

Much of the traditional laborious hand methods of archaeological excavations has been eliminated in the Tule Springs project, replaced by more modern methods.

A 32-ton earthmover loaned by Allis-Chalmers removes from 25 to 30 cubic yards of material at a time, the unit's hydraulic controls permitting precise regulation of the depth of each cut. The operator takes off only several inches of earth on each pass down the excavation area so that archaeological evidence of early man will not be destroyed.

• • • •

TWO TRENCHES, each several hundred feet long, already have uncovered a mammoth leg bone and a mammoth's tusk. Charcoal from what was believed to have been campfires was discovered after the first week's work. Radiocarbon dating tests showed deposits ranged in age from 26,000 to 32,000 years.

Dissected bones of mammoths, camels, horses and bison removed from the desert trenches indicate that man had killed and feasted on the animals of pre-historic time.

And the excavations have turned up stone flakes from such artifacts as bone tools and stones chipped away for form knives, choppers, scrapers and hammers.

Scientists hope through these discoveries to reconstruct the chronology of more than 30,000 years of man's activity.

I.T.&T. Plans to Buy Glendale Company

NEW YORK (UPI) — International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. has announced it plans to buy General Controls Co. of Glendale, Calif. The amount involved in the stock transaction is estimated at $24.2 million.

Under the plan, a new subsidiary of I.T.&T. will acquire substantially all the assets of General Controls. Based on shares outstanding Dec. 31, General Controls stockholders should receive about .134 of a share of I.T.&T. 4 per cent, $100 par preferred, convertible at $60, plus .066 shares of I.T.&T. common for each share of General Controls common.

In addition, holders of General Controls preferred will receive one share of I.T.&T. 5.25 per cent nonconvertible preferred for each share of General Controls preferred.

COLD-BALLOON 'CURE'

Ulcer Freezing Termed Perilous

By BEN ZINSER
Medical Editor

The safety of a new method of treating one type of peptic ulcer has been questioned by a medical specialist.

Dr. Eugene Baldridge, interviewed after a talk to doctors at St. Mary's Hospital, predicted that dangerous complications are to be expected in the treatment of duodenal ulcer by freezing the stomach.

Dr. Baldridge is an instructor in medicine in the department of gastroenterology at the University of Southern California School of Medicine.

• • • •

THE NEW TREATMENT method to which he referred is that of freezing a stomach by passing a cold balloon into it. Recent reports in a medical journal say this gives dramatic relief to patients suffering from ulcer of the duodenum, that part of the intestine just beyond the stomach.

But Dr. Baldridge says experiments with animals in Southland laboratories have shown the procedure sometimes gives the antimatic ulcers of the stomach itself.

In addition, perforation of the stomach has occurred in some instances. Quick cooling has even "shattered" the stomach in certain cases, he reported.

• • • •

"I EXPECT you'll be hearing of complications in human patients who undergo this treatment," Dr. Baldridge said.

Dr. Baldridge said an anti-allergy drug called Periactin is proving of value in the treatment of a complication that sometimes occurs after ulcer surgery.

The complication, called the "dumping syndrome," is marked by weakness, faintness and nausea soon after a meal. The condition is thought to be a result of the too rapid entrance of food into the intestines.

In some cases, Periactin, a tablet taken by mouth, can benefit persons beset with this trouble, Dr. Baldridge said.

His talk was the second in a series of scientific lectures arranged by Dr. H. Richard Casdorph, medical education director at St. Mary's Hospital.

Dumke Stresses Quantity, Quality

Three hundred delegates to the Western Speech Association's 33rd annual convention wound up the three-day meeting at the Lafayette Hotel Saturday by hearing Dr. Glenn Dumke, chancellor of the California state college system, explain the most immediate pressing need of American education.

Dumke, in a speech comparing higher education in Europe and the United States, said that America's problem is shared by European nations.

The problem: Combining quantity with quality education.

• • • •

EUROPE, he explained, has traditionally emphasized quality education for an elite few. But the European nations are finding out now that their approach is no longer adequate, that more than an "elite few" are needed for the nations to survive in today's demanding international economic competition. Europe, therefore, is studying the American mass education system.

On the other hand, the United States, Dumke continued, has apparently solved the problem of democratic education of the masses, but the problem remaining is the achievement of "maximum development of individual potentialities at all levels."

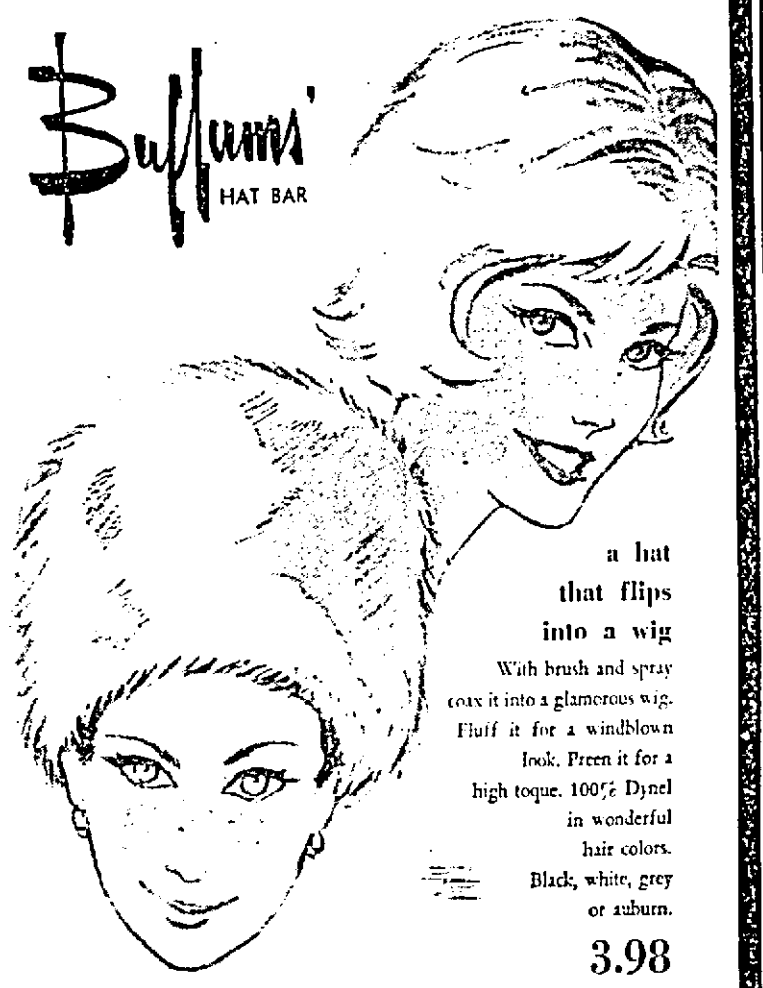

The convention chairman was Joseph A. Wagner of Long Beach State College.

THANK heavens, another rummage sale is history. For a while our garage can again become a place to put an automobile and to store some of the personal effects of our family, instead of a depot for the stowage of odds and ends gathered from households here and there by the zealous members of my wife's sorority.

Of course, the cause is a good one. The sale was held yesterday and the proceeds will go to a scholarship fund or something like that. And that makes me a rat if I complain. So this is no complaint, it is just some observation. All in good fun, I say, hoping to keep the peace.

Our office dictionary defines rummage beautifully: "A careful searching with the turning over of things; hence, an upheaval, confusion."

THE confusion begins at our house about six months before the sale.

The girls get a date at one of those sales rooms downtown, and the accumulation begins. Friends are signaled and, anxious to get rid of some things that have been cluttering up their places, leave them at ours. Our own junk that we ought to dispose of in some way is retained and added to the pile (unless I can surreptitiously sneak it out).

"Save it for the rummage sale" is the slogan that spells confusion and storage room disaster.

In the corner of the bedroom, a pile of clothing begins to develop. It grows slowly until sale day, and I have to be alert or a favorite old sports coat or something else I treasure will be hidden there.

Finally, the important night-before comes, and in station wagons and sedan trunks the stuff goes to market.

THERE'S another angle, involving husbands.

They're expected to do some of the physical labor involved in getting the rummage to the sales room and, on sales day, to hang around and do duty as extra salesmen.

It's interesting work if it doesn't interfere with a football game, a round of golf, or something else frivolous one wants to do.

A while back my wife overheard me talking on the telephone to somebody about a trip on the weekend of Nov. 16-18. It was the annual Chamber of Commerce trek to the Colorado River, a favorite outing of mine.

Her eyes were big and serious when I hung up.

"I heard you say the weekend of the 16th-18th," she said. "Have you forgotten about the rummage sale?"

I had, but suggested I was hardly essential to its success.

She replied that it's very important to have some men around and then applied the clincher.

"You've forgotten that I'm the president of our alumnae this year," she said. "How will it look if the president's husband is out traipsing around in Nevada or somewhere? You know I'm an understanding and tolerant wife, and never put my foot down about your doing anything, but . . ."

The bus with the gang left for the Colorado Fri. a.m. without me.

HONESTLY, the sales themselves are fascinating. They involve a tremendous amount of dickering and compromising on price and some amazing bargains are struck. They expose a side of human nature that one doesn't often contact.

Moreover, I always end up buying a few things myself at ridiculous prices, and have been known to buy some things that, the day before, belonged to me already. Once an item has gone to the sales room, it's no longer ours.

That's about the story. I hope the youngster who gets that scholarship money makes the most of his or her educational opportunities.

She's A Real Whirly-Girlie

By BILL DUNCAN

SANTA ANA—Ellen Gilmour is a whirly-girlie in an unusual profession.

Miss Gilmour, the prettiest attraction at Orange County Airport, operates a training school for helicopter pilots.

She learned to fly the rotary-wing craft while doing public relations work for a Miami, Fla., helicopter service; returned to California for a nightclub act (she's also a professional nightclub entertainer) and, when business got dull, opened her own helicopter training school.

In addition to flying and nightclub entertaining, Miss Gilmour has ventured into midget car racing, taxi driving (in New York City), newspaper work and radio work.

A member of the exclusive 50-member International Whirly-Girls organization, she holds card number 34 in the worldwide club for women who have licenses to fly helicopters.

Miss Gilmour started flying at the age of 16 in a Waco biplane in her native New York. She was one of the youngest female pilots to qualify for a license and has more than 3,000 hours in fixed-wing aircraft.

"I had flown just about every fixed-wing craft and the idea of piloting a helicopter seemed thrilling. I couldn't afford the lessons (then it cost $75 an hour) so I agreed to do publicity for the Florida firm in trade for lessons," she recalls.

Learning to fly a helicopter is much easier than a fixed-wing aircraft, she said, "It's more challenging, too," she comments.

She has checked out in nearly every model of helicopter—including big turbine-engine types.

City Joins State in Fight on Tide Oil Fund Suit

Move Asks All Funds Go to L.B.

By GEORGE WEEKS

The City of Long Beach is joining with the state in resisting a lawsuit which, on its face, might give the city all the revenues from offshore oil production rather than only one-half.

A suit for an injunction and declaratory relief, filed by Lewis W. Twombley, a Long Beach taxpayer, is scheduled for hearing at 2 p.m. Monday before U.S. District Judge Thurmond Clarke in Los Angeles.

Twombley, in a complaint filed Oct. 1 by attorney Frank Aldrich of Long Beach, argued that the federal Submerged Lands Act of 1953 had the effect of giving the city title to the offshore lands without the restrictions imposed by the state grants of 1911, 1925 and 1935.

* * * *

THE 1953 legislation has usually been interpreted as restoring to the states such title, subject to trusteeship grants.

City Atty. Gerald Desmond and his aides were reluctant to discuss their arguments in advance of the trial.

However, a brief filed with the court by Desmond and three assistants says in substance that the law is well established and the 1953 act gave the city no rights it previously did not have. Other signers of the brief were Asst. City Attorneys Brady and Deputy Malcolm Uptegraff.

This position is the same as that taken in a brief filed by Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk and an assistant, Ernest Sanchez.

The suit seeks to enjoin City Auditor Murray T. Courson from making further payments to the state under the terms of 1956 state legislation, a compromise between the city and state that grew out of the 1955 Mallon case decision.

L.B. Youth Helping on Red Cross Plan

Howard Brightman, 16, of Long Beach, will represent this area at the Pacific Area Advisory Council of the Red Cross in San Francisco.

The council meetings begin today and will run through Wednesday.

Brightman, of 4219 Gaviota Ave., attended the Red Cross national convention in Seattle last May.

He is a junior at Poly High School. In addition to his Red Cross work, Brightman serves with the "Volunteens" a group of teenagers who work at Memorial Hospital.

He also is an amateur radio operator, and during the summer taught swimming to handicapped children.

"I like to keep busy," he explains.

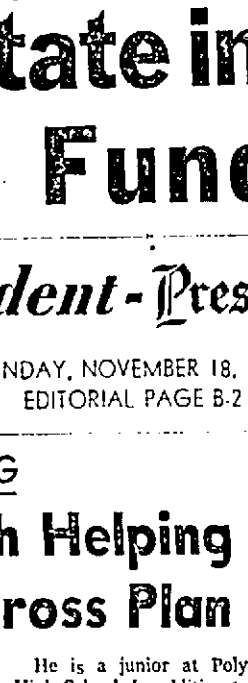

The Red Cross Youth Advisory Council provides the organization with suggestions for its youth activities program.

Major Vitek Wins SAC Citation

Major Lumir J. Vitek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Vitek, 151 Claremont Ave., has been cited for his work as safety officer for the 4042nd Strategic Wing (SAC) in Michigan.

The Wing has completed its second straight year of accident-free operation of aircraft, and has been presented a SAC Hall of Fame Certificate of Achievement for outstanding performance. The wing flys KC135 "Stratotankers" and B52 "Stratofortresses."

Major Vitek has been safety officer of the wing since its activation. The citation states that through "close personal contact with maintenance personnel and aircrews, and the daily monitoring of flying and flight line activities, he has created an acute awareness of potential hazards" that resulted in more than 23,000 accident-free flying hours.

City Park Garage Set for Debut

The $2.1-million Lincoln Park Garage—largest motorists' accommodation in Long Beach history—will be opened for public use and inspection at 9 a.m. daily Monday through Thursday.

A two-story, underground parking facility that was created by tearing up, excavating—and then restoring — the city's best-known downtown public recreation center, Lincoln Park Garage will accommodate 488 cars at a time.

* * * *

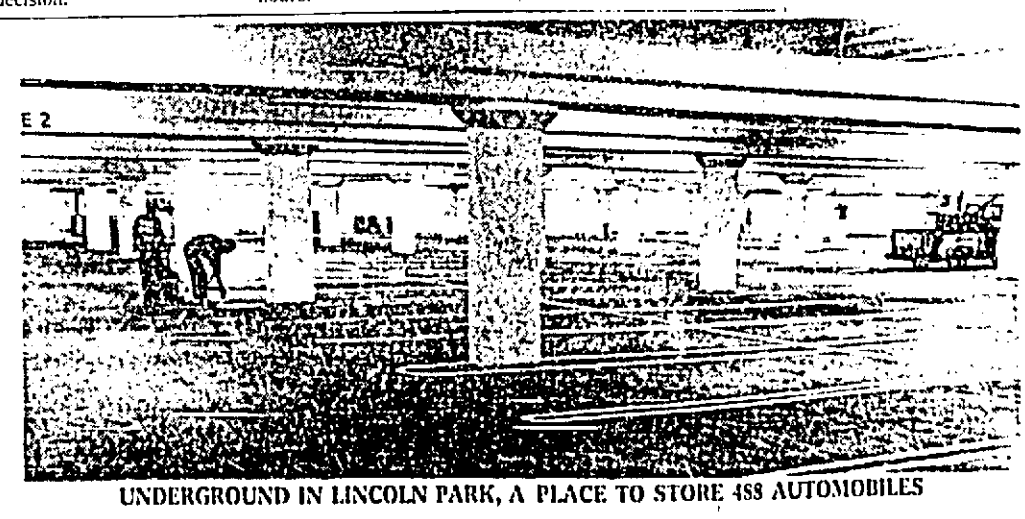

IT IS, in appearance and facility, similar to underground downtown parking operations in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Toronto, Pittsburgh, and other major cities of the continent.

Although owned by the city, Lincoln Park Garage is financed by bonds and management is supplied by Lincoln Park Parking, Inc., an organization of Long Beach businessmen and civic leaders. When paid for, the property will become completely city-owned.

* * * *

OPERATION of the garage will be in the hands of System Auto Parks and Garages, Inc., the nation's largest private parking concern.

Moran and Co., general contractor, and Del E. Webb Corp., principal subcontractor, joined with 14 other contractors to excavate, install and build the parking facility.

THIS IS THE PICTURE THAT BROUGHT BACK TERRIBLE MEMORIES

ANYBODY REMEMBER?

He Survived, Knows Slaughterer of War II

By DICK EMERY

A Hungarian-language newspaper, printed in New York, ran a Page 1 picture a few days ago of an old Nazi photograph.

The picture shows Nazi SS Capt. Werner Lemke, bottle in hand, lounging with a group of smiling women and men.

"Does anyone know about this man?" the caption asked. "He is jailed in Frankfurt, Germany, and witnesses are needed for his prosecution as a war criminal."

* * * *

DR. HENRY W. KRAUS, rabbi of Southwest Temple Beth Torah in Gardena, remembers Capt. Lemke.

"It was Capt. Lemke who in 1944 came to my Hungarian town, rounded up all 2,000 members of my congregation and herded us like animals for slaughter to concentration camps.

"Yes, I remember Capt. Lemke.

"As chief procurer in the area for Adolph Eichmann, he took 500 families — fathers and mothers, grandparents and children, the well and the sick alike—and of all those 2,000 persons of my congregation, only eight survived to see the war end!

"Could I ever forget that man? My own father, my own mother, all my own family, were in that herd of 2,000. They are all dead—killed in the Auschwitz death factory in Poland."

Rabbi Kraus survived Auschwitz, and Buchenwald, and Magdeburg, and was liberated from Flosenberg by the American 3rd Army on April 23, 1945.

"I have written, offering what I know of Capt. Lemke. I remember even small details about that man.

* * * *

"FOR VENGEANCE? No, I have no vengeance. But the men like Eichmann and Lemke must be brought to trial to show mankind in the 20th Century what can happen when God and faith are abolished.

"The accused Nazis tell us they were fighting communism. The Communists? The Nazis? They are the same one, and you will be a slave."

Rabbi Kraus became an American citizen a few months ago, and on Nov. 6, for the first time in his life, he could vote in a free election.

"It was the happiest day of my life," he said.

The Slaughter in 'Death Alley'

BECAUSE OF THE ABSENCE of $150,000 worth of safety construction work, motorists are dying at a startling rate on a stretch of the Long Beach Freeway known as "Death Alley."

Recently a reporter for this newspaper described the hazards of "Death Alley." While the story was being published, news arrived of still other deaths there.

As of this writing, 20 persons have died since Jan. 1 along that fatal stretch of freeway south of Artesia Blvd.

We have our fingers crossed and we are uttering a prayer, for it is entirely possible that some bewildered and unlucky motorist may outdate the previous sentence.

* * * *

THE TROUBLE IN Death Alley is caused by poor safety conditions on a roadway built for high-speed travel. Since this stretch is poorly lighted, drivers have difficulty following the highway lines at night, and when drivers swerve onto the divider strip, nothing is there to prevent them from plowing into the oncoming traffic.

The State Division of Highways reports that it has approved barricades of a type built to catch hurtling cars and prevent them from bouncing around in the passing traffic. Approval is one thing, installation another. No money for the project was budgeted in the fiscal year which has just begun.

Only by drawing from some special fund can the state put those barricades down "Death Alley" in the year 1963.

The city of Long Beach, which is responsible for part of this stretch of freeway, has been awaiting action by the state and has also failed to budget funds for the necessary improvements.

* * * *

THIS IS AN EMERGENCY. Lives are being lost. The normal fiscal procedure is too slow. Now that the problem in "Death Alley" has been illustrated all too vividly, state and city must abandon that normal procedure and draw upon whatever other means there are for financing the project.

We refuse to believe that a state which spends billions of dollars a year and a city which spends millions cannot scrape together on short notice the $150,000 needed to help stop the slaughter on this short but deadly stretch of freeway.

Let's do it!

Medicare Could Now Pass Senate

By Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Medicare, beaten in the Senate this past session by 52-48, could now pass by a vote of 52-48. However, predictions are that the administration will not push for passage until the summer of 1964, just in time for the Presidential election.

The shift in the Senate's lineup was created by the defeat of six senators who voted against medicare—now replaced by Kennedy Democrats—and the defeat of two Democrats who voted for it and lost to Republicans.

* * * *

LINING UP FOR FEDERAL jobs now are at least a dozen Democrats who lost on Nov. 6. Prominent among the "jobless" are Rep. Sidney Yates, who failed to unseat Sen. Everett Dirksen (he'll get a judgeship); Wilson Wyatt, drubbed by Sen. Thruston B. Morton in Kentucky, and Richardson Dilworth, who lost a bitter Pennsylvania gubernatorial battle to Rep. William Scranton. Then there's Robert M. Morgenthau, who gave up his D.A.'s job in New York to take on Nelson Rockefeller, and Gov. Mike DiSalle of Ohio, who lost while singing the New Frontier's praises.

A different type of commodity is represented in Richard Richards, who left the sanctuary of the California state Senate to take on, in the role of sacrificial lamb, the popular Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel. This has been considered here as state rather than New Frontier strategy, and so while Richards quite possibly is owed something nice, it isn't owed by the federal patronage dispensers.

* * * *

THE WASHINGTON POST, a liberal newspaper, has given strong support to President Kennedy's medicare program. The editors were therefore horrified the other day to read in an early edition of the paper an analysis of the recent election which said the new Congress would not improve chances for passage of "the medicare bill." Needless to say, the misprint was hastily corrected but probably not before it was spotted by eager Republican eyes.

THE HARVARD CLASS of 1940 is already laying plans for its 25th reunion in June, 1965. Washington members of the class met recently to make arrangements for the traditional money gift to the university by the 25th reunion class. After names of classmates residing in the Washington area had been parcelled out among various solicitors, the name of one classmate was conspicuously missing. "Who," asked the meeting's chairman tentatively, "will solicit Kennedy, John F.?" A heavy silence enveloped the room, finally broken by a prominent Republican. "I will," he said. "But we'd better do it right away. After all," he added optimistically, "by the time reunion comes around, he'll be a private citizen."

CHALK UP ANOTHER of those rare but happy occasions—an international sporting event which didn't end up in a first class row. The annual International horse race was held at Laurel Park last Monday. The French horse, Match II, won, followed by the American ponies, Kelso and Carry Back. The nice thing about it was that no one had any complaints. Everyone from Russians to Americans said simply that the best horse had won.

Bolivia's Former U.S. Envoy Clashed With Castro Backer

WASHINGTON—Diplomatic circles are churning over the manner in which one Latin American ambassador who opposes Fidel Castro had a showdown with his foreign minister who champions Castro, and was either fired or resigned.

The ambassador is Victor Andrade of Bolivia, who has done more for his country than perhaps any other member of the diplomatic corps by getting one-third of the Bolivian budget supplied out of U.S. aid. The foreign minister is Jose Fellman Velarde of Bolivia who once gave a job to Che Guevara, No. 1 Communist in Castro's entourage.

PEARSON

Andrade is sailing for Bolivia shortly to run for President. This, he figures, will let the Bolivian people decide whether they are either for or against Castro; for or against the United States.

Though Ambassador Andrade has flatly refused to discuss the incident, this column can reveal that it began when Fellman was first appointed foreign minister, at which time Andrade wrote President Paz Estenssoro a strong letter. He pointed out that when Fellman was head of the Bureau of Information he had hired Che Guevara, then exiled from Argentina, as a writer.

Later, when Fellman got a job as a newspaper columnist, he had written articles highly critical of the United States. This, Andrade told the president of Bolivia, was not the type of man to make foreign minister of a country heavily dependent on the United States for financial support.

Ambassador Andrade was in an excellent position to write this letter because he had served as foreign minister himself and had been a leader of the revolutionary party which kicked out the tin barons. His astute diplomacy had even nullified the heavily subsidized propaganda of the tin barons that Bolivia had gone Communist.

The showdown between the anti-Castro ambassador and his pro-Castro foreign minister came last September, as the Latin American foreign ministers arrived in Washington en route to the U.N. Assembly in New York. Andrade told Foreign Minister Fellman his sixth sense told him the United States was about to move vigorously against Cuba and that Bolivia should go on record against Castro in advance. It should not hang back and refuse to cooperate with the United States as in the past.

Fellman, however, refused. He told his ambassador he had stayed in the United States too long, insinuated that Andrade had sold out to the U.S.A.

Ambassador Andrade, a powerful man with a chest developed from climbing the high plateaus of Bolivia, got up and almost hit his foreign minister. Fellman is a small man, so he didn't. But Andrade promptly wrote a letter to President Paz, tendering his resignation. Fellman then told the press that he had fired Andrade.

The ex-ambassador of Bolivia is one of the few diplomats who golfed with Eisenhower, also had close friends among Democratic leaders. He lunched with Senate leaders on occasion in the private office of Vice President Johnson. And it was this wide friendship and astute diplomacy which continued the American policy of contributing one-third of the Bolivian budget. Without Andrade in Washington, the State Department and Congress may take a new look at the foreign aid situation.

NOTE — Ambassador Andrade expects to tour Bolivia at the grass roots, consult leaders, and, if the climate is favorable, run for president in 1964.

SEN. EVERETT McKinley Dirksen, the GOP Senate Leader, sometimes called the Hamlet of the Corn Belt, seemed a little subdued in a Capitol elevator the other day, following his hard-won victory over the Democrat Sidney Yates.

Dirksen may have been cogitating on the slings and arrows of office-seeking, as veteran politicians are wont to do.

"Now that it's all over, how do you feel, Senator?" inquired Washington correspondent Ed Reardon.

"I won't dwell on the details, Ed," replied Dirksen. "Let's just say that it's great to be alive and in one piece."

Use of Troops at 'Ole Miss' Has Cost Nation $2 Million

WASHINGTON—The use of troops at the University of Mississippi has cost the federal government more than $2 million. This figure has just been revealed by the General Accounting Office in a communication to Sen. A. Willis Robertson, Democrat of Virginia, who is chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

The figure covers only the extra cost of transportation and other expenses that would not otherwise have been incurred for the federal troops, and includes all costs resulting from the calling of the National Guard into federal service. It does not take into account as yet any of the expenses of the U. S. marshals, the FBI and other divisions of the Department of Justice. The expenses have been tabulated up to Nov. 1.

LAWRENCE

The total expense, including the mobilization of 34,000 troops in Mississippi and adjacent states, may eventually reach at least $4 million, according to unofficial estimates. There are federal troops as well as U.S. marshals still on duty in the vicinity of the University of Mississippi.

Just what legal function these troops are performing today is not clear, the court order has been complied with, inasmuch as James Meredith has been enrolled as a student in the university. It now is the obligation of the state of Mississippi and of the local authorities to maintain order. There is no federal law or court decision which gives the President the right to use the armed services merely to await a contingency in which a state may fail or be unable to protect the residents of a state against violence.

If every riot or disturbance growing out of a debate or dispute over a federal court decision were to be policed by the federal government, the states would be deprived of their right to do their own policing.

The contention will be made by the state that the use of federal troops to put down a local riot was a violation of the Constitution and was not sanctioned by any law of Congress or by any court decision. In fact, the troops and armed marshals were ordered into action before the full Supreme Court of the United States had passed upon an appeal from a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision that Meredith must be admitted to the university. A citizen has the right to refuse to comply with a court order or decision and to take the risk of a conviction for contempt and then imprisonment. But he also has the right to petition for an appeal all the way up to the Supreme Court of the United States.

It is often contended that Supreme Court decisions are "the law of the land," but the decisions of the highest federal court actually are only "the law of the case." Many cases differ from one another in facts and circumstances. John C. Satterfield, who served as president of the American Bar Assn. until last summer, dwelt on this very point in a speech before the National Convention of the American Legion shortly after the Mississippi incident. He is one of the lawyers recently called in by the state of Mississippi. He said:

"Courts are not governed by predilections and desires. They are governed by facts which appear in the records. Other cases decided upon other records between other parties and under different circumstances are only persuasive precedents until they are overruled. Until overruled, they may be differentiated by differing facts and differing elements.

SENATE leaders will fly around the world to check trouble spots. One comforting thing about looking for trouble spots, no matter where the plane lands you're in the right place.

GOP Rally to Weinberger May Clip Divisive 'Wings'

GUIDELINES for the leadership and reconstruction of the Republican Party in California were cinched in taut moderation ths weekend, the apparent rein men to be Cap Weinberger and Tom Kuchel.

Presidents of all three statwide GOP volunteer party organizations joined previously committed state party leaders in defending state chairman Weinberger "from divisive attacks by conservative spokesman Joseph C. Shell."

WEINBERGER

Mrs. Lucile Hosmer, president of the California Federation of Republican Women; Fred Hall, president of the California Republican Assembly, and Harry Keaton, president of California Young Republicans endorsed Weinberger's stewardship. Shell's case. It lost.

That moderation is the chosen course of the GOP is implicit in some past battles of these spokesmen. Hall won his seat against an all-out right wing assault from Glendale stationer Darven Paddock. Keaton won his against a similar opposition led by rightist Bob Gaston. U. S. Senator Kuchel's colors are victory on an unmistakable platform of moderation.

Three Birch Society nominees for Congress lost, including two incumbents. Knowledgeable and skid-proof American Bill Knowland used "poppycock" and "ridiculous" to assess the "soft-on-communism" charge used by some in his party against Pat Brown. At the same time he stumped for and endorsed Richard Nixon.

This does not mean the opposition does not have a case. It always has in a two-party system. But its tools for victory must indeed be valid issues on a building program, hammered legitimately against provable dry rot and structural weakness.

That means, in my opinion, the party can not identify with the now-shopworn speech of a former movie and TV star who speaks for 30 minutes or an hour on his compendium of horrors about America. The true list may in truth be even longer but this is portraiture out of context. And it seems irrelevant to him that despite his catalogue of our country's shortcomings it is still best. To whom would he have us look for example?

NOR CAN the party salute the florid words of one of its candidates—words which won him an honor medal for saying, in part, that America's educational system wrought the "spineless . . . spiritless" ones who turned coat in Korea.

This same paean to patriotism had not a word for the 5.7 million Americans who served there; the 54,000 dead there; the 103,000 wounded there. The handful on whose defections he writes purple words is of course to be deplored but, as an indictment of this country's way of going, is hardly worthy of statistical mention.

I COUNT IN the dozens of friends killed in World War II, some of whom I saw die 10 at a time. I think they won honor medals, too, on an ultimate deed, not a self-serving word.

Dead liberals and dead conservatives, certainly, lay in those shot-down planes. Their goal was common, their extremism was sacrifice. In today's debate, some of them would be called "soft on communism."

These new turns in GOP leadership perhaps will vitalize the great common goal of national excellence and, hopefully, bury the generality.

Sick at Heart Over Hiss on TV

EDITOR:

I just read the article of ABC vs. Nixon and I am sick at heart.

I retired from military service and I would like to believe I am a real American.

To let a convicted perjurer testify against Richard Nixon with full use of broadcasting facilities is an act equalled to saying Brutus was right in his actions. This goes down deeper than Democrat or Republican—this is a disgrace to the American way of life.

Alger Hiss is, was and will remain a traitor to his own country, and no amount of words change this. Richard Nixon may have made mistakes—but not even his enemies could call him a traitor.

Kennedy Most Costly President

EDITOR:

I wonder how many of your readers know that John Kennedy is not only our richest President, but he is also our most expensive. He has two Presidential yachts worth $500,000 of taxpayers' money; their maintenance costs us $83,000 a year. He has four helicopters worth $2,200,000; plus a new jet and two Presidential planes worth $6,200,000. Upkeep and crews for these cost $616,000 a year.

He has requested Congress to supply four more servants to the White House staff to help with Mrs. Kennedy's new White House projects, bringing the total staff members to 76. He also wants $50,000 a year more for maintenance of these projects.

By contrast, Herbert Hoover, who made his own millions, not only refused his Presidential salary, but personally paid White House expenses and donated Camp David to this nation.

Agrees Only in Part With Hiss Editorial

EDITOR:

I agree, in part, with your editorial, "WRONG ROLE FOR HISS." My disagreement is in the lack of a positive stand. I know of no one who will disagree with the statement that the program was in bad taste.

On the other hand I fail to see how anyone could possibly uphold the action of ABC television in sponsoring such a program.

Alger Hiss was a man convicted in a Federal Court of perjury. The perjury consisted of failing to tell the truth when he was questioned about turning over State Department information to Russian agents. The fact that he was convicted of perjury on this charge certainly makes him guilty of treason.

How could any right-thinking American place a man with his background on a program, nationally televised, for the purpose of downgrading the reputation of an outstanding citizen, such as Richard M. Nixon?

Languages in the News

by Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Thompson-Davis

Question from a reader:

What is Swahili? Who speaks it? Amin Suleiman, Youngstown, O.

Of the relatively new languages still in a formative period, Swahili is one of the most important. It is spoken by more than 25 million people throughout East and Central Africa and is a national language of Tanganyika, Ruanda-Urundi, Kenya, Uganda, Nyassaland, Zanzibar, and the Congo. As more African countries attain Independence, Swahili will become increasingly important as an international language for East Africa.

Swahili was evolved from the original African Bantu languages mixed with a good deal of Arabic and was used for centuries by the African traders along the East Coast and in the interior. In fact, Kiswahili, the correct name of the language, means "Tongue of the Coast." It is still the language of safaris, and there will be someone who speaks it in any village of East or Central Africa.

Readers of literature about Africa and viewers of African adventure films have absorbed certain words that they will readily recognize in Swahili. These include simba (lion), safari (trip), bwana (master), Bantu (the men), and askari (gun bearer, soldier).

"IN ACHIEVING elegance and sophistication," Miller says, "we have preserved our goal: accommodations, luxuries and pleasures to serve and satisfy every budget."

In tailoring the Breakers' luxuries to every budget, Miller has established Sky Room lunches from $1.25, dinners from $2.95; set up social cocktail hours at 60 cents; ordered hors d'ouvres served to guests; and scaled quality food and beverage prices to nominal figures.

"We don't aim these at the carriage trade," he says.

THE LOBBY of the Breakers International today is a showplace with great chandeliers, outstanding decor and rich furnishings. The world-famed Sky Room, overlooking the city and the sea, gleams in new decor. Viennese graciousness marks the restored Empire Room; the ultimate in crystal elegance is found in the Crystal Room; the Cellar Club throbs to the sound of jazz and dance; the Hi Ho Room has become a relaxed, secluded spot for rendezvous.

By far, however, the greater changes have taken place within the guest accommodations. There, hundreds of rooms have been redecorated from floor to ceiling.

Rich curtains and draperies, wall-to-wall color tone rugs, king-sized beds and elegant chairs, dressing tables and other items of furniture have come from the windows and floors of exclusive shops to grace the guest rooms.

LOBBIES SHINE in beautiful new carpeting and decor. The grounds about the Breakers International have been re-landscaped, the exterior of the huge building cleaned and re-decorated.

For Miller, the man with a vision, all this is a dream becoming reality.

Son of an oil worker, Miller was raised in the Long Beach area and attended primary, high school and college classes in Greater Long Beach before attending Loyola University School of Law.

After graduation, he was employed by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. from 1935 to 1941, graduating from the executive training class to positions of responsibility.

In 1941 he was appointed Civil Service Secretary by the Air Force and director of personnel for the Western Procurement District, having responsibility of all civilian personnel in 12 western states.

After the war, he became director and vice president of sales and traffic for the Flying Tigers Airline, resigning in 1948 to organize Millrich Engineering Corp., which subsequently merged with International Electronics Research Corp., Burbank. It is one of the largest suppliers of electronics components for the Department of Defense. He serves as chairman of the board for that company, and also the Mono-Twin Aircraft Corp.

THE TOWERING beachfront hotel in Long Beach, formerly known as the Hilton, was a personal challenge to Miller. He bought it in January of 1962, and immediately restored its original name, Breakers International.

Miller saw the city of Long Beach, and its greatest hotel, as institutions on the verge of greatness.

He launched a $1.5 million rebuilding program designed to restore to the Breakers its original position as the center of the city's travel and resort life, and the hub of its social and commercial activities.

The restoration of the building has been under the direct supervision of Hugh A. Gibbs, A.I.A., famous Long Beach architect.

From deep in the multi-basements to the tower went inspectors and contractors. Wiring was ripped out and new conduits installed. Ventilating systems were added. 350 doors and 454 windows were ordered to replace the old. More than $350,000 in new furniture was ordered installed, along with sound-systems for FM radio and maid calls.

Television sets — 200 of them—were purchased, many of them color sets.

MEANWHILE Miller surrounded himself with top management executives. N. L. (Len) Hill as director of food sales and service, and customer relations; Wirth P. Cunningham as beverage manager and purcrasing agent; and Steve Miller, son of the owner, as assistant manager.

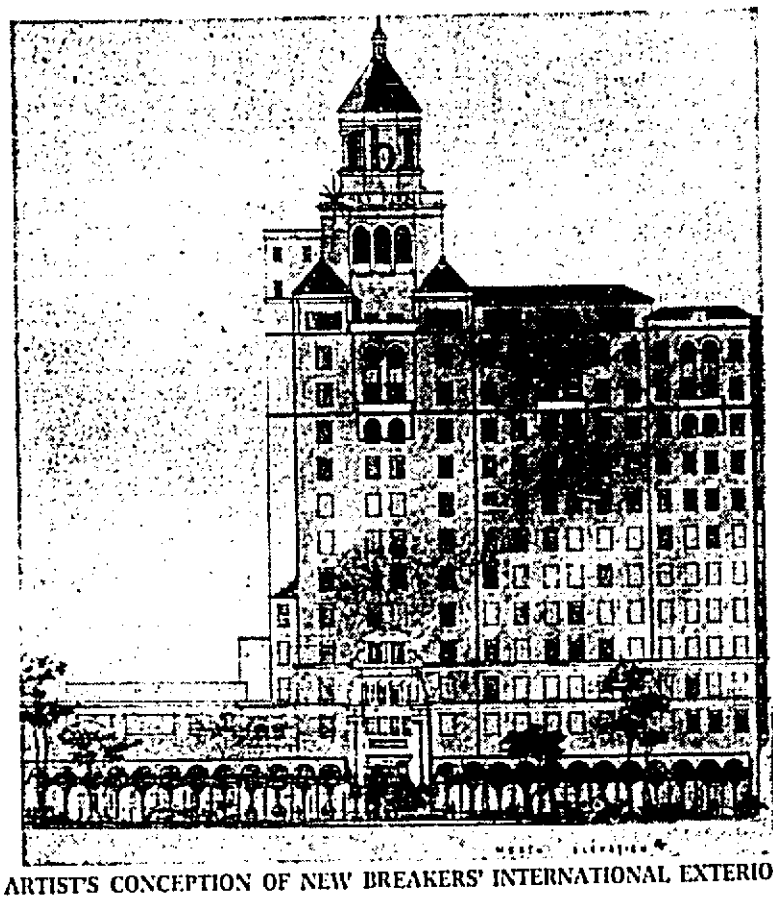

In a statement to patrons of the Breakers, Miller said recently:

"No matter which room you choose, when you check in at Breakers, your view from your room will be a living ever-changing panorama of palatial beauty.

"In its rare downtown shoreline setting, the Breakers is surrounded by scenic vistas such as these:

"The United States Fleet; fishing fleets; the Long Beach International Harbor; Downtown Long Beach; the International Amusement Center, including the Auditorium, Arena, Nu-Pike, marina and the rising Pier J — site of the coming World's Fair.

"Today there is a splendor restored to Long Beach, within the means of all. We challenge the city to inspect the new Breakers International."

Russia Fires 32nd A-Shot

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union set off another nuclear explosion in the atmosphere Saturday, the Atomic Energy Commission announced Saturday night.

The explosion was of low yield — producing a force equal to 20,000 tons or less of TNT—and occurred in the Semipalatinsk area of Siberia, the AEC said. The test was the 32nd announced Russian shot during the current series.

Schedule Shelters Seminar

Long Beach has been chosen as one of 10 California cities for workshops to instruct key personnel of the construction industry in techniques of building fallout shelters.

The session here is scheduled for Nov. 30 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the 268-seat Health Department Auditorium on Pine Avenue near Willow Street, it was announced Saturday.

Sponsored by the U.S. Civil Defense Office, the workshop is open to architects, engineers, contractors and others concerned with shelter construction.

• • • •

INSTRUCTOR will be C. Allen Cornell of the Stanford University faculty. Evar Peterson, city civil defense assistant director, will act as coordinator. Advance registration is not necessary, Peterson said, although inquiries will be welcomed at the local CD office.

In Washington civil defense officials said the workshops will be held in 200 cities throughout the nation in an attempt to "further our objective of providing fallout shelters for every American."

SWELLS CHEST

Monday's proceeds from Hubert's Cafeteria, 318 E. Fourth St., will be donated to the Community Chest, Hubert H. Hust (right), cafeteria owner, said. Edward Saxey, downtown division Chest chairman, delivered posters to Hust in preparation for the event.

Final Big Drive Begun by Chest

Community Chest campaign leaders readied Saturday for the final drive to raise $269,870 needed to reach the Chest's $1,070,108 goal for the year.

The Downtown division, with $4,596 of its $13,035 quota raised, was hopeful of a sizable increase after Monday's "Chest Day" at Hubert's Cafeteria, 318 E. Fourth St. It is the second year Hubert H. Hust has donated an entire day's proceeds from his cafeteria to the Community Chest.

Meantime, Malcolm Epley reported pennies contributed by school children added up to $3,421.60 bringing the total for his Government and Education Division to $66,079—72 per cent of the goal.

• • • •

RESIDENTIAL teams in Lakewood under Mrs. Robert Lewis and Dominguez workers under Mrs. Randolph Compton passed the 100 per cent mark with $79,000 raised in all residential areas.

Other divisions reported the following percentages of their goals: major gifts, 78; Belmont Shore business, 26.5; commercial, 31; downtown, 35; financial, 50; government and education, 72; harbor, 61; industrial, 49; Lakewood business, 26.4; oil, 51; professional, 57; retail, 44, and residential, 77.

Savannah Models Due Friday

Entries close Friday for the model-building contest feting the November 28 arrival of the nuclear ship Savannah at the Port of Long Beach.

The contest, part of a celebration to greet the world's first nuclear powered cargo and passenger ship, is sponsored by the Port Ambassadors.

All models of the Savannah must be taken to the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce by Friday, and winners will be notified by telegram on Saturday.

MODELS MAY be assembled from a plastic kit or built from scratch. They will be judged for neatness, painting and mounting. There are three classes of competition: junior (to 12 years), intermediate (12 to 18) and senior (18 and above). Prizes include trophies, a television appearance and a cruise aboard the N/S Savannah.

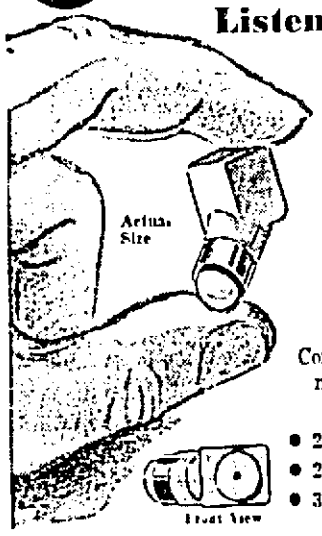

The N/S Savannah will be making its maiden voyage to Southern California. She is 587 feet long and travels at a speed of 20.25 knots.

Great Books Leader Training Session Set

Los Angeles Great Books Council has announced that a leader training course for the Long Beach area will begin at 8 p.m. Monday at the Brewitt Branch Library, 4036 E. Anaheim St.

There will be no charge for the six-session course and there are no educational requirements. Leaders for the newly-developed Junior Great Books program will be trained at the same time, with additional sessions to highlight approaches to children's classics. Mrs. Frances L. Brown, 12642 Foster Road, Los Alamitos, is in charge of arrangements.

Champion Bands Coming Here

—Staff Photos by Kent Henderson

WILSON HIGH BAND STRUTS OUT ON PARADE

High school marching band champions from Northern California will compete with their Southland equivalents Saturday in the 22nd annual All-Western Band Review.

The competition will be in a parade of more than 6,500 musicians that will begin at noon at Falcon Avenue and Ocean Boulevard, and will move west to Cedar Avenue.

Grossmont High School, perennial sweepstakes winner, will head the southern groups, seeking the Mayor's Trophy for the seventh time. San Diego County units will include El Cajon Valley, El Capitan, Mt. Miguel and Hilltop.

Anaheim High School, Western High from Anaheim and Lakewood High schools are considered strong Southland competitors.

Merced High School's "Marching 100" has been expanded to 120 bandsmen this year and is rated a top contender from the north.

Awards will be presented Saturday night in the Arena. The evening program will feature a special concert by Long Beach Municipal Band, a baton-twirling demonstration by Bob Roberts, former national champion, and finals of the Senior Girls Division of the California State Baton Twirling Championships.

Local groups involved in the review include Marvin Marker's Long Beach Junior Concert Band, Long Beach Amusement Company, California National Guard, Civil Air Patrol, Mobil Oil Company, Beach City Chevrolet, FM Station KLON, Lybian Guard, Breakers International Hotel and a number of City departments and divisions.

Rafferty Outlines His School Plans

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dr. Maxwell Rafferty, newly elected superintendent of public instruction, Saturday outlined seven points that he said will be stressed when he takes office in January.

Rafferty told a meeting of the Small School Boards Association that under his administration:

1. Teachers will be judged on their success in imparting subject matter to their students, not their success in conducting "life adjustment" courses.

2. The Department of Education will supply local boards with guidelines for adding additional positions, such as associate superintendents, which are not now in existence.

3. Phonics will be stressed in learning to read.

4. The great heroes, stories and facts of American history will be stressed from the first grade on.

5. The department will compile a list of the great children's classics, and schools will be urged to carry them in their libraries.

6. The department will recommend abandonment of group psychological testing in local districts. Rafferty said he particularly doesn't like the Science Research Association's Interest Inventory tests, and the Princeton Testing Bureau's S.T.E.P. series. He said they contain objectionable questions such as "Do you like your father or your mother better?" He added that the department cannot force districts not to use them.

7. Voluntary unification of school districts will be encouraged. Rafferty emphasized he is opposed to compulsory unification.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Car Passenger Falls Out, Killed

A Costa Mesa man was killed Saturday when a car door flew open and he fell out in Silverado Canyon.

Officers said James E. Strickland, 49, was a passenger in a car driven by Roger B. Mitchell, 20, of 211 N. Garnsey St., Santa Ana.

Mitchell took Strickland, of 2310 Santa Ana Ave., to a hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Fraternity House Vandalized

That bit about "when the cat's away the mice will play" was realistically proved to members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon at Long Beach State College.

While the fraternity brothers were attending a football game, someone ('tis rumored the opposition) entered the unlocked house at 1830 E. Ocean Blvd., and toted most of the furniture to the front yard.

The perpetrators then created a wild mess inside the house and made, like away, with 57 honored trophies, police said today.

Relected to National Board

Mrs. Milton B. Smith of Long Beach, long an active volunteer member of Camp Fire Girls, Inc., will serve another term on the national board of directors, it was announced Saturday.

MRS. SMITH

The National Council, at its annual meeting in Cleveland, Ohio, passed a resolution to extend its program to include girls of all races, faiths, nationalities and economic levels.

Plans include enlargement and upgrading of the national staff and development of experimental programs in 10 or 15 metropolitan areas to work with culturally deprived girls.

Library-Book Circulation Soars

L. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Circulation of books and magazines by the county public library, which set a new record last month, is on the upswing and appears headed for an all-time high next March.

County Librarian John D. Henderson reported last week that circulation in October was 801,336, the highest recorded for an October in the library's 50-year history.

Library business traditionally hits its peak in the spring, Henderson said in predicting that total circulation would pass 900,000 for the first time in history in March. All-time high for the county system was 899,195 volumes last March.

Diving Students Signing Up

L. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Registration is under way for Los Angeles County's 12th annual course to train instructors in skin and SCUBA diving. It will close Dec. 1.

Teh course is sponsored by the county Department of Parks and Recreation in affiliation with the National Association of Underwater Instructors and the National YMCA.

Because several hundred applications normally are received and the course can accommodate only 30 persons, the county department will conduct precourse examinations.

Music Workshops Scheduled

L. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

How to conduct an orchestra will be the topic of two advanced music workshops, one on Dec. 8 and one on Dec. 15, in Bovard Auditorium at the University of Southern California.

The workshop, open to high school seniors and older, will be sponsored by the county Department of Parks and Recreation in collaboration with the USC Music Department.

AFL-CIO Plans Big Pilot Drive in Southland

By BILL SUMNER
L. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The AFL-CIO has its sights zeroed in on almost every walk of life in its forthcoming organizational drive in Southern California. From the policeman on the beat to the scientist in the think factory, the serenade is going to be "solidarity forever."

While specific targets have not been announced, and will not be for some time, the broad outline of the so-called pilot program, scheduled to begin Jan. 2, indicates that almost every type of non-union payroll will be covered.

Franz Daniel, AFL-CIO assistant director of organization, said that Long Beach and Pasadena are among the target centers in Southern California. Daniel, who will direct the Southern California drive, said he would open and staff offices for the program shortly after Thanksgiving.

• • • •

THE AFL-CIO and local unions have put up about $325,000 to support the one-year test run, aimed at organizing 400 of the 5000 unorganized concerns and institutions of Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Special emphasis will be placed on manufacturing plants, restaurant and hotel workers, various white collar professions and government employes on the local, county, state and federal levels.

This last, Daniel said, will include teachers, the police and firemen. In the case of the last two categories, "the right to strike is to be forgone," he said.

• • • •

HE SAID, too, that the various scientific and engineering research institutions of the area—such as Pasadena's Jet Propulsion Laboratory—were not exempt from the AFL-CIO's organization plans.

Even scientists have grievances, he said.

"They don't get recognition for their real accomplishments," he said. "There is office politics and there are power plays a democratic organization could solve."

And, with a smile, he said, "We don't think the class struggle applies here. We don't think they are wage slaves."

• • • •

HE PREDICTED the most resistance to the drive would come from the while collar professions although, he said, the labor movement is rapidly becoming a white collar force.

And, he said, "There is a real need for a democratic organization in the teaching profession—they have a very strong union in the Los Angeles area now."

Daniel is a big-burley, soft-spoken veteran of the labor movement who first joined the picket lines while studying for the ministry in the late 1920s.

DANIEL, 58, graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1927 and went from there to Union Theological Seminary, interrupting his studies from time to time to picket and hand out pamphlets in the drive to organize New York's garment workers. He was thrown into jail several times for his activities, but in the course of things decided to give up the cloth for the labor movement.

"I got to know people like Norman Thomas," he said. "And Reinhold Niebuhr. I was interested in civil liberties and free speech. This became the important thing."

Rubber Record Due

NEW YORK (AP) — U. S. consumption of rubber this year was forecast at a record high of 3.79 billion pounds or about 21 pounds for every man, woman and child.

The total is the weight of about 40,000 products ranging from elastics to tires, and includes the rubber in about 95 million pairs of canvas footwear.

GAD Civil Defense Series Set

Three public lectures and a combination television-classroom series on civil defense are announced for this week by the General Adult Division of Long Beach City College.

Charles Dean Fisher opens a new illustrated series on "The Troubled East" at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Rogers Junior High School auditorium, Monrovia Avenue and Appian Way. First topic is "The Crossroads of Civilization: Turkey, Syria, Jordan and Iraq."

Ted J. Gordon, chief engineer for the Saturn program at Douglas Aircraft Co., will be the second speaker on "The Move Into Space" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the City College auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Avenue.

Gordon formerly served as test conductor for Thor and Thor-Able launchings at Cape Canaveral and directed the firing of the Pioneer I moon probe. He is now in charge of development and construction of the S-IV upper stage of the Saturn space vehicle, this country's entry in the race to put men on the moon.

Study guides for a new television workshop course on "Individual and Family Survival" may be obtained at the General Adult Division office, 701 Locust Ave. First program of the series will be shown at 10:30 p.m. today over Channel 5.

The new TV series supplements adult civil defense classes offered by local school districts. A new four-week class opens Wednesday at 9 a.m. in Bixby School auditorium, 5251 E. Stearns Street.

Mrs. Alice C. Wright continues the "Creative Reading and Writing" lecture series at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Jefferson Junior High auditorium, Seventh Street and Grand Avenue. Her topic is "Factual Writing Can Be Creative."

7 on Gale-Lashed Sea Tower Saved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An Air Force helicopter Saturday rescued seven stranded civilians from a storm-battered Navy research tower 30 miles southwest of Bermuda.

The H19 helicopter from Kindley Air Force Base in Bermuda, flown by Capt. D. B. Maurras, picked up three of the civilians shortly after noon. It then returned for the remaining four and brought them to safety.

The Navy said that for the last three days the tower has been lashed by waves cresting at 45 to 60 feet, and by winds up to 70 miles an hour. It had been stripped of its radar and radio antennas, and other appendages.

* * * *

THE TOWER stands atop a submerged volcano in the Atlantic and is a relay point for hydrophones used in Navy underwater sound investigation.

The rescued were civilian employes of the Land Air Corp. of Chicago. They are:

Anton Savarcs, Chicago; Modris Avotins, Chicago; William Krogman, Marine on St. Croix, Minn.; Raymond Wills, Marysville, Ind.; Johnny Prince, Gastonia, N. C.; Jimmy Prince, Spartanburg, S. C., and Ben Sullivan, Winona, Miss.

Castro Clears Sky of Planes

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban military authorities Saturday ordered the skies over Cuba cleared of all domestic commercial airline flights by 4:50 a.m. today, according to a Havana Radio broadcast monitored here.

The broadcast gave no reason for the order, but there was immediate speculation that it could be connected with Premier Fidel Castro's threat to shoot down U.S. surveillance planes flying over Cuba.

2,294 See Horn Sparkle, 105-96

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Professional basketball came to Long Beach on an artistically successful plane Saturday night as the L.B. Chiefs opened their ABL campaign with a 105-96 win over the previously unbeaten Kansas City Steers.

A crowd of 2,294 was on hand for the historical opener in the Long Beach Arena. The teams duel again tonight at 8.

The Chiefs were always in the lead after a first-quarter 26-26 deadlock, holding a 51-49 halftime edge and 76-71 third-quarter margin.

• • • •

FOUR CHIEFS scored in double figures, Ron Horn leading the way with 26, Ben Warley 23, Bill Spivey 20 and Bob Wilkinson 16.

The Chiefs scored seven "home run" plays (3-pointers) with the long-distance shooting Warley netting four of them.

In a pre-game ceremony, Chief coach Al Brightman was presented with an Indian war bonnet by councilman Ray Kessler. The war hat was appropriate for Brightman as he screeched at officials Bill Fassler and Doug Harvey all night.

• • • •

AT ONE point in the first quarter, Brightman became incensed at the tactics of the Steers' 6-9 center Gene Tormohlen and dashed onto the floor, grabbing Tormohlen in a bear hug. The entire Chief team ran off the bench to render any assistance, but the wrestling match was broken up by the officials.

Brightman pressed home one point later in the game, however, as he walked back onto the floor to correct the lead. From that point, the officials, and for his labors the Chiefs were awarded an extra shot.

Warley registered Long Beach's first points with a 30-foot 3-point shot to push the Chiefs into an initial 3-0 lead. From that point, the lead changed hands constantly throughout the first quarter.

Huskies Riddle UCLA

Coffey Leads Assault in 30-0 Romp

By JEROME HALL
I. P-T Staff Writer

SEATTLE—A monstrous new star burst upon the western football scene here Saturday while a devastating thing was happening to the UCLA Bruins.

Propelled by the powerized running of Junior Coffey and fed by the fomented frenzy of the 54,000 frozen faithful, the Washington Huskies administered a crucificial beating that must rank among the worst the Westwooders ever have absorbed.

The score was 30-0. The defeat was worse.

The defeat was complete, utter and absolute. The Huskies appeared fired by the memory of that embarrassment in the Coliseum a fortnight ago and so did the spectators.

• • • •

UW STADIUM was turned into a quasi Roman Coloseum as the Huskies' rooters shouted "pretend they're Trojans." When the Bruins finally did muster a scoring threat in the final minute of the game, the chant went out to "hold that line."

The Huskies weren't playing the UCLA Bruins, they were playing that game with USC as they rammed, smashed, boomed and crashed for 463 yards while the Bruins were just trying to get on the scoreboard.

But when their scoring thrust to the Husky 13 died for want of a first down with just 45 seconds remaining, the shutout was complete. It was the first time in the past 36 games the Bruins have failed to score.

• • • •

PERHAPS THE biggest surprise of the day was that the natives didn't shoot down the Bruins' chartered airplane as it climbed into the gray and cold northwest sky after the game.

It's necessary to go back a

USC's top - ranked Trojans had their gold football pants nearly scared off them by a 17-point underdog Navy team Saturday in the Coliseum, but the unbeaten Men of Troy had the most horseshoes and emerged with a 13-6 triumph.

The largest crowd of the Southland college season (51,701) also saw the most exciting football game of the year as both clubs scrapped like cats and dogs for the entire 60 minutes.

The under-rated Middies almost pulled out an unbelievable victory in the game's last two minutes and 50 seconds when fullback W. Patrick Donnelly smashed to the Trojan goal line, where he fumbled and a Trojan recovered in the end zone!

• • • •

LONG BEACH'S Willie Brown broke the game open in the third period with a sensational 56-yard sprint down the north sideline that gave the Trojans their first breathing space of the afternoon—their final 13-6 victory margin. Brown had his finest day as a Trojan, registering 143 yards in eight carries for a brilliant 17.9-yard average.

The Middies shocked the big throng before many of the patrons had become comfortable in their pews. Controversial Wayne Hardin's Navy club posted its only points of the chilly afternoon just 80 seconds after the contest had started.

Trojan halfback Ken Del Conte gave the sailors their big break by fumbling the opening kickoff on USC's 22. The Middies' Ron Testa recovered there and the boys from Annapolis were off like P-T boats.

• • • •

NAVY'S sensational sophomore quarterback Roger Staubach—easily the outstanding player on the field Saturday—rolled out to his left for four yards to USC's 18, then on the next play rolled out to his right on an apparent pass-option maneuver.

With the way nearly devoid of Trojans, Roger simply tucked the ball into his own arm and skirted his right flank for the entire 18 yards to Troy's end zone. Fred Marvin's attempted placement was blocked by Gary Potter, but the Middies still

Vikings Clobber Corsairs, 48-20

By KEN PIVERNETZ

Homer Williams and Duane Nixon combined for seven touchdowns Saturday night at Veterans Stadium as Long Beach City College overwhelmed Santa Monica, 48-20, to close out its second unbeaten season in history.

The win, accomplished before a crowd of 5,100, and a Jr. Rose Bowl delegation, enabled the Vikes to become the highest scoring team (per average, 30.1) in the school's annals and wind up with an 8-0-1 record.

More important, the victory left Jim Stangeland's crew remaining in the run for the roses that will be decided today in Pasadena.

• • • •

AHEAD only 12-8 at halftime, Long Beach put together its best 15 minutes of football this year in the third period, scoring three quick touchdowns to break the game wide open.

Williams ran for three TDs and scored another on a 75-yard return of an interception pass to tie a school one-game touchdown record set by Gerry McDougall and equalled by Dee Andrews.

Nixon also had his best night, scoring three times, two on long passes from Jim Dunn, and the other on a three-yard run.

• • • •

THE CORSAIRS were buried in the second half by a hard-charging LBCC line as tremendous pressure was exerted upon Santa Monica quarterback Steve Sindell.

Sindell, who entered the game with 1,793 yards-passing yards, completed 12 of 24 for 172 yards.

The game was all over six minutes into the third quarter.

It only took that long for

MIDDIE BACK COMES UP SHORT (AND WITHOUT FOOTBALL) IN TYING TD TRY

Staff photographer Bob Shumway snapped this key picture which proves Navy fullback Pat Donnelly didn't make it into end zone with what might have produced the Middies a tie or win against USC Saturday. Donnelly is inches short and already had fumbled the ball. Pete Beathard made the tackle and Gary Potter (not in picture) recovered the ball. Only 2:40 remaining when crucial play occurred. USC won, 13-6.

Sunday's Pearls

Sunday pearls from the readers' pulpit:

. . . A Fullerton man, Phillip S. Reeder, 1928 W. Valencia Dr., thinks so much of Long Beach's sports potential that he forwarded the following letter to Joe Foss, commissioner of the American Football League.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

". . . If the rumors are true that Oakland will go to Kansas City and New York to New Orleans — and if sports history is any criteria—this mass shuffle of leaving the West Coast would seal the door on your AFL. Here is my solution:

"1. Stick with the Chargers in San Diego (a good sports area with rapidly increasing population).

"2. Beef up the Raiders (now in Oakland), leave the San Francisco bay area in favor of the northwest—Portland, a large municipal stadium plus professional sports enthusiasm exists there.

"3. Move Dallas to the Eastern Division (providing another Texas opponent for Houston).

"4. Bring the New York club to the most underrated, sports-starved area in the U.S.—Long Beach, Calif. This would provide a natural opponent for San Diego.

"Long Beach has live wire newspaper sports coverage exceeding that of Los Angeles newspapers. Southern L.A. County and Orange County have been without a major league team because of the shadow of Los Angeles. This is an unnatural condition.

"I am sure if the AFL surveyed this area, the facts would be astounding: Eastern—Buffalo, Boston, Dallas, Houston; Western—Long Beach, San Diego, Portland, Denver."

. . . The AFL has surveyed Long Beach, albeit briefly. That league, among others, is eyeing Long Beach attendances for Chief games—for important future decisions. (And thanks to Mr. Reeder for his kind comments on the I. P-T sports coverage.)

"TO FURTHER PROMOTE the overall Long Beach sports program why would it not be possible to have an annual city championship game between L.B. City College and L.B. State College? Such a game played at Veterans Stadium every Thanksgiving Day or perhaps the following Saturday afternoon could add materially to our city's expanding athletic prestige. Unquestionably there would be sufficient attendance to make the venture financially sound. Why not call it the Long Beach Drumstick Bowl?" (signed) T. R. Arthur, 3936 Walnut Ave.

. . . A game between a four-year school and a two-year school would be impossible to schedule. The contest might be interesting year-in-and-out, but obviously State College would have nothing to gain and EVERYTHING to lose.

"I perused last week's wire service football ratings and found that USC, after thoroughly trouncing a good Washington team, failed to move up on first place Northwestern, who squeaked by a poor Indiana team. This only backs up my suspicions that weekly gridiron ratings, like Russian peace moves, mean absolutely nothing." (signed) Lem Snowden, Long Beach.

. . . Nothing is right, particularly when the West Coast NEVER is adequately represented in any wire service poll.

"In watching the TV showing of the World Series, a very noticeable factor in the defeat of the losing clubs was the inability of their batters to hit the first pitch (usually a strike) and then foul off the next pitch, thereby having two strikes immediately. It is a wonder to me why managers do not tell their batters to hit at the first pitch regardless, and thereby cut down this more-than-average occurrence." (signed) Harold E. Weeks, 1714 Petaluma Ave.

. . . An old long-distance walking champion, Harold still likes WALKS, even the bases-on-balls variety.

"I'M TAKING a sporting chance that you can find space for your readers in behalf of people who don't even have a sporting chance for life unless they get help. They get up hungry every morning, never have enough to eat during the day, go to bed hungry every night. That goes for more than half the people of the earth. I have a feeling sports fans will respond generously when they know that every $1 they send to CARE Food Crusade, New York 16, N. Y., will deliver a package of life-giving food to a needy family overseas. Will you help us spread the word?" (signed) Sam Kaufman, CARE, 660 First Ave., N. Y. 16...

. . . The word is out. Let's hope it spreads.

"Tonto Bars Hank is back at Los Alamitos race track after spending the spring in clover. He was wedded to 55 mares, each of whom brought him a dowry of $1500. Most stallions find the daily work at a race track exceedingly boring after a spring with the mares, but Hank now pays strict attention to business, something he did not always do." (signed) Publicity Dept., Los Alamitos Race Course.

. . . In the words of Major Hoople: Har-rumph!

Bucks Trounce Oregon, 26-7

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State got a lot of offensive help from a couple of sparingly-used defensive players Saturday as the Bucks defeated Oregon 26-7 in an intersectional contest before 72,529 fans.

The rainy-day crowd was as much a shocker as the score since it was the smallest throng to see Ohio in action here in several years.

Bill Mrukowski, senior from Elyria, came out of the discards to quarterback the Bucks to victory. Two weeks ago he was so low on the totem pole he did not even make the trip to Iowa. But he was good enough Saturday to score two touchdowns and pilot the Ohio club faultlessly.

Chuck Mamula of Martins Ferry, a junior defensive tackle, scored his first points as he took over the place-kicking chores for injured Dick Van Raaphorst. Mamula made good with two conversions and field goals from 25 and 40 yards —the two defensive newcomers scoring 20 of Ohio's 26 points.

The Bucks capitalized on Webfoot errors in handing the West Coast club its second defeat in nine games, and breaking its own tradition of losing alternate games this season.

The Bucks moved 70 yards in 14 plays, 24 in 7 and 32 in 7 for their touchdowns. Fullback Dave Francis scored the first one after Ron Snidow's kick had carried only 12 yards.

Mrukowski got the second one after Bill Spahr recovered Bruce Snyder's fumble on the Oregon 24, and the quarterback also counted the third one after Bill Armstrong had intercepted Bob Berry's pass on the Webfoot 32.

Oregon exploded for a 69-yard touchdown drive in 8 plays in the second quarter, with Berry hitting Greg Willener with a 15-yard fourth-down pass. It came after Larry Hill had rolled around end for 33 yards. In the same series sensational Mel Renfro had gone for 39 yards only to have the play called back by a clipping penalty.

The Webfoots threatened again in the fourth session with Berry taking to the airways, but the 79-yard drive died on the Ohio 1, as Renfro fumbled and Matt Snell recovered for the Bucks.

Jayhawkers Hold Off Late Cal Bid 33-21

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas fullback Armand Baughman bulled through California defenses for 142 yards and three touchdowns, offsetting Craig Morton's dead-eye passing, and Kansas took a 33-21 intersectional football victory Saturday.

The Jayhawkers led 21-0 late in the first half, but the spirited Golden Bears stormed back with a touchdown in each of the last three periods.

Then Kansas wrapped it up with a 73-yard march with 2½ minutes left. Halfback Gale Sayers, used as a decoy most of the last half, broke 23 yards around right end for the touchdown.

BAUGHMAN carried 32 times, breaking a 21-year school record for most attempts. Sayers picked up 81 yards, raising his season figure to 1,053. He is the seventh Big Eight player to gain over a thousands yards rushing in one season and the first in five years.

Morton, a 6-foot 3½-inch, 210-pound sophomore, fired three touchdown passes for the Bears, who were anxious to atone for a 53-7 flogging by Kansas a year ago and give Cal coach Marv Levy a winning start on a brand new two-year contract.

Baughman, a 6-foot, 195-pound junior, had the fullback chores all to himself with Ken Coleman injured, and made the most of it. He accounted for 73 yards in the first three Kansas scoring drives, all on the ground.

• • • •

THEN JIM Blakeney's 75-yard kickoff return brought Cal to life. Morton was dumped for a 12-yard loss, his third long loss in the first half, but came back with a 33-yard TD pass to Tom Blanchfield.

Williams, Nixon Combine for 7 TDs

the Norsemen to take the second-half kickoff and travel 68 yards in nine plays, with Dunn's pass to Nixon covering the final 49.

H. Williams intercepted a pass on the second play of the ensuing kickoff and Dunn again found Nixon for 35 yards on the first play to put the game safely on ice.

• • • •

DUNN HAD one of his better nights, hitting 10 of 15 aerials for 202 yards.

The first half was a different story as Long Beach found itself trailing for the first time this year.

The Corsairs took the opening kickoff and scored on the third play from scrimmage to stun the partisan Viking crowd with the easy way they were able to move on the vaunted LBCC defense.

Corsair fullback Bob Bozell went 53 yards on a draw play and nearly stumbled on the LBCC 45 before recovering his balance and outrunning Charles Williams into the end zone.

Sindell hit tackle George Chumo for the two-point PAT and it was 8-0 with 1:30 gone.

The aroused Vikings then came back and traveled 64 yards in 12 plays with Williams and Nixon doing most of the damage on slants and end sweeps.

Nixon slanted three yards off right tackle for the score with 6:35 left. Nixon's PAT pass fell incomplete and it was still 8-6.

• • • •

SANTA MONICA then came right back with the ever-dangerous Sindell, operating from the shotgun and a split-T, calling plays with imagination. The Corsairs actually crossed the LBCC goal line, but an offsides penalty saved Long Beach and gave it new life.

The go-ahead TD came on a 44-yard, seven-play drive with Dunn going to the air to connect with Rich Croson and Nixon on key back-to-back plays for gains of 16 and 20 yards respectively.

Williams dived into the end zone from two yards out and it was 12-8 as the half ended.

Williams wound up gaining 115 yards on 28 carries to break the LBCC single-season freshman record set by Lonzo Irvin in 1960. His 96-point regular season total is fourth best in history.

Safford Takes Fuel Honors at Lions

Ken Safford of Hollywood won his second straight fuel eliminator title before 4,469 fans Saturday night at Lions Drag Strip in Long Beach.

Gas eliminator honors went to the strip's leading driver Tom McEwen of Long Beach winning over world record holder John Peters of Santa Monica.

Safford speed of 184.72 mph was tops for the evening with Bill Alexander turning in the fastest time at 8.39 seconds.

DECISION TODAY ON JRB FOES

The 11-man Junior Rose Bowl board of management meets today at the Huntington - Sheraton Hotel in Pasadena to select the opponents for this year's game on Dec. 15.

Long Beach and Santa Ana are the top western contenders while Columbia Basin, Wash. and Henderson County, Tex. seem to have the inside track for the eastern bid.

Six members of the board are representatives of the Calif. Junior College Athletic Assn.; the remaining five are delegates from the sponsoring Pasadena Jr. Chamber of Commerce.

The western team will be announced Monday morning, and the eastern team Monday afternoon.

DONS CRUSH FULLERTON FOR 9TH WIN

FULLERTON — Santa Ana College crushed Fullerton, 38-12, Saturday night to register its ninth consecutive win and keep it in prime contention for a Junior Rose Bowl bid.

Quarterback Dunn Marteen sparked Santa Ana, scoring two touchdowns and passing for a third. The Dons never trailed after scoring once in the first period.

OSU's Baker Sparkles; Campbell Paces Cougars

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—Amazing Terry Baker rushed and passed for 389 yards and moved into second place among college football's all-time gainers as Oregon State downed winless Colorado State, 25-14, Saturday.

In the process, Baker helped OSU end Vern Burke set a single season collegiate record for pass receiving yardage. Burke made 10 catches for 108 yards and a season total of 972 yards.

• • • •

BAKER surpassed John Ford of Hardin-Simmons and Georgia players Frank Sinkwich and Zeke Bratkowski on the all-time list and now has 4,848 yards in his three-year career. His total for this year is 2,144 yards.

Saturday's performance was the third time this season that Baker amassed over 300 yards.

However, Baker stands no chance of catching the all-time leader, Johnny Bright of Drake. Bright's career total was 5,903 yards. Baker has one game remaining — next week against Oregon.

Oregon State — held to a 7-6 halftime lead by a Colorado State team determined to break a 24-game losing streak—scored twice in the first six minutes of the third period. Then OSU withstood a freak Colorado State touchdown to improve its season record to 7 victories and 2 defeats.

Baker had 231 yards passing and 168 rushing.

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Washington State University staged a desperate last-period 65-yard scoring drive in snow and mud to break a 14-14 tie and defeat underdog University of Idaho 22-14 Saturday in a traditional football battle.

Washington State end Hugh Campbell, who already held half a dozen national pass catching records, tied another Saturday when he caught five passes for 63 yards. This gave him a career total of 2,274 yards, equaling the collegiate record set in the 1947-49 seasons by Bill Klein of Hanover.

It was Campbell's fifth reception that got the Cougars their winning score.

Stanford Trims San Jose St., 21-9

STANFORD (UPI)—Quarterback Steve Thurlow passed 54 yards into the end zone to Danny Spence for a touchdown just before the half Saturday to pull Stanford from behind and set the stage for a 21-9 Indian victory over oft-beaten San Jose State.

Stopping determined Spartan drives on the three, nine, 11 and 28-yard lines in the early going, the Indians took just 51 seconds to travel 76 yards one minute before the intermission to take an 8-3 lead.

San Jose State had scored on a 20-yard field goal by Bob Paterson just two minutes earlier.

Stanford got its second touchdown in the third quarter on Clark Weaver's two-yard plunge. This one was set up on a pass interference penalty call that gave the Indians a first down on the San Jose State nine.

• • • •

THE OTHER Indian score came in the final period and was set up on a fumble recovery on the Spartan 42. Five plays later, Thurlow sneaked over from the five.

San Jose State's lone touchdown came early in the last quarter when the Spartans went 75 yards in three plays. The big gainer was Walt Roberts' 56-yard broken field run and the score came on a 12-yard pass from Rand Carter to Roberts.

The victory was the fourth of the year for Stanford against five defeats — and it was the eighth loss for the Spartans, who have one win and a tie.

Roberts was named the outstanding back of the game for his ball packing performance and Stanford's end Frank Pattucci was named the outstanding lineman.

WYNN

Man to Man

VILLANUEVA

By JERRY WYNN

My seven-year-old son saw his first Ram game recently, and was disappointed to discover that his favorite player, Danny "Billywada," did not run or pass or tackle . . . just kick.

But the Rams aren't kicking about "just kick". Danny Villanueva this season. He has been the one great success story of an unsuccessful club.

Raked over the coals for a poor season in 1961, the popular Ram toe-reador has made a remarkable comeback.

He is currently leading the NFL in punting with a superb 46.4 average for 60 kicks. At this rate, he is certain to surpass Bob Waterfield's Ram record of 44.6, established in 1946 when Danny was nine years old.

Villanueva also has connected on six of 10 field goals (one was blocked) including efforts from 49 and 51 yards, the latter tying a club record. He has topped the club in scoring the past two years, and is in front again.

How does it feel, Danny, to be leading the league in your first full year as a punter?

"It's hard to feel good about anything personal with the club having a bad year, but I'm really thrilled. I never did consider myself a punter. I didn't know I was No. 1 until Tuesday when coach Svare came into the dressing room to congratulate me. I thought it was a wonderful gesture on his part."

Did you ever get discouraged when things weren't going well for you last season?

"Yes, to the point where I was ready to throw it in. I thought perhaps my kicking was just an illusion and I was kidding myself. After the season, I was undecided about coming back but Chuck Benedict (Rams' public relations assistant) kept calling me at home and encouraging me. I needed a boost, and I'm very grateful to him."

What has been responsible for your big improvement as a punter this season?

"Bob Waterfield. It's as simple as that. When he let Jim Bakken (rookie place kicker drafted by the Rams) go, he told me he was going to go with me all the way, and he spent a lot of time working with me. People always said he didn't say much, but he was tough with me. Maybe I'm the type of kid who needed it."

What did Waterfield teach you?

"The main thing was cutting down my steps. I was taking too many and it ruined my timing. He threatened me with everything before I learned the right way."

You have a new holder in Ed Meador this season. How important is a holder to a place-kicker?

"You can't measure it. Before this year, my mind was wandering. Now I'm not thinking of anything but kicking the football. Eddie's by far the best holder I've ever had. He's the quickest and most consistent in his movements. That's the key. I start my move instantly seeing him move instantly."

What has been responsible for the rash of blocked kicks this year?

"Fortunately, I've only had blocked this year and had five blocked last year. But before this year, every one took field goals for granted. The only rushers I ever worried about were Night Train Lane and Erich Barnes. Now every team is working on blocking kicks. What they're doing is pulling one blocker down, and running right through him. It's technically defensive holding, and I think the officials will start to call it."

Who do you consider the best punter and place-kicker in the NFL?

"Yale Lary of the Lions is without a doubt the best punter I've ever seen. As for place-kickers, I never had much of a chance to study Lou Groza. I rate Pat Summerall the best. He had good snap and his technique was almost flawless."

Which of your kicks as a Ram gave you the greatest thrill?

"The 51-yarder against Dallas this year. It was a personal thing. I'd always heard people say, 'He's too little. He can't kick that far.' It was something I had to prove to myself. There was also that one I made to beat Green Bay my rookie year. (Danny kicked four field goals, the last from 12 yards with 11 seconds left to give the Rams a 31-30 win at Milwaukee in 1960.) I'd like to have a little repetition of that when we play them this year.

A No. 1 punter and No. 1 competitor is Danny "Billywada."

Gophers Edge Purdue

TD Pass Produces Win, 7-6

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota's passing attack, ineffective much of the time, struck like lightning for a touchdown early in the fourth quarter to give the Gophers a 7-6 victory over Purdue Saturday.

Quarterback Duane Blaska, able to complete only 6 of 21 passes to that point, hit end Ray Zitzloff on a 29-yard scoring strike with 10:23 left in the game. Colin Versich added the extra point.

The Minnesota victory set up next week's showdown for the Big Ten championship against Wisconsin at Madison. Both are 5-1 in the conference.

Zitzloff took the ball away from two defenders, Tom Bloom and Ronald Meyer, at the Purdue three and slipped into the end zone for the game's lone touchdown.

RON DiGRAVIO's short punt which Gopher Paul Ramseth fielded on a fair catch at the Purdue 31 set up the Gopher score. Moments earlier, a punt by the Gophers' Jerry Jones, killed by Bob Prawdzik at the Boilermaker two, had pinned Purdue deep in its own territory.

Skip Ohl's two booming field goals from the 26 and 37 got Purdue its 6-0 halftime bulge.

Purdue tried gamely to come back in the late stages on the passing of Gary Hogan and DiGravio. However, Minnesota's secondary backs were equal to the assault.

The Boilermakers became the sixth team this season to fail to score a touchdown against the Gophers. The loss gave Purdue a 3-2 conference mark.

* * * *

PURDUE did manage to roll up 110 yards rushing, a small total against most teams, but good considering Minnesota has yielded less than 50 yards average thus far.

Minnesota found the Purdue defense almost equal. The Gophers gained only 141 yards on the ground and 79 through the air.

BADGER CAUGHT AT TOP AND BOTTOM

Wisconsin Badger quarterback Ron VanderKelen appears stunned as two Illinois tacklers hit him at once in second quarter. Flying off the right shoulder is Illini center Dick Butkus. On the ground, but helping to trip up runner, is Rich Callaghan.

Spartans Rip Wildcats

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Shadowy halfback Lou Holland scored four touchdowns and zoomed fourth-ranked Wisconsin to an easy, but important Big Ten conquest of lowly Illinois 35-6 Saturday.

The triumph apparently gained Wisconsin a Rose Bowl bid, even though the Big Ten season will not close until next Saturday.

Holland, 5-feet-10, 180-pound junior, produced three first-quarter touchdowns on his first four plays of the game as the Badgers hiked their Big Ten record to 5-1 and their over-all mark to 7-1.

The Badgers, who were brilliantly led by quarterback Ron VanderKelen, on this bleak, dreary dad's day at Illinois, set the stage for a clinching Big Ten title finale against Minnesota next Saturday at Madison, Wis. In view of Minnesota's 7-6 conquest of Purdue Saturday, plus the fact the Gophers are ineligible for a Rose Bowl bid, the Badgers apparently nailed down a Pasadena post-season trip.

HOLLAND scored on scrimmage runs of 35, 18 and 15 yards and speared a 16-yard scoring pass from VanderKelen in his remarkable performance.

Illinois, which had scored a resounding upset of Purdue two weeks ago, scored its only touchdown with 34 seconds remaining in the first half, and then on a fluke play.

After Wisconsin had surged to a 28-0 lead, the Illini counted on a 13-yard pass from Mike Taliaferro which was deflected on the goal line by Badger defender John Fabry into the hands of Illini halfback Trenton Jackson for a touchdown.

The second half became a lackluster struggle, almost resembling a weekday scrimmage, in which the only touchdown came on Holland's 35-yard run in the third quarter.

Holland's four touchdowns was one shy of the five scored in one game by Illinois' immortal Harold (Red) Grange in the epic 1924 Illinois-Michigan game.

NEBRASKA SLIPS BY OKLA. ST.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska hammered out touchdowns in the first two times it got the ball and then held on for a 14-0 football win over Oklahoma State Saturday to keep its Big Eight title hopes alive.

Penalties and miscues prevented the Huskers from cashing in on other scoring opportunities.

The win leaves Nebraska with an over-all 8-1 mark—5-1 in conference play. The Huskers' chance for a trip to the Orange Bowl now rests on the outcome of the season finale against Oklahoma.

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—Michigan State exploded Northwestern's shimmering dream of a Big Ten championship and a Rose Bowl berth Saturday, staging a tremendous defensive effort to earn a 31-7 triumph over the nation's seventh-ranked team.

The Spartan victory ended Northwestern's Big Ten season with a 4-2 slate without a chance for even the title or a finish high enough for a Rose Bowl nod.

It was a dismal finish for the Wildcats, who won their first six games and became the nation's No. 1 team and the national leader on offense for a while. Michigan State shut off Northwestern's strongest point, its passing, and then clamped down on the rushing game.

* * * *

THE WILDCATS' ace passer, Tom Myers, was thrown seven times for losses totaling 48 yards while trying to throw. He completed only eight of 25 passes for a measly 47 yards. Even worse, two of his throws were intercepted by Herman Johnson and returned 51 yards. One of the interceptions set up a 1-yard touchdown plunge by the Spartans' George Saimes.

Northwestern's running game was restricted to only 39 yards, for a total offense of 130 yards. And Michigan State, despite losing the ball four times on fumbles, had the power when it counted.

Sherman Lewis, one of the Spartans' leading ball carriers, scampered for a touchdown. Another Spartan drive wound up in a 36-yard field goal by Jim Bobbitt with only 7 seconds left in the half.

Hawkeyes Strike Late to Subdue Wolverines

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Iowa quarterback Matt Szykowny rifled a 47-yard touchdown pass to Sammie Harris with only 2 minutes, 43 seconds left Saturday to power the Hawkeyes to a jinx-ending 28-14 win over Michigan.

The Hawkeyes added another touchdown with only 45 seconds left to wrap up the Big Ten victory in their final home appearance of the year. It was only Iowa's third win over Michigan since 1924 and marked the first time Iowa had beaten Michigan on the Hawkeye field in the 22-game series which spanned 26 years.

Harris' climatic touchdown was his first of the season. He took the ball on the 3-yard line and narrowly missed stepping over the sideline as he ran into the end zone.

Iowa slammed the door shut on Michigan's hopes a few moments later when guard Earl McQuiston intercepted a Wolverine pass on the Michigan 27. With only 45 seconds left, reserve quarterback Bob Wallace hit Dick Turici with a 4-yard pass to even the Hawks' Big Ten record at 3-3 and an overall record of 4-4 for the season.

Both teams showed plenty of offensive punch in the first half as they traded touchdowns with long plays highlighting the scoring drives.

IOWA STATE GLIDES PAST HAPLESS KSU

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Tom Vaughn, a speed merchant wrapped up in a compact 5-11, 195-pound bundle, shattered Kansas State's defenses Saturday with three touchdowns and led Iowa State to a 28-14 Big Eight conference victory.

A sparse Homecoming crowd of 9,500 had scarcely settled under their blankets on this chill, gray day, when Vaughn collected his first six-pointer. He took the opening kickoff on his 15 and went 87 yards up the middle. His solo burst counted only eight seconds on the stadium clock.

4TH STRAIGHT SHUTOUT

Oklahoma Puts Muzzle on Speedy Tigers, 13-0

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners, reborn giants of the Midlands, cracked through sixth-ranked Missouri's vaunted defense for touchdowns at the start of each half Saturday for a 13-0 win over the Tigers.

The victory was Oklahoma's fifth in a row in Big Eight Conference play and put the Sooners in sole possession of the conference lead and allowed them to take a big stride toward becoming the conference's representative in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day.

Missouri suffered its first defeat; Nebraska also has lost only one conference game and the Sooners must beat the Cornhuskers next week to take the conference crown.

Oklahoma's defense stopped Missouri's rushing attack, best in the nation until Saturday, as cold as the wet 40-degree day.

It was the Sooners' fourth straight shutout.

Oklahoma's Joe Don Looney brought the opening kickoff back 40 yards to the Oklahoma 44. On the second play quarterback Monte Deere flipped a screen pass to halfback Virgil Boll who scampered 42 yards behind fine blocking to the Missouri nine-yard line. Looney took it over from the three after Deere picked up six yards on a pair of keepers.

Butch Metcalf's kick made it 7-0 with only 2½ minutes gone.

A big play also set the Sooners on the way to their second score. After taking the ball on the 20, fullback Jim Grisham slashed 30 yards up the middle and from that point the Sooners ground out the remaining yardage on power plays through the line.

Missouri, which had average 287.6 yards a game, could not get started against Oklahoma's tremendous defenses which repeatedly forced the Tigers into mistakes. Missouri, with star runner Johnny Roland bottled up throughout the game, managed only 111 yards on the ground and threatened only twice.

Roland, who was among the nation's leaders in individual rushing, was held to only nine yards by the alert, hard-charging Oklahoma line and his two fumbles halted both Missouri threats.

Missouri did not get a first down rushing until the fourth quarter. Its deepest penetration was to the Oklahoma 16 in the second quarter after Jerry Wallach had picked off a Paul Lea fumble. But Lea returned the favor by recovering a Roland fumble on the 16. The final Tiger threat was killed on the 17 when Roland fumbled trying to pass.

Once Over Lightly

Cassius Warns Sonny, 'Don't Pop Off!'

Cassius Clay is now being called the "Prophet of Doom" for heavyweight fighters because of his uncanny ability to name the exact round he'll dispose of his opponents.

As you know by now, he did it again Thursday. He said Archie Moore would fall in four . . . and he did.

After the fight, he told heavyweight champion Sonny Liston that he was next. "Man, you've got to fall in eight," he told the champ.

He also listed "time limits" on some of the other heavyweights. "Floyd Patterson would go in two, Ingemar Johansson in three and Cleveland Williams in five," declared the Louisville Lip.

CASSIUS CLAY
'The Lip' In Action

Clay and Liston engaged in a running verbal duel that started at ringside and continued at a dinner later in the evening.

At the dinner, Liston stepped to the microphone and said "I just hope I can last as long as Moore."

This, of course, drew a big laugh from Cassius. Liston quickly turned to him and said . . . "and by that I mean in my career. As for you, Cassius, I can say this: you may not last as long as Patterson."

Clay, naturally, had the last word. "If Sonny keeps popping off like that he'll be leaving in six!"

After Clay's tremendous victory over Moore, boxing men and the public as well are bound to take the youngster more seriously when he names the round after this.

HE GAVE MOORE A BRUTAL beating. Archie revealed that he was so dizzy from the scores of blows to the head that he stood up after the second and third rounds because "I was afraid I wouldn't be able to get up if I sat down."

Archie didn't land one effective punch. In the meantime, he has never taken so many clean punches to the head. Not even Rocky Marciano or Floyd Patterson worked him over as thoroughly in his two cracks at the heavyweight title.

Turning serious for a moment after the fight, Clay revealed, "I hated to beat up the old man, but he's a ranked fighter and I had to use him for a stepping stone to the championship."

Moore didn't go with one punch . . . but from the combination of well over 100 blows to the head.

Clay twice buckled his knees in the first round, had him rocky three times in the second and on the verge of going out through most of the third heat before putting him away in convincing style in the fourth.

WHAT NEXT FOR CLAY? Johansson appears to be the most likely opponent if the Swede will agree to terms after settling his income tax troubles with Uncle Sam. The bout would be held shortly after the first of the year in Miami.

If Johansson is unavailable, Clay might try Billy Daniels, one of his earlier victims, a second time.

Then Liston. Would he be ready for the champ? Archie thinks so. Then, too, just how good is Sonny? His one-round knockout of Patterson didn't prove much, especially after some real bums have made him look bad in previous fights.

Liston, meanwhile, expressed some doubt that a return match with Patterson would ever come off.

Sonny made a hit with the Southland press in several interviews Thursday during which he showed surprising poise and quite a sense of humor.

ASKED IF HE'D HEARD FROM Patterson recently, he quipped "No, I think he's still out."

But he seriously said that he wants to fight four or five times a year regardless of taxes and that if Patterson continues to "sit still" about arrangements for a return bout he would sign for another fight.

Big hassle over the return match concerns the site and the promoters. "Patterson wants the same promoters as the last time," Sonny said. "But why them? We haven't been paid off yet. Let's try someone else."

Also Patterson wants to fight in New York where Sonny presently is barred. "I won't go into New York now," he declared, "unless they gives me New York."

Someone cracked that for all the public cared, they could stage the fight in a telephone booth.

And Sonny left them laughing when he asked, "Do you think we'd fill it?"

Floyd Wants Sonny First, Clay to Wait

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson said Saturday he was not interested in a fight with Cassius Clay until after he has his return title fight with champion Sonny Liston.

"I lost my title to Liston in Chicago," Patterson said, "and I want that title back. The only way I can get it is to fight Liston again."

After he recaptures the crown, Patterson said, he then might be interested in a defense against Clay, the 20-year-old youngster who gained national stature when he knocked out Archie Moore in four rounds at Los Angeles last Thursday.

Patterson made his remarks in reply to an announcement Friday by Harry Markson, managing director of boxing at Madison Square Garden, that he was opening negotiations for a Patterson-Clay heavyweight challengers' fight at the Garden in January. According to Markson, the winner of that fight would then meet Liston for the title at Yankee Stadium in June.

'I'LL TAKE CLAY IN 4'

"The Lip" has been challenged by "The Voice."

Chuck Medick, the telephone voice of the Independent, Press-Telegram sports department would like to meet Cassius Clay in a talkathon to the finish.

Declares Medick: "He will fall in four," — four hours.

And Chuck adds: "I can also write better poetry than he," and offers as proof:

By CHUCK MEDICK

Cassius, you're the greatest,
That's what the fight fans say,
And lots of folks in this old town
Are with you all the way.

But don't go making Sonny mad,
Just leave that boy alone;
For Sonny's mean and big and tough
And has a heart of stone.

You better take a long, long rest
We'll see you if and when;
Cause if that Liston fist connects,
You won't be back again.

TIDE TURNED BY GA. TECH, 7-6

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech used a new shotgun offense and old reliable fullback Mike McNames Saturday to upset top-ranked Alabama, 7-6, and hand the defending national champions their first football defeat in 27 games.

McNames, a 196-pound senior, intercepted a pass in the second period and raced 28 yards to the Alabama 14. Two plays later he went nine yards for a touchdown. And in the fourth period, his jarring tackle thwarted a two-point conversion try when Alabama went for broke after its touchdown and wound up a state of defeat.

Alabama charged back furiously in a last-minute drive and reached the Tech 14, but defensive specialist Don Toner intercepted a deflected pass with 39 seconds left to play and sealed the tremendous upset.

Tech employed a shotgun offense for the first time this year, and it enabled the Yellow Jackets to control the ball in the first two quarters, indirectly setting up their winning touchdown.

Tech backed Alabama into its territory, and McNames intercepted sophomore quarterback Joe Namath's pass at the 40 to set up the killing score.

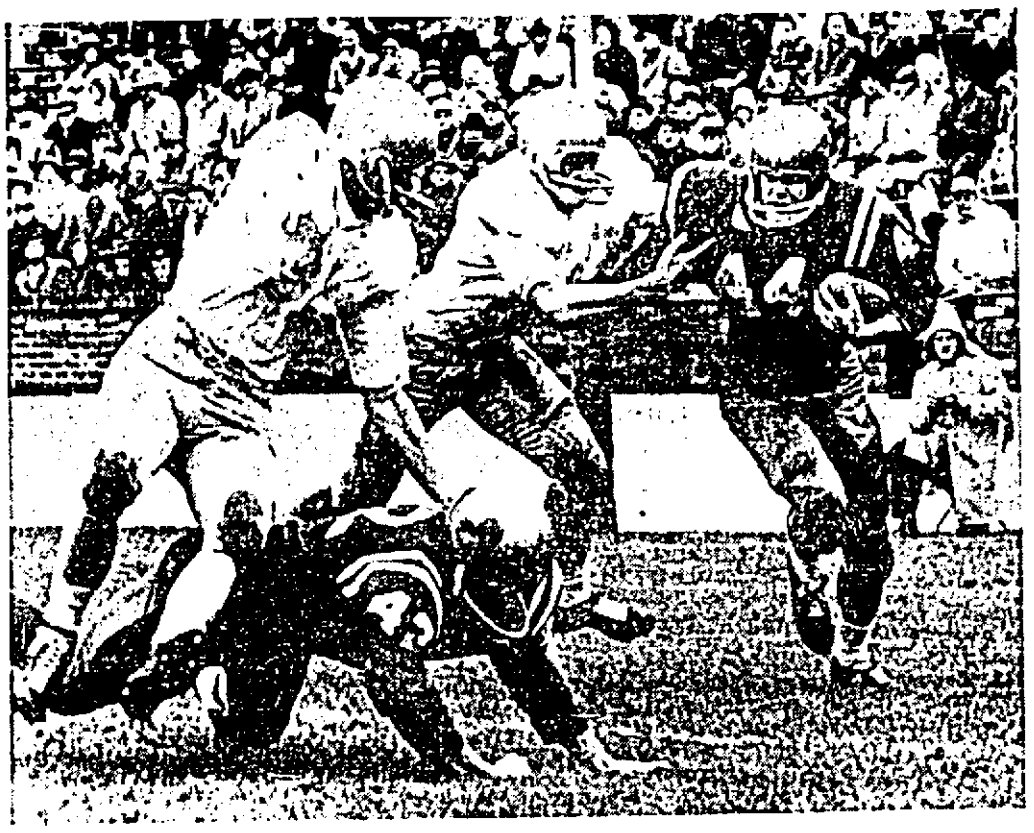

Alabama's touchdown in the final six minutes came after Tech quarterback Billy Lothridge fumbled a snap from center on fourth down while back to punt. He got the kick off, but an official ruled his knee touched the ground at the Tech 9. Alabama took it over in four plays with halfback Cotton Clark scoring his 14th touchdown of the season from the 2.

Alabama refused to go for a tie. Hurlbut sped to the right behind a convoy of blockers for a two-point conversion try, but McNames, assisted by tackle Ed Griffin, met him at the 1 with a crushing tackle.

The loss, Alabama's first since Tennessee beat the Crimson Tide early in 1960, may have affected Alabama's chance of going to the Orange Bowl, but this was not certain.

It was certain, however, that Tech would get a bowl plum as an upset reward.

Texas Overcomes Frogs, Near Title

FORT WORTH (AP)—Clutch runs by Jerry Cook and costly Texas Christian penalties carried Texas to a 14-0 triumph and within a half-game of the Cotton Bowl Saturday.

Undefeated Texas, with a 5-0-1 record, now can tie Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day and clinch the Cotton Bowl spot. It can win the Southwest Conference championship with a victory.

Paying no heed to a muddy field the Texas defense kept TCU inside its 32-yard line the first two periods, inside its 34 the next and only in the final quarter could the weary Frogs get as far as their 40.

Cook's 19-yard run and a pass interference penalty that set the ball on the TCU 3 gave Texas its first touchdown.

The other Texas touchdown came in the final period with a 12-yard run by Cook getting to the TCU 19 and then a personal foul put the ball on the TCU eight. Tom Wade pitched out to Ray Poage who ran around right end.

The field goal, a 27-yarder by Tommy (true-toe) McKnelly, provided the winning points. Minutes before, Arkansas failed on a two-point conversion try after halfback Jesse Branch's 11-yard touchdown run.

But the real Porker hero was guard Mike Hales, who broke through and broke an SMU field goal attempt with one minute left. It was a third down try from the 17 by John Richey.

Rebels Stumble Over Tough Vols

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Louis Guy's 100-yard runback of a pass interception killed Tennesse's hopes for a tie Saturday and Mississippi rolled toward its first perfect football season in 70 years with a 19-6 victory.

The bruising game, played on a rain-soaked field, erupted into a swinging free-for-all late in the fourth quarter after Tennessee scored its lone touchdown on a 16-yard pass from Bobby Morton to John Hudson.

Ole Miss, the nation's third-ranked team, was ahead 7-0 in the 3rd period when Guy grabbed Mallon Faircloth's pass in the end zone and outran a horde of Vols for the score.

Tennessee was on the Rebel 4 at the time and making a strong bid to score and possibly tie the game.

Only Mississippi State, a bitter intra-state rival, stands between Ole Miss and its first unblemished season since it began inter-collegiate competition in 1893.

Mississippi's triumph, coupled with Georgia Tech's 7-6 victory over top-ranked Alabama, virtually assured the Rebels of the Southeastern Conference championship.

The fifth game of Florida's most competitive series developed into an aerial battle between Gator quarterback Tom Shannon and the Seminole's Eddie Feely. YALE (GOSH!) 'STEALS' TD, BUT BEATEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., (UPI)—Princeton had to come from behind Saturday to whip Yale, 14-10, in their 85th meeting, but it developed later that Yale had scored an illegal touchdown.

All four officials failed to notice that the pass that accounted for Yale's lone touchdown was caught by quarterback Ed McCarthy. Princeton did not protest the play.

The passer was fullback Pete Cummings, who threw in desperation just as he was being hit on a sweep. Poorly aimed, the ball went toward McCarthy in the end zone and the quarterback pulled it in.

After the game, Yale coach Jordan Olivar conceded the touchdown was illegal.

CRAIG VESTERMARK . . . WINNER BY A LANDSLIDE

WILSON QB IS MOST POPULAR PREP GRID

Wilson High quarterback Craig Vestermark is the most popular prep football player in Long Beach—at least 5,921 people think so.

That's how many votes the crew-cut senior amassed in the recently conducted "Most Popular Prep" contest, sponsored by the Independent, Press-Telegram.

His vote total was only a few hundred shy of the most ever polled. The margin of victory for the Bruin passing whiz was slightly under 2,000.

Poly linebacker Wayne Davis finished second, just ahead of St. Anthony halfback Tony Van Coutren.

Vestermark received a foot-high trophy, with a gold-laden football mounted on it and his name inscribed on the base.

Panther Defense Stymies Cadets

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fullback Rick Leeson's extra point placement was the slender margin of victory Saturday as Pitt's underdog Panthers, humbled by Navy, rose up to defeat Army, 7-6, in a fierce defensive battle at Yankee Stadium.

Pitt capitalized on a second-quarter Army fumble on the Cadet 15, was helped by a five-yard penalty and then sent Bob Roeder blasting over from the four to set up Leeson's ultimately winning kick before a crowd of 23,917 chilled spectators.

Army went 32 yards for its score in the third period after a 10-yard runback by Dick Waldrop, with Joe Blackgrove ramming over tackle from the three. But an Army gamble for victory failed when Cammy Lewis was dropped while attempting a two-point run.

Much of the balance of victory was contributed, however, by Pitt punter Pete Filley. Once he bailed Pitt out with a 63-yard kick from his own five-yard line and his precision punting was a factor in keeping off Army throughout a chilled, dreary afternoon.

New-Look Rams Underdog to Revenge-Bent S.F. Today

By JERRY WYNN

The Rams will seek to clinch the National Football League Championship (of California) when they engage the San Francisco 49ers at the Coliseum today.

A crowd of 45,000 is expected to see the defenses downgraded and the end zones unlocked when these old rivals tear into each other starting at 1:05 p.m.

After scoring five points in two games while limiting the Lions and Colts to 26, the Rams are seething at their offensive bit and should benefit from a major lineup overhauling by coach Harland Svare.

The 49ers, burning to revenge the 28-14 defeat by the Rams at San Francisco three weeks ago, also are overdue for an explosion from their potentially high-scoring attack. They gave indication of this by tallying 24 points against the Lions last week.

Despite the setback to the Rams and a four-game losing streak, San Francisco is a 2½-point favorite.

The old plea of the vendors "you can't tell the players without a program" will ring true for the Rams today as Svare will field an offensive lineup with seven position changes.

WYNN'S WINNER
49ers 31, Rams 31

Most important, Ron Miller will start at quarterback and the exciting rookie from Wisconsin seems certain to add life, if not touchdowns, to the impotent Ram offense.

One of Miller's passing targets will be Jon Arnett, converted to end from halfback. Dick Bass will run from left half, and rookie Art Perkins and old Ollie Matson will share duty at fullback.

The line also has been revamped with rookie Joe Carollo and veterans Duane Putnam and Les Richter receiving starting berths.

The 49ers will miss their all-pro offensive tackle, Bob St. Clair, out for the season with a knee injury.

This will be the final home game for the Rams until Dec. 16, when they host Green Bay in season's finale.

COME OUT, HANK, WHERE EVER YOU ARE!

Long Beach State College students, elated over their team's 14-7 upset over Cal Poly Friday night, converge en masse across from Independent, Press-Telegram building late Friday night shouting "Hank (Hollingworth), come out, come out." The 49er fans took exception to a recent article by the I, P-T sports editor saying LBSC didn't have a chance against Cal Poly.

49er Win Sweetest Ever; Outlook Promising for '63

By AL LARSON

It's a shame 7,100 fans saw Long Beach State drop its opener 39-0 and only 2,903 loyal patrons turn out for the finale when the 49ers bowled over Cal Poly of Pomona in the season's biggest upset.

The 49ers lost four of their first five games, then did a turnabout by racking up four victories in their final five contests.

Friday night's 14-7 triumph over the previously unbeaten and untied Broncos from Pomona must rate as the sweetest victory in coach Don Reed's career. There's only one more, yet to be achieved, that could be sweeter. We'll let you guess which one that could be.

What about these amazing 49ers, who knocked off the nation's 13th ranked small college football power? Nine seniors, including co-captains John Reed and Gene Farrell, PAT kicker-deluxe Tom Turrill, punter Tom Fitzel, Mike Sweeney, Roger Zink, Casey Stangel, Paul Quisenberry, Mike Mattox and Gene Williams, closed out their careers in spectacular fashion.

The loss of this collection of beef, brain-power and experience will be keenly felt next season.

Next question. Will there be enough returning manpower to absorb the loss of graduating players? If so, what are the chances of the 49ers finishing higher in CCAA competition than this year? They wound up third with a 2-3 record.

Don Montgomery, the conference's second-leading pass receiver, and Joe Costanza, 175 pounds of dynamite at guard, will head a small but select band of returning juniors in the line. Others include Leo Austin, Rex Burrell, Darryl Wright, Don Crosby and Dick Parks.

Backs with another year's eligibility include Wayne Mickaelian, Jim White, Dave Shirley, Hank Edney, Curt Bennett and Bruce Hichman.

The heralded crop of sophomores features Dee Andrews, Chuck Anderson, Marty Johnson, Don Reed, Dwaine Robison and Rick Lussier.

In the end, if Long Beach State's sophs and juniors make normal progress and the 49ers land some key JC transfers, coach Reed should be able to cut into that first-half season drought. If so, beware Fresno and San Diego State.

held an astonishing 6-0 lead with almost 59 minutes yet to play!

The Trojans dented the scoreboard five minutes into the second quarter on a 75-yard drive that consumed nine plays. The bread-and-butter plays were three Pete Beathard-to-Hal Bedsole passes that ate up 59 yards.

• • • •

THE FIRST B & B excursion was good for 30 yards and shot USC into Navy territory—the Middies' 37. Three plays later, Beathard caught Bedsole again for 22 yards and a first down on Navy's 14. Pete had a four-leaf clover on this one as he was rushed hard and simply flipped the pigskin in the direction of the glue-fingered Bedsole.

Hal had to double back for the ball and when he nailed it, he got nailed himself by a horde of Navy defenders. Trojan rooters' hearts were in their throats as their All-America end came up limping.

Bedsole's injury was short-lived, however, as three plays later he was on the receiving end of Beathard's third pass during the drive — this one covering seven yards into Hal's hands in the Middie end zone.

Bedsole caught the pass in front of Navy halfback Ray Snyder, from Long Beach's Millikan High, but no collegian in the country could have stopped this touchdown. Bedsole bent low in front of Snyder and caught Beathard's whistling line drive almost off his shoe tips.

• • • •

TONY LUPO added the conversion and the Trojans were back in business, 7-6.

Navy almost scored again before the intermission when it recovered a Bill Nelsen fumble on its own 49 and marched to the USC 3. On fourth down, Dave Sjuggerud's field goal attempt from the 3 went wide.

The Trojans' winning touchdown was set up by a major piece of fortune. Instead of losing the ball after an Ernie Jones punt, the Trojans regained possession 3:50 after the third quarter began when a Middie was detected roughing-up Mr. Jones.

On the next play, Willie the Wisp Brown took a reverse up the middle, cut down the north sideline and skittered 56 yards to pay dirt.

Willie's brilliant dash was aided magnificently by teammate Del Conte, who felled two Middies with a crunching block.

• • • •

THIS TIME Lupo's attempted conversion also went wide—and that's all she wrote scoring-wise!

But the phenomenal Mr. Staubach wasn't finished yet by any means. Early in the final period, Roger moved his sailors to the Trojan 25, but halfback John Sai fumbled there and Troy's Marv Marinovich recovered.

Beathard gave Mr. Staubach another opportunity six plays later when he fumbled and Navy recovered on USC's 43. Staubach ran for 15, then passed to ex-St. Anthony star Ed Merino for another 16. Donnelly ploughed through tackle for eight more and the Middies had the ball on second down at Troy's 5-yard line.

On the next play, Donnelly seemed to go actually into USC's end zone but came a cropper with the aforementioned fumble, recovered by the alert Potter.

• • • •

FUMBLES were the order of the afternoon, USC bobbling five times (losing four) and Navy fumbling four times (losing three).

"It was a game of miracles," commented Trojan coach John McKay, "but they evened up. It was a miracle they fumbled in the end zone. But it was a miracle they had the opportunity in the first place.

"This was probably our worst game of the season. But you have to give some credit to Navy for our poor showing. We expected a letdown, but we tackled poorly. Staubach looked like Red Grange out there."

Hardin didn't gripe about Donnelly's tragic play, although some spectators thought the fullback did go into the end zone before fumbling. (If he had fumbled after crossing the goal line, the touchdown would have counted.)

McKay summed up the game in his usual brilliant fashion by concluding:

"Navy is as good as anyone we've played. Possibly we were looking ahead to UCLA next week. But, gentlemen, please list that final score at the end of your story after you go through all our mistakes."

Final score: USC 13, Navy 6!

SNOW HEAVY, CONTEST OFF

COLORADO SPRINGS (AP) — A snowstorm forced postponement of Saturday's Rocky Mountain conference football game between Colorado Mines and Colorado College.

The 67th meeting between the region's oldest rivals was called off because of six inches of snow on Washburn Field. Conference officials will be asked to reschedule the game, the league's last, for Dec. 1.

half opened. He netted eight straight free throws and a field goal in the next eight minutes to pace the Chiefs to a 72-66 margin.

The hero in the stretch drive was Wilkinson, who joined the Chiefs only four days ago. The former Indiana all-America pushed home 12 of his 16-point total in the game's final seven minutes.

THE CLOSEST Kansas City got to L.B. in the second half was 66-61 in the last four minutes. Warley, at this juncture, killed off the Steers' late bid with his final 3-pointer.

The victory was a big one for the Chiefs as the Steers had won their first two games and were considered the class of the league. The leading Steer scorer was all-ABL veteran Bill Bridges with 21 points.

The commissioner, Abe Saperstein, was present and marvelled at the arena, "It is without doubt one of the very finest arenas for sports in the entire United States."

'CATS UPSET BY XAVIER

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Xavier's Musketeers pulled one of the big upsets of the 1962 college football season by defeating Kentucky, 14-9, Saturday.

The underdog Muskies, outplayed in the first half, bounced back behind a hard-charging forward wall led by Fred Reherman and ran at will against listless Kentucky in the final two periods.

Los Alamitos Opens Meet on Monday

A double feature Monday will kick off what looks to be one of the greatest meetings in the history of the Los Alamitos Race Course.

The 30-day fall meeting, which runs through Dec. 22, will open with two stakes events—the $5,000 Bardella for 2-year-olds and the $5,000 Clabbertown G. Stakes for older horses.

The two main events top a nine-race program and are luring the top juveniles and older horses out of their barns. The Clabbertown G., the eighth race, has a classy field composed of Caprideck, Miss Jet Deck, Rebel Cause, Fly Straw, Alamitos Bar, Arizonan, Connie Reba, Vandy's Flash, and No Butt.

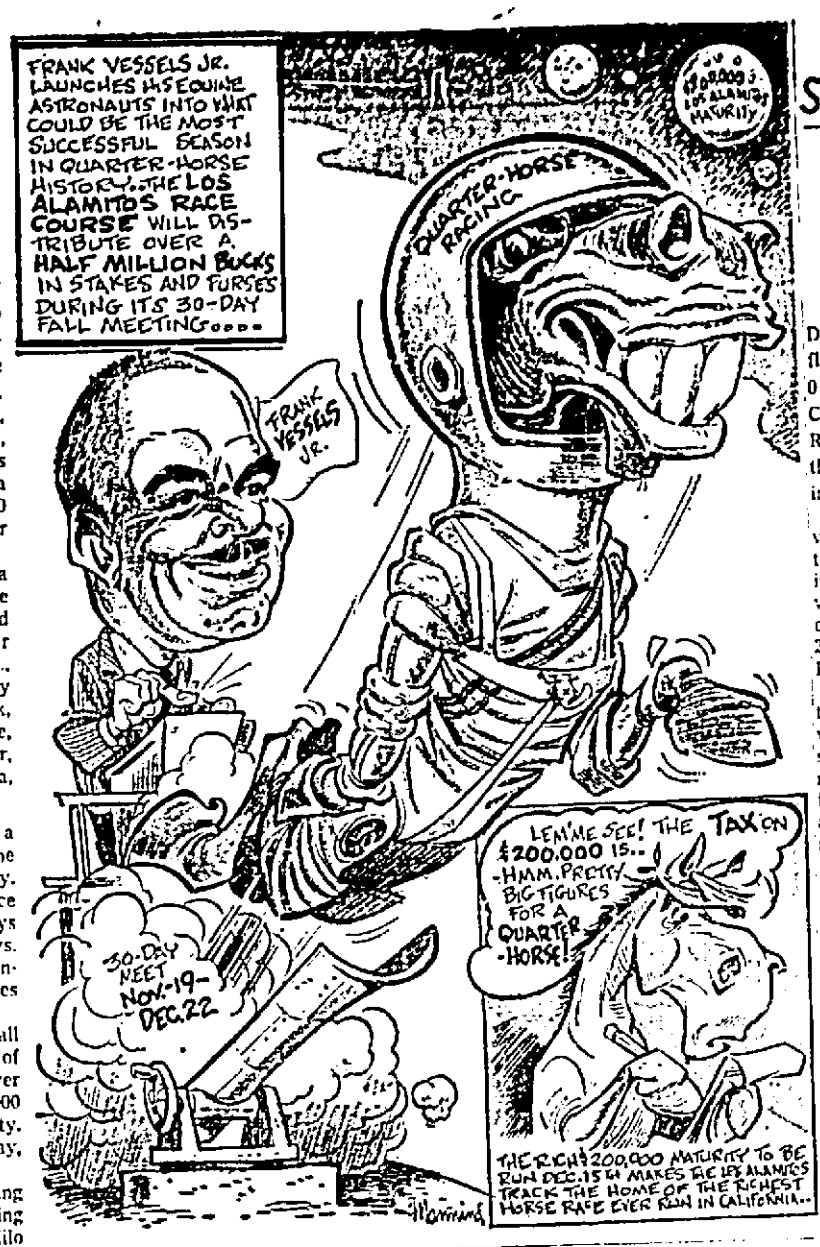

* * * *

DURING the meeting a nine-race program will be held daily except Sunday. Post time for the first race will be 1 p.m. on weekdays and 12:45 p.m. on Saturdays. Daily double wagering windows will close five minutes before first post time.

The highlight of this fall meeting will be the running of one of the richest races ever run in California, the $200,000 added Los Alamitos Futurity. It will be contested Saturday, Dec. 15.

TWO STARS are returning to the track after spending the spring at stud duty—Milo and C. G. Whitcomb's great Tonto Bars' Hank and his arch-rival Dale Robertson's Rebel Cause.

Vandy's Flash, Brea Del Mar Ranch gelding which startled the quarterhorse world two years ago by running 350 yards in 17.5 seconds to set a record which still stands, is also back to challenge the young upstarts who have dominated racing while he was heeling an injury at Bob Grant's Escondido ranch.

Yachts Embark on Mazatlan Journey

A fleet of 30 of the West's sleekest sailing vessels Saturday embarked on the second Los Angeles-to-Mazatlan yacht race.

Skippers and crews aboard the vessels were greeted by excellent sailing weather as they pulled out of the harbor and headed for open seas. Skies were clear with the wind blowing from the North-Northwest 8 to 10 knots.

Pinky Shot Back After Firing 67

Pinky Stevenson, 23-year-old pro from Long Beach and Los Alamitos Country Club, moved to within one stroke of the leaders in the ninth annual Gardena Valley Open Golf Tournament Saturday.

Stevenson, former national junior boys champion and third in this tourney a year ago, fired a 67 to go with his first round 69 for a total of 136. Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades also shot a 67 to tie for the lead with Smiley Quick, Friday's leader.

Charlie Sifford has a total of 137. A sizzling 31-33—64 by black-haired Jimmy Powell, a Texan who registers from Chino, advanced him into the 137 bracket also.

SCORES of tournament favorites included defending champion Jimmy Clark, 69-70—139; former national PGA champion Jerry Barber, 68-72—140; and ex-U.S. Open titlist Jack Fleck, 69-71—143.

Sixty-one pros who carded 151 or better and 56 amateurs will play the final round today for the $1,000 top cash prize and another $1,000 in merchandise for the Simon purses. Leading scorers:

SU MAC LAD LATE SCRATCH

Duke Rodney Winner

By ERNIE MASON

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Digennaro's Duke Rodney flashed to victory in the $50,000 American Trotting Classic as Western Harness Racing Association closed out the most successful meeting in its history Saturday.

Duke Rodney held off Silver Song and Rodare to win the 1⅛ mile event by a neck in the time of 2:15 2/5. This was only two-fifths of a second off the track record of 2:15 set in 1960 by Great Lullwater.

Duke Rodney went off as the 9-5 favorite in the race when Su Mac Lad was scratched after the all-time money winning champion failed to warm up properly about an hour before the race. Driver Stanley Dancer stated that Su Mac Lad might have a cracked bone in his right front.

* * * *

THE LARGEST crowd of the meeting — 19,557 — saw Duke Rodney defeat Silver Song by a neck, with Rodare another head back for third.

Duke Rodney paid $5.80, $3 and $2.60 across the board, while Silver Song returned $3.20 and $2.80. The show price on Rodare was $4.

Jim Dennis and Jimmy Cruise each wound up the day with a winner to remain in a tie for the driver championship. Both finished with 21 winners.

The meeting was 5.6 per cent over the 1961 season in attendance and showed an increase of 10.4 per cent over last year in handle. The daily handle average of $820,162 established a new WHRA record.

Saturday's handle of $1,432,699 also was an all-time high, while the crowd of 19,557 ranks as the sixth in Western Harness history.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sensitivo, an Argentine-bred 5-year-old, struck from behind in the stretch Saturday and won the $88,850 Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqueduct for the most important victory of his career.

Under Manuel Yeaza's well-judged ride, the son of Sideral-Ternura got up in the final strides to pick up the purse of $57,752.50 for Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bensinger.

At the end of the 1⅛ miles he was a mere head in front of Sunrise Flight. Sensitivo ran the distance in 2:02 1/5 and paid $13.40, $7.20 and $4.50 for his fifth victory in 17 starts this year, most of them in the Chicago area. Sunrise Flight, a member of the mutuel betting field, returned $6.00 and $4.80 and Hellenic Hero $8.00 to show.

AGUA CALIENTE (UPI)—Two cow-milking brothers from Tijuana, Mexico, won a total of $54,911.60 on a single $2 ticket in the 5-10 handicapping contest at Caliente race track.

The large payoff was paid to Jose Martinez, 33, a father of seven, and his brother, David, 22, unmarried.

SAN MATEO (AP) — Pine Creek Ranch's Steve Hill, the longshot in a field of nine, survived a foul claim and won an upset victory in the 10,000-added Burlingame Stakes at Bay Meadows.

Steve Hill paid $121.60, $39.60 and $15.20. Mr. Thong returned $9.20 and $5.20 and third-place Texas Bloc $6.60.

Fishin' Around

Good Record for Small Lake

The Escondido Mutual Water Company, which controls fishing on Wohlford Lake, five miles from Escondido, has released some amazing figures on fish catches for the 1962 season, now that all fishing at Wohlford is ended until next spring.

The figures prove that the put-and-take-and-pay plan really helps Californians who consider fishing their main outdoor recreation. This columnist has said before—and repeats it now—Southern California must have more of the same if our children and their offspring are to remember fishing as a way of having fun.

Wohlford had 165 days of angling and a total catch of 83,436 fish. Broken down by species, it went like this: 23,439 trout, 39,860 crappie, 4,092 bass, 12,996 bluegill, 1,598 channel catfish and 1,451 bullhead catfish.

Average daily catch was 506 fish with 11.5 fish to the boat. Sizes went like this: 60 percent of the trout ran three to the pound, 40 percent 1 to 4 pounds; crappie, six to the pound; bass, 1 to 4 pounds; bluegill, 2 or 3 to the pound; channels, 3¾ pounds average, some going to 8 and 9 pounds; bullheads, 10-inchers, some going about a pound.

Wohlford plants its trout and keeps careful control on other species.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—The Southern California Tuna Club, which normally meets every Thursday in its own room at the Lafayette Hotel, shifted to the Long Beach-Dominguez Gun Club last week for its annual trapshoot.

Forty-four ate a catered lunch and enjoyed a long afternoon of shooting. Dr. Floyd Todd won the trapshoot event, Art Macrate the skeet and Russell Pray was top man in the difficult duck-tower shoot. Art Macrate was the day's high scorer.

Committee chairman Carer Boswell was assisted by Elmer Decker, Vern Williams, Bert Paul, Herbert Adams and Art Macrate.

If you are not involved with too much family on Thanksgiving Day and want a bit of relaxation, try the traps, skeet or duck tower at the club, which is situated on Artesia Boulevard just off Central Avenue. Bob and Dorothy Davidson, who own and operate LBDGC, are calling it a shooters' holiday. Events start at 9:30 a.m.

Charles Breese, Frank Poarch and Frank Tallant hunted Thursday at Carl Mills' Preserve south of Bakersfield and returned to Long Beach with several braces of pheasants. They reported ideal hunting conditions and perfect dog work. Mills is famed throughout San Joaquin Valley for his wonderful dogs.

PHEASANT SHOOTING IN THE WILD, if you'd care to call it that, continued on a rather sparse basis after a fair to excellent opening. The season ends at one-half hour after sunset next Sunday, with the exception of Imperial County and part of Riverside County, where you may try through Dec. 9.

Pheasants in Imperial and Riverside Counties were planted birds and most of those ringnecks fell prey to hunters or predators almost immediately.

If you want to hunt that area, please don't do what a few nimrods tried in Imperial County. They tramped through irrigated fields, dragging heavy ropes between them in an effort to flush out the birds. Naturally, the farmers didn't like it. Would you? And still some men who delight in calling themselves "sportsmen" wonder why the hunter-farmer relations can't be improved.

If you wish to help such relations, do what several San Bernardino hunters did last weekend. The men, all members of the Inland Fish and Game Conservation Association, devoted two days to cleaning up litter in the Fobes, Wellman and Garner ranches of the San Jacinto-Santa Rosa area. They did the same thing last year and were invited to hunt deer in 1962. No doubt, they'll get an invitation in 1963.

DOVER PUBLICATIONS, INC., 180 Varick St., New York 14, N. Y., is putting some of the nation's top nature books into paper-back volumes. I had a look at the first releases last week and found the printing and binding extraordinary for a paper-back series.

The initial volumes were "Manual of the Trees of North America," in two volumes ($4), by Charles Sprague Sargent; "American Wildlife and Plants; a Guide to Wildlife Food Habits, ($2), by Alexander C. Martin, Herbert S. Zim and Arnold L. Nelson; "Birds and Their Attributes" ($1.85), by Glover M. Allen; "Common Spiders" ($1.35), by H. Emerton, and "Life Story of the Fish" ($1.50), by Brian Curtis.

You can easily guess which book I started first—"Life Story of the Fish"—and it's extremely interesting

Doubleday & Company, Inc., 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N. Y., put three first-edition, large-size, paperback volumes on the market last week.

Those were "The Trout Fisherman's Bible," by Dan Holland; "The Salt-Water Fisherman's Bible," by Erwin A. Bauer, and "The Varmint and Crow Hunter's Bible," by Bert Popowski. Each sells at $1.95 and the writers are among the world's most famous in the outdoor field.

Carpentier will oppose The Great Togo. The Destroyer will compete in a tag team match.

Hot Rockets Face Twins Here

The Long Beach Rockets will try to extend their winning streak to four when they play the Minnesota Twin Jrs. at Blair Field today at 2.

The Rockets are in second place in the Southern California semipro baseball league, one game behind the Norwalk Stars.

Dennis Busch probably will start on the mound for the Rockets, who have been sparked by the hitting of Vern Highfield and the return to action of Nick Hopkins.

CLASSIC CORD LINES TO BE REINTRODUCED

Tulsa Man Plans Up-to-Date Style of Sleek Front-Drive Auto for $3,000 to $4,000

By ROBERT SHAW

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A 10 year old boy leaned against a plate glass window to admire the long, low lines of a brand new 1936 Cord Phaeton and dreamed of the day he'd own one.

Now, 26 years later, that boy plans to return the classic front-wheel drive automobile to production.

Glenn Pray's version of the Cord, with dimensions eight-tenths those of the original, will embody the same sleek lines of the car that was last produced in 1937. But it will have modern components.

The body will be of fiberglass, and it will be powered by a 1963 Corvair engine through a Corvair transmission and differential package.

The air-cooled engine, Pray said, will simplify scaling down the dimensions of the new Cord, and since Chevrolet's Corvair has the whole power plant — engine, transmission and differential — in one unit, little modification of the power plant will be needed.

* * * *

FOR PRAY, 36, building a new Cord is just another step along a path he took two years ago when he left his job as an automotive teacher at Tulsa Central High School to devote full time to a hobby of remanufacturing old Cords.

He plans to start his new Cord production with 100 of the new models.

"This will just test the market," he said, "and let us decide whether to go ahead with 500 to 1,000 or 5,000."

The tall, lean businessman, who dislikes wearing a necktie, isn't trying to compete with the automotive giants of Detroit.

"We're going to make a prestige car that's moderately priced," he said. "We'll be filling the little, narrow gap that Detroit can't afford to fill."

* * * *

THE CAR will sell for $3,000 to $4,000, Pray said. The price will include an airplane ticket so the new owner can drive his Cord away from the plant here. There will be no dealerships as such.

Pray said his auto will be aimed at the sports car market — the driver who wants a car that will stand out in the crowd.

He already has about 50 signed orders for the first run. One, he said, is from Gordon Buehrig, now with Ford Motor Co., who worked out the body design of the original Cord.

Buehrig has given his blessing for the revival of the old car, Pray said.

* * * *

WORKING drawings of the 1963 model are all but completed, and work is under way at Detroit on Clay models, Pray said. The models will be cast in plaster and templates will be made to ensure that every car that comes off the production line meets the standards of the original.

Pray, head of the Auburn - Cord - Duesenberg Co., said a new production company will be formed to manufacture the cars. He said he hasn't decided whether to finance the new company himself or to issue stock. "either way," he said, "it won't be any trouble."

* * * *

PRAY FIRST got the idea of reviving the classic look in sports cars six years ago, and since then he has tried to keep the vintage Cords from becoming extinct.

His company now is the world's parts and service center for Auburns and Cords.

In 29,000 square feet of space just northeast of Tulsa, Pray has a 10-man staff working in a complete body shop, parts department, machine shop and trim department. There are two dozen cars now being rebuilt or overhauled.

About 3,200 Cords were originally produced, Pray said, and of these about 2,000 still exist — in various states of repair.

* * * *

WHEN PRAY bought the remaining supply of parts for the cars two years ago, he also bought all the plans and drawings of the originals. If a part in not available, his machine shop can produce it to specifications or he can have it made.

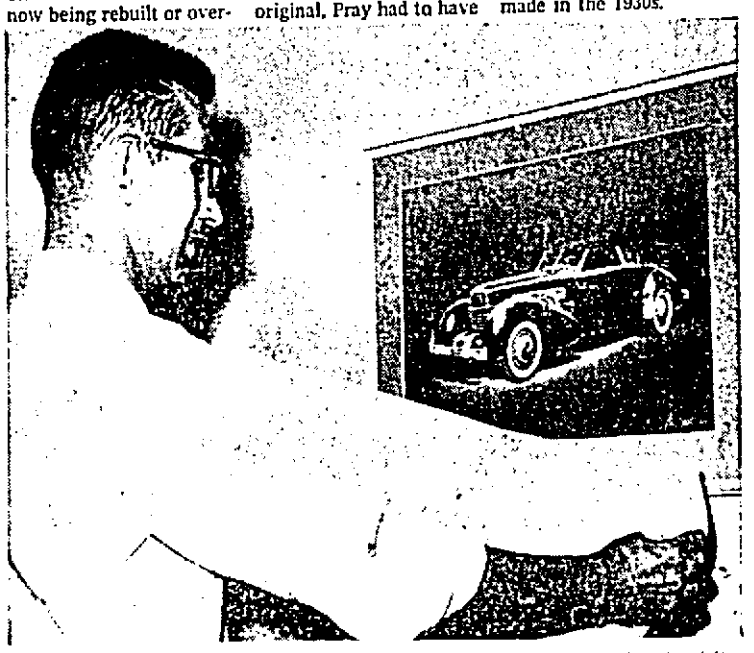

For example, he has cylinder head blanks cast, and his staff takes care of the milling to fit the engine. But to get chrome trim to match the original, Pray had to have a special order made.

"We had to buy a mile of this to get it made the way we wanted it," Pray said, holding a handful of thin chrome strips that adorn the hood louvers of the Cord.

* * * *

He plans to expand his plant into new quarters near Tulsa in the next few weeks, and expects to roll the first 1963 Phaeton out of the plant by next spring.

Bruins Succumb to Husky Anger

dozen years to the Olszewski-led Cal Bears' 35-0 win over UCLA to find a comparable collapse. UCLA didn't get its second first down Saturday until the final minute of the third period. Penetrations to the 13, 25 and 48 were the only times the Bruins got across midfield.

Meanwhile, Washington used its second-string fullback, a sophomore named Coffey, to thrust the spear and twist it. He carried 14 times for 112 yards and scored both of the first-half touchdowns. Husky coach Jim Owens was sympathetic in the second half.

* * * *

COFFEY electrified the hometown fans. He started the game on the bench and each time he stood up to discard his warmup cape the crowd stomped and cheered. When he went into the game the crowd roared. When he ripped off long gains or piercing plunges, the spectators nearly unriveted the stadium.

Last week Coffey scored three of the four TDs against Cal (27-0) and his six-yard average for the year is equalled only by USC's Willie Brown and exceeded only by UCLA's Kermit Alexander among AAWU stars.

Alexander carried nine times Saturday for a total of 24 yards.

Said a crushed Bill Barnes: "USC must have a whale of a football team to beat these guys." The Bruins and the Trojans meet next Saturday in the Coliseum.

* * * *

SAID THE Huskies' coach: "I was surprised how easy it was."

The Husky landslide was delayed by some penalty trouble in the first period and they had to settle for a 3-0 quarter lead.

It was a fake punt on third down that provided the key yardage on UW's first series. The series ended with a field goal 31 yards in length and to give you an idea of what kind of day it was for Husky fortunes, it was the first field goal for the team this season. Lineman Jim Norton kicked it.

The second time Washington got the ball it moved to UCLA's 25 where a fourth-down line plunge was shy by two yards and the Bruins took over. At this point the Bruins made their only first down of the first half, a 17-yard pass from Larry Zeno to end Mel Profit.

* * * *

BUT THAT was the extent of the Bruin early threat and that was the end of the Husky frustration.

Coffey came into the ball game and took control of proceedings. He carried 10 times, gained 75 yards and boomed over for two touchdowns before the halftime rest period.

The Huskies went 64 yards for their first TD. Coffey dived over the middle from the two for the score. Key gains were provided by Charlie Mitchell, including a pass catch that he juggled as he ran along the sideline, gaining eight yards on a fourth-and-seven play at the Bruin 11.

Coffey thundered through the middle from the four to the second TD on the end of a 90-yard drive. As an example of what Coffey did for the home team this day, the Huskies were stalling at the Bruin 35 with a third down and 13. Coffey ran through the middle for 13 yards and the first down.

* * * *

WASHINGTON continued its brute-strength assault in the second half by intercepting a Zeno pass in the opening seconds—the 10th interception Zeno has thrown this season — and pile-driving 30 yards to the UCLA goal line where Bob Monroe fumbled on a plunge and UCLA stalled 'em off a little while.

But not for long. UCLA ran two plays and fumbled. Washington recovered, ran two plays and scored touchdown No. 3. Mitchell made it, going around right end from the 11, untouched. It was 24-0.

It went to 30-0 before the end of the third quarter as Nat Whitmyer rounded end for five yards at the end of a 67-yard drive.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Economists Optimistic on Upsurge, in Early '63

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Economists took another look at business prospects this week and some saw the likelihood of an early 1963 recession fading.

Improved reports on the economic pace, highlighted by booming automobile sales, inspired optimism.

And Kennedy administration officials renewed their call for a substantial income tax cut next year, arguing that an expected $7.8 billion federal budget deficit should be no deterrent.

The stock market responded with some good gains for the third week in a row. Brokers said small investors — their lost confidence at least partially restored — were coming back into the market.

* * * *

A POLL of 45 economists and business leaders showed that nearly two-thirds believe there will be no recession through next year. Those who still expect a letdown feel it will be mild.

The surge of new car sales is giving the economy "a potent shot of confidence," said Byron J. Nichols, general manager of Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge division.

"It could be that what has been happening to the automobile industry in recent weeks is the tip-off that general business conditions ahead will be much better than any of us have been led to expect," he added.

Another industrialist, William H. Shaw, manager of business economics in Du Pont's textile fibers division, said that if there is a recession it will come later, rather than early next year. He looks for another quarter or two of hesitant expansion.

* * * *

"THE CHANCES of avoiding recession in early 1963 look a little better now than they did four to six weeks ago," commented the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. "This change mirrors not only the Cuban episode, which seems likely to produce some increase in both military and civil defense spending, but also a moderate brightening of business news."

Martin R. Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, said he still expects a short, mild slowdown early next year but predicted the economy will make a better over-all showing in 1963 than it did this year.

The administration's announcement that it expected a budget deficit of $7.8 billion in this fiscal year — second highest in peacetime — was considered by some to have inflationary aspects.

The budget bureau said, however, that "with the existing level of unemployment and unused plant capacity, the deficit is neither inflationary nor dangerous to our balance of payments position."

* * * *

SECRETARY of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and Walter W. Heller, chief economic adviser to President Kennedy, asserted that the bigger than anticipated budget deficit should not be allowed to get in the way of a tax cut.

Dillon told the President's labor-management advisory committee — made up of 170 industry, union and civic leaders—that "the tax structure we propose will generate budget surpluses as the economy provides full employment in the years ahead."

American travelers received some tax relief this week when repeal of wartime transportation taxes became effective. It was estimated the savings would total $150 million a year.

All eastern railroads added the 10 per cent tax on rail fares to their charges in an effort to improve their difficult profit positions. Southern and western lines passed the savings on to their customers.

* * * *

THE 10 PER cent tax on air fares was replaced by a five per cent "user charge" to aid in paying for airports, navigation aids and other government-financed facilities used by the airlines. None of the major airlines planned to boost fares.

New passenger car sales zoomed to a record of 217,861 for the first one-third of November, causing some manufacturers to boost their production schedules for this month.

To meet the demand, production this week was held at the high rate of an estimated 163,000, just under the record for the year. Last week's output was 165,032.

Improvement in steel production was another factor in making the outlook rosier. Output total 1,604,000 tons last week, up 1.5 per cent from the previous week.

Stylish New Buick A Golden Key To An Adventure in Palm Springs

RACY BUICK RIVIERA ADMIRED BY MANAGER HERB JENSEN
The all new Riviera by Buick arrives at Palm Springs' fashionable El Mirador resort hotel where motor-log party guested new wing adition.

By BILL EMERY
Automotive Associate

A crowd of boys watched our party pull out of the El Mirador fashionable resort hotel for an evening drive in Palm Springs.

"Hey, mister," one of them called out, "how about letting me have your car for the night? I'll give you my right arm!"

When I picked up the key to this stylish new Buick Riviera from Jim Willingham and Charlie Campbell, co-owners of Boulevard Buick at 1881 Long Beach Blvd., I had the feeling that I was taking possession of a pretty formidable piece of property. The voice from that crowd that night in Palm Springs pretty well sums up the consensus of all who viewed this luxury four-bucket seater during our too short possession.

With a "coke bottle" side profile and a rear profile reminiscent of a smartly pressed Marine about to stand inspection, the Riviera is harmoniously designed with universal appeal. And its appeal was magnetic whether driving on the freeways or setting at a curb.

For all its sporty overtones the Riviera is a true luxury creation. Its low center of gravity gives the car superb handling qualities on sharp corners and rough streets. Its 325 h.p. Wildcat V8 engine with dual exhausts and four-barrel carburetor give the car jet-engine thrust for instant agility and maneuverability.

The new Electro-Cruise is great on long trips. Just set a control on the speedometer to the speed of your choice and it is maintained automatically until you touch the brake.

When you're driving a car with air conditioning, there's no place like the desert, and with Palm Springs a scant two hours from Long Beach, Ray Ryan's El Mirador desert resort in Palm Springs fulfilled the other half of this dream combination. Managed by Herb Jensen, this widely-known 21-acre vacationland has many new innovations that are sure to please patrons visiting there this fall.

We were among the first guests in the new 100-room addition facing the swimming pool.

Another new addition is the Bavarian Room at the diving end of the pool. Solid massive doors with stained glass windows lead into the Bavarian's bar and lounge from either side of the pool and picture windows permit observation of swimming and diving activities.

Guests of the El Mirador do not want for entertainment and activities. Facilities are available for tennis, badminton, ping pong, shuffleboard, croquet and various other games. Near the pool is a complete health club for men and women.

* * * *

GOURMETS will delight with the superb cuisine in the Silver Palm Room, Starlite Patio and South Pacific Room. And there are three cocktail lounges with entertainment and dancing.

Currently featured nightly are two separate bands, one for dinner music and dancing, the other strictly a show band. With the season just getting under way in Palm Springs, the Exciters — six guys and a gal — have made the El Mirador one of the most popular spots for entertainment in the fabulous resort community.

Reigning supreme in the act is blonde and beautiful Candy Johnson, who performs 25 variations of the twist nightly in an almost continuous three-hour frenzy.

Back in Long Beach, a gas check revealed about 12 miles per gallon city driving and just under 15 on the road.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

Cuba Crisis Goes Up, Down Like a Cold-War Barometer

By NORMAN RUNNION
By United Press International

Like a barometer of the whole cold war, the Cuban crisis pressure gauges went both up and down last week.

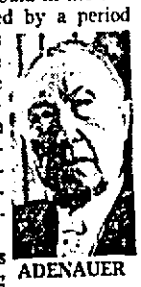

On the one hand, there were hints from the United Nations that some progress was being made toward a settlement. Then on the other, Fidel Castro threatened to shoot down U. S. reconnaissance planes flying surveillance flights over the Islands.

ALMOST A carrot-and-stick act, it reflected on an immediate scale what has been going on in the world since war's end in 1945, when there has been relaxation followed by crisis followed by relaxation followed by crisis.

At week's end, however, the United States was letting it be known that time was running short. The focal point of the immediate crisis remained President Kennedy's insistence that the Russians remove their IL28 bombers from Cuba and agree to some sort of international inspection system to verify withdrawal of offensive weapons.

If the Cuban crisis should in the end be settled—and followed by a period of relaxation—there was always Berlin on the horizon as a possible new flashpoint. To discuss this, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer came to Washington last week to confer with President Kennedy.

ADENAUER

A communique was issued Thursday saying that both men agreed on the necessity to defend Berlin. Yet Adenauer himself said at the start of his visit that diplomatic communiques usually are worthless and meaningless.

What was important about this visit was not the communique but the concrete results and understandings which Kennedy and Adenauer achieved in their private talks. Adenauer, it was said, left Washington with renewed confidence in the young American President's ability to handle anything that might arise with the Russians.

IN INDIA meanwhile, the cold war continued to be hot. The Communist Chinese, who have made no secret of their displeasure at Khrushchev's pullback in Cuba, continued their battle with Indian troops in the rugged mountain country. U. S. and British arms were made available to Indian troops last week.

A storm of reaction swept the domestic front after convicted perjurer Alger Hiss appeared on a television program tracing the political career of Richard M. Nixon. The American Broadcasting Co., which aired the show, was flooded by telegrams and telephone calls protesting the show.

James C. Hagerty, ABC vice president in charge of news, defended the program claiming it was a "fair presentation, giving both sides of a controversy." The show, taped by ABC commentator Howard K. Smith, was called "The Political Obituary of Richard M. Nixon."

Later in the week, two sponsors who held contracts with ABC tried, but failed, to cancel the pacts because of the showing of the controversial program.

ALSO ON THE DOMESTIC front, the government announced that the U. S. deficit for the current fiscal year will be $7.8 billion, the second highest in peacetime history. But despite this, administration spokesmen — including Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon—said Kennedy still is planning to cut income and corporation taxes next year. The argument was that a tax reduction is necessary to stimulate the economy.

Foreign trade is also an economic stimulant, and Kennedy acted on this. He named Christian A. Herter, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's last secretary of state, to be the U.S. government's chief planner and negotiator on foreign trade. The job was created by passage of the Trade Expansion Act this year, which revolutionized U.S. trade laws.

HERTER

For a while this week, the country was aroused by one of the biggest controversies since the Stamp Act helped lead to the American Revolution against the British. A total of 400 misprinted Dag Hammarskjold commemorative stamps found their way into the public domain and immediately became a collector's item—and a rich one at that. The Post Office Department, to the howls of stamp collectors, took steps to ruin the bonanza by running off thousands more of the erroneous stamps.

However, the department was thwarted in its move Friday when a court order halted the sale of the misprinted stamps. The order was obtained by collector Leonard Sherman of Irvington, N.J., who claimed the special sale unfairly deprived him of a chance to make $500,000 on the original misprint. Postal officials immediately sought to have the ban removed.

AND IN SPACE, the United States successfully fired its huge Saturn booster rocket for the third time. One day the Saturn will be used for the man-in-space program.

The final shot of the Project Mercury program will come next April, and the space agency announced last week that the astronaut will be Leroy Gordon Cooper, a 35-year-old Air Force major. He will make an 18-orbit flight.

First Transportation Census Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau, fortified by a $175,000 appropriation that took 14 years to clear Congress, announced Saturday it will begin a $2-million transportation census in 1963.

Naturally, the project will be delayed if Congress does not provide the remaining $1,825,000.

This will be the first census of transportation in the nation's history. It was authorized by Congress in 1948, but the bureau waited until October to get an initial appropriation for the work.

Because money has been hard to come by, the Census Bureau said the project will make maximum use of data now collected by other agencies. This also will avoid duplication.

For the same reason of economies, the program will consist of a series of surveys rather than one big spectacular. Selected individuals and firms will be questioned, and the findings will be projected to give a national picture.

The surveys, which will continue into 1964, will involve the travels of individuals, the transportation of commodities, the use of trucks, and the operating history of bus and truck carriers.

Selected individuals will be asked about out-of-town trips made during 1963, as well as some aspects of home-to-work transportation.

Census takers will want to know why people made out-of-town trips, how they traveled, how many family members accompanied them, the number of nights spent away from home, and overnight accommodations used.

The prime objective of the commodity transportation surveys will be to measure the volume of goods shipped by various methods, the length of the haul.

Increases in Standard of Living Shown in Government Studies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Saturday reported that American families are enjoying a steadily mounting standard of living as income gains continue to outstrip price increases.

New studies made public by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz showed, moreover, that the average family is required to spend a significantly smaller share of its income for the basic necessities of food, shelter and clothing than it did a decade ago.

MORE INCOME is therefore available for health care, savings, recreation and study and the things widely regarded as making life worth while.

The department's bureau of labor statistics made the comprehensive studies by sampling consumer income and buying patterns in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, New York City, San Francisco and Washington.

"It is a measure of both the fruits and the potential of our free economy," Wirtz said, "that the residents of these seven cities enjoyed an increase in their real purchasing power, over the past decade, of from 15 to 44 per cent."

Here are some of the survey highlights:

—Average after-tax income ranged from $5,412 in Atlanta to $6,809 in Boston with families spending around 86 to 95 per cent of this income, on the average, for current consumption.

—The proportion of income devoted to food, clothing and shelter has declined from 62 per cent in 1950 to 55 per cent in 1960. Shelter alone, however, takes a bit more share of income than it did.

—Family home ownership has increased by a third.

—Each of the seven cities surveyed reflected greatly increased outlays for personal insurance, a form of savings. The rise in insurance purchase over the decade ranged from 56 per cent in Chicago to 144 per cent in Detroit.

—In all the cities, the proportion of after-tax income going to gifts and contributions showed an increase.

—Seven to eight of every 10 families in the cities surveyed reported coverage under some type of health insurance plan.

These and other facts uncovered in the survey point clearly to a continuing and substantial increase in the nation's living standards," Wirtz said.

They should also serve as a pointed reminder of an unacceptable contrast in American life today that there still exists areas of severe want in our most abundant society. Until this contrast is eliminated, our satisfaction must be limited."

MORALE HIGH, BUT 'WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?'

Guantanamo Defenders Frustrated

By JACK V. FOX

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (UPI)—On a cactus-covered hill above Kittery Beach and overlooking Guantanamo's steel fence border with Cuba, the Marines of Baker Company have slept in foxholes for three straight weeks and they would like to know two things:

Why didn't they bust into Fidel Castro's Oriente Province as soon as they got here?

If they are not going to fight, when are they going to get out?

Their Chaplain tells them they will be out by the first frost. This week it was 95 in the shade every day.

It's not that morale is low in the company commanded by Capt. Barry Colassard of Great Neck, N.Y. This unit, in fact, is in high and joking spirits despite the heat, the bugs and sitting tight. One reason is that Colassard, a handsome young Syracuse graduate, has a tremendous sense of humor which communicates down to his men.

• • • •

ON TUESDAY Colassard's outfit was involved in a mock battle with an enemy theoretically coming across the fence. The captain had been tremendously busy supervising Seabees who are erecting pillboxes and fortifications on the hill until it resembles a tropical Maginot line.

Unable to spare the time for the exercise, Colassard instructed his radio man to inform batallion headquarters:

"The captian died a heroic death. He was last seen running toward the fence with a grenade."

Colassard said he deliberated first reporting that he had fled to the rear but decided against it.

Baker Company flew here from Camp Lejuene, N.C., arriving on Saturday, Oct. 20—two days before Kennedy's speech announcing the crisis.

"We didn't know where we were going until the plane landed and we stepped out in Cuba," said Cpl. Robert Sweda of Dunkirk, N.Y.

• • • •

THE MEN almost unanimously thought they were going into combat immediately and they were keyed up to it.

As the days pass, they grow more frustrated — particularly because they are so cut off from news of the high-level maneuverings in the Cuban crisis.

On the imediate front, only a few of them even get a look at a Cuban militiaman.

Along the road which parallels the fence, sentries stand rotating four-hour guard duty at hilltop posts, and a few patrol up and down the road. In the course of the day, they see perhaps 20 Cubans carrying Czech-made rifles and wearing Russian style helmets.

One of them waved to Pfc. William Bosley of Charleston, W. Va., inviting him to come over the fence. Then he shouted in Spanish. Bosley ignored him.

• • • •

ON THE HILLS on their side the Cubans have been busy photographing the Marine fortifications. An officer in the typical beret of the militia supervised the telescopic camera work.

Executive officer of Baker, Company is Lt. Joseph Allegretti of Chicago. The 25-year-old Allegretti has been married only 13 weeks and he is one of those most anxious to get the answer whether they stay or go.

Colassard has been trying to get each man back once a week to the harbor area of the naval base. There are swimming pools, bowling alleys, baseball fields, fishing and sailing boats, nightly movies and well-stocked clubs for all ranks.

Not until a few days ago did the men get anything except C rations on the hilltop position. Now they are brought up one hot meal a day.

"Isn't this great," said the top sergeant. "It's 93 degrees and they send us chill."

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Brando Allegedly Very Nice Fellow

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Marlon Brando's in for quite a shock.

A newspaper columnist's going to write flatteringly of him.

Although Brando seems to dislike all columnists, including those who've endeavored to understand him, I'd like to point out in all honesty that he's charitable and generous in a secretive manner . . . he's evidently a good businessman for he collects "10 per cent of the gross" from "Mutiny on the Bounty" which should gross $25 million to $50 million . . . and he appears to have "done right" by the gals who have lost their hearts and their heads over him.

BRANDO

There he sat ever so patiently signing autographs—with never a scowl nor mumble nor scratch—at the "Mutiny" premiere. And when my B.W. commented that he was being singularly well-behaved, a cynic nearby said:

"He should be—for 10 per cent of the gross!"

* * * *

BUT SOME Tahitians whom I met there last summer, and were here for the premiere, rose up and cited some of his financial good deeds in Tahiti . . . including a costly operation for a crippled child.

"He seems to have pity for the girls who flip for him," interjected an American. "He's a mellowing Marlon."

Tarita—the Tahitian ex-dishwasher in the film who's now being introduced to American luxury by Brando—is a slight exception.

* * * *

"THE MUMBLER" married Anna Kashfi and he married Movita, the Mexican gal, a few years older, whom he always went back to, and he's reported to be good father to two sons.

He wouldn't pose for a premiere picture with Tarita despite the fact they've been constantly together—and one well-intentioned friend suggested he wouldn't because it might embarrass Anna and Movita.

"As for Tarita," exclaimed one with knowledge of Tahiti, "she couldn't care less. She's still on the wild side. She doesn't want to get married.

DISNEYRAMA ON ICE

Walt Disney's cartoon characters—Donald Duck to Dumbo—come to life in "Disneyrama," one of the productions in the 22nd edition of Ice Capades to play Nov. 27-Dec. 2 at the Long Beach Arena.

VINCENT PRICE . . . It Pays Well

KING OF HORRORS

Acts in Thrillers for Art's Sake

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Vincent Price, suave, debonair and better actor than most, seems an unlikely candidate for king of the horror films.

But king he is. And the choice is solely his.

The towering Price knows full well that his new title puts him on the same Hollywood status rung with Tarzan, Pa and Ma Kettle and Rin Tin Tin. But Vincent couldn't care less.

"HORROR MOVIES give me the time and money to indulge my hobby. Besides, they are loads of fun to do and loads of fun to watch," he says.

Art was his life before acting. Years ago, while studying at the University of London, a theatrical talent scout thought his 6-foot-4 frame and suave manner made him ideal casting for the consort Prince Albert.

While studying art by day, he appeared on the London stage by night in "Victoria Regina."

When the play came to Broadway with Helen Hayes as Queen Victoria, Price came along. His performance as Albert was a monument of American theater. That was 1935.

"AS YOU CAN see, I get my artistic expression outside of movies. I do the horror films because I enjoy myself—and they make me money."

The money, of course, supports his interest in art.

When the 3-D craze started some years ago, Warners came up with an old property "House of Wax" to cash in on the fad. Price was available and took the role.

The picture grossed $9 million and established Price as a boxoffice name.

New Game for the Status Conscious

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jim and Henny Backus live in Bel-Air like many another movie couple, but they are not status-seekers.

So it's not surprising that Henny would invent a new game—the Hollywood snob game.

Rules, as explained by Henny, are simple. For instance: Move up one if you stopped speaking to Peter Lawford before he married Pat Kennedy. Move up six if you have nothing to do with him after his marriage to Pat Kennedy. Move up 25 if you started ignoring him after his brother-in-law became president.

* * * *

MOVE UP 50 if your husband has made a picture with Liz Taylor since your marriage—and you're still married.

Move up 25 is you're a friend of Mrs. Richard Burton.

Move back two if you're not a silent picture buff. Move up three if you know who Gustav von Seyffertiz is.

* * * *

MOVE BACK 10 if you've never been given "A tour" of Jayne Mansfield's house with its heart-shaped fireplace, heart-shaped pool and its empty room with the foam rubber floor.

Move up one if you invite Cary Grant to your sit-down dinner parties. Move up two if he comes. Move up 10 if Dr. Ben Casey crashes.

Move back five if you refer to your friends' houses as the old Mabel Normand place, the Garbo house or the first Fairbanks bungalow.

* * * *

MOVE UP five if a studio hairdresser comes to your house to do your hair. Move back two if you step inside a beauty parlor.

Move up two if you've ever worn your arm in a sling to a premiere to avoid autograph hounds.

Move up five if you wear a full-length mink coat in the evening, no matter what time of year.

Walk with Gary Cooper to the Showdown in "High Noon"

The Wax Figure, Set, Costume So Realistic You'll Think You Are There

BUENA PARK, CALIF. (WSI)—The sun's hot and the silence almost hurts your ears. You hear footsteps, spurs jingle, there is gunfire; men fall.

Memories like these flood back as you stand before the brave marshal in "High Noon," Gary Cooper. A fantastic living likeness has been captured in wax.

Hollywood's Greatest Stars

Gary Cooper is only one of more than 80 of Hollywood's brightest stars enshrined here. Such greats as Clark Gable, Rudolph Valentino, James Dean, Marilyn Monroe, Jean Harlow, Tyrone Power, Al Jolson—the biggest names ever to perform on the silver screen. From the silents to cinemascope. It's like visiting the major studios on their busiest day.

Excitement And Glamour

You'll see cameras, lights, sound booms, lavish costumes and sets, exact replicas from the star's most famous picture. All the excitement and thrills come alive as the history of Hollywood unfolds before your eyes. You'll chuckle at Charlie Chaplin in "The Goldrush"...you'll succumb to Rudolph Valentino's spell as "The Son of The Sheik"... you'll shrink with fear at the sight of "Frankenstein" ...and there's something new to view all the time.

Master Craftsmen

The magnificent talents of master craftsmen from around the world—Hong Kong, Spain, Hollywood, Mexico, France—have been utilized to create superlative wax figures which you see authentically costumed and placed in a replica of a set from one of the stars greatest motion pictures. There's nothing like the Wax Museum on the face of the earth.

A Fortune Spent

More than $1,500,000 has been spent to assemble this lasting tribute to the stars and the industry which has provided the people of the world with so much laughter, amusement and happiness.

Truly, here is an experience you shouldn't miss or one you will ever forget. Spend as long as you like walking among the memories these scenes and stars bring back to you. There's no hurry—you are here to enjoy yourself in this shrine to the stars...

John Brown Towers Project Under Way

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

Construction has started on a 14-story senior citizens building to be known as the John Brown Towers at 3737 Atlantic Ave.

Estimated at a cost of $3.5 million, the project is sponsored by the John Brown Schools Foundation of California, which has received formal approval from the Federal Housing Administration to construct the huge facility.

Formal groundbreaking ceremonies were held recently.

The 169 units will include efficiency, one- and two-bedroom apartments. Each apartment will be fully air conditioned and equipped with all-electric kitchens, wall-to-wall carpeting and draperies.

• • • •

THERE WILL BE a central dining room for those desiring community dining, and an infirmary. Many indoor and outdoor recreational areas are planned to blend with the landscaping.

In addition to these there will be a fully developed social and cultural program in operation the year around which will consist of lectures, concerts, tours and all of the seasonal activities. Occupancy is anticipated early in 1964.

Residency in the project will be available on a monthly fee or rental basis determined by the size unit selected and the number of optional services available. The monthly fee will cover basic costs such

Hormel Will Build New Plant in La Mirada Area

LA MIRADA—Plans have been completed for the construction near here of a meat processing plant and distribution center for George A. Hormel & Co., according to R. F. Gray, president. Construction will begin in three weeks, he said.

Keith Gemmill, manager of Hormel Canned Meat Division in the Los Angeles area, said sale and distribution headquarters also will operate out of this new center.

The 92,000 square foot plant will be at 14711 E. Firestone Blvd. on a seven and one-half acre county site now being considered for annexation to La Mirada.

• • • •

DESIGN OF MEAT processing area was based on Department of Agriculture specifications. Exterior walls are tilt-up concrete except for curtain wall system in office area.

Principal facade at entrance will be veneered with ceramic tile at second floor level. Ground level will be glazed from floor to ceiling, with extensive landscaping adjacent to reception area.

A 20-foot minimum height clearance has been maintained in the one-story plant area. Floor level of building is dock height. Employe facilities are contained on second floor above office area.

$4,300,000 Deal Made for Land at Yorba Linda

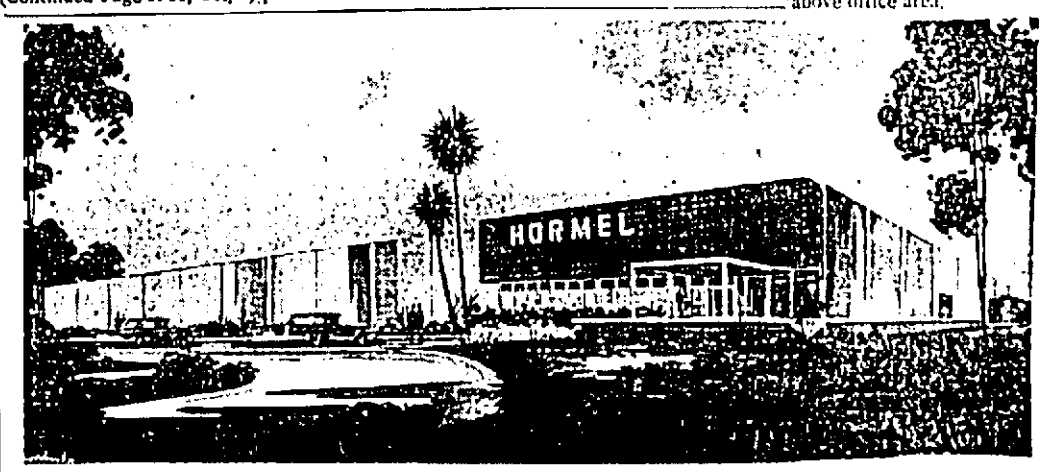

YORBA LINDA — Escrow has been closed on the purchase of a 430-acre parcel of land in Yorba Linda from Stern Realty by a group of investors headed by Avery and James McCarthy and George and Merlin Sant, prominent Southern California builders. Price of the transaction was $4,300,000.

Adjoining the Yorba Linda country club and easily accessible from the Imperial Highway Freeway now under construction, the property will be used for a community of fine homes, with a portion of it held for investment purposes.

IN DISCUSSING PLANS for the community, James McCarthy said, "We feel that this section of Yorba Linda has the potential to become the Beverly Hills of Orange County. In establishing a community here, we plan to work with present property owners to maintain the beauty of the locale, preserving the lovely contours of the land as much as possible.

To give ample time for planning and preparation of the new community, construction is not slated to begin until spring of 1964 and

SACRAMENTO—Orange County retail sales growth outstripped all other California areas in the second quarter of 1962, a report of the State Board of Equalization disclosed today.

Orange County taxable sales spurted 23.3 per cent higher than they were in the like quarter of 1961. The total: $294,616,000 — not counting prescription drugs no longer subject to sales tax.

• • • •

THAT COMPARES to a 9.8 per cent statewide gain in the same period. State sales topped 6.4 billion dollars—a new high.

In Los Angeles County, taxable sales increased 10.2 per cent. Los Angeles County total sales were $2,684,108,000 — including $121,856,000 in Long Beach. Los Angeles City accounted for 1.1 billion dollars.

Other sales tax totals in the second quarter: Anaheim, $12,392,000; Bellflower, $18,406,000; Buena Park, $20,203,000; Compton, $31,997,000; Costa Mesa, $14,833,000; Fullerton, $22,730,000; Gardena, $14,701,000; Garden Grove, $31,362,000; Lakewood, $26,684,000; Newport Beach, $13,981,000; Orange, $9,459,000; Paramount, $10,350,000; Santa Ana, $65,220,000; Lynwood, $10,799,000, and Torrance, $41,014,000.

Dixwell L. Pierce, board secretary, credited the second quarter gains to an 8.4 per cent increase in California personal income. Personal income in the state now tops $49.9 billion a year, he said.

Independenet FHA Setup Urged at Realty Session

The National Association of Real Estate Boards has approved a proposal at its Detroit convention calling upon Congress to make the Federal Housing Administration an independent body under the control of a board of directors appointed by the president, according to word from Long Beach realtors at the convention.

The proposal would remove the FHA from the control of the housing and home finance agency.

The convention proposal asserted that "Political and social welfare considerations are eroding the economically sound underwriting standards which have been the hallmark of this agency since its inception."

Dr. Robert Weaver, who is administrator of the housing and home finance agency, was quoted as saying the proposal would be "perfectly absurd."

"Making it an independent agency would be all right if it is to function purely for industry groups," he said.

Taubman Praises Chamber Executive

ment of what has been done these three years."

At the time Krusz was hired, Taubman said, "Our Chamber was in a very sad state. Our finances were all but non-existent, our members were dissatisfied and disgruntled, our city as a community had never been able to produce a real community spirit.

"We had many splinter groups, many pulling against each other and above all, no community pride," Taubman said.

Krusz began, Taubman said, by making a "very penetrating and objective analysis of our community and the Chamber. It took weeks of work and struggle and its presentation posed one of the greatest gambles he could take.

"It was presented to more than 100 citizens.

"You remember that day," Taubman told his fellow directors.

"It was incisive. It brought out skeletons from many closets. But the effect was electrifying. We saw our faults — we saw our assets. We came out of our lethargy and said in our hearts, we'll do something about this."

Taubman noted Krusz had begun the "Congress for Community Progress," and said it resulted in a final master plan of development for the city.

"He then set about putting the Chamber's house in order. The staff showed new faces—pretty ones too—and the staff was reorganized on a basis of intra-departmental responsibility," Taubman said.

"Quietly a program was initiated to establish a liaison with the city government and its diversions. Not much was heard about this, but in time our political managers began to listen and heed the Chamber as they realized our objectives were indeed parallel. We are not now antagonists," Taubman said.

"In the same way friendly and cooperative relationships were established with other community organizations. This insures unified effort on community projects."

Organize for Bellflower Realtor Installation Event

BELLFLOWER — Al Sykes, past president of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors, has been named as general chairman of the Installation Committee for the 41st Annual Installation of the board, according to President Medford W. Cogburn.

The installation will be held at Disneyland Hotel the evening of Dec. 14. Robert Y. Prigmore will be installed as 1963 president, with Ray Smith, 1963 vice president and Michael P. Locke of Paramount, secretary-treasurer.

• • • •

IN ADDITION, the following new directors will take office: Ray Smith, Glenn Hofer, Thomas R. Jansen, Paul Williams and Jerry McConnell.

These directors will join with holdover directors Wick Parker, Med Cogburn, Ann Anderson, Bob Prigmore and Michael P. Locke to guide the affairs of the board during 1963.

Sykes has named to his committee the following: Joe Withrow assisted by Chris Wunderlich, ticket sales; G. C. Crisp and Floyd Marcusson, door prizes; Wick Parker, gifts; Jim Elder, sergeant-at-arms; Lena Jenkins assisted by the Women's Council, decorations; Virginia Boggs, programs and printing; Clyde Kanall, dance arrangements.

• • • •

SYKES, who was president of the board in 1960 and in 1959 was the recipient of the highest award of the board—Realtor of the Year—expects the installation this year to equal or exceed last year's.

In spite of inclement weather, 304 members and guests were present for the installation last December.

Dividend Voted by Union Bank

The board of directors of Union Bank has declared the regular quarterly cash dividend of 32 cents per share for the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1962, according to Harry J. Volk, president.

Payable Jan. 2, 1963, to shareholders of record Dec. 12, 1962, this will be the 185th consecutive cash dividend paid by the bank.

Seahaven Offering 'Deerest' of Homes

Santa's reindeer — which arrived last week at Seahaven — have labeled Seahaven Homes the 'deerest' in Orange County! The 'deerest' location — so close to freeways and major highways — leading to major industry and for fast commuting to metropolitan areas. Schools for all ages (within walking distance, or with complete bus system); close to shopping and everything for recreation including the beach only three minutes away.

The features of the homes are the 'deerest', too. In Seahaven, you'll find just the size to suit your need, since you can choose from two bedrooms, three bedrooms or four bedrooms — and every home includes the latest deluxe Westinghouse all-electric kitchen — with the finest custom natural wood cabinets you've ever seen.

• • • •

THE BUYERS at Seahaven report the terms are the lowest in Orange County, and here is why: FHA monthly payments for the spacious four-bedroom home are only $95 including principal and interest — or the charming two-bedroom Sea Sprite is only $79 with FHA financing. Veterans can move in for nothing down!

When you visit Seahaven Homes — where you'll also see these two reindeer — you can compare and you'll know, a Seahaven Home is the best investment and the 'deerest' place to live.

From Long Beach take Pacific Coast Hwy. (101) to Beach Boulevard in Huntington Beach then north to Adams—then right to the Seahaven model homes.

Pan Am Revenues Up

Recreational Area With Apartments

Lincoln Arms in Anaheim boasts one of the most unique recreational programs in conjunction with apartment living anywhere in the West. The center itself covers one full acre of ground and includes a club-house encompassing 3,000 square feet of space for dancing, parties, group activities, meetings, etc., with a full kitchen for use by residents to provide refreshments and dinners for the foregoing.

A covered lanai for table tennis, lounging in front of the fireplace or just gathering to chat with a neighbor; the handsome heated pool for year-round use with a deck area large enough to place 100 chairs and lounges, are still more enjoyable features of the center. Professionals say the game of golf is won on the green—Lincoln Arms golfers will soon be able to sharpen up on their putting, for the green here will soon be ready. Shuffle board will test your skill but not your muscles—or if you prefer it the other way, try a fast game of volley ball.

• • • •

WHAT MAKES the story of this Recreation Center more unusual is that the residents themselves have the privilege of choosing and planning their own activities and programs appealing to all age groups have been successfully carried out. Lincoln Arms sponsors a bowling league and its residents are now enjoying a spirited winter league competition. Outdoor barbeque pits are available all year and residents may reserve the facilities of the center for private parties. There are unlimited possibilities for recreation and these are being expanded.

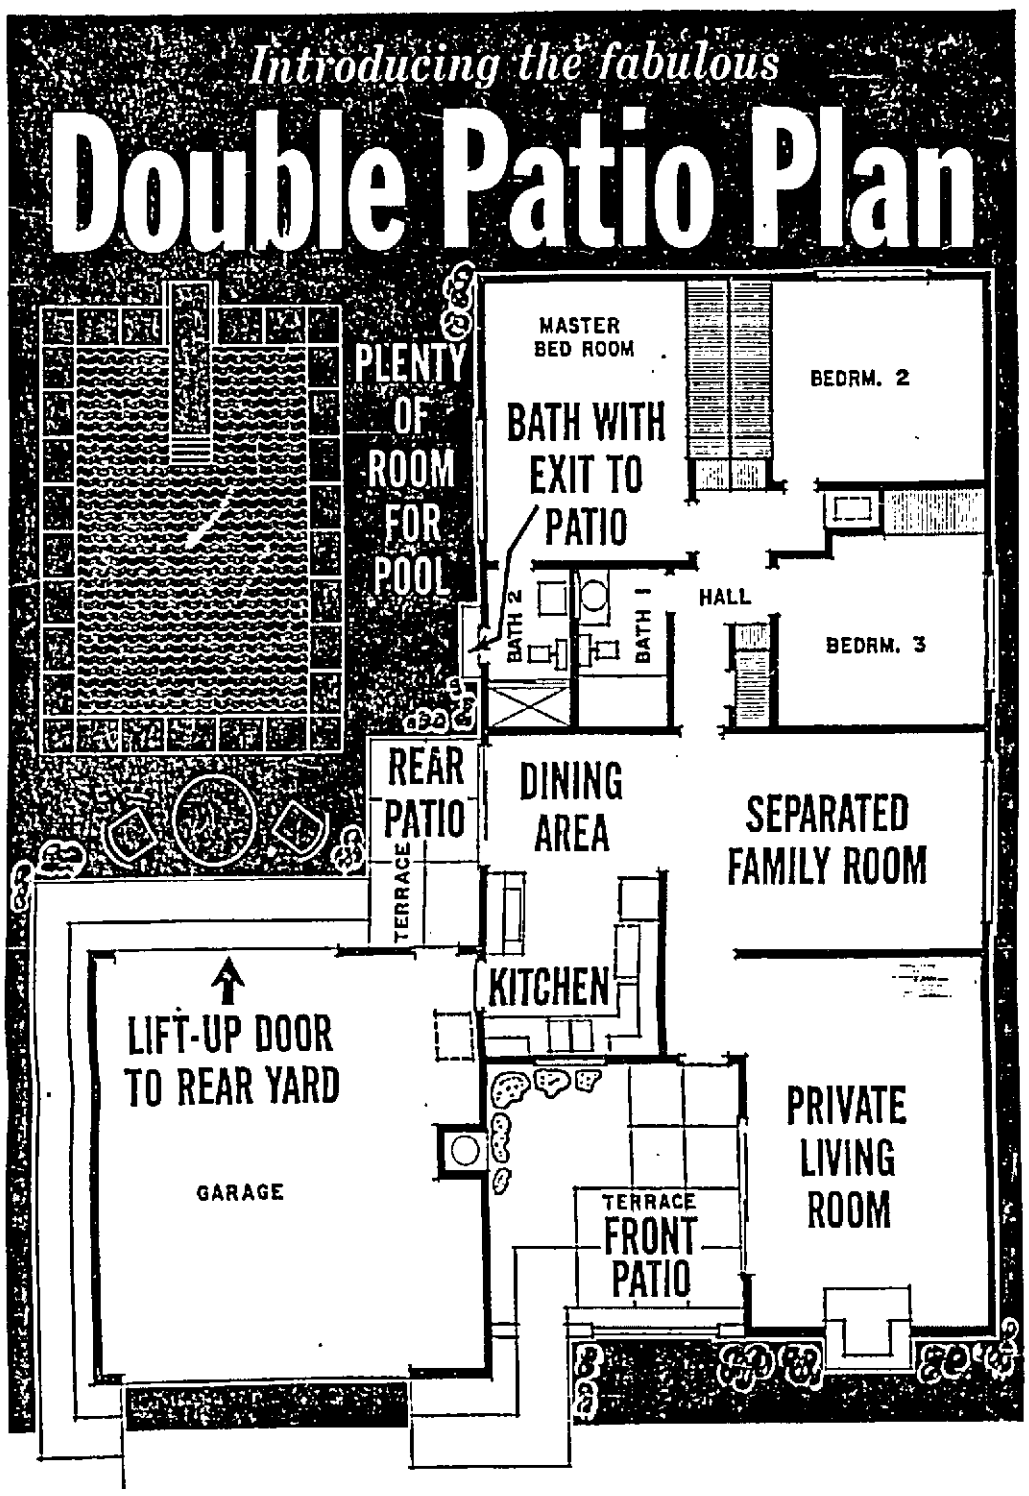

Situated just off Lincoln Avenue in Anaheim, Lincoln Arms is less than five minutes from the freeway, one block from a major shopping center, adjacent to schools—in fact, close enough to so many things as to make its location ideal for the average apartment dweller.

Following a tour of the recently opened recreation center at the Lincoln Arms Apartments, the smiles on Carolyne Neff, Mayor R. L. Coons of Anaheim, and F. E. Fabian, of Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, indicate their approval of its "Country Club" atmosphere and facilities.

Subdivision Draws Buyer Interest

Salesmen at Woodruff Park Estates, Bellflower's newest exclusive address, report huge enthusiastic crowds attended the recent grand opening.

Hundreds of viewers who went through the furnished model homes commented very favorably on all the de luxe features contained in the quality built homes, a spokesman said.

It was added that though open such a short time, buyer response has been tremendous. More than 20 of the 50 homes already have been sold. Anyone desiring to live in close-in Bellflower is advised not to wait.

Woodruff Park Estates is a subdivision being built by Mel Corey and Max Medvin, Beverly Hills builders and developers who have built hundreds of prestige homes in Bellfower and vicinity.

The homes are ideally situated on Woodruff Avenue just north of Rosecrans in Bellflower.

• • • •

THE PRICING at this all-Medallion community will range from $26,500 to $28,500.

Rylee and Cogburn are the sales agents. It was added that the economical impact of these homes, valued as a $1,500,000 subdivision, looms greatest in years so far as Bellflower is concerned.

All homes will feature three bedrooms, family rooms and two baths. Medallion kitchens will include GE ranges and double ovens, range hoods, fan light, GE disposer and dishwasher and de luxe tile.

Also featured will be Full-tone AM FM intercoms, wall-porches, fireplaces, hardwood and ash paneling, shake and shingle roofs, plastered walls, forced-air heating and other quality housing extras.

KITCHEN WITH APPEAL

Woodruff Park Estates in Bellflower is attracting many buyers and they find the kitchens of the homes have great appeal. Finest in cabinets and built-ins are provided, as shown here.

Dividends Due

Policyowners of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company will receive a record $40 million of policy dividends next year, it has been announced by Jerry J. Coursey, Jr., general agent for the Long Beach agency.

Cites Advantages in Co-op Apartments

Why should anyone pay to buy an apartment, and then pay rent to live in it? This is a usual question asked in the great misunderstanding over cooperative apartments. The answer is easy, explain officials of Anaheim Village. In paying for an apartment, the owner is investing in stock based on real estate. According to statistics, real estate has advanced in value at an average of at least 5% a year, the last 20 years.

Also, owners rather than renters tend to be less transient, more responsible and reliable. And because co-ops are usually sold on a pre-sell basis, the cost of preplanning a structure is lowered quite substantially.

Buying into a cooperative project gives the tenant-owner a vote in the corporation and an equal say in the running of the apartments. What may be most important is the fact that the monthly payment made is just that payment required to maintain the apartment. In other words, there is no profit added by a landlord and the payment made is approximately 65 per cent tax deductible reducing the amount quite substantially, the officials of the new cooperative development explain.

Ray Rowe, developer of Orange County's first cooperative apartments, said reservations are now being accepted. Apartment styles can be chosen from 14 basic floor plans, although construction of the project is not yet started. One-story and two-story units will be available and will include one, two or three bedrooms and one or two baths. Each apartment-home will have its own private terrace or balcony and modern Balanced Power kitchen, equipped with time-saving features. Monthly payments from $105 include principle and interest, taxes, insurance, maintenance and reserves.

A furnished model apartment may be seen at 741 N. Euclid.

Predicts Boom in Remodeling

Next year is predicted to be a peak period in home remodeling in the Southern California area, according to a spokesman for the Southern California Plastering Institute.

"In the years since the post World War II building boom, many homes have become too small for growing families. In other cases, the homes are badly in need of alteration or repair," the spokesman said.

The Institute representative went on to point out that "the addition of bedrooms and bathrooms will, in many cases, give older homes comparable floor space and facilities with homes now being built."

Woodland Heights Appealing

Throngs of shoppers are being impressed daily with the architectural planning, quality features, and prestige location of the new development of Woodland Heights in the community of Orange.

The homes, which are praised for their privacy, entertaining ability, and family livability, are available for from $23,900 to $25,900 with only $995 down.

Scores of impressive exterior designs are now available as well as three and four bedroom plans.

• • • •

AMONG THE MANY reasons for the peak demand for these executive-type homes in Woodland Heights are the huge floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, slate entry ways, luxurious sunken Pompeii baths, elegant wall-to-wall carpeting, glamorous tiled kitchens with gleaming O'Keefe & Merritt appliances (built-in oven, range and automatic dishwasher), lovely wall murals, spacious kitchen and family rooms.

This new "Sponseller Built" development is near four elementary parochial schools, three Lutheran and one Catholic. Chapman College, a four-year liberal arts college, is also located in Orange.

The 70-foot frontage estate models are easy to reach from the Santa Ana Freeway.

Sound Construction Appealing to Garden Park Estate Buyers

Many purchasers of Garden Park Estates luxurious one and two-story residences, report that their home buying decision was greatly influenced by the fact that this is one of the few Orange County communities where sound construction employs the use of fire-resistant lath and plaster walls and ceilings, according to a spokesman for this development at Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Freeway.

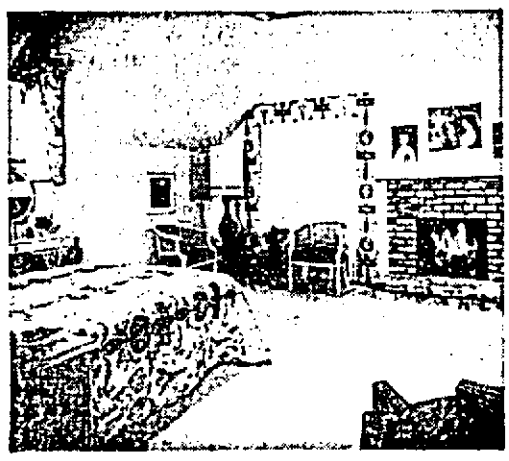

A planned residential "walled" community, Garden Park Estates presents an exciting choice of conventional and contemporary exterior designs and a range of two-bath plans that includes two bedrooms with a convertible den, and three and four bedrooms with family rooms and dining rooms in the one-story elevations, plus the two-story homes with five big bedrooms.

• • • •

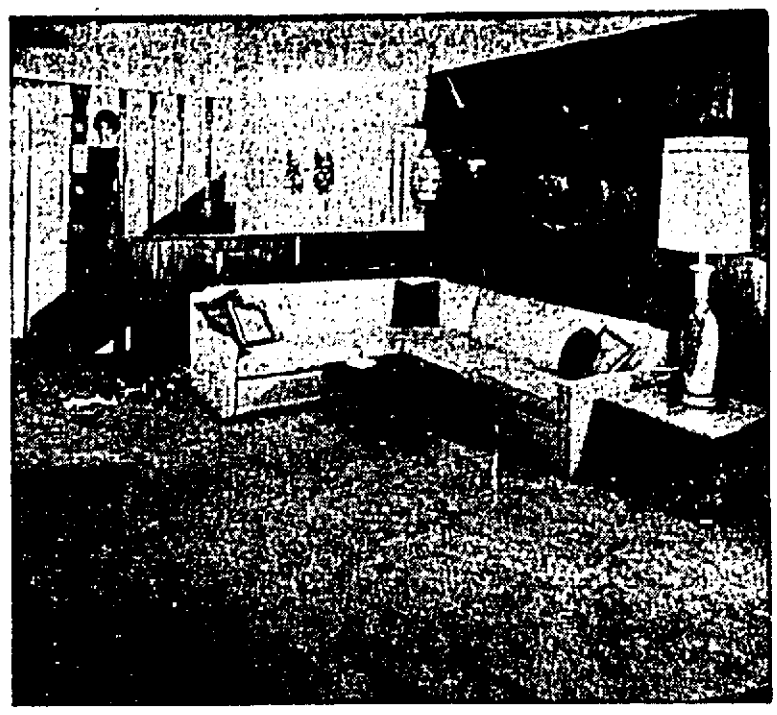

SPACIOUS, for they occupy two full stories, these last have three bedrooms on the second floor, one the master bedroom with its own beautiful fireplace. There are two large bedrooms on the first floor separated, for increased quiet and privacy, by the entry hall from the areas of activity. The second fireplace is the large living room.

Although Garden Park Estates residences boast many luxury and convenience features, full prices in the current unit are from just $17,500 to $25,600. Financing is extremely flexible, with choice of VA terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs, good conventional loans, Cal-Vet and choice of 30 or 35-year FHA loans.

Garden Park Estates and the furnished models, are reached from Long Beach by driving east on 7th St. past Long Beach State College, to Knott Ave. and the homes.

This master bedroom in a Garden Park Estates two-story model has a fireplace. Another fireplace is in the living room of this model.

WITH FOUR BEDROOMS

Park Estates, private walled community in Santa Ana, offers family-size three, four and five-bedroom homes in both one and two-story models. Pictured is room in two-story four-bedroom home with two baths and family room.

Two-Story Homes Seen Gaining

SANTA ANA—A definite trend toward two-story homes among Southern California homebuyers is indicated by a recent analysis of sales at Park Estates, Santa Ana, according to Farrow Realty, exclusive agents.

The new Henry C. Cox Co. development on Warner Avenue between Harbor and Bristol offers a wide selection of both one and two-story family homes, priced from $19,950. Three, 4- and 5-bedroom models are available with two baths and family rooms at the privately walled community.

History has shown that with prosperity and increased incomes, families tend to be larger, and two-story homes are more generally favored.

DICK MURRAY, Farrow Realty head, says that at the present time home sales throughout the country indicate a return to the traditional two-story homes. In addition he cites the separate formal dining room as a present popular demand dating back to earlier days.

Financial plans feature payments as low as $93.50 per month including principal and interest on GI no down; Cal Vet, FHA 5¼ per cent 35-year and conventional loans.

Decorator furnished models are open daily for inspection from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. at Warner Avenue and Raitt Street, Santa Ana.

First Family Moves Into Westmont Home

Orange County's new "space age community," the 1,100 home Westmont development in the Fountain Valley area of Huntington Beach, had its first occupants last week when Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shartzer moved into their big Bonus Room home, the developers, George M. Holstein and Sons report.

Shartzer, from Santa Maria, is with Douglas aviation in the firm's Skybolt division and has been with the firm nine years. The Shartzers with their children Diane, Johnny and Mary Jane were greeted as the new Westmont community's "first family" Friday.

• • • •

WITH THE NEW HOMES being occupied, the developer stressed that a good selection in the current unit is still available but going fast. "Buyers still have a limited number of plans and exteriors from which to choose and all with Christmas occupancy," the Westmont builders explained.

Priced from $19,995, the planned community is offering their three and four-bedroom homes with the big extra "Bonus Room" that gives buyers nearly 1800 square feet. The room is ideal for rumpus area, play room, or extra bedrooms, the Holstein organization pointed out.

• • • •

BOTH FHA and VA terms are available at the choice near-the-sea-location with cement driveways, extra big 7200 square foot lots, built-in gas kitchens, wood roofs, silent light switches, fireplaces, paneling, and many other features listed.

To reach the homes from the Long Beach area, stay East on Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St.) to Hwy. 39. Then turn right three miles to Westmont. The models are on the left side of the highway behind the new discount shopping center now being built to serve the area.

FIRST OF 1,100 FAMILIES

Mrs. Ray Haffdahl, saleslady, presents a bouquet to the first occupants of the giant Westmont community in Huntington Beach area. The newcomers are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shartzer of Santa Maria. Shartzer is with Douglas in the expanding Skybolt division. The new Douglas family is the first of 1,100 newcomers for the big Westmont community.

AT SITE OF JOHN BROWN TOWERS BUILDING

Work has started on high-rise John Brown Towers at 3745 Atlantic Ave. Participating in ground-breaking ceremony (from left): Hugh Gibbs, AIA, architect; Ray A. Myers, Myers Bros. IN MAKING the decision where to locate the John Brown Towers, the Board of Trustees selected a site in the Bixby Knolls area of Long Beach which was considered the finest available in Southern California because of its proximity to a shopping center, banks, post office, library, churches, good transportation and medical facilities.

Architect for the project is Hugh Gibbs, AIA, of Long Beach; and Myers Bros. Construction Co., Inc., of Los Angeles is the general contractor.

One of the driving forces in the long planning for the development has been Clinton H. Fowler, vice president of the Brown Foundation. He is credited with overcoming numerous problems along the way to start of construction.

The foundation was established in 1919. It now includes John Brown University at Siloam Springs, Ark.; Southern California Military Academy, Long Beach; Brown Military Academy, Glendora; and radio stations KGER, Long Beach, and KUOA and KUOA-FM, Siloam Springs.

NOW USED for dry farming, the land once was part of the Spanish land grant, Rancho Canon de Santa Ana, and belonged to Bernardo Yorba.

Reminiscing about the land, Harold Stern of Stern Realty remembered when the land was purchased by his father in 1926 as part of 2,000 acres. The price then was $150 per acre.

The tremendous increase in land values since that time is illustrated in the fact that the property was sold to the McCarthys and the Sants for $10,000 an acre.

Insurance Men Feted

Seventeen representatives of the Long Beach general agency of the Aetna Life Insurance Company were honored recently at a dinner at Vacation Village, San Diego, for their outstanding records in a national life insurance campaign.

Top man in the A. A. Norton General Agency was George P. Brown, who wrote a total of $300,000 in new life insurance protection during the month-long campaign. Other leaders were Ray Underwood of Long Beach, Vic Buzzelli of La Mirada and Sam Stewart of Gardena.

The Long Beach agency produced 287 per cent of its anticipated volume, writing more than $2.5 million worth of new life insurance protection during the October campaign, Norton stated.

CARNIVAL OF ART

By ELISE EMERY

Doors of Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., will swing open at 1 p.m. today for a week-long Carnival of Art.

The eventful program will be climaxed next Sunday with the fourth annual Art Auction, for which 325 professional artists have been invited to submit entries.

The carnival is a project of Friends of the Museum, and marks the first time an organization has taken over the museum for a week of activity.

How do the Friends—42 women and 2 men—feel about their undertaking?

"Wonderful—but edgy," they admit.

Each has labored for weeks on assignments and today will begin a final whirlwind of effort.

TODAY'S visitors may attend a reception from 1 to 5 p.m. and see for the first time 400 pieces of art to be auctioned next Sunday.

Oil paintings, water colors, ceramics, drawings, prints and sculpture will be displayed throughout the museum. Any work may be purchased at its pre-auction price, or viewers may select pieces for which they wish to bid later.

As in the past, the quality is kept high by restricting invitations to artists who have won recognition in juried exhibits or through leading commercial galleries. They come from as far north as San Luis Obispo, and as far south as San Diego.

Among those submitting works are Bettina Brendel, Dorothy Riggle, Margaret Bradshaw, Vic Smith, Elsa Nelson, Dick Swift, Larry Shep, Sister Mary Carita; Michael Arntz, Ward Youry, Robert Brants, Dr. Eugene Wallin, Anna Hayes, and Roland Shutt.

The museum will be closed Monday, according to regular schedule, and on Thanksgiving Day.

TUESDAY and Wednesday, pre-sales and previewing will continue; the museum will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

On Friday, Children's Day will feature fresh, delightful art produced by youngsters at the Friends' sponsored classes held at Long Beach State College, under instruction of Dorothy Lanier and Linda Penner.

Chairman of Children's Day is Mrs. Howard Hargrove; assistants are Mrs. Alfred Schmidt and Mrs. James Ferguson.

When the tots take over Friday, they will demonstrate their skill at collage and painting, and visiting children will be invited to participate as space allows. Members of the Friends will be on hand to see that all youngsters are served punch and cookies.

SATURDAY WILL belong to college students.

Those in Southern California schools, including the University of Southern California, Redlands University, the University of California at Los Angeles, Claremont and Scripps Colleges and many others will bring examples of their work. Many entries will be from Long Beach State and Long Beach City Colleges.

Their works will be on display and for sale from 1 until 4:30 p.m. They will not be included in the coming auction.

Mrs. Joseph E. D. Morris is chaiman of student day, and Mrs. Sumner Trent is co-chairman.

For the grand finale next Sunday, Frederick Black, director of the museum will greet guests and auction the first few items. He will be succeeded by Vito Romans, and later by Bob Jablonski, a member of the Friends, and Don Gill.

IN PREVIOUS years the auction was held out-of-doors, but will take place inside the museum this time.

"Last year, auction day was windy," explained a Friend. "Some of the women, raising their hands to put their hair in place, found their gestures were interpreted as bids, and almost wound up being owners of a work of art they hadn't intended to buy."

SUCCESS OF the auction is of vital concern, point out carnival co-chairmen Mrs. Bruce Murray and Mrs. Robert Hall.

"The Friends have pledged $500 for prizes in the museum's juried show this spring. We gave $500 last year, too, but that was after we had raised the money. This time, we've taken a chance and given our word in advance."

They sum up their undertaking this way:

Recognized artists

WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson • I, P-T Women's Editor

LITTLE MISS Horner sat in a corner . . . and if her dinner partner didn't find her he's less of a kid than he oughta be—or thought he was—whatever the case may be.

That's the way things were Thursday when members of the Day Nursery Board returned to the world of childhood (or tried to) during annual gala dinner party at Rod and Cal Strong's home.

The gimmick, and a surprise to all the men present, was that everyone was given the name of some nursery rhyme character. In addition the men were given some long ago clues to try and find their dinner partner. Slips of paper drawn said such cryptic things as, "She ate curds and whey" or "Your little Miss is quite contrary."

Baby bibs with names of Mother Goose favorites (made by Rod in her "spare" time during the hubbub of recent decorating) were de rigueur apparel. Making sure everyone had one firmly tucked under chin were party assistants Ruth and Maurey Hubbell and Frances and Henry Clock as the 38 hungry kids sat down to dinner. These included newest members of the usually august group . . . Joyce and Bert Paul, Louise and Paul McClaughry, Betty Barbee, Rubye and Lewis Kean, Ann and Sid Exley and Helen and Hugh Carter.

TRYING TO KEEP up with the Joneses last weekend would have required a suitcase if the keeping up was with Shirley and Howard. They winged off for San Francisco on one of those on-the-town type sprees. They drove a car back (for a friend) which enabled them to make en-route home stopover visits with Betty (nee McAfee) and Carl Stubenrauch in Palo Alto, Eunice and Ed Bramble in Hillsborough, Susan and Ken Fraser in Burlingame plus bonus visits in Monterey and San Simeon.

This will probably be Howard's last vacation from Convention Bureau chief chores until his resignation becomes effective first of the year. Everybody keeps asking him "Whaddya gonna do, whaddya gonna do?" and although he hasn't stated officially, as far as I know, I get the impression that he'll go into business for himself.

IF YOU WANT to build a travel appetite, just talk to Clare and Lynn Hossom. They're home from a complete heaven of a two month vacation tour of Europe.

First they flew to Scotland, rented a car and drove through the Highlands and moors of Loch Lomond. In Elie (across the Firth of Forth from Edinburgh) they were houseguests for a week of Sir and Lady Harvie-Wats whom they met five or six years ago aboard the Queen Elizabeth (and subsequently entertained here when the Harvie-Watts visited Southern California).

Well that was the grand beginning. After that they were in all the wonderful places . . . Austria, Italy, the Mediterranean (a 21-day cruise with stops at fabled ports), France and a final week in Paris. And that is only a mild sampling of their too-good-to-be-true travels.

• • • •

ENJOYING HER Christmas gift early is Dorothy Updike. Daughter and son-in-law, Joan and Bernard Cahier of Paris, France, arrived here last weekend, and will remain through Thanksgiving. Bernard and Joan were in Mexico City where he covered the Grand Prix races as part of his international sports reporting job.

HERE . . . but not for much longer . . . are old (so they should pardon the expersion) favorite citizens of our town, Lorraine and Ed Penning. They arrived Monday, will take off again for current home in Portland today. Have been houseguesting with Hester and Brewster Gray.

IRREPRESSIBLE Pat Gilkie! She penned from Palm Springs that she let Walt out of her sight for about half an hour one day last week and when she caught up with him again he announced he had just bought a place down there. If I read the postmark right, they will have moved in by now (she said Thursday) with or without such things they didn't have as linens, blankets, pots or pans. "I need it like a hole in the head," wailed Pat (I have judiciously edited what she really said). Walt calmly countered with the airy rationalization that it was good breathing down there, would be beneficial.

OLD FASHIONED hospitality like grandma used to offer will keynote Thursday all around town. As ovens bulge with turkeys here are how a few will spend the day: Betty and Homer Grant will host a family get - together for daughter and son-in-law, Sydney and Lt. George McCauley and grandson, Stephen, up from Coronado for the holiday. Dolly and Karl Ward will be at home with family and friends including daughter, Susan, due in from studies at Brigham Young U.

Jerry and Doris Young will cook up a storm for the family then pop the leftovers in the freezer while they enjoy a sunny jaunt to Phoenix. Lorraine and Harry Fulton will have the traditional family dinner at their home for her mother, Mrs. Will Winston, and the others including Willa and Dean Gilmore, Norma and Tom Brown and Nance and Bill Winston.

There'll be plenty of spiffy whiffs emanating from Tess and Francis Heusel's big kitchen, too, as they prepare for a throng of relatives.

THERE'S NOTHING like a trip to Eugene, Ore., the way Nita and Joe Dunn just did it. In fact, a trip to Oregon is nothing like what the Dunns did. They went via Hong Kong.

That's a fact. After they had completed plans to go to Eugene to see son and daughter-in-law, Jim and Marylou, they won an expenses paid tour of the Orient. They have been in such places as Hong Kong, Taipal, Kyoto, Tokyo and Honolulu not to mention Las Vegas.

After they got back to the U. S. they picked up their car, drove to Nevada for a reunion visit with son, Jerry, who rendezvoused with them from his current stand in Oklahoma City. Then they drove him back to O. C., retraced their wheel tracks and did, in truth, eventually wind up at their original destination of Eugene. These devious, delightful travels ended Tuesday.

TRYING TO cover 1,000 miles in about six days, and counting on plenty of huffer puffer cooperation from the wind are the 38 sailboats currently vying in the annual Mazatlan race.

The race was scheduled to get under way at noon Saturday from the starting line at the Los Angeles Yacht Club. Alamitos Bay Yacht Club is being represented by "Bix" Bixby on his sleek craft, "Typee" and crewing for him are his son, Bixie, Sid Exley, Dick Russell, George Hart, Eric Erickson and Davy Crockett.

Flying the Long Beach Yacht Club burgee in the race is Stan Mashburn, skippering his 46-foot sailboat, "Kitten," and Clark Sweet at the helm of his 39-foot craft, "Jinker." Crewing for Stan are "Sandy" Lee, Dick Bell, Bill Goodwin, Lee Henley, Harry Moloscho and Paul Beecroft. Dunno whose aboard with Clark except that I heard one of them would be Hal Drake.

Most of the sailors wives will fly down to Mazatlan to be on hand for the always exciting finish line festivities.

STAIN-PROOFING
The other day a friend brought in her new Italian knit, worn once, white with a stain right in the front of the skirt. It was just too bad, for the stain couldn't be removed. Now there is no such thing as stain-proofing, but our Soft-n-Dry Sanitone process does make garments stain-resistant as well as water-resistant. Had the garment been so treated, this stain could not have entered the fabric fibers.

In a Jungle of Jumbled Jargonese

By MARY ELLIS
I.-P-T Fashion Editor

Women may still have the last word—but fashion has more of them.

These days there are so many looks, so many silhouettes, so many "last word" in fashion that, were he living, Mr. Webster would have to work time and a half (union scale) to keep up.

In fact, after a week of covering resort-spring collections shown by California's top-flight designers, I feel like a walking encyclopedia of jumbled fashion jargon.

It's not like in the days of yore when, in a given season, THE look was a chemise or a man-tailored suit or a Gibson girl shirtwaist (by the way, I wasn't reporting fashions then).

Anyway, these days a fashion scribe on the scent of news and predictions has a pretty confusing time.

• • • •

IF YOU don't believe me, just take a look at notes gleaned from showings the past week.

Shown in the 34 collections previewed were the relaxed look, the blouson, the empire, the little boy look, little girl look, the western look, the playboy look, the princess, the fluid look, the nautical look and the demi-fit. For those who want to get away from it all, there's the French Foreign Legion look and the safari look.

Then, of course, there's the harried look of fashion editors.

It's rough enough just to keep up with dress styles. This year there's the sandal and the barefoot dress (new terms this season), the patio dress and the beach dress, the coat dress and the shirtmaker.

Also the cocktail dress and the after-five. The tennis dress (gone high fashion this season), the tent dress, the Bermuda dress, the sun dress and the moon dress (evening replacement for the sun dress), also the sheath, the shift, the shaft and the skimmer.

To outdo the "little nothing" dress, one designer has a "less than nothing" dress. Another has a fun dress called "The Thing." Still another has a fish tail and calls it the mermaid dress.

• • • •

AND then there are suits. There's the costume suit and the walking suit, the bolero and the cardigan, the cutaway and the sweater suit, the stroller, the theater suit and the Norfolk.

There are greatcoats and peacoats, Chesterfields and trench coats, all-weather coats, reversibles and cabana coats (just above the knees). One designer has a new penguin shape, another a lamp shade.

There are A-skirts and trouser skirts, tunics and overskirts, pencil skirts, tube skirts, wrapped skirts and match sticks, full skirts and slim ones (the accent this season in on slim skirts).

They may be tiered, paneled, pegged, fan-pleated, box-pleated, knife-pleated or permanent-pleated.

• • • •

SLEEVES ARE raglan, dolman, rolled, turned-up, puffed, flared, ruffled or not there at all. One designer has a new trick up his sleeve: they're removable.

Necklines are V-d (like in the new tennis dress), squared, scooped, cowled, jeweled, scarved and plunged. There are crew necks, turtle necks, and boat necks.

About fabrics. You would have to be a fashion astronaut to get around to them all. Newest are patents and leathers shaped into swimwear and sports clothes, also cloud-like fabrics fashioned into dresses that fold into a purse, come out completely uncrushed.

• • • •

BUT IT'S in casual and playclothes that designers really get carried away. They will go to any lengths to keep milady happy in this department.

Take pants. There are surfers, clam diggers, deck pants and bell-bottom trousers . . . calf-skinners, capris, toreadors, and matadors . . . deck-trousers, stretch pants, ski pants, and jeans . . . knee-skinners, hip huggers, sudan pants and safari pants. New this year are baseball knickers and surfcasters. One designer save teen-agers the trouble of cutting off their own jeans. Obligingly, he even leaves the edges frayed.

Pants are topped with pop-overs, skin diver blouses, cropped tops, fencer tunics, sailing shirts, skiff tops, bush shirts, jeep jackets, polo shirts, and, new this year, dugout shirts (baseball style). So you see how it is. I started out today to report the couture story but that will have to come next week —after I have alphabatized my thoughts.

Because, after all, how can a fashion scribe know what's in when she's so worn out?

Dazzling Dolls Travel

. . . . in shopping bags!

A delegation of dazzling dolls "break the ice" for Ice Capades, the skating show that will open Tuesday, Nov. 27, at the Long Beach Arena for a six-day engagement. These hard-working ladies are garbed in exact replicas of costumes worn by members of the "Ice Ca-Pets."

Lavishly sequinned, feathered, rhinestoned and furred and insured for $500 each, the lovely girls travel chummily in ordinary paper shopping bags with their chaperone, Jeyne Brown.

Miss Brown reports that her miniature charges are good travelers, "but do have a tendency to lose sequins."

Costumes are the most costly item in a new Ice Capades. Performers in this year's show wear 550 costumes representing an investment of over $750,000.

The dolls wear a miniature of an actual skater's costume down to the wig and jewelry. They are used for testing color under lighting before the actual costumes are made.

The job of clothing an Ice Capades troupe offers some interesting problems. Beads and sequins must be waterproof, skirts must look full length, but clear the ice. Layers of synthetic fabrics are used for bouffant effects to avoid excessive weight. Jewelry is often sewn to the costume to facilitate quick changes.

The dolls have a year's tour of the United States and Canada in the bag as advance publicity women and then are retired to their main job back at headquarters. There they serve as a permanent costume record.

"LOOK MA, I'm skating!" And to the strains of Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody," in a gold lame overskirt, intricate design in black and white sequins and a blazing orange ruffled underskirt.

The Younger 'Baby' Needs the Attention

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I married the wrong man. I'm still in love with the guy I loved at 14. I married my husband on the rebound and said "yes," but I didn't love him.

I had a formal wedding and I didn't want to make anyone seem foolish. Now after two years of marriage I feel very, very foolish. My husband is like Hitler.

If you don't do as he wants—10 lashes for insubordination. But we have a baby and I cannot leave.

This other man loves my baby as if it were his own. He was at Mom's when I was having my pains and he said he felt each one. My husband didn't even care. All he worried about was the baby. Must I put up with him for the sake of my baby?—MOMMY.

DEAR MOMMY:

What Mommy needs is to stop being the baby. Your husband may lash out, but he loves your child. You did a foolish thing to marry without loving him, but you don't have to go right on being foolish.

When he demands subordination, rise to your full height as a woman and demand he desist. Then put your mind to loving your child's dad. Only a fool would run from one foolish match to another. You are a mother and it's up to you to DO the babying now. — M. M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My mother and daddy hate all my friends. They say they are cheap trash and like me only because we are rich. We are not rich and they are not cheap.

Honestly, Molly, my friends don't care whether I'm rich or poor and they ask me to their parties.

Now I have no friends at all because my mother called some of them and said how dared they invite HER daughter to one of their horrid parties. If you can help thousands of other people, surely you can help — SWEET SIXTEEN AND FRIENDLESS.

DEAR FRIENDLESS:

Your mother may not be correctly evaluating people, but you better value her advice anyway and see just who she'd want you to pal with. The day will come soon enough when you can pick or choose. I hope she is guiding you to know how to choose well.—M. M.

• • • •

NOTE TO CHARG-A-PLATE: Clearing your accounts by charging him for his meals may be maddening, but it protects his credit creditably.—M. M.

MRS. JOHN W. GRAHAM affixes Alpha Omicron Pi's Thanksgiving seal to letter. Her design for the seal won over more than 50 entries in a national contest.

No Artist, but Her Seal Design Wins

By ELISE EMERY

A Long Beach housewife who admits, "I can't draw a thing," has designed a seal which promises to yield thousands of dollars for her sorority's scholarship fund.

In June, buoyant, blue-eyed Mrs. John W. Graham, 251 Santa Ana Ave., saw a notice in Alpha Omicron Pi's national magazine announcing a contest for a Thanksgiving seal design.

The seals were to be mailed to sorority members, who would be given the opportunity to buy them at one dollar a sheet.

The rules of the contest specified that only three colors could be used.

• • • •

"I KNEW I had to use black and white for the lettering, and our sorority color is red, so that problem was solved.

"I took my daughter Jane's crayons, grabbed a recipe card and dashed off the design in 15 minutes. I can't draw, so I traced the sorority's symbol, a red Jacqueminot rose, in the center of a square turned on end to form a diamond shape, added lettering on a scroll and that was that. There wasn't room for anything else."

• • • •

MRS. GRAHAM mailed her entry, then forgot it until late October when she had a phone call from Mrs. Verne W. McKinney of Los Angeles, president of Alpha Omicron Pi's Diamond Jubilee Anniversary Foundation, which administers the scholarship fund.

"Surprised when she told me I had won? You bet! That's hardly the word!"

Some 30,000 sheets of seals have been mailed to sorority members. Response has been enthusiastic. Within the first week, more than 2,000 replies — with money — came back to Dorothy Matchett of Chicago, treasurer of the foundation, and letters still are pouring in.

• • • •

OFFICIALS have set a scholarship fund goal of $1 million by Alpha Omicron Pi's 75th anniversary in 1972.

Although there is no material prize for the first place award—only the honor of winning—Mrs. Graham says happily, "I'm delighted if anything I can do will help us reach our goal. It's fun to repay, in small measure, for all the help and joy my sorority has brought me."

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Not a Safe Assumption

DEAR ABBY: We received an invitation to a wedding. It was addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. . . ." and then our names. Is it safe to assume that our children are invited? They are not babies. They are 9 and 11 and conduct themselves like a little lady and little gentleman. The people who sent it know we don't go anywhere without our children. The wedding is to be held in a fine hotel. We think attending adult functions helps develop poise in children. We will abide by your decision.—MR. AND MRS.

ABBY

DEAR MR. AND MRS.: I agree, attending adult social functions does indeed develop "poise" in children—but unless they are specifically invited, it develops ulcers in the hostess. Leave the little lady and little gentleman at home.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: You were right about the honor system not working. And it won't work until the students themselves make it work. And I don't mean "tattling" to the teacher. If they can put the screws on someone who dresses oddly, why can't they put the screws on someone who cheats? Young people should have integrity and I can see no better way of cultivating it than ostracizing those among their own peers who cheat. I'd like to know what the students think about this.—C.A.A. (Pastor)

DEAR ABBY: I am a volunteer group work leader. I have been a faithful reader of your column for many years. I used some of your letters to help discourage young people from going steady and now I have something for you! It's called the Ten Commandments for Teen-Agers. You are welcome to use it. I never did know who wrote it.—MRS. G. W. SCHULTZ

How Does South Go?

According to the proprieties of bridge, declarer is privileged to study as long as he wishes before playing to the first trick. Later any player may study if it is his lead or if he has a valid problem. If he wishes to plan later plays, he may study and announce that he is looking ahead. In all other instances he is supposed to play without long hesitation.

Few people play in this colorless fashion and almost everyone has little give-aways that may be of great help to alert opponents.

It is perfectly proper to take advantage of your opponents' mannerisms, but you do so at your peril.

• • • •

TODAY'S hand is the contribution of our British cousins. The problem is to find South's best line of play against opponents he has never seen before.

South has to win all three heart tricks in order to make seven no-trump contract and according to the British author his correct play is to win the first club in his own hand, pause a few seconds and lead the jack of spades. He should study West's reaction for future reference. Then he should go up with dummy's ace, return to his own hand with another club and lead the jack of hearts. Should West play low in the same manner he should rise with dummy's ace and play East for the queen. Should West react differently, he should finesse against him immediately.

Wonderful Things Happen to a Hastings Graduate

Dear Mrs. Hastings and Mrs. Krec:

Your time and energy spent on me during my classes with you are paying off double and triple-fold here in Tennessee. I cannot express my gratitude and sincere appreciation in words.

The people in this area are truly delightful. I enjoy each day spent more than the last. New experiences come my way everywhere.

Since my arrival in early September I have pledged Kappa Delta sorority, have been elected dormitory president for the year, was selected as pledge-of-the-week, and will represent Kappa Delta in the Sigma Chi derby figure contest next weekend.

None of these wonderful things would have happened to the Cathy Dodson that came to you a year ago!

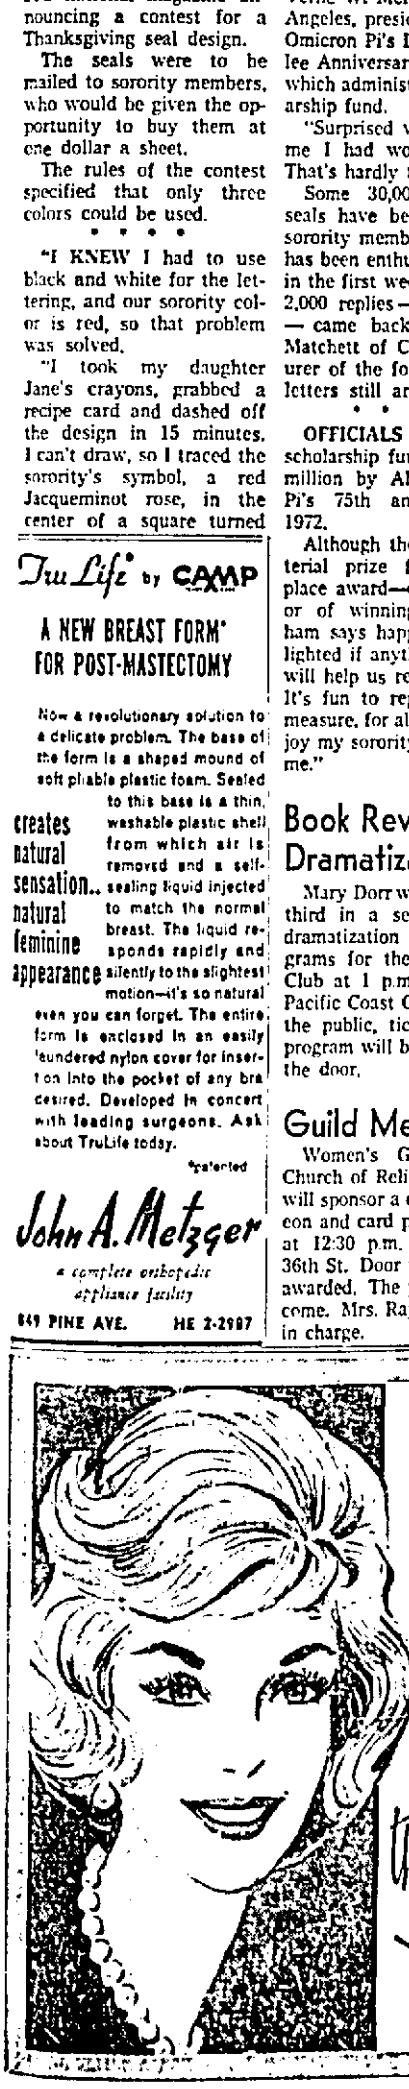

I am having the time-of-my-life here at U-T, and wish to thank you so very much for your invaluable help in making all of this possible.

Most Sincerely,
Cathy Dodson

L.B. Symphony Concert Program Is Previewed

Long Beach Symphony Guild and Junior League of Long Beach opened their symphony season Tuesday morning at Virginia Country Club with a record breaking audience of more than 200.

Henry Lewis, assistant conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic, discussed the program which Long Beach Symphony Orchestra will play tonight at 8 o'clock when it opens its regular concert series in Long Beach City College Auditorium. The box office will open at 7 p.m.

In a rich, deep voice and gesturing frequently — almost as though he were conducting — Lewis spoke informally and warmly of the music. As a departure from the usual preview format, he used neither a musical instrument nor recordings to illustrate his points.

• • • •

THE PROGRAM will open with Suite from "Dardanus," a rearrangement of ballet music from the work composed in 1739 by J. Philippe Rameau for the Paris Opera.

"Theorist, composer and organist, Rameau wrote a treatise on harmony which was the most important of his time and has had lasting influence. In his own day, when the Paris Opera was known for its spectacular effects and elaborate ballets, Rameau was criticized for the lack of melody and harmony in his work. Today, however, we regard him as the most pure of classicists.

"This suite sounds very modern, with its use of contrapuntal and syncopated rhythms. We sense a kinship to Handel's "Water Music Suite."

• • • •

LEWIS NOTED that although pianist Malcolm Frager, tonight's concert soloist, is only 27 he has won the $3,000 "toughest of all international contests, Belgium's Queen Elisabeth Concours" and the prized American Leventritt Competition.

Tonight, with Lauris Jones conducting, he will play Prokofieff's "Concerto No. 2."

"This is a grand piece in the romantic style of Tchaikovsky or Rachmaninoff. It is most typical of Prokfieff with conventional music spiked with percussion and dissonant effects. The first movement begins with a beautiful melody and ends with a grand, long cadenza.

• • • •

THE SECOND movement

Malcolm Frager

is a quick, lively scherzo. The third begins with a slow march rhythm and soon the listener realizes he is hearing Prokofieff's satiric humor, a very droll joke, making use of instruments in a surprisingly way. The composer is not quite serious and that is the way to listen — in a spirit of fun."

The rest of the program is devoted to Wagner.

"This composer is the audience's delight, but not always the conductor's.

"The conductor can be sure of one thing, though, when Wagner is on the program: the brass players, sometimes the bad boys of the orchestra, really come alive. They want to spend the whole time rehearsing Wagner."

• • • •

TONIGHT'S program will include Ride of the Valkyries and Magic Fire Music from "Die Walkure," and Dance of the Apprentices and Procession of the Mastersingers from "Die Meistersinger."

The "Die Walkure" numbers are powerful, sentimental, poignant, foreboding. The "Die Meistersinger" selections, in contrast, are happy, joyous and bright.

Lewis delighted his audience with some off-stage glimpses of his private life with his wife, opera star Marilyn Horne, formerly of Long Beach.

• • • •

"MUSICIANS TEND to be temperamental. This is not a problem when just one of us is performing, but when both of us are, things can be pretty tense!"

The speaker concluded with a discussion of recent difficulties besetting the Los Angeles orchestra, and with a question and answer period.

Dick Swift Wins $1,000 Award

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Dick Swift, 115 Third St., Seal Beach, has won the Rocco Di Marco purchase prize art award of $1,000.

Swift is an associate professor of art at Long Beach State College. He competed in the third biennial National Religious Art Exhibition in Birmingham, Mich. and won with a set of 14 prints representing the "Stations of the Cross." His work also was named "Most Outstanding" in the national, invitational competition.

MEMBERS of Seal Beach Artists League put aside their big brushes and huge canvases and have produced an array of diminutive works for their "Little Show" of miniatures.

The small pieces will hang with the pre-Christmas show until January at the Art Center Gallery, Ocean and Main, Seal Beach. Hours are 1 to 5 and 7 to 10 p.m. daily, including Sunday.

Included in the Little Show are Dirk Smith's palette knife landscapes, Crandal Norton's monotone seascapes, president Al Danfeldt's water color scenes of the waterfront, and Marie Bucher's portrait of a child in an antique gold frame.

• • • •

TWENTY-SIX lithographs by the Latvian painter and draftsman, Abel Pann will remain on view at Temple Israel Social Hall, Third Street and Loma Avenue, until Nov. 25. They depict scenes from the Book of Genesis and are on loan from the Magnes Museum in Oakland.

Pann studied art in Paris under Toulouse-Lautrec and was awarded the Prix Nationale of the Academie des Beaux Arts.

He visited Israel in 1913, then settled there in 1920 when he began his Biblical works. His illustrations represent the first colored lithographs produced in Israel.

The collection may be seen without charge during the day and evening whenever the temple is open.

LUCILLE STILLINGS of Long Beach Art Association is showing 20 paintings, most of them water colors, at Magnolia Theater during November.

The artist was an honored guest at the theater and one of the paintings on display, "The Lute Player," already has been sold.

Tuesday, LBAA members will attend an illustrated lecture by Dr. Josephine Schultz, "Reflections on European Art," featuring color slides she made during a European tour. Dr. Schultz is professor of art at Long Beach State College.

TO ACCOMODATE the huge crowds visiting the Tut-Ankh-Amun Treasures exhibition at Los Angeles County Museum, additional visiting hours have been scheduled.

The show may be seen from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sundays, Tuesdays and Fridays; from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. the rest of the week, including Mondays when the museum is ordinarily closed. There is a small admission fee. The exhibit will remain through Dec. 2.

More than 10,000 visitors saw the treasures during the opening weekend in November, and total attendance figures are expected to set a new high for exhibitions in Los Angeles.

ROBERT R. WARK, curator at Huntington Library and Art Gallery in San Marino, and lecturer in art history at the University of Southern California, will give an illustrated public lecture Monday at 8 p.m. in Room 101, Harris Hall, on the USC campus.

His topic will be "Rowlandson's Tour in a Post Chaise."

Thomas Rowlandson, 1756-1827, was a painter of English genre and a cartoonist during the reign of King George III. In 1780 he toured from London to the New Forest and the Isle of Wight. Wark retraced this journey in September, 1961, photographing locations and subjects of Rowlandson's sketchbook.

STRONG WESTERN action and colors dominate the current show at Desert Magazine Art Gallery in Palm Desert.

The exhibit features the work of three well-known California painters, Burt Proctor, Paul Lauritz and Nicholas Firfires. Each is a prizewinning artist in Western competition.

The gallery is located on Highway 111 in Palm Desert, 14 miles south of Palm Springs and is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

LBAA Juried Show Reflects Many Media

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

One of the most sparkling exhibits yet to be seen at the Villa Riviera gallery of Long Beach Art Association continues until the end of the month. It looks as though a number of the artist-members may hold back some of their better efforts for this Annual Fall Juried show.

While it would be difficult to quarrel with the knowledgeable jurying and awarding of Fred Black, director of the Long Beach Museum of Art, it must have been a challenging experience even for such an old hand. There is an intriguing variety of original personal statements in many media.

Dr. Eugene Wallin's "Untitled" water color combines surrealist overtones with a dynamic approach which evolves naturally from the work he has been doing in this medium for several years. This example seems more decisive and effective than earlier ones.

• • • •

JENTARO SHIMA'S carved wooden head has a timeless serenity that is perfectly beautiful and the more remarkable since it is, for him, an achievement reached in his seventh decade. "Allegory" by Ralph Tarzian is a large sheet metal sculpture of elipses which is eloquent indeed.

Grace Dimmick in both her winning "Enegma" and in "Pieta" revels in the luxury of paint and color. Lee Beck's "Matrix" has an iridescent light shining through the dark marine blues and brick hues of a dismembered human form, whereas her "Winter End" burbles with new life bursting in greens, yellow, and blues through a bank of winter snow.

• • • •

M. D. FORE brings to "Sunday Eve" an elegance of color and pattern with a mother and children of, apparently, some South Sea Isle moving between a shining white foreground and brown background. Fore's sophistication also comes through in "What Is A Weed?", a sephia and black line drawing of whirling abstract forms.

My only criticism of this show is that most works are priced above the venturing spirit of most amateur collectors. It has been my hope that this fine group would be the answer for the many interested people in the community who would like to buy an original work of art, but are not ready to invest in the three-figure category.

Betty has many television and motion picture credits.

In major supporting roles are Norman Dunbar as "The Boy," and Hermine Kreitzer as Alice's nurse.

• • • •

The ballet is based on "Alice in Wonderland."

Slate Two Workshop Sessions

In collaboration with the music department of University of Southern California, Los Angeles County Department of Parks and Recreation will sponsor an advanced music workshop on the art of conducting an orchestra on Saturday, Dec. 8, and Saturday, Dec. 15.

The seminar will be headed by Herbert Weiskopf, who is the conductor of the Beverly Hills Symphony.

Serving in a panel to assist Weiskopf will be the following musicians: Jay Rubanoff, artistic assistant for Hollywood Bowl; Dr. Raymond Kendall, dean of the School of Music at USC; and Dr. Robert Holmes, music director at Beverly Hills High School.

Bovard Auditorium, on the USC campus, will be the site for the workshop. Hours on Dec. 8 will be from 1 to 4 p.m., and on Dec. 15 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

• • • •

TO HELP defray the cost of leadership and incidentals, a pre-registration fee of $1.50 is required and may be sent to Earl Conklin, County Department of Parks and Recreation, 155 W. Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles 15.

Conductor Weiskopf, prior to World War II, was director of the Radio Symphony Orchestra at Prague, Czechoslovakia. Since the war he has been conductor of the Santa Barbara Symphony, and director of Opera at the Los Angeles Conservatory.

At the forthcoming workshops there will be audience participation in discussion with the panel and Weiskopf.

The workshops will include basic techniques applied to choral groups, orchestra in concert with instrumental and vocal soloists, and chorus.

Series tickets for these three concerts are now available from Esther Frank, 1140 So. Crenshaw Boulevard, Room 100.

As a special event, Mrs. Frank will present Jan Peerce, celebrated Metropolitan Opera tenor, in concert on Jan. 26 in the Philharmonic Auditorium.

MAJOR & MINOR NOTES

Konya Triumphs in Opera

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

In the beautiful home of Dr. and Mrs. Alex Kadvany in Long Beach I recently had the great privilege of interviewing the world-famous tenor, Sandor Konya. Both Dr. Kadvany and Konya are Hungarians and have long been friends.

My own high praise of Konya's singing with the San Francisco Opera both this season and last, has been reiterated in the New York press after his signal success as Walther in "Die Meistersinger" by Wagner during the first week of the Metropolitan Opera season this year.

Time magazine in recounting the magnificence of the new production which cost $125,000 and was a gift of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., relates: "Hungarian-born tenor Konya displayed a voice that had warmth, agility and power to spare. In his last act Prize Song he came as close as any man can to stopping a Wagnerian opera in its tracks."

Incidentally, this tremendous success at his debut has netted Konya a five-year contract with the Metropolitan Opera.

• • • •

"HOW IS IT that great tenors are always so handsome? I thought, as I sat beside this fascinating man. His beautiful blue eyes had darker blue pupils that dilated with enthusiasm or laughter. On the stage, too, his eyes are arresting with changing expressions. Soft, light brown hair was combed smoothly back and the small mouth covered dazzling white teeth. With so much perfection of features it was interesting to note how strong and full of character was this man's face. But the overall impression was one of kindness.

Sandor Konya

• • • •

AT 40 YEARS of age Sandor Konya has lived a lifetime already. As a boy soprano in Budapest, Hungary, where he was born, he sang over the radio and in the church choirs, and at 18 he entered the Franz Liszt Academy, studying piano, voice, composition, etc.

After two years the Germans swarmed over Hungary and Sandor became a soldier, fighting for his country's freedom. In 1944 he was taken prisoner by the Germans and sent to an English prison in northern Germany where he remained for one-and-a-half years.

"But when one can sing," he said, "the doors are always opening. I gave concerts at the different camps and made friends."

• • • •

ONE FAMILY took a special interest in the young man and bid him to their house for three months, during which time he learned to speak German. Using his German and posing as a native of a German province in Hungary, he was given special privileges and finally escaped to Berlin.

His beautiful voice brought him an audition at the Berlin Opera House in West Berlin.

"That is where I got my operatic training and experience," he said. Today he knows 48 operas and sings in German, French and Italian. In one week he will sing "Lohengrin" at La Scala in Italian and in German at the Vienna Opera. "Carmen" he sings in French.

• • • •

"LUCKILY, I am a fast learner," he told us. "I never go to the piano to study my roles. I read the score and memorize as I go."

This is a fabulous gift and a rare one.

His success in Bayreuth last summer was so extraordinary that women lined the path as he left the theater, throwing down their mink stoles for him to walk upon!

(To be continued)

Dr. Connell to Play at Dedication

Dr. William F. Connell Jr. will play a recital next Sunday at 7:30 p.m. when First Presbyterian Church of Lakewood, 3955 Studebaker Road, dedicates its new Allen Electronic organ.

His program will include numbers by Purcell, Yon, Handel, Clerambault, Bach, Campra, Connell, Dupre, Frescobaldi and Gastorus.

Dr. Connell has played concerts throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico and recently was organ soloist at Hollywood Bowl.

• • • •

HE HAS been a member of the executive board of the American Guild of Organists for many years. In 1960 he was honored with membership in the Royal Canadian College of Organists.

He has studied with Ethel C. Holmes, Dr. T. Tertius Noble, Pietro Allesandro Yon and Marcel Dupre.

The public is invited to attend the recital.

LBSC Choir Slates Concerts

The choir of Long Beach State College will present the first of three Christmas concerts at Lakewood Country Club Wednesday at 1 p.m.

The second concert will be given Monday, Dec. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in Whittier's Hillcrest Congregational Church. The third is scheduled in the LBSC Little Theater Wednesday, Dec. 12, at 8:15 p.m.

The public is invited to attend the second and third concerts; the first is for a civic group luncheon.

Frank Pooler, assistant professor of music, is the director of the 72-voice choir.

Will Present Handel's Messiah

Paul Archipley of Fullerton, president of Orange County Choral Conductors Guild, has announced that the annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" will be given in Chapman College Auditorium Sunday, Dec. 2 at 4 p.m. Dr. James McKelvey, director of choral music at Occidental College, will direct the full orchestra and 200-voice choir made up of musicians from churches throughout the county.

Chapman College to Play First Concert of Season

Five compositions ranging from the 17th to the 20th centuries have been programmed for Chapman Symphony Orchestra's Fall Concert today at 0:30 p.m. in Chapman College Auditorium.

The free concert is the first of three to be presented this season by the college-sponsored community orchestra which is conducted by Dr. Ralph S. Smith, professor of music at Chapman.

Principal work on the program is "Symphony in G Minor" by Mozart.

Opening the program will be "By the Waters of Babylon," an organ prelude by Bach which has been transcribed for orchestra.

Two works by English composers will also be performed by the orchestra, the "Trumpet Tune and Air" by Henry Purcell and the "Somerset Rhapsody" by Gustav Holst. The latter work is based on folk music from the Somerset region in England.

Concluding the program will be "Hungarian Peasant Songs and Dances" by Bela Bartok.

Anyone at Virginia Country Club will tell you so.

They all agree that Pearl McInnis has made their club an extra-special place.

For 37 years, this gracious grey-haired lady has pampered members — providing a personal brand of club planning that can't be equaled.

As assistant-manager-hostess, she never has arranged a party that lacked flair.

From floral centerpieces (her special talent) to food (her special interest), every club occassion has been THE occassion to Pearl.

Now, she is retiring.

Come February, she will say her final goodbyes and then, depart for Mexico for a long over-due vacation.

* * * *

SAYS CLUB member Art Lockhart, "There just aren't enough superlatives to describe Pearl. She has great talent and personality.

"She has known what we have wanted before we have," adds Mrs. Ray Green. "And, she's always so pleasant, so willing, so in command—how will we manage without her?"

Just what has made Mrs. McInnis such a stand-out hostess?

Perhaps, her success can be summed-up in a statement from Pearl herself.

"I've always felt," she says, "that club members deserve every little extra. The club should be an extension of home with the luxurious addition of personal attention and service."

But, this is not all that has made Pearl such a favorite. Her delight in the work has been a big factor, too.

"Every party I've given has been MY party and I've never felt qualms or lack of confidence in planning one," she continues.

* * * *

WHAT HAS this devotion to club meant to Pearl herself?

"It has rather eliminated my social life, but, has made up for it many times over in other ways. Where else would I have been able to express myself as creatively in flower arranging and party planning as here?"

Mrs. McInnis first came to the club in February of 1925.

Her first job? Waitress.

"My grand entrance was a smashing one," she says.

"The banquet tray I was balancing tilted and the contents crashed to the floor. I thought that was the end of my career. It wasn't. Everyone was quite lovely."

From waitress (she did learn to manage a tray, and now teaches others how), Mrs. McInnis moved up the ladder to head post, then became hostess and finally assistant to the manager.

She also has served as manager herself for two terms.

* * * *

DURING her years with the club, she has supervised parties, planned menus and hired and organized the staff.

She also has given lessons in table setting and flower arranging to teens and women's groups.

"Looking back I'd say the war years were the most memorable ones at the club," she says.

"We had terrific crowds (up to 400 for dinner). We were terribly busy but it was all very exciting. With the Red Cross station here, we really felt we were doing something important."

Besides her work at the club, Mrs. McInnis, who was widowed four years ago, has managed to rear a pretty wonderful set of offspring, too.

Her two sons, (both real estate brokers) and a daughter are all married and living in Southern California.

* * * *

WHAT ARE Pearl's plans for retirement?

She has decided to give courses in the social graces: entertaining and decorating.

"Unless I keep active I know I'll feel lost," she says, "The club has been much more than a job—it has been a big part of my life."

"My greatest job has been to greet guests at the club door—to catch their first reaction to the party decor."

"We will miss her," adds yet another club member. "Everyone knows and looks up to Pearl—she is a jewel."

Everything's Fair to Him

Chef of the Week

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I. P-T Food Editor

It sounds enigmatic but it's true! He works in-the-present on-a-specific future . . . the California World's Fair in 1967-68, Long Beach, yet, he won't, for one moment, make a personal plan for tomorrow.

He makes a fetish of being on time—and knows the importance of social amenities, yet, can't for the life of him, arrive at a party correctly attired. If it's informal, he manages to don the formal—if formal, he appears as the casual type. Connie (Mrs. McCannon), has decided to do her own checking on what-to-wear next time.

Professionally, today's Chef of the Week, Loren McCannon, is administrative vice president and assistant manager for the California World's Fair here.

McCannon was born on a farm in Greenwood, Ill. His arrival swelled the population to 101. He attended grammar school in Ringwood, Ill., population 200; progressed to the town of McHenry, 15,000 population, to attend high school.

* * * *

IN 1911, he came to San Diego, Calif., and joined the Consolidated Vultee Co. (now Convair). He remained more than two years as preflight inspector of B-24s.

World War II interrupted his plans. He joined the U. S. Army and was sent with the 27th Infantry to the South Pacific. He saw combat in Okinawa, before proceeding to Tokyo with the army of occupation.

Back to the States in April of '46, McCannon enrolled at San Diego State College. By attending summer classes and taking extra work, he graduated in three years with an AB degree.

In October, 1955, after five years as senior administrative analyst for the city of San Diego, he accepted the position of chief of budget and research division with the City of Long Beach. The following July he was appointed administrative assistant to City Manager Sam Vickers.

McCannon's next appointment came in April of '61 as assistant to City Manager John Mansell.

* * * *

IN THIS capacity his main interest was economic development, and thus was born "Long Beach Promotion, Inc." which is membered by a representative from all major civic groups. Its first job was coordination of the Arena construction project.

In his close contact with affairs of the city, he became more and more interested in the idea of a world's fair in Long Beach, and in September of this year he was appointed to his present position.

Aside from his city duties, McCannon has kept consistently active in the military. After he left the Army, he joined the California National Guard and was commissioned an operations officer, 4th Missile Battalion, Long Beach. It was the first National Guard Battalion to be converted in the Niki guard mission.

He remained with them until September of '61, when he transferred to the Army Reserve. With the rank of a major, he is associated with the Air Defense Army Reserve at Ft. MacArthur.

McCannon enjoys a game of golf when he can find time for it from his present project—rejuvenating an old home of 1906 vintage. With the assistance of "Mrs. Mac," they have finished the kitchen, the living room and are now ready to tackle the bedrooms. He has lost 15 pounds in the shuffle.

His recipe for pea soup is a family favorite. And those leeks in the above picture are NOT props — they're really real.

McCANNON'S PEA SOUP

2 quarts water
1 pkg. dried green peas
1 pkg. dried yellow peas
2 leeks—cut fine
1 bunch celery—cut fine
3 small onions—cut fine
Ham hocks (3 small)

Place in large dutch oven. Cook 3 or 4 hours over slow fire—or, for thick soup, all day. Add more water if necessary. Will serve 8 as main course. Reduce proportions for smaller quantity.

'BARBER OF CIVILITY'

Como Goes 'Home for the Holidays'

JUDI MEREDITH plays a mail-order bride during "Bonanza" at 9 p.m. Sunday (today) on channel 4. There's one major difficulty. The bride-to-be doesn't want to be. Instead of her original intended, she casts loving looks at Hoss Cartwright.

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UPI)—Perry Como, the well known Barber of Civility, was born 50 years ago in the town of Canonsburg, Pa., and grew up through a series of lazy Thanksgiving days in which the turkey trotted teasingly to table and the pumpkin found happiness in pie.

This wonderful guy (so nominated by all who have worked, played, or passed a random hello with him) will be going "Home for the Holidays" on his Wednesday night Thanksgiving show on NBC-TV (channel 4 at 9 p.m.). The place, as depicted on the show, will be a sort of everybody's-home-town, with the veteran Thomas Mitchell playing a variety of homey roles.

But, actually, Como will be toting a turkey home down in Jupiter, Fla., for his annual Thanksgiving get-together with his family and friends. Both the Como Thanksgiving and Christmas shows are taped long in advance so the whole cast and staff can take real-life holidays.

• • • •

ONE OF THE friendliest people you could hope to meet, Como caught a break in rehearsal, came over and plopped himself into a canvas chair and talked about his own private Thanksgiving time:

"We've been going there every year since we bought the, uh, tent we've got down there in Jupiter five or six years ago," he said. "One reason we go is that my daughter Terri goes to school near there.

"We cook up a couple of turkeys and we wind up with a houseful of people. My son David comes down all the way from school in Connecticut. I don't think my other son, Ronnie—he's 23 now—will be on hand because his wife is expecting her second child soon.

"How was Thanksgiving when I was a kid? Well, Canonsburg, where I come from, is strictly mining and steel. I'm one of 13 children. We couldn't have had relatives in for dinner because when all of us kids got in the house it was pretty loaded. But you know how Italians are—we made the visiting rounds later in the day.

• • • •

"YOU KNOW, I don't ever remember having a stuffed turkey when I was a kid. And when you tell people that, they say, 'What the heck did you have—a boiled turkey?' My mother used to cut up turkey like chicken, sort of in quarters, and put it in a great big pan in the oven with potatoes and things. I guess she did it that way because there were so many kids to feed, and you had to have a lot of turkey.

"My wife's home was in Meadow Lands, Pa., about three miles from Canonsburg. When we started going together, she came to dinner and she said: 'I never saw a turkey like that—where's the stuffing?' I said: 'I got news for you—they ain't gonna be no stuffing.'

"We've been married 30 years next July, and I met her a few years before that. I'm going to give her 30 more years, Doc, and if she doesn't get any better — she's out." And in a behind-the-hand aside, he added: "I'm not gonna tell you how much longer she's giving me."

"POOR WHITE TRASH" is coming!

Skelton Brings 'Mean Widdle Junior' to TV

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Red Skelton, who added the phrase "I dood it" to the language, will break his promise Tuesday by reviving "Junior," his "Mean Widdle Kid," on television, channel 2 at 8:30 p.m.).

The red head vowed 12 years ago that "Junior" was strictly a radio character and would not be done on television.

"I never wanted to do the kid on TV because visually it wouldn't come off so well," he said during a rehearsal at CBS-TV. "First of all I couldn't find anyone that much taller than me to play his mother.

"In radio the listeners could use their imaginations. But on TV how can you get the public to believe in a 55-year-old man, 6-feet-2, and with varicose veins running around in diapers?"

But that is exactly what Red has scheduled on his new hour-long show.

"I'M DOING IT THIS ONCE because the sketch is perfect for it," he said.

Until now Skelton has depended on his looney bin of daffy tried-and-true characters—Clem Kadiddlehopper, San Fernando Red, Cauliflower McPug, Dead Eye Freddie the Freeloader, Bolivar Shagnasty and Lord Beaverhead.

His "mean widdle kid," however, was the most popular of them all during Red's radio heyday.

"Junior's" fame reached a peak during World War II when American bombers struck Tokyo. One famous headline read: "General Doolittle Dood It!"

"How you gonna top a thing like that," Skelton grinned. "After that experience I sort of put 'Junior' in moth balls."

TO A GENERATION of youngsters "Junior" was an escape valve for juvenile frustrations. He drove his parents to distraction in various bids for total independence from apron strings.

"But he wasn't delinquent," Red hastened to the defense.

"If he did something wrong, he knew he would be punished for it. Remember, he used to say: 'If I put the cat in the canary cage I get a whipping.' Then there'd be a thoughtful pause and he'd add, 'I dood it.' "

Oldtimers will recall that "Junior" was a great cryer, too. He would howl his head off after his ill-tempered mother had boxed his ears for such stunts as slicing bananas in the electric fan.

"If you ask me, 'Junior' is a shining example for American kids," Skelton said, chewing a foot-long cigar.

"He always knew right from wrong, even though he usually did the wrong thing. And every time he goofed his mother beat him up pretty good.

"My best memory of 'Junior' isn't funny. At the end of one wartime radio show 'Junior' told all the kids listening not to go to school the next day unless their parents gave them a dime to buy defese stamps. That week more defense stamps were bought in schools than ever before. The Defense Department gave me a special award for that."

RED SKELTON, playing "Junior, the Mean Widdle Kid," gives "Mother" Janis Paige a hard time during "The Red Skelton Hour" at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, channel 2. It's the first time Red has brought "Junior" to television. The "Widdle Kid" was one of Red's most popular radio acts.

OUR COVER

On his mark to dig into his Thanksgiving Day turkey is Quick Draw McGraw, "the slowest gun in the West."

Like the holiday fowl for most of our groaning tables, QD's cover bird came from the super-mart.

And well it is for slow-gun McGraw—and us, too—that times, if not tradition, have changed since the days of the pilgrims.

For few are the number among us who could match the turkey targetry of the pilgrims who bountifully provided their families—when the bounty was around to be fired at.

The aim of Thanksgiving, however, remains the same. It's a count-your-blessings day.

And when you tummies are full and you're feeling kind of slow-on-the-draw yourself, TV has several Thanksgiving Day specials ready to help you add the score.

Our club, the "Soupy Shufflers," wish to make you a member of our fan club.

In the past you've done wonderful articles on him.

But you also printed that your wife thinks he's "infantile." Well, I hope she's changed her mind now.

Peggy Morrison, Seal Beach

Thanks for the honor, but I'm afraid I must decline your membership offer. My wife won't let me join. Incidentally, she hasn't changed her mind.

I want you to know how my husband and I enjoy "The Beverly Hillbillies." We think it's super.

We get more laughs out of that program, and as you know, a good laugh is the best tonic there is.

That program is a far cry from violence and sadness we see on most of the TV stations.

It certainly does one's heart good to watch those hillbillies.

Mrs. Muriel Fry, Long Beach

Any representatives of the American Medical Assn. who read this please be advised that Mrs. Fry is not advocating "The Beverly Hillbillies" as a heart tonic in the medical sense of the usage.

We are watching boxing from Mexico on channel 34. We wanted to watch the bullfights last night, but couldn't pick it up.

Tonight we found out why.

On our set it comes in on channel 74. Our set was purchased in Northern California six years ago.

Our UHF (ultra-high-frequency) hasn't been used in five years and it's interesting to be among the first to pick it up in Southern California.

Please tell us if channel 34's programs are coming from Mexico or Los Angeles.

Mrs. R. D. Gurzi, Long Beach

They are coming from Mexico in film shipments to be transmitted from Los Angeles. It is not necessary to purchase a set in Northern California to receive channel 34. Old Southern California sets can be converted—ask your TV repairman—for the purpose.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

In five years of daily television operation, ABC-TV's "Day in Court" has attracted more than 20 million viewers.

In the same period, it has helped pay for the college education of 35 honor law students at UCLA.

When the program was in the drawing-board stage, ABC budgeted $13,000 a year to retain an attorney to do basic research.

EDGAR ALLEN JONES

Professor Edgar Allan Jones Jr., who was slated for the TV judge job, had an alternate suggestion.

The $13,000 lawyer research fee, he contended, would simply buy a "mediocrity."

Why not take that money, instead, and allocate it among deserving law students, Jones proposed.

Let them do the basic research. Let them choose the type of cases to adapt for television airing.

Students in their third year of law school had the knowledge for the task. They would also be enthusiastic about the work.

ABC-TV agreed to try the plan.

Jones, who is a fulltime law professor at UCLA, put the plan in operation at his school.

HE INCORPORATED only one major restriction.

A student could not spend more than five hours a week on research for the television show.

This provision, Jones felt, would keep research for the TV program from overly interfering with a student's studies.

And the five hours certainly wouldn't be nearly as long a time as the selected student would have to work if he were to help finance his schooling with other part-time employment.

Jones does not select the students.

The choice is made by the school editors of "Law Review." The seven selected, all in their third year, all honor students, are chosen on a basis of scholarship and need.

When this fifth "Day in Court" TV year is over, ABC will have provided $75,000 for 35 honor law students.

For these students, educational television already is here.

New Comedienne

Garry Moore, whose Tuesday night CBS-TV show is without Carol Burnett's regular services this season, reportedly is considering another comedienne, Dorothy Loudon. She has been featured in the Broadway comedy "Nowhere to Go but Up."

The Cover

Southern California vineyards again have blossomed forth with a harvest of fine grapes, samples of which photographer Don FitzGerald caught in color—with Joan Hurst, Anaheim, the "Wine Queen" selected by the California Wine Advisory Board—for our cover. Grape production is California's largest fruit industry, with wine-making requiring most of the huge crop produced in the Southland. It is also one of the state's oldest industries. Miss Hurst's job, incidentally, is to invite visitors to the many Southland wineries to see wine-making at it height. More about the wine harvest on Page 7.

Viewpoint

Wrestlers lack orchestral accompaniment, but when they begin their massive maneuvers there's music in muscle. Sometimes it's an aria in assassination or a rhapsody in rascality, mostly ending in a crescendo of right triumphing over might. Jerome Hall finds the music of mat mayhem in "Symphony in Sinew" in next Sunday's Southland.

Simple items, already at hand in most homes, go into making a shining tree for the table.

Christmas Tree of Foil

A GLITTERING Christmas tree for the table can be made quickly from aluminum foil, a coffee can, a wire coat hanger and a string of small Christmas beads.

Pack the coffee can with soil, punch a small hole in the center of the lid and insert a straight piece of wire coat hanger. Length of wire determines height of tree—a two-foot length is about right for an average table. Cover the can with foil.

Cut foil "branches" with pinking shears in long oval shapes, starting with the largest, about 10 inches long, and graduating down to about 1½ inches long. Make four of each size. Punch one end of largest size down over the wire next to can, pointing each of the four in different directions. Lightly crush one toward the center to give the tree a bushy look, turning up outward ends very slightly.

Keep adding branches to the wire, using smaller ones all the time, pointing them in different directions to give the tree uniformity, until the smallest ones are at the top. Fasten an ornament on top, drape a string of beads around the tree, decorate with colored glitter or angel hair and the tree is ready to place in the center of a large star cut from red felt or oilcloth. The tree can be used year after year.

Build a Castle for Christmas

By Lorena Fleissig

SUGGESTIVE of an Old World Christmas of medieval days is a catchy castle worked out of corrugated packing board such as finds wide modern use in shipping.

The decorative item pictured herewith was contrived from a base of this material used in packing an electrical appliance.

To make the castle towers shown here, the all-in-one piece of corrugated packing board is covered smoothly with gray-green wall paper. (Dampen the back of the paper with moist sponge and then apply paste).

A transparent rose window from a greeting card is set into a hole cut out and lined with gold braid. This window is charming if illuminated. Below this, a card representing a heavy cathedral door reveals a picture of the Nativity.

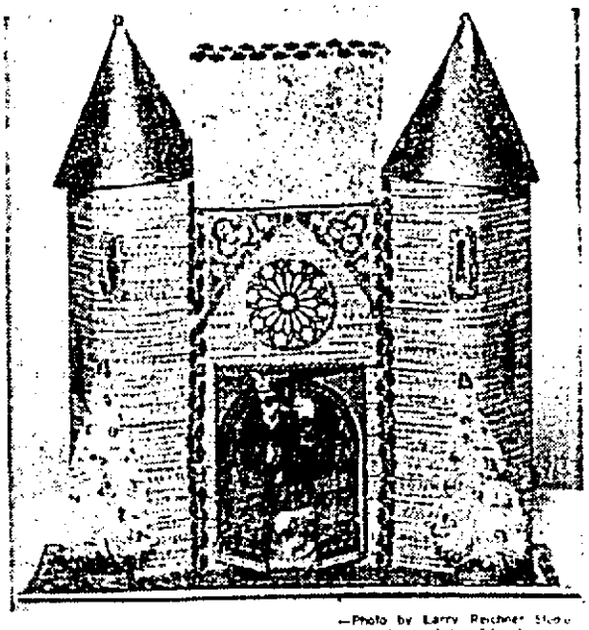

WHITE brushes are trimmed flush at the back and glued tightly to the towers form trees. Bright, narrow strips of satin ribbon of blue, red and green on a piece of copper shelf paper create magic windows with glittering gold borders.

The center roof is an oblong of cardboard sprayed with copper paint, bent over and secured to both sides. The cone-shaped roofs are paint strainers cut to fit and sprayed copper.

Brilliantly sequined (gold, green, red and purple) gold braid outlines the entrance and rooftop.

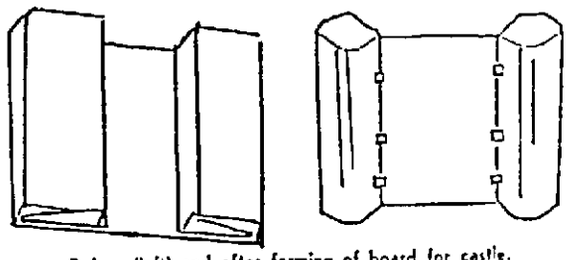

THE WHOLE structure is glued to a firm cardboard base (can be a sturdy box) covered with copper-colored shelf paper.

Braid and bits of braid ornament the base. A light spray of glue across the rooftops and a scant drift of gold glitter makes this a charmingly traditional decoration.

By Haslin

Q. When were television sets first sold to the U. S. public? When did commercial broadcasting start? C.L.

A. As an industry, television was launched on April 30, 1939, at the New York World's Fair, when Radio Corporation of America introduced a large set for public use and made receivers with 8x11-inch screens available for public purchase. On May 2, 1941, the Federal Communications Commission authorized commercial television effective July 1, 1941. It began on that date with 21 stations licensed in the country. First license went to WNBT, the NBC station in New York, which instituted service with four commercial sponsors.

Q. Did the Spanish found Mexico City? P.C.

A. Mexico City goes back to the days of the Aztecs. Tenochtitlan, a magnificent city, occupied the site of the present Mexico City from about the year 1300 and was capital of the Aztec empire. Cortez conquered and devastated it. 200 years later, and on its ruins built a new city as the Spanish capital in the New World. Mexico City's center is still the square which Cortez laid out.

Wine Harvest

California wines rank among the finest in the world and the wine industry is important one in the state. Above, vineyard and a winery at Cucamonga.

Wine Queen Joan Hurst views a field harvest of grapes with Ed Accamazzo, co-owner of "Original Cucamonga Winery." Wineries invite public tours.

By Don FitzGerald

IT'S WINE harvest time again and a colorful tradition which dates back to the founding days of California is unfolding among Southland vineyards, virtually unchanged in nearly 200 years.

For the vintner's art came to California along with its pioneer Spanish missionaries. Padre Junipero Serra is credited with planting the first wine grapes in 1769, near the San Diego Mission. Since then this "old world" art has flourished through generations of hard work to rank contemporary California wines among the best anywhere.

Today, just one hour's drive from home for most Southlanders, lies the vast Cucamonga wine-growing district, this nation's largest wine grape-producing region. The fall harvest there is in its last stages now with most of the grapes having been picked. Some squeezing will go on for another week or two but most vintners have their crops well on the way to becoming another fine vintage wine.

VISITORS to the many wineries in Cucamonga, Guasti, Etiwanda and Alta Loma this weekend will witness a ritual unchanged since Biblical times and before. Modern day wine-makers must rely on nature to ferment the fresh sweet juice into basic wine just as did ancient Greeks and Romans. Nature too will mature this wine to table perfection within wooden casks—or an amphora for that matter. No improvement on nature's way has yet been found.

Wine makers will show that if a handful of ripe grapes is crushed into a cup, it will turn into wine. Modern equipment and methods only allow greater production and quality control.

Wine making is a hospitable business. Virtually all regional wineries welcome visitors and are proud to explain and display their traditional skills. Many larger wineries have organized tours with guides explaining aromatic processes being witnessed. Most visits climax with a complimentary "wine-tasting" session.

HELPING the wine-maker these days is this country's trend to prepare gourmet foods—for along with a finer dinner menu comes the need for fine complementary wines. Many weekend travelers are finding winery visits the answer to more knowledgable wine selection.

Having seen the grapes picked, crushed, fermented, aged and bottled, and then to have made your selection from on-the-spot tasting, the resulting pleasure is sure to be just as rewarding today as it was to Padre Serra nearly 200 years ago.

We Still Give Thanks for Maize

At re-enactment of first Thanksgiving, a woman in Pilgrim costume cuts corn from cob at a table laden with corn, clams, lobsters, squash, wild pears and grapes. The scene is at "Plimoth Plantation" at Plymouth, Mass.

Plimoth Plantation Photos

Squanto shows Pilgrims how to fertilize corn with herring or alewives in planting.

By Betty Hardesty

MAIZE SAVED the lives of our Pilgrim Fathers, made possible their first Thanksgiving and was responsible for the survival of the Plymouth Colony. Maize, American Indian corn which had nourished natives of the Western Hemisphere for at least 3,600 years before the Pilgrims tasted it in 1621, has truly been called "the grain that built a hemisphere."

For the corn plant, whose extent and value exceeds that of all other cereals combined, Americans still give thanks. It is a national tradition reflected in harvest festivals, art, design, corn palaces, song and tales, especially of Thanksgiving.

The historic significance of Indian corn is featured in modern times in Plymouth, Mass., at "Plimoth Plantation," a reproduction of the colony. Summer visitors may see the maize waving in front of the replica of the first house. In spring, junior high school students re-enact the planting of corn as the Pilgrims were taught by the Indians. At Thanksgiving, women in Plymouth costume prepare maize as it was cooked for the first celebration.

ABUNDANT, adaptable and nourishing, maize altered many of the Pilgrams' habits and methods of eating and living after 1621, as corn products have continued to do for us throughout the growth of the colonies and the United States. Food stores brought by the Pilgrims were poor and inadequate: the beef and pork were tainted, the fish was rotten, butter and cheeses corrupted. European wheat and seeds did not mature well and, according to Gov. Bradford in "Of Plimouth Plantation," "the grim and grizzly face of starvation stared at them."

Fish and game were plentiful but the Pilgrims had no experience, training or equipment to obtain native foods. A plague in 1617-19 had left eastern Massachusetts comparatively bare of inhabitants at the time of the settlement at Plymouth. Unused corn fields of the Indian cultivators who had died were taken and planted by the weak, emaciated Plymouth men who might have lacked the strength to clear new fields. In April they "planted their corne, in which service Squanto stood them in great stead, showing them both ye manner how to set it, and after how to dress and tend it."

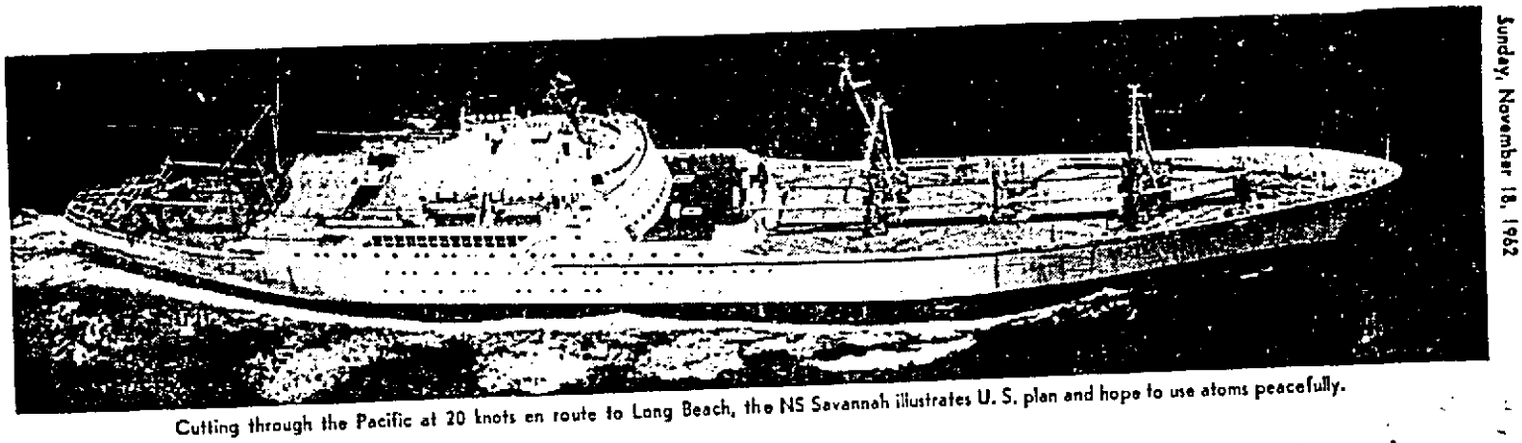

IN EACH hillock, three herring were placed spokewise, with their heads toward the center. With the several grains of corn dropped into the hole, seeds of squash or beans were also planted in the same hill, "the earth being mounded higher and higher as the plants grow." Twenty acres were planted to corn in 1621 and it was estimated by J. A. Godwin, writing "The Pilgrim Republic" in 1888, that there were 66,500 hills requiring 40 tons of fish.

The Indians used enclosures of stakes called weirs, to impound such quantities of herring as described by a Dutch official, De Rasieres, in 1627: "In one tide there were commonly 10,000 to 12,000 fish to be trapped at one setting of the weir." He also told of their practice of rotating crops and of allowing part of the land to lie fallow each year.

From this first spring planting came the most productive industry of the colony. At first the fields were communal, with poor results but on the third year when the governor granted each family a definite plot of land for their own, disaffection subsided. Soon the preparation of corn meal and corn dishes was a daily chore. Many foods used today are made from Indian corn and are still cooked just as the Indians taught the Pilgrims. Even Indian names persist: hominy, pone, suppawan and succotash. In those days, corn-on-the cob was roasted on hot coals by steaming in wet seaweed or leaves but the favorite of the Indians was in stew with meat, fish, beans and squash.

THE HIGH nutritional value of Indian corn is explained by the fact that corn is an efficient plant for trapping the energy of the sun and converting it into food. Grown in every state and on three fourths of all farms in the U. S., corn is the backbone of modern agriculture as it was in Plymouth. Mangelsdorf in "Mystery of Corn" calls it the most important plant in America. Its mystery lies in the absence of any trace of a wild parent, all known being cultivated varieties. The oldest found in North America goes back at least to 2000 B. C. but any boy would recognize it in spite of its smallness and primitive characteristics.

Although mankind consumes only small amounts of corn as vegetable, cereal and meal—transformed into meat, milk, eggs and other animal products—it is basic to civilization. In fact, if the corn crop of a recent year in U. S. was loaded into trucks containing 50 bushels, there would be enough to girdle the world at the equator nine times. Such abundance contrasts with the Pilgrims' ration of one bushel per family per year for which they gave thanks.

Cutting through the Pacific at 20 knots en route to Long Beach, the NS Savannah illustrates U. S. plan and hope to use atoms peacefully.

Southlanders to see A-power in action as nuclear ship Savannah visits Long Beach

Atom Era Dawns in the Maritime World

By Lou Jobst
Southland Magazine Marine Editor

SOUTHLANDERS will get a first look at nuclear energy in action when the world's only atomic-powered merchant ship, the NS Savannah, sails into Long Beach Harbor, November 28.

The 22,000-ton Savannah will spend about three weeks on her maiden visit to Southern California—eight days at Pier A in Long Beach followed by brief sea trials and a week in Los Angeles Harbor.

During that time the general public will go aboard at an expected daily rate of 12,000 persons to inspect the only nonmilitary nuclear vessel in the Free World.

One of the key purposes of the $12 million ship is to demonstrate peaceful use of the atom and to win worldwide acceptance of nuclear-powered merchantmen as both safe and practical.

IN THIS MISSION to date she has traveled more than 9,500 miles, including a visit to the World's Fair at Seattle.

Construction of the Savannah was first proposed by President Eisenhower in his famous Atoms for Peace speech of 1955. Congress authorized the project the following year and the keel was laid at Camden, N. J., on National Maritime Day, May 20, 1958.

More than a score of nations, including the USSR, which at the time was secretly building the nuclear-powered icebreaker Lenin, sent delegates to the shipyard to watch the construction.

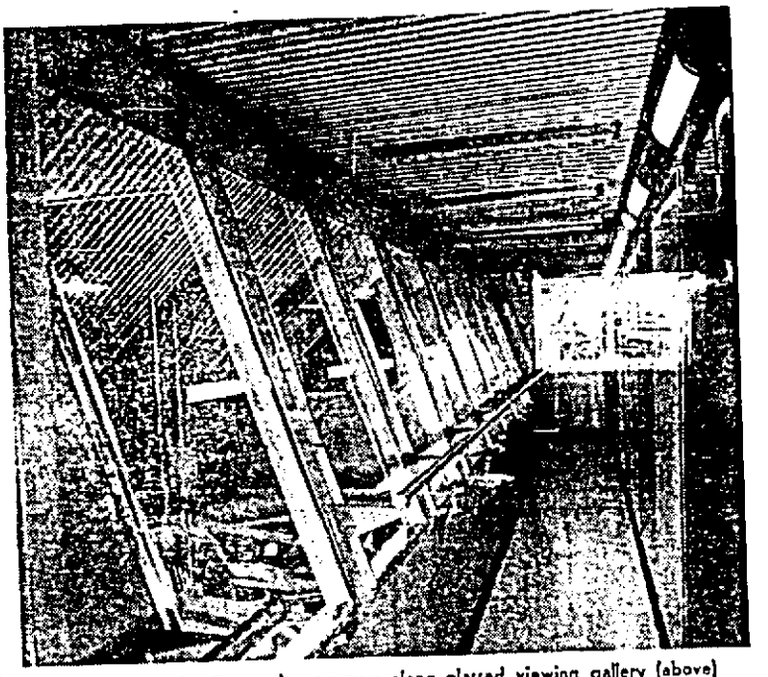

At her 1961 launching, the NS Savannah was christened for the SS Savannah, a 320-ton packet which became the first vessel to cross the Atlantic under steam power in 1819.

BOTH HAD their critics. The original Savannah had been called "Fickett's steam coffin"; the new namesake was termed "the smokestackless wonder" and the "floating fusion firecracker" by some. There the similarity ended.

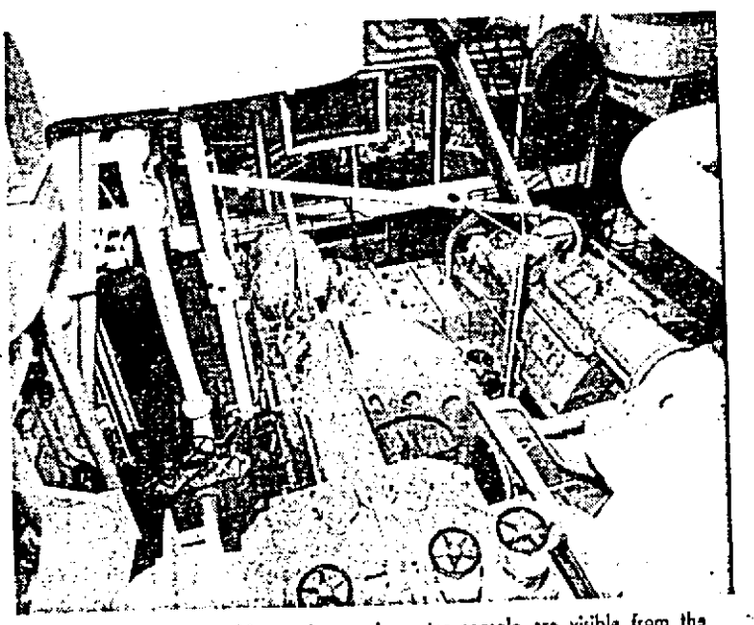

The 19th Century Savannah carried 100 tons of coal and 25 persons. Her engine generated 90 horsepower and the crossing to Liverpool took 90 days.

The 20th Century Savannah is 595.5 feet long and her reactor, powered by a uranium mixture, generates 20,000 horsepower and a cruising speed of 20 knots. She can carry 60 passengers and a crew of 110 and 10,000 tons in cargo. She can travel 350,000 miles—16 times around the world—without refueling.

Visitors to the Savannah may pass along glassed viewing gallery (above) to see the power center that drives this graceful and long-ranging vessel.

Engine room, propulsion system and reactor console are visible from the gallery. Some 12,000 visitors daily are expected during six-day call here.

Savannah Ultra Safe

The NS Savannah is considered foolproof against the worst possible disasters including:

COLLISION — A ramming ship would have to penetrate 17 feet of reinforced ship structure, a heavy collision bulkhead, a 2-foot collision mattress composed of 6 alternate layers of one inch steel and three-inch laminated lumber and a 4-foot thick concrete and lead wall to reach the reactor containment vessel. The containment vessel weighs 275-tons and has steel walls 2½-inches thick. Safety experts say such an occurence is impossible.

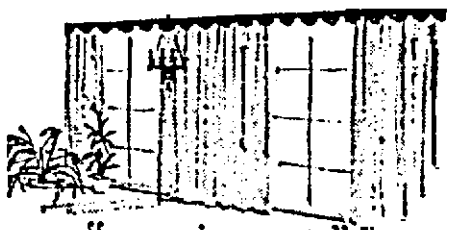

SINKING — In this case the reactor automatically shuts down and a one-way valve allows flooding of the reactor, but prevents contaminated water from escaping. Should the ship sink in depths where salvage is impossible, lines would be lowered and the reactor would be filled with cement and abandoned.

RADIATION AND RUNAWAY REACTOR —The ship has 25 radiation monitoring stations. Should the radiation level exceed prescribed safe levels an alarm is sounded. Instruments also scan nuclear and non-nuclear elements and can automatically shut down the reactor. Should these fail, and the reactor begin to melt, mathematically improbable, the water in the cooling system would convert to steam and automatically cut off the reactor.

What happens on USC and UCLA campuses before the 'Big Game'?

Pranks on the College Level

By Jerome Hall

THIS is the week that things come a bit unraveled at our major institutions of higher learning.

This is the week that the leaders of tomorrow take on a distinct resemblance to the children of yesterday — or maybe even the children of today.

This is the week of the Big Game.

For the next six days, students at the University of Southern California and the University of California at Los Angeles are going to be absorbed in studies. They're going to be studying ways to harass the rival undergraduates.

USC's red brick buildings may take on a new hue — splattered blue. The sun may dawn on bright red flag poles all across the UCLA campus. But whatever pranks are pulled this week, they'll have to be good ones to top the capers that have been pulled by students at both universities the past decade.

Perhaps the most ingenious stunt in the annals of intercollegiate harrassment was pulled off the day before the USC-UCLA football game of 1958.

AFTER WEEKS of planning that would have done the Brinks bandits proud, the USC students accomplished their goal. They had sneaked into the print shop where the Daily Bruin campus newspaper was printed, obtained copies of the stories that were to be used in the Big Game edition, and the USC students published a bogus edition of the UCLA paper.

Then the students kidnaped the truck driver who was delivering the Daily Bruin to the UCLA campus and replaced the genuine edition with the illegitimate one. Same stories, but the statements in them were slightly altered.

Next day the Daily Bruin blossomed forth with such stories as:

"I can't see any hope for our team," says the UCLA head football coach. The star athlete on the Westwood campus was quoted as saying "I'd feel much better about our chances against those terrific Trojans if we had a couple of players who understood the game."

Tommy Trojan, USC campus statue, has suffered long in the crosstown rivalry. Here he wears an anointment of paint a la UCLA.

IT WAS A GOOD trick, and it had to be to top the one the USC students pulled the year before. In 1957 a truly dedicated boy at USC had a plan. It was his idea to sabotage the card stunts that the Bruin rooters were to put on at halftime—card stunts that are famous the country over.

But how?

Well, this USC student joined the UCLA rally committee. Beginning with the first week in August, he showed up for meetings, posing as a UCLA student.

Week after week he finished his classes at USC, rushed 20 miles or so through heavy traffic to the UCLA campus and walked in nonchalantly to rally committee meetings as though he had just stepped from the next building.

Finally, his big chance was at hand. He struck in the dark of night only 12 hours before the Trojan-Bruin kickoff. With some quick juggling of multi-colored cardboard squares, he accomplished an astounding feat.

NEXT DAY, all the UCLA card tricks had a large "USC" in bright red and gold lettering in one corner. The card trick manager, standing on the field in front of the rooters, was dumbfounded. When the first design was flashed to the USC students sitting on the opposite side of the field, a tremendous cheer went up. The card trick leader quickly changed to the second design — and the "USC" was still in the upper corner, shining brightly to the Trojan rooters across the way, who yelled a little louder.

The card tricks were quickly changed from one to the next, but the result was always the same. Mr. Infiltrator had fixed every one.

That stunt was repeated by Caltech students in the 1961 Rose Bowl game, with the University of Washington rooting section the victim. That caper was accomplished by invading a dormitory at Long Beach State College where the Washington rally committee was quartered.

YEAR AFTER YEAR the schools have continued their trickery, but through it all, never has there been any serious trouble, which is remarkable when you consider how youngsters' tempers sometimes flare when the sacred ground of the campus is threatened. But there's sel-

'Contemporary Discount'

By Stella George

DECOR BECAME a family project when Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Lombrozo and their four children chose their home at 2662 Salmon Dr., Rossmoor, as the dwelling best suited to their needs.

Some of their wishes that were met here included a large entertaining area separated from the bedroom wing, and a living area, including kitchen, with easy access to the back yard.

The home has a large entry, a spacious living room with high beamed ceiling, separate dining room, kitchen, small family room off the kitchen, four bedrooms, and two baths.

Mrs. Lombrozo dreamed of a decorating scheme that would be attractive, individual and, above all, not too expensive. Her means of achieving this goal is interesting, and all her dreams came true.

She calls her decor a combination of "Early Attic" and "Contemporary Discount." It is probably more appropriate to say that the home is charmingly Californian with definitely elegant touches.

THE ENTRY has a slate floor as does the dining room beyond. The living room is carpeted in white. The total effect of the decorating theme in the living room is tasteful and pleasing, furnishings are obviously customed to the surroundings. The "behind-the-scenes" story of some of the pieces is interesting. The curved, comfortable couch was once two old sectionals which were recovered, with another matching piece added. The luxuriously large coffee table was an old dining room table, cut down from the top of the legs, rather than the bottom, so that the carved detail still remains. The stereo cabinet was the buffet that matched the table, now a low floor cabinet. "Heirloom" tables were purchased from a discount house at a cost of $5 each.

A Jaylis divider separates the dining room from the kitchen. On the other side of the kitchen is a small family room where every member can watch TV and dine in comfort and style.

WALL COVERING in the kitchen and family room is worthy of note. It appears to be white brick. Actually it is a vinyl fabric that looks like brick. The covering on the wall behind the couch in the family room brings forth another story: Mrs. Lombrozo's father is an expert woodcarver who learned the trade in Russia many years ago, and his business has taken him into many magnificent homes belonging to wealthy and famous people. This particular wallpaper once adorned a wall of a star's home. He saved a small piece which is equally suitable for the wall in the Lombrozo's family room; in fact, it is more than suitable, it was "made" for the room.

The Lombrozo's allowed the children to help select and plan the decorating scheme of their rooms. The oldest boy's room (like the others) is designed to make it appear much larger than its actual size and to provide plenty of play space.

Although Mrs. Nathan Lombrozo jests in describing the decor of the Lombrozo home, there is only solid beauty in the decorative scheme—in which the entire family had a part. Above, a view of the living room, showing stereo cabinet in background made from an old dining room buffet. Below is a view of the front exterior.

Attractive corner of the Lombrozo family home. Ample coffee table was cut down from old dining table, refurbished. Long sofa also underwent the renewal treatment.

The box bed was made to order. Storage drawers under the bed accommodate toys, clothes and treasures. The bed looks like a couch in the daytime with its bright red cover. A refinished used oak desk has bookshelves above and bulletin space convenient for daily reminders and thumb-tacked memoirs. Antlers decorate the walls, lending a masculine touch.

THE GIRL'S room is dainty and feminine with a frilly bedspread and dressing table skirt to match. A maple rocker and desk complete the functional pieces, with necessary bookshelves above the desk.

The two younger boys share a room that is expertly furnished to make both boys happy. Two boxbeds with storage drawers below each one afford a private place for personal belongings of each boy. Between the beds is a bright red rug (on top of the champagne carpet underneath). A circus motif prevails: cornices are red and white striped; there is a giraffe bookcase; and the gay red color that predominates in both bright bedspreads.

In the master bedroom shutters cover the windows. The bedspread is quilted antique satin in a pale lavender shade. One corner is devoted to desk and work area. The "early attic" chests were refinished in antique style with the final coat of paint rubbed in with steel wool.

The Lombrozos have plans for adding to the home in such a way that it will increase the present size about one-third. As it is today, it is an excellent home for a family of six, with every room used and enjoyed to the fullest.

Modern Efficiency, Traditional Charm

Family room, where much of modern living is done, is in handy association with the kitchen through folding doors. This is an artist's conception of the layout.

Center hall assures excellent traffic circulation to all areas, including the basement. Note the bathroom arrangement, 1½ baths in a single compartmented unit.

By Jules Loh

IN today's headlong search for economy and efficiency and all the other house-ad adjectives designed to lure budget-minded couples, many modern homes wind up with about as much warmth and charm as a supermarket.

It doesn't have to be the case—which is precisely why this attractive, and modern, three bedroom home was chosen as the house of the week. It is design B-88, by architect Lester Cohen.

The comfortable look about this house—its trim flagstone front porch, picture window with leaded panes, long planter box, cupola with weather vane atop the garage—almost belies the up to date efficiency of the interior design.

But the floor plan shows it is a well-ordered home suited to the taste of the most practical homemaker.

FOR EXAMPLE, look at the bathroom arrangement. Technically it would be described as a bath and a half, but all the facilities are in one compartment unit. There are two toilets, two washstands and one tub, and the result is a complete family bathroom, a private bathroom for the master bedroom, and a powder room for guests. The towel closet, incidentally, contains a laundry chute emptying into the basement.

Though the house contains only 1,396 square feet of living area, its rooms are spacious and well planned. The living room, in fact, is 19 feet across the front and, flowing as it does into a dining ell, more than 20 feet front to back.

The 15x11-foot family room is separated from the 13x9-foot-8 inch kitchen by folding doors, thus offering either two private rooms or one large informal living expanse.

INCLUDING the double garage, the house is 69 feet wide by 39 feet deep. The design calls for wood siding throughout, with accents of vertical board siding in the front on the living room side and brick on the front bedroom side.

Cohen paid as much attention to the grace and charm of the interior of this home as he did the exterior. An indication is the alcove fireplace, a feature not usually found in smaller homes.

Note also that the fireplace is in the family room rather than the living room, an economical move (it shares the flue with the kitchen range) as well as a practical one. As Cohen explained it: "A family spends most of the time in the family room; why not have the fireplace there where they can enjoy it?"

The three bedrooms are sized to accommodate nicely a family of as many as six, with bedroom No. 3 well suited for a den if only two bedrooms are used. All have ample closet space, and the closets are arranged to serve as sound buffers between rooms.

STORAGE SPACE in the remainder of the house also is plentiful. A full basement as well as double garage solves the major problem, and there is a coat closet in the foyer and a linen closet convenient to all three bedrooms.

The kitchen is large and well ventilated, with full view of both sections of the rear terrace. There is a rear service entrance to the kitchen, in addition to sliding glass door entrances off the terrace to the dining room and family room.

The center hall arrangement—another feature frequently passed over in homes of this size—makes for excellent traffic circulation throughout the house. The family room-kitchen area, living room-dining room area, bedroom area, and basement stairs, all are accessible without having to pass through any area to get to another.

To obtain plans, address Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., enclose 50 cents and request House of the Week Study Plan, Design B-88.

Ranunculus, brightly colored "buttercup" of spring, can be planted now through winter in two ways. According to C.A.N. members, they are available either as "bulbs" or as seedling plants in nursery flats. The tuberous rooted bulbs will give more bloom per plant. Turkey With a Touch of Flame

Thanksgiving feasts need not always follow the traditional pattern, and roast stuffed turkey flambe—with a stuffing variation—is a most delectable departure.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

THANKSGIVING bird with a gourmet fling is roast stuffed turkey flambe—with a variation in the stuffing to include fruit and sausage. It's a delight to the eye and a treat to the palate!

While the turkey roasts, brush on an orange-honey glaze for a shine that will reflect the candles on the table and make outside slices extra crisp—crusted and tasty. Ring the bird with fruit on a warm serving platter and flame it with brandy or bourbon. Watch while the flames die down and the alcohol burns away, leaving only the delicious flavor; then carve and do what watering mouths dictate!

12 pound turkey
Salt, pepper
½ teaspoon ginger
Fruit and Sausage Stuffing below
½ cup melted butter or oil
½ cup orange juice concentrate
¼ cup honey
¼ teaspoon ginger
2 teaspoons dry mustard
¼ cup brandy or bourbon

Rub turkey with salt, pepper, ginger. Stuff turkey cavity. Truss turkey with skewers and string, and rub with melted butter or oil. Roast 4 hours in a 350° oven. Then glaze bird by brushing with mixture of orange juice, honey, ginger and dry mustard. Roast ½ hour more. Brush with glaze several times. At serving time, place bird on a warm serving platter. Warm brandy in ladle or small pan. Ignite at the table, pour flaming over bird. When flames die down, serve as usual—all alcohol is evaporated and flavor remains behind.

FRUIT AND SAUSAGE STUFFING

1 pound broken sausage meat
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
2 cups mixed dried fruit
2 quarts firm bread cubes
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon marjoram
½ teaspoon sage
½ cup water or stock
2 tablespoons brandy or bourbon

Brown sausage meat and remove from skillet. Reduce drippings to ¾ cup, and saute celery and onion. Cut fruit into big, colorful pieces, and add to skillet with sausage meat, bread cubes, seasonings, water or stock and liquor. Quick trick: Brown sausage, celery and onions as directed. Prepare 2 packages herb-seasoned stuffing mix as directed, and add with sausage meat and cut up fruit to skillet. Enough stuffing for a 12-pound turkey.

Recipe of the Week

WILD RICE is a magic phrase in conjuring up stuffing for fowl, and its magic is mixed with mushrooms in winning this week's $5 prize for best recipe for Miss Carolyn Kramer, 1771 Park Ave., Long Beach 15. The recipe:

Wild Rice and Mushroom Stuffing

1/3 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup butter
1 cup chopped mushrooms
1/4 pound sausage meat
3 cups boiled wild rice
1 teaspoon salt

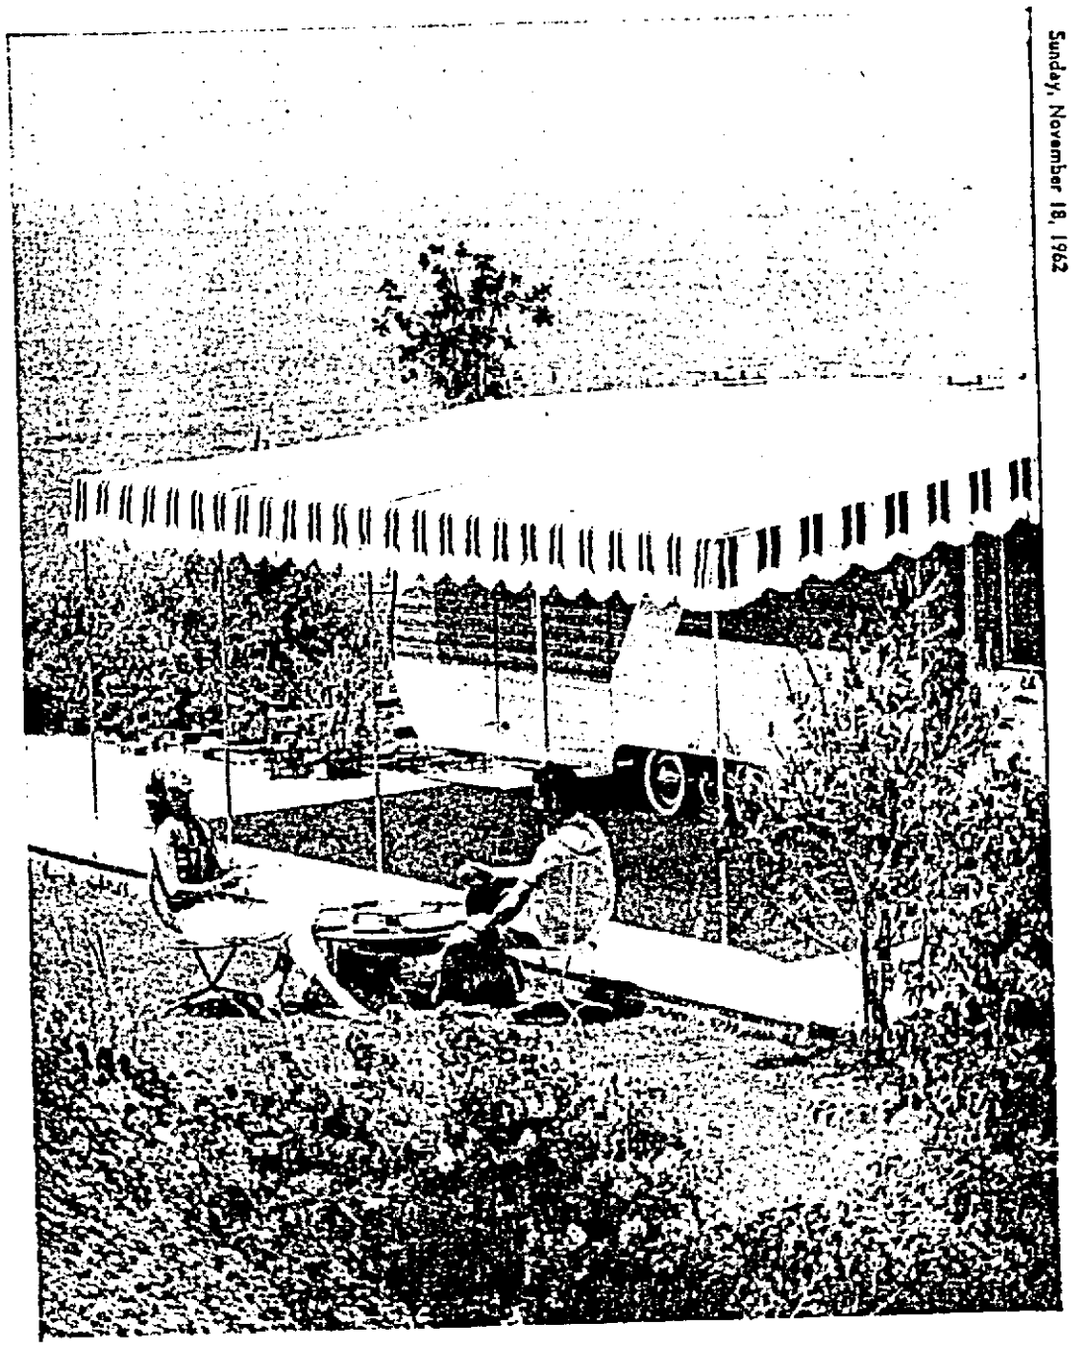

Saute onion in two tablespoons butter for five minutes or until lightly browned, and remove from pan; and cook for five minutes, then remove from pan. Fry sausage meat until lightly browned, stirring constantly; remove from heat and stir in onion and mushrooms. Add wild rice and salt, mixing lightly. This makes a light stuffing for goose, turkey, chicken and capons. Makes five cups stuffing or enough for a 10-pound bird.

Thousands take the "trailer way" to

Sun and Carefree Living

Trailers Offer Fun, Relaxation

For "getting away from it all" the trailer is rapidly becoming an important phase of modern living. So luxurious are some of the trailers that "getting away" means only from tedium. All comforts go along.

Travel trailers today are rapidly becoming man's vehicles for "getting away from it all." In addition to the annual vacation, a trailer owner can easily plan a dozen weekends or more out of the crowded urban areas. Lakes, desert, mountains become accessible . . . and all within the family budget. No advance motel reservations or accumulating restaurant bills for a hungry family crimp the travel trailer owner.

Sportsmen like to bring their "headquarters" with them. Travel trailer clubs are springing up by the hundreds. Neighbors enjoy group vacations, share potluck dinners and companionship.

According to the Trailer Coach Association and the Mobile Home Manufacturers Association, 500,000 Americans are already enjoying travel trailers.

And there'll be 10 million citizens living in mobile homes by 1970, the same organization maintains, pointing to forecasts compiled by economists and housing experts. Present rate of growth to "the trailer way" is about 250,000 newcomers annually. Retired citizens are discovering the economical advantages of park living. Fine deluxe and modern parks are being developed at the rate of about 1,000 a year. Rents average from $40 to $65. Available are central recreation clubhouses, swimming pools, shuffleboard courts, pitch and putt golf courses.

Although mobility is a factor in the psychology of trailer ownership, persons only move once in every three years. Nine out of ten who make the choice never go back to climbing stairs or cutting grass in conventional dwellings.

Include chapels, libraries, underground television wiring, and the appeal of individual or group activities like bridge and bicycle and hobby clubs and you have the attractions which are putting people on wheels.

Modern mobile home parks are designed by top architects and cost between $250,000 and a million dollars to construct. They are not even distant relatives of the old parks which sprung up out of necessity in the early days of trailering.

Military personnel and professional workers also form big segments of this expanding market, according to the Trailer Coach Association.

Mobile homes, by definition, are the larger trailers used more or less for permanent or semi-permanent dwellings. Travel trailers are the smaller units used for weekend and annual vacations. Both are financed like automobiles, both are offered as completely furnished packages.

Atom-Era Ship

Visitors also will be permitted to view the vessel's modern facilities. Above, dining room accommodates 60.

THE NUCLEAR reactor, which is of the same design as those used in atomic submarines, acts as an atomic furnace to generate steam to turn the ship's turbines and propeller shafts.

It is located about midship and is encased in a radiation-safe containment vessel and protected by a series of bulkheads and "mattresses."

Its core is composed of 17,000 pounds of enriched uranium oxide (a mixture of U-235 and U-238 pellets) and supplies enough energy to last 3½ years, replacing about 90,000 tons of fuel a conventional ship would use.

This fantastic space-saving allowed the builders to turn the Savannah into a true luxury ship. She is fitted with six complete decks which contain 30 cabin-suites, oversized public rooms and a swimming pool. She can seat 75 people in her dining room and has five elevators.

TO ALLOW public view of her engine room and reactor console control station a glass-enclosed gallery was built.

"Wherever possible new materials, new concepts of building and design were employed," said a spokesman of the Atomic Energy Commission, joint owner of the Savannah with the U. S. Maritime Administration.

"The Savannah is, among other things, a prototype. From her we will learn techniques and information which will be used in future generations of nuclear-powered ships."

College Pranks

dom been anything worse than some shaved heads.

No matter how heavy the guard around USC's athletic symbol, Tommy Trojan, somehow a UCLA raiding party seems to penerate it to paint the huge statue blue and gold, the UCLA school colors.

One recent year more than 100 USC students, armed with clubs, set up an all-night vigil at the site of the statue, which is at the main intersection on the USC campus.

So some UCLA students hired a helicopter and dumped 100 pounds of what Bandini is famous for. They hit the statute right on the nose.

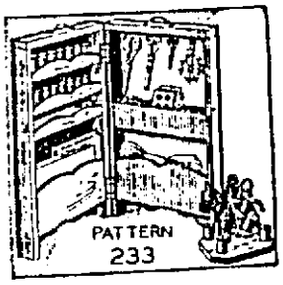

Poor Tommy Trojan has been painted and scraped more often than a battleship. One year an invading raiding party brought along a welding torch and next morning the Trojan symbol of superiority was found to have stabbed himself in the back with his own sword.

NEXT YEAR, several buildings at UCLA were painted red. It cost the USC student body fund about $2,000 in cleanup charges for that one little caper alone.

It's been good, clean fun. It's been a lot of laughs. But the undergraduates at both schools have been in a slump the last couple of years.

But who knows? Maybe somewhere right now there is a strategy meeting. Plotting a way to get hold of a grizzly bear that will eat the Trojan horse.

You Make It

Two gifts to make for Christmas are shown here. The hinged sewing case holds everything for major jobs. The little donkey carries essentials for mending. He is an appealing novelty if you make things to sell. Pattern 233, which gives full-size cutting guides and directions, is 35c. It is also one of four patterns in the Gifts to Make from Wood Packet No. 68—all for $1. Address orders to: Pattern Dept., Southland Magazine, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Soft Water Toll Mystifies

By Ben Zinser

Scripps-Howard Newspaper Medical Science Writer

SOFT WATER has been implicated in a higher rate of deaths from heart and blood vessel disease.

According to a British researcher, persons living in cities with soft water die of cardiovascular diseases at a rate more than one-third higher than those who live in communities with hard water.

The researcher, Dr. Jeremy N. Morris, London, says he has no idea why this is so. Dr. Morris is chief of sociologic research for the British Medical Research Council.

Soft-water cities in the study included Manchester, Liverpool, Glasgow, Edinburgh and Dundee. Here the death rate from all forms of cardiovascular disease, for both men and women 45 to 74, was about 110 per 1,000.

The rate in hard-water cities, however, is between 70 and 80 per 1,000. Hard-water cities studied were London, Croydon, Bristol and Norwich.

BAD NEWS for skiers: Safety bindings have no effect upon the rate of skiing injuries, according to a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Four Sun Valley, Idaho, physicians report that the use of safety bindings has increased greatly in the past 10 years. Yet there has been no significant difference in the number of ski accidents, they say.

The doctors estimate that fewer than 50 per cent of skiers used release bindings in 1952. Almost all skiers at Sun Valley wear them now, they note.

EMOTIONAL distress has nothing to do with onset of the common cold, says researcher David Tyrrell.

Dr. Tyrrell is director of the Common Cold Research Unit at Harvard Hospital in Salisbury, England.

Emotional factors may start a nose running—but this is not the same as a cold, he says.

STEAM ROOMS appear to offer no health benefits, a consultant to the AMA Journal reports.

Dr. David I. Abramson, Chicago, says a steam room is unwise for those with any serious organic disability, such as hardening of the arteries, heart disorders or an overactive thyroid. The high humidity would probably place an excessive load upon the patient with even mild or moderate disability of the heart and lungs.

HYPNOSIS can allay the fears of individuals who think they're going to have a heart attack.

The claim is that of Dr. Nathan Schecter, Ottawa, in a report to the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis.

Hypnosis reduces the patient's reaction to stress, Dr. Schecter says.

CAPSULES: A London pathologist, Dr. Francis E. Camps, recommends crash helmets for pedestrians. Such helmets could be modeled after the English bowler, he says, and could prevent many fatal injuries. . . . Very obese persons often have a dread of being alone, yet they fear crowds, says Dr. Sydney Margolis, professor of psychiatry at the University of Colorado. . . . A New York study of 1,600 adults discloses that obesity is seven times more frequent in lower-class than in upper-class women. . . . A nervous skin itch called neurodermatitis is on the increase among the aged, particularly elderly men living alone, a New York doctor reports. Dr. Sadie H. Zaidens says the condition occurs primarily in dependent men whose daily job routine has been taken from them.

In the Days of the Dons

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

SPANISH soldiers from Mexico, then the missionaries settled early California.

The story of the missions often has been told; that of the great landowning families, descendants of the officers and men of His Majesty Carlos III's army, is equally colorful if less familiar.

"THE CALIFORNIA DONS" by Edna Deu Pree Nelson (Appleton - Century - Crofts, $5.50) tells the story of these military leaders and their families.

The dons were ordered by the king of Spain to set up military posts at San Diego and Monterey to protect the coast against foreign invasion (the Russians showed interest in extending their Alaskan holdings farther south) and to provide safe harbor from buccaneers for the treasure-laden Manila galleons.

Some of the dons were scions of noble families; others were soldiers of fortune. For 75 years they controlled California, gradually acquiring the most fertile and advantageous lands.

WILLI HEINRICH

This promising German author for the first time writes about Americans in "THE LONELY CONQUEROR" (Dial, $4.95) about a Negro sergeant on duty with the American army in Germany.

Through intermarriage of leading families and the settlement of retainers and friendly Indians on their lands, an almost feudal society was set up, which remained until the occupation of California by the United States in 1846.

"The California Dons" tells of the establishment of this society, and of the men and women, the customs and daily life that characterized it. Of real interest to those who love California.

CANAANITES, Cretans, Tyrians, Sardinians, Phoenicians, Carthagenians, Scythians, Tartessians, Bactrians—you call the role and the answer is silence. Ivar Lissner not only, in "THE SILENT PAST" (Putnam, $6.95), calls the ghostly role, but fits the places of these often mysterious, to most people forgotten peoples, into the totality of man's culture.

The chapters are brief, and in some cases excessively so. Take, for example, the people of ancient Tartessus, gateway to all ancient Iberia, a people rich in mines and cattle. Until recent years little was known of the Tartessians. Here was a major civilization with a literature and social order expressing that civilization. We could stand more than a handful of pages on them; we are grateful, however, for the little we get and the lucidity with which Lissner makes them live again.

"LITTLE GIRL" is the title of this picture by Harvey Zucker. It's from "U.S. CAMERA INTERNATIONAL PICTURES, 1963" (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $4.95).

DORIS LESSING, the novelist of British parentage, of Persian birth, and of South Rhodesian childhood and adolescence writes, in "THE GOLDEN NOTEBOOK" (Simon and Schuster, $5.95) of a complex woman, a free woman in every sense. Anna, a successful author, Anna has kept four notebooks. One, with a black cover, records her early years in Africa. A red covered notebook deals with her life and disillusionment as a Communist. A yellow notebook is in fact a novel, whose heroine is herself. A golden notebook kept when she loves an American writer and insanity threatens her, brings all the others together. It is writing with a wide sweep.

Happy Display for a Yule Day

Six-foot-tall Santa, sleigh and reindeer delight NBC-TV actress Janet Dey.

By Steve Ellingson

TIME brings many changes —but not to Christmas. The whole world bows before this season with its time honored customs, the wide-eyed wonder of children and the spirit of peace. Christmas is one time for everyone in the family to participate . . . the youngest and the oldest. It's an open season for do-it-yourselfers.

An outdoor display makes your home a bright spot in the neighborhood and helps spread the Christmas spirit.

It needn't be expensive when you do it yourself. The Santa display (see photo) is colorful and easy to make.

The large pictures are printed in bright, waterproof colors and the display will last for many seasons. Just glue them on plywood or hardboard and saw them out. Complete directions are included. Four deer are shown but you may order only one or eight, as you wish.

HERE'S HOW to order: Send name and address to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., with check, currency or money order for: No. 169, Santa, $2 each; No. 257, sleigh, $2 each; No. 256, deer, 75 cents each; No. 298, Merry Christmas sign, 35 cents, or No. C-17 which includes Santa, sleigh and eight deer, $6 (you save $2).

Architect's Sketchbook

By Bill Meyerriecks

CHANCES are good, if you have a boy in the family, that Santa Claus will be bringing a train set to your house this Christmas—and if so he should be tipped off that space-saving storage such as this foldaway table (see photo) will be most appreciated.

A train table is really necessary to get the most out of a train. Unless the boy can mount his track permanently and build on his starter set, there's little hope he'll stay interested.

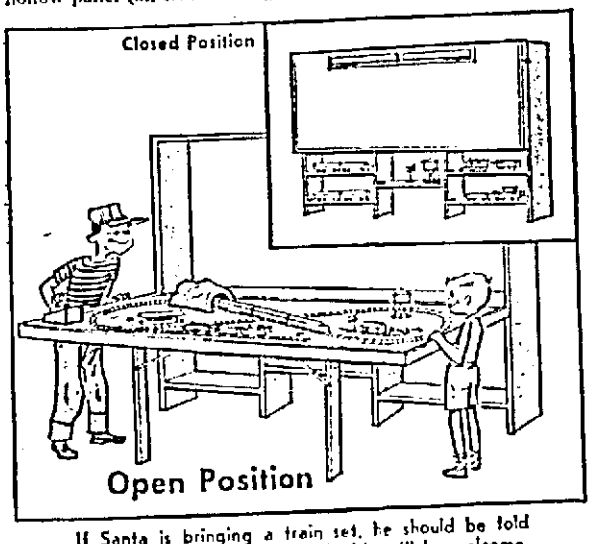

The table illustrated is one solution for the storage problem and it can be used in bedroom, basement or other dual purpose area.

Track and accessories up to 8 inches high are mounted permanently on a 4 by 8-foot hollow panel (all track wiring can be hidden inside). When not in use, the entire layout is folded easily up and away into a wall cabinet with overall depth of 10⅝ inches. Closing the cabinet exposes a set of shelves where locomotive, coaches and tall accessories can be stored.

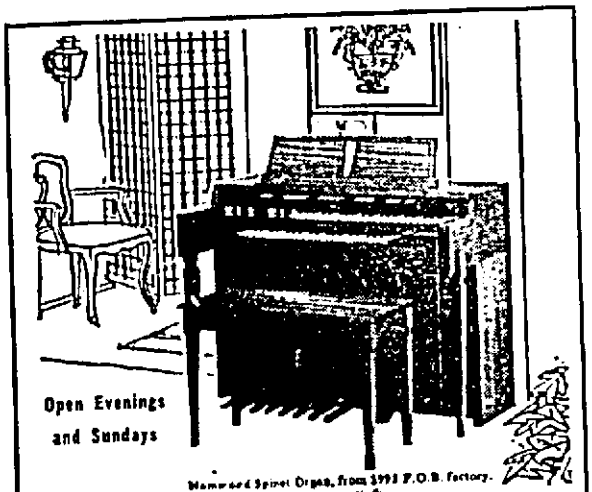

If desired, you can mount the unit so that it folds down over a single bed, thus getting double use out of the space in a bedroom usually taken up by the bed.

Principal materials required are 1½ sheets of ¾-inch plywood, one sheet of ¼-inch ply and another of ⅛-inch hardboard, plus some 1x2 and 1x3 pine.

TO ORDER, specify Sketchbook Plan S-60 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

If Santa is bringing a train set, he should be told this 4x8-foot, foldaway train table will be welcome.

GRAD CARD

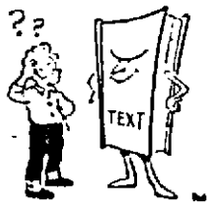

Dull Book, Dull Boy

By Harry Karns
Education Research Associates

QUESTION: "Our children no doubt could do better work than they're doing. But sometimes I think the educators could write better school books, too. What do you think?"

ANSWER: I think you're right.

Rudolph Flesch once said that textbooks are written by educators for other educators rather than for the benefit of students. This is one of those generalities for which Mr. Flesch has become famous. Many fine textbooks are being written for children. Still, there's much truth in what he says.

Not long ago, I visited a midwestern school and picked up a book used in the seventh-grade course in industrial drawing. The sentences were long and involved. The entire text bristled with technical words and phrases. The writing was dull and colorless, designed to induce sleep rather than impart knowledge.

I asked the teacher if he had any special problems with students. "Yes," he said. "They come trooping up to my desk to ask questions that are answered right there in the book. They don't read their assignments."

Poor kids! They were being criticized because the people who wrote and selected the text had failed to do a good job. By the way, I discovered later that this same text is used by grown-ups in an adult education course—and the adults don't understand it very well, either.

A GOOD textbook for children is written in simple words and sentences. When the author presents material new to his audience, he starts at the first and explains the material step by step and with appropriate examples. The author refers frequently to things familiar to the child in his every day life. At all times, the youngster feels that this book is something he can conquer. When he does not have that feeling, he will be frightened and unsure, and he will not read that book.

What can the parent do about a bad book? As a stopgap measure, he can sit down with the child and translate it into English—in brief, do the author's work for him. As a long-range measure, he can find out who picks these atrocities and what can be done to improve the standard of selection.

Mrs. Kelton Alley and Faux Pas illustrate an obedience match mistake—and poor Faux Pas draws the dunce cap.

A Test for Dogs

By Eleanor Avery Price

LAKEWOOD Obedience Club holds its fall practice today at the American Legion Hall in Hollydale, 11401 S. Garfield Ave. Dog owners need not be club members to participate. In fact, Mrs. Kelton Alley, shown (see illustration) with Mrs. Judy Chamber's toy poodle, Faux Pas, in a dunce cap showing what dog and trainer should not do, is from Woodlands Hills and a member of the Companion Dog Training Club, and likely as not this "boo-boo twosome" will be there.

So, if you are a dog owner, why not brush up your dog and get him on the path toward point trials? You'll have fun. There will be a catering service on hand, or you may take a picnic lunch. Judging starts about noon.

IT IS NOT TRUE, as some people think, that obedience is just a "back door" to dog shows. A great many wise dog owners have awakened to the fact that the education of themselves in the proper care and organized training of their dogs leads to better behaved pets as well as closer companionship between dogs and their owners. And this awakening is one of the nicest things that could happen to you and your dog.

It won't happen all at once. You'll need a copy of Regula-

Hawaii Offers More for Golfer

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

HAWAII, which always has boasted about having just about everything for everybody, now can crow about offering more and more to the golfer.

The first of two oceanside courses opens this week on the island of Kauai. An 18-hole layout, it will be known as the Wailua, and will be open to the public.

Golfers, however, won't find the Wailua exactly a paradise because trade winds — which air condition the Hawaiian Islands — create some beautiful natural hazards not usually found on golf courses.

For example, the 475-yard men's par-4 Second hole is justly called "the beast." It has a slight dog-leg to the left and is bordered by the Pacific Ocean for the full length, with winds blowing from the left.

And, as if this were not enough, the 240-yard Third hole has following winds, and the 450-yard Fourth is played against the wind.

THEN THERE'S the 17th, known as the "beach hole." On this one, the green is on the very edge of the sands, and the elevated tee faces out toward the sea.

But duffers will have something to look forward to at the end of their rounds. The new clubhouse includes a restaurant, lounges, lockers, pro shop and snack bar.

The second new course — the Royal Lahaina — opens formally Dec. 14-16. It will have 36 holes near the site of the almost - completed Sheraton-Maui Hotel.

REGULATIONS regarding booking procedures for the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo, just announced by the Bureau of Olympic Preparations of the Tokyo Metropolitan Government provide:

Admission tickets to the various Olympic events will be sold only to overseas visitors who hold confirmed space at hotels or ryokan (Japanese-style inns) in the Tokyo area for the dates on which the tickets are valid. Special hotel reservation certificates will be issued for this purpose to those holding space during the Oct. 10-24 period of the Games.

Applications for hotel and ryokan reservations will be accepted by individual hotels and inns beginning Dec. 1 of this year, and will apply to the 17-day period from Oct. 9-Oct. 25, 1964, covering the full duration of the Games plus a day before they begin and one day after the closing ceremony. A deposit of 50 per cent of the room rate must accompany requests for space, the remaining 50 per cent not later than July 31, 1964.

LAS VEGAS' famed Strip will be dominated before too many months by a 22-story, 510-room addition to the Dunes Hotel, on which construction has just started. The structure will cost $8 million.

Also started on the Strip is the new Imperial "400" Motel, between the Sands and Desert Inn Hotels. With 129 units, it will be the largest in the Imperial chain.

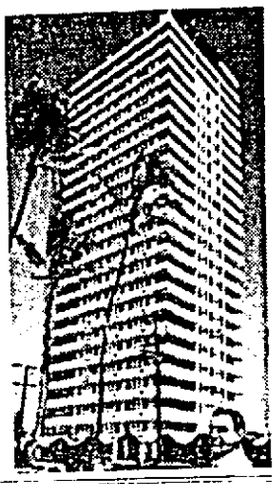

WHICH REMINDS that Harvey's "Top of the Wheel" has opened atop Harvey's Wagon Wheel casino-hotel on South Shore of Lake Tahoe—an already flourishing lounge and restaurant with a South Seas decor.

IF YOU'RE READY for a drive, don't forget that the poinsettia fields have started to bloom in boisterous color along Hwy. 101 north of San Diego, near Encinitas.

AND, if you want to fight the mob, see the Hollywood Santa Claus Lane Parade of Stars Wednesday night. Personalities — many of them movie people — and floats will be identified over a public address system.

Bird Paradise

Once known as "The Land of the Hummingbird," Trinidad in the Caribbean still has large numbers of this species, as well as great flocks of scarlet ibis and cocricos. Once part of the South American mainland, the island has the variety of flora and fauna normally found only on a great land mass.

Tallest among famed Hawaiian hostelries is luxurious new Foster Tower Hotel, located at Prince Kuhio Beach in Waikiki. It is 25 stories tall. Richard Foster is in charge.

Around the World With DELAPLANE

"I will be reaching retirement age (65) next year. We will have a small pension. Only my wife and myself, in good health. Is there a country that welcomes such people? Where our buying power would be better than here?'

NO COUNTRY is making a specialty of getting the permanent tourist — though one should. A year-round buyer might make them more money.

Mexico is making a bid for retired U. S. people. They have a new tourist classification called "visitante-rentista." Papers through any Mexican Consulate.

This allows you to take car, household goods, etc. into Mexico without paying duty. Also you do NOT have to cross back into the U. S. every six months to renew your tourist status. You can renew three times in Mexico—a total of two years' residence.

After that, you take out other papers—not very difficult. The first requirement is that you have $160 a month income plus $80 for your wife. (Same amount for each child over 15.)

You can live pretty well in smaller Mexican towns for $200 to $250 a month for two.

Portugal looked like a good retirement place to me. They estimated you could do pretty well outside Lisbon for $300 a month. About $400 per couple in Lisbon.

I WENT TO an excellent modern house owned by an American, an hour's drive from Lisbon. Warm weather. Private beach. Overlooking the sea and a small Moorish fishing village. Nicely furnished with stove and refrigerator, this cost $12,000. Living costs about $350 with household help.

Spain is a cheap country. The south is particularly good. But the beach property is expensive. I would estimate Spain in the country at $400—$500 would be better.

The Central American countries are not expensive. But I think you'd get bored to death. Even in the capitals there isn't much to do.

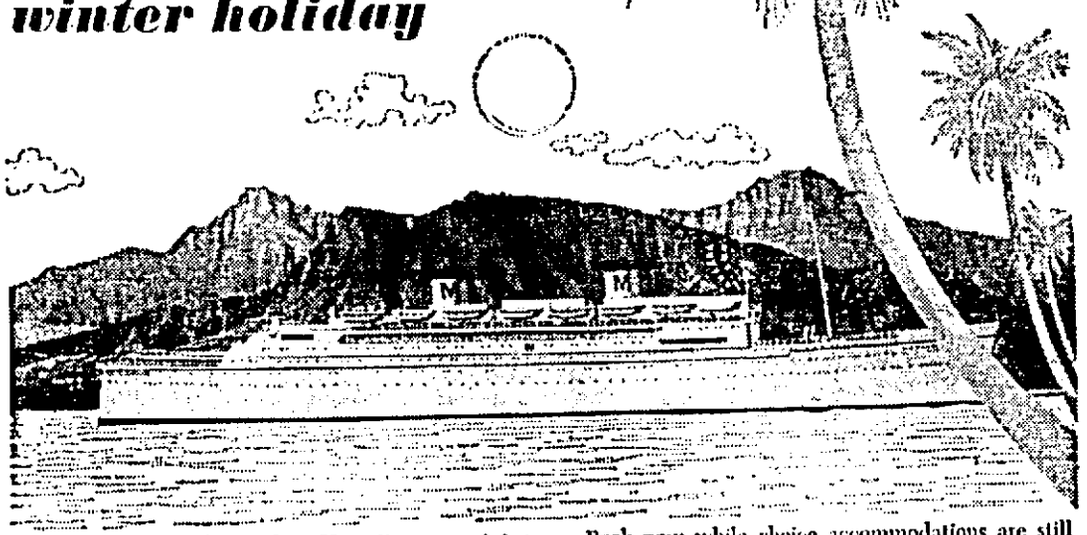

If you want to get home to see family and friends, Mexico is best. Closer and cheaper transportation—you can be in the United States in two days.

I wouldn't make a decision on this until I had lived in a hotel in the town for two or three months. It's surprising what you miss. What you take for granted here that you don't get in another country.

YOUR GARDEN

Euonymus for Showy Foliage

By Walter Finch

FOR SUCH a sizable family of shrubs, the Euonymus group is remarkably little known by gardeners. And considering the many uses to which its members can be put, the surprise is that much greater.

Euonymus, perhaps, is one of those garden journeymen which does everything well. They are not spectacular, but like boxwood and juniper, they help to firm up the garden picture, adding substance and character to the permanent framework.

To use them, you can have a handsome ground cover from one Euonymus; or an evergreen cover for your wall. You can train another Euonymus as a tree or shear it as a box-like hedge. From still another you get handsomely variegated foliage, which contrasts pleasantly with most evergreens around it. Still another turns rose-red in fall. This last is one of the few deciduous varieties to be found in the west.

SO VARIED are these members of the one family that it would be well to consider them one by one. Here, according to the California Association of Nurserymen are the varieties most apt to be found in California.

Evergreen Euonymus is the patriarch of the family. It is a tall, arching shrub, less spectacular than some of its more modern offspring, but durable enough to have held its own over the years. Foliage is remarkable for its persistent greenery even when subjected to extremes of desert heat or seashore winds. It can be pruned as a tree and will actually resemble one in time, but it is far more commonly found when sheared into a compact hedge.

Closely related to Evergreen Euonymus, most of them variegated sports, are Golden Euonymus, Gold Spot, Silver Queen, Silver King or President Gauthier, Small Leaf or Box Leaf, a variegated form of Small Leaf, Dwarf Flame, and the prostrate forms such as Wintercreeper and Purpleleaf Wintercreeper, good for ground cover.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . Select trees for autumn foliage this week. You can get a good idea of what's most colorful by checking your local nursery.

Spring-blooming bulbs should be in the ground as soon as possible.

When tuberous begonia tops yellow off, remove the bulbs from the ground strip off the dead leaves and wash dirt from the bulbs and store them in a cool dry place until spring.

Snails and slugs love cool, wet weather. Use bait and or pellets to control them.

Use pots of blooming chrysanthemums to give your garden that special touch of fall. Simply sink the pots in the ground where you need color.

Rose Inventory

November is a good time to take stock of what's what in the rose garden. A reminder from the California Association of Nurserymen that bare-root rose planting begins next month prompts us to consider the possible replacement of roses we are no longer happy with. Once you decide to uproot one rose and plant another, don't wait until the last bloom drops. Take it out now and turn the soil to let it air for a month or so. Working steer manure and compost into the spot is not a bad idea, either.

Handy material in ornamental stone line is Featherock, volcanic rock quarried in the High Sierra. As veneer it lightens the load on weight-bearing walls — it weighs only one-fifth the weight of ordinary stone. It bonds well with mortar, is durable and chemically neutral. It also lends itself to landscaping, as shown above, and is easily hewn into free forms, figures and planters.

Colorful Shrubs for Winter

By Joe Littlefield

Viburnum robustum is a hardy shrub of slender growth habit that produces flowers of pinkish hue in winter.

CAMELLIAS are the most colorful, most bloomful of winter flowering shrubs, regardless of whether they are shade plants or sun-loving shrubs. The flowers of several types last longer, too.

Chandleri elegans, with pink and white variegated flowers of anemone form, is a graceful arching shrub that may be used for espalliering on fence or wall. Glen 40 is a slow growing, more compact type, the red blossoms have formal shape. Jordan's Pride has pink and white, variegated, large and semi-double flowers with a slight fragrance. It is a vigorous upright grower.

Keep these distinct shapes in mind when selecting camellias whether for ground planting or in containers. By so doing you'll be able to select just the "tailored" shrub needed.

Other attractive winter-blooming shrubs for sunny locations are heathers, viburnum robustum, viburnum suspensum, a number of cassias, rosemary, pittosporum tobira, melianthus, to name but a few. You'll just have to visit your local nursery this winter and check up on winter-blooming shrubs, then select those you favor for your garden.

VIBURNUM robustum is one of a few winter-blooming shrubs that grow sylph-like, instead of spreading. The masses of miniature hydrangea-like flowers are pinkish white in color and yield needed winter color. The dark green leaves are not susceptible to mildew like the older relative viburnum tinus. This shrub often grows slender and up to around ten feet tall. It may be pruned back to keep it at a lower height, and for more bushy growth. It tolerates considerable cold weather, too.

WE'VE FOUND heathers need lots of peat moss mixed with soil, because the plants develop countless numbers of hair-like roots, more like the azaleas. A mixture of one-half soil and one-half pre-moistened peat moss is just about right if the plants are set out in sunny locations.

Cassias, with yellow, fragrant flowers, are somewhat more susceptible to frost. Plants grow faster than most others due to less hard branch wood.

ROSEMARY, in bush or prostrate form, is a tough shrub, taking any amount of heat, and lots of cold. Once well established in the ground they get by on less water than most ornamental blooming shrubs. Plants are more like native shrubs that are drought resistant; not tolerating too much water. In winter, the small, blue flowers are attractive.

You Make 'Em

For the do-it-yourselfer there is a new step project weekly in Sunday's

By Dorothy Jonson

Autumn is a lovely time in the garden all over the Southland. The heat of summer has subsided and left us all with the desire to be out of doors. Most of us like to work in our gardens and there are important things to be done right now.

One of these is to treat the soil, especially around fruit trees, to eliminate borers, the great underground enemy.

Give the trees a long, slow, deep irrigation first and wait until the water has had a chance to make the soil evenly moist. Then treat the soil around the trees, following the directions on the label of the bottle, with the ether product that has proven so effective . . . it contains the ether known as ethylene dichloride. This material spreads itself through the moist soil and kills the borers in all cycles without harming the tree or shrub. Do this quite late in the fall, after the borers have gone underground to hibernate for the winter.

Points on Working Dogs

tions and Standards for Obedience Trials containing much helpful information from the American Kennel Club, 221 Park Ave. South, New York 3, N.Y. And you'll need to associate with other obedience enthusiasts and their dogs whenever possible so you can practice—with someone putting you through the various routines.

Here are a few points on working a dog:

Watch your mannerisms. You must control your tendency to pull on your ear, scratch your head, shrug your shoulders, etc., for in the obedience ring you will be penalized for any motion or sound that could possibly give a cue to your dog.

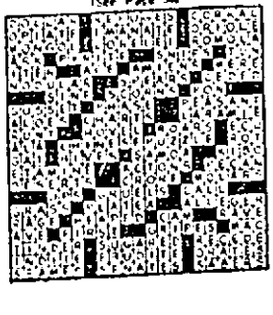

YOU WILL need someone to stop, start, and otherwise direct you, for in the ring the judge will be specifying what he wants. You will not be on your own.

Keep in mind that obedience is needed most at moments of emergency or distraction. You may some day need to "drop" your dog when he starts out into a street, or to bring him to "heel" when he goes after the postman. Don't alibi your dog for misconduct on the grounds that things excite him. You are not being cruel when you teach your dog that he will receive the consequences of his own actions.

Observe other handlers and their dogs at every obedience event you can attend. Then practice, practice, practice, and always keep your sense of humor.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 601 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief data on METZ. —Mrs. J.H., Cypress.

J.H.: METZ is a German surname with a dual origin. It is primarily traced to an ancestor who once resided in the city of Metz in the French-German border duchy of Lorraine. The city-name Metz is shortened from the term "Mediomatrici," translated as "place of the middle-spear-people," the title given the natives by the Romans 1800 years ago. The Roman Latin name was first shortened to Metis, then to Metz. Another source was the given-name Matthias meaning "gift of god," altered in the Middle Ages to the nickname Matz, then to Metz.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin and shield on SPRING.—S.S., Long Beach.

S.S.: SPRING is English, with a source handed down from an ancestor baptized "Springan," meaning "active one." Alternately, Spring was used by owners of a home located by a "spryng" which supplied them with water. The Spring coat-of-arms has three gold five-leaved rosettes between three red diamonds on a chevron across a silver shield. John Springe, an American forefather, was recorded at Watertown, Massachusetts in 1647.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on DUDLEY.—C.H., Long Beach; D.D., Anaheim.

C.H., D.D.: DUDLEY is from a town by that name in the English county of Worcestershire near the city of Birmingham. Dudley began as "Duddas-leah," deciphered as "people's pasture meadow." Percival de Duddelegh is in records of 1272. The Dudley shield is black emblazoned with a running red deer between two standing lions and a man's left hand on a silver stripe across the center. Thomas Dudley, born in Northampton, England, in 1576, came to New England in 1630. He served four terms as Massachusetts governor; founded the city of Cambridge, Mass., and was major-general of all colonial armies in 1644.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you the origin of O'BYRNE. —A.O., Norwalk.

A.O.: O'BYRNE is from the Gaelic Irish clan name O'Beirn, translated as "sons of the bear." The bear was a warrior baptismal symbol used frequently in old Erin. Two divisions of the O'Beirn lineage are recorded in Ireland, one branch living in Mayo, the other in Roscommon. The family shield is red, emblazoned with a silver chevron between three silver right hands.

1 out of 2 women suffer from P.M.T.*

...but don't know what's wrong

*Pre-Menstrual Tension may be an unfamiliar term to many women, but its symptoms are very familiar. In the week before periods, the body accumulates excessive water, then bloating pressure on nerves and organs result, causing tension and discomfort. You become headachy and irritable—even gain weight.

Now, in Pamprin Tablets medical science offers an effective, yet simple and inexpensive relief. Pamprin safely removes the excess water from the body, thus easing tension . . . easing it as no aspirin or simple pain-reliever can.

At the same time, doctors find, Pamprin has a wonderfully calming, soothing effect on the irritability, "nerves" and emotional upsets common to pre-menstrual time.

What's more, many women who once suffered cramps and backaches even after periods began, found surprising relief too. Pamprin will not disturb your normal period—contains no hormones, narcotics or harmful drugs.

Get Pamprin at your druggist . . . before your next period. Or for a generous, free trial supply of Pamprin Tablets, send your name and address today to: National Laboratories, Dept. S, Chattanooga 7, Tennessee.

Lots of Turkeys

THIRTEEN turkeys for dinner? Sounds like quite a few, doesn't it?

That's the number of turkeys served on an average Sunday at Clifton's, a gigantic, palace-like cafeteria at 5006 Pepperwood Ave., Lakewood Center. But that statistic pales into insignificance when compared with the number of turkeys Clifton's serves on Thanksgiving.

Last year the pretty girls behind the serving counters at Clifton's carved up 65 turkeys on Thanksgiving. And Jim Hammond, manager-host at the cafeteria, estimates that his large organization will serve even more this year. Last year the restaurant accommodated 2,800 guests on Thanksgiving, moving them smoothly and efficiently through the serving lines.

Clifton's popularity stems directly from the fact that it serves excellent, wholesome food at a price anyone can meet. The features on Sundays (and on holidays such as Thanksgiving) is the deluxe, seven-course dinner for $1.77, served from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Included is a choice of one of 50 fresh, delicious salads; whipped potatoes, vegetable of the day, bread or roll and butter, dessert from 30 selections, and beverage. The Sunday and holiday entrees include baked ham, chicken, pot roast of beef, roast turkey with cranberry sauce and several other items. Second and third coffee refills are served at the tables by gracious waitresses. The children enjoy 59-cent dinners, including turkey, which entitle them to free gifts from Clifton's treasure chest.

During the week, Clifton's serves fine luncheons for 82 cents, including entree, salad, potato or vegetable, rolls, dessert and beverage.

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Sorry, the volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. Where does playwright Noel Coward make his home, and is it true about him and Gypsy Rose Lee?—J. Richie, Yakima, Wash.

A. Coward lives in Montreux, Switzerland. Gypsy lives in Hollywood. Between them there has been little more than a smile.

Q. Esther Williams had three children by Ben Gage, two boys and a girl. Since Esther has been in Rome working with Fernando Lamas, who has the children? —Betsy Jamison, St. Petersburg, Fla.

A. Esther has daughter Susan in Rome. Her two sons are in Los Angeles with their father.

Q. The last King of Spain, Alfonso XIII, had several sons, the oldest living of whom is Don Jaime. Why hasn't he claimed the Spanish throne?—D. P., Denver, Colo.

A. Don Jaime is a deaf-mute who renounced his claim.

Q. How old are Nelson Eddy and Charles Chaplin? What is each doing? Is it true that Charles Chaplin's mother was insane?—B. T., New Orleans, La.

A. Nelson Eddy is 61, performs in night clubs; Charles Chaplin is 73, resides in Switzerland where he is finishing his autobiography and fathering children. Chaplin's mother was driven insane by hunger when Chaplin was a youngster in London.

Q. How tall is Prince Rainier of Monaco? Is anything being done to hide his true height in that TV special that Grace Kelly is doing? — L.S., San Bernardino, Calif.

A. Prince Rainier is 5 ft. 6½ in. tall. Writers of the TV special have been cautioned not to write scenes in which Rainier appears opposite people who are taller than he is.

Q. How come after all these years Mickey Rooney is bankrupt?—Geo. S., El Paso, Texas.

A. He's had five wives.

Q. I understand that the late Queen Mary of Great Britain was a notorious tightwad. Is that true? If not, how did the story start?—Patricia Belmore, Bridgeport, Conn.

A. Queen Mary was one of the thriftiest queens Britain ever had. Her parents, the Duke and Duchess of Teck, were constantly in debt when she was a child. In fact the family moved to Italy where things were cheap, and in the formative years of her youth, Mary lived in run-down houses and knew considerable want. Remembrances of things past made her careful in spending a pound.

Q. In 1917 portions of the French Army mutinied against the stupidly planned World War I offensives of the French High Command. The mutiny was kept secret from the public, but many French soldiers were shot at the stake, and others were driven into no-man's land and blown to bits by French artillery. What I'd like to know is the identity of the French general who ordered the destruction of his own men.—Kenneth Graves, Dallas, Texas.

A. Marshal Pétain, who 25 years later, in World War II, handed over other Frenchmen to the Nazis to be shot.

Q. Is it true that Balenciaga sells his dresses in Spain at lower prices than he does in Paris?—Elaine Durand, Highland Park, Ill.

A. Yes. Balenciaga has three shops in Spain—in Barcelona, Madrid and San Sebastian—under the name Eisa. His designs there are made in Spanish fabrics, which are cheaper than French fabrics; hence the lower selling price in Spain.

Q. Is James Michener married to a Japanese girl? Who is she? What does she have on the ball that some American girl does not?—V. Losey, Upper Darby, Pa.

A. Author Michener, 55, is married to the former Mari Sabusawa, a Nisei who did graduate work at the University of Colorado and has a degree from Antioch College.

Q. What's happened to Sophia Loren and Carlo Ponti now that they've had their marriage annulled?—Ed Palmer, Youngstown, Ohio.

A. They plan to become French citizens, get re-married in France.

Q. Who is the author of the following statement: "Women have great talent but no genius"?—R. Trenier, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A. German philosopher, A. Schopenhauer (1788-1860).

Q. Does Susan Wilding, ex-wife of screen star Michael Wilding, really own 74 houses in London?—Mrs. Rose McGee, Evansville, Ind.

A. She owns 11 houses in London, most of them in Mayfair or Belgravia, which she rents out to film people.

Q. Will George Gobel ever have his own regular show on TV again?—Matthew Gaines, Chicago, Ill.

A. Possibly. He's filming an hour-long variety pilot, The George Gobel Show, which he hopes to sell. Last year he filmed a half-hour situation comedy, My Uncle Elroy, but it failed to sell.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

EDITOR'S NOTE: Until three years ago Bernie Allen was a cabdriver in New York City. One evening former boxing champion Rocky Graziano hailed his cab and ordered Bernie to drive to the fights at Yankee Stadium. By the time Graziano arrived, his stomach pained from laughing at Bernie's jokes. He took the cabbie into the stadium, introduced him to Martha Raye. She, too, was convulsed by his funny routines and decided to introduce Bernie to show business. She bought him some fresh comedy material, got him his first bookings. Bernie has been playing night clubs ever since. He still lives in the Bronx where he says, "Someday I hope to make enough money to move to Jersey City." Here are some of Allen's favorite funnies.

by BERNIE ALLEN

A panhandler stopped an advertising executive on Madison Avenue. "Please, sir," he begged. "Would you give me a little money? I'm very hungry. Just enough to buy me a small bottle of gin." The executive grew indignant. "Under no circumstances," he declared, "am I going to give you money to get drunk."

The panhandler sulked. "What business is it of yours," he demanded, "what I do with my money?"

A woman was visiting her bandaged husband in a hospital. On the way out she said to the nurse: "My husband always says, 'Why should I be the first to dim my headlights?' "

Television is very educational. My nephew to date has learned two ways to mug a woman, three ways to avoid leaving fingerprints, four ways to ambush a cop.

"Business is so bad," said one garment manufacturer, "I wish I was never born." Said his friend: "Who has that kind of luck?"

An amorous physician, a regular Don Juan, began making passes at the new nurse. "Please, doctor," she reproached him, "let's not talk shop."

A baseball manager died and went to heaven, where he was placed in charge of a truly great team. The only trouble was that it consisted of nine players, and there was no other team to play against. The manager was frustrated until he got a Telstar phone call from the Devil.

"How'd you like to play my team?" Satan asked.

"Sure," the manager said. "Only we'll beat the pants off you, because I've got the greatest players of all time."

"Maybe so," agreed the Devil. "But I've got all the umpires."

A wife called her husband's physician and reported that her husband was ill. The doctor came over, examined the husband, then said: "Keep him in bed, give him lots of bicarbonate and take some cooking lessons."

A musician I know boarded a plane, carrying his four-foot harp with him. The hostess said to him, "I'm very sorry, sir, but you're not allowed to keep that harp by your seat."

"But it's my most cherished possession," the musician insisted.

The hostess smiled winningly. "Even so," she replied, "I'm afraid we don't go that high."

A woman called on the psychiatrist who was treating her husband. "For months," she explained, "Clarence has been behaving just like a Texan. He lives on a most lavish scale, he buys me cars, furs, diamonds."

The psychiatrist pointed out that such purchases were mere manifestations of her husband's ego and that he would soon get over it.

The wife confessed, "That's why I came to see you. How can we keep him from getting over it?"

Now Birds Eye's best are butter dressed in a brightly seasoned butter sauce.

What's in it? Pure, Grade A butter. The creamery kind. And an artful blend of special seasonings to bring out the very special Birds Eye goodness. Pictured here, Birds Eye's summer-fresh Corn, glistening in its new and golden sauce. Among the other new treats in store: Baby Limas, Cut Green Beans and Green Peas—each with the Butter Sauce right in the package. A generous lot of it. The vegetables look new. Sparkling. They taste new. They are new. Delicious. And convenient. Ready in minutes. Try one tomorrow!

More delicious news from Birds Eye: vegetables with the extra special touch. All prepared, brightly seasoned for you. Green Peas with Sautéed Mushrooms • Green Peas and Celery • Green Peas with Cream Sauce • Corn and Peas with Tomatoes • Mixed Vegetables with Onion Sauce • Fordhook Lima Beans with Tomatoes • Fordhook Lima Beans with Cheese Sauce

A PARADE POLL

WHAT MAKES A GOOD DATE?

by LLOYD SHEARER

Ideal date is Hayley Mills, 16, according to Peter Brown, her co-star in Walt Disney's Summer Magic. Brown, 27, credits Hayley's wit, charm—"and besides, she's a lady."

CHICAGO.

WHAT QUALITIES do you look for in members of the opposite sex? Are they qualities of character or physique?

What do you consider the ingredients of a good date? Stimulating conversation? Dancing? Or, as today's hot-blooded teenagers so pithily put it, "making out"?

In a random nationwide sampling of 500 single young men and 500 single women, 15-25, PARADE asked this question: "What makes a good date?"

The answers given by males stressed the physical more than did those by females. A full 60 per cent of the men equated a "good date" with some degree of physical responsiveness on the part of the girl. They interpreted the word "date" to mean a girl and not an occasion.

In detailing their replies many men said they considered a date a failure if the girls they had taken out refused them a good-night kiss.

Explained one young lawyer: "If a girl brushes me off at the door, that's prima facie evidence I've struck out! She doesn't want to see me again. What a fool!"

A junior at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., seemingly typified the masculine, collegiate outlook with this response: "Guys in my age bracket generally care most about sex and looks. We're attracted first and foremost to girls who have beauty or sex appeal or both. Lots of times such girls are stupid and dull, and if a guy needs any mental stimulation, he drops them. But if they're lively and fun, they do something for the male ego, make you think you've got something of value."

After a pretty face and a fetching figure, the average young American male says he prefers a girl with a sense of humor.

Listen to a 17-year-old senior from Culver City High School, California: "I have one test for a good date. 'Did you laugh?' I ask myself. If the girl made me laugh or kept me in smiles, then regardless of anything else, in my book she's a good date.

"Lots of times I don't get to first base with a girl, if you know what I mean. But if she's smart enough to make it fun and not a problem—what the heck—it's been a good date."

Peter Brown's Opinion

Peter Brown, 27, an actor who plays opposite Hayley Mills in Walt Disney's Summer Magic (see cover), had just dated the 16-year-old English girl when we asked him his opinion of a good date.

His immediate response: "Hayley Mills. I took her to her first baseball game the other night, and we had a ball. Why? Because she has more humor, wit and charm at 16 than most girls have at 25. And besides that, she's a lady.

"I don't like independent, self-sufficient women, and I think that's true of most men. I'm all for the female, feminine woman. And Hayley is one of those. There are a lot of pretty girls, especially in Hollywood, who are stuck for an answer when you say 'hello.' That's usually because they're thinking of themselves instead of their dates.

"Real enjoyment comes from seeing someone you like enjoying herself. When both parties on a date feel that way, you've got it made. A good date always depends on whom you take out and not where you go."

In addition to girls with sex appeal, beauty and a sense of humor—in that order—young men say they also like to date girls of pleasing personality, intelligence and athletic ability.

To many of them, there is little difference between "personality" and "a sense of humor."

Asked to define "personality" they used the words "cheerful, smiling . . . you know, someone you like to be with."

As for intelligence in the female, they all gave it lip service but had reservations concerning its use.

LETITIA SHAPPELL, 20

"A good date is a man not thinking of his good time, but my good time."

"I like an intelligent girl," one computer trainee admitted, "but not if she throws her notions at me as if they were brickbats. I think intelligent girls should show their learning, but not at the expense of their femininity or graciousness.

"What most girls seem to lack nowadays is tenderness. That's a very wonderful quality in a woman, but so many seem to lack it. They have no compassion. They don't seem to realize that most young men are unsure of themselves. We're all groping, looking and searching, and we want a girl who will put us at ease."

Mother & Mistress

What the typical young man really wants, states Dr. Martin Grotjahn, a Beverly Hills psychiatrist and author of Psychoanalysis and the Family Neurosis, is a combination of mother and mistress—the mother on whom he can depend and the mistress on whom he can vent his sex drive.

The girls who offer these qualities are among the first to get married. "Nurses and airline hostesses," says Dr. Grotjahn, "acquire the maternal and mistress-like qualities early in their careers and consequently they marry easily and early."

According to the males interviewed by PARADE, satisfaction of the sex drive, however directed, is the most powerful motive for dating. Again, according to our interviewees, the old saw that men don't marry girls with whom they can take liberties no longer rings true—if ever it did. They will marry girls, many of these men pointed out, in order to take further liberties, and for taking these liberties they intend to pay in marital responsibility.

They do not, as many of the lonely-hearts advisers write, date two kinds of girls, one strictly for the fleshly pleasures and the other for marriage potential. While young men do not associate sex with love as intensely as girls do, believing that sex and love can exist independently of each other, they do not automatically excommunicate from marriage girls with whom they have engaged in premarital sexual intercourse. If there is delayed sexual gratification in courtship, they declare, it is nowadays more the result of economic deterrents than moral scruples.

Here is how 500 men ranked the female qualities they find most desirable in a good date: 1 sex appeal; 2 beauty; 3 sense of humor; 4 personality; 5 intelligence; 6 athletic ability.

The average young American female is vastly more inhibited than the male. Her sex education is frequently neglected. In many cases she is unable to adjust herself to the nature of the male and his strong demands. Generally, she chooses her mate on the basis of the "romantic love fallacy." According to our movies, magazines, TV programs and advertisements, girls fall in love with tall, handsome, photogenic men who smoke the right cigarettes, use underarm deodorants and drive red convertibles.

Despite this unrealistic conditioning, it is significant to note which qualities young single women really search for in a good date.

Approximately 50 per cent of the single girls, 16-22, questioned said they considered a man who was sincere a good date. The word "sincerity" was emphasized over and over again as the most desirable quality in a male. Here are some typical comments: "To me a good date is going out with a fellow who's sincere . . . I like a sincere, stimulating, witty man . . . What I can't stand is a phony. There are more phonies among men today than you can shake a stick at . . . Unfortunately sincerity has become obsolete . . . American men are the most insincere in the whole world. You go out with an American and in 15 minutes he loves you, you're irresistible, you're everything he's ever wanted in life. I have never met such emotionally underdeveloped little boys."

After sincerity, American girls value most highly in the men they date the following qualities: Personality (which again includes sense of humor), consideration, intelligence, achievement and good looks, in that order. (Note that "good looks" comes last.)

More than half the girls interviewed admitted they consider "almost every date" a husband possibility, which is probably why their standards seem more mature and discriminating than those of men.

Consideration Counts

For example, young women like to date men who "show consideration." An essential ingredient of this consideration, many declared, is trustworthiness. Girls like to date a man who is trustworthy.

"For what reason?" I asked.

"Because he won't take advantage of me," was one answer. "A trustworthy fellow is reliable. He won't stand you up," was another. "He won't two-time," was a third. "He's good husband-material," was a fourth.

There is little difference between what a girl seeks in a good date and a good husband. Men, on the other hand, will date much more indiscriminately, generally trying to avoid marriage as long as possible. They will also date more widely. Girls tend to date within their own educational and economic strata.

From early adolescence, females are marriage-oriented and have heard from their mothers such time-worn counsel as "A girl can't be too careful . . . You can marry a rich man as well as a poor man . . . Marry a man of achievement . . . As you make your marriage bed, so you'll lie in it."

This advice has become so ingrained that girls find it difficult to differentiate between dating and husband-hunting. The first is part of the second.

Neither sex considers date activity—dancing, sailing, show-going—of great importance. "What counts most," says a Wellesley College junior, "is not what you and your date do but how you do it. Is the enjoyment mutual? That's the acid test of a good date."

To girls generally a good date constitutes a possible stepping-stone to marriage. To men a good date is an end in itself. The way the dating game is played, however, the participants are not allowed to admit this. The male technique is to be attracted by the physical and to advance boldly. The female technique calls for the girl to play the waiting game so that she can determine the male's true character and bring him home to roost.

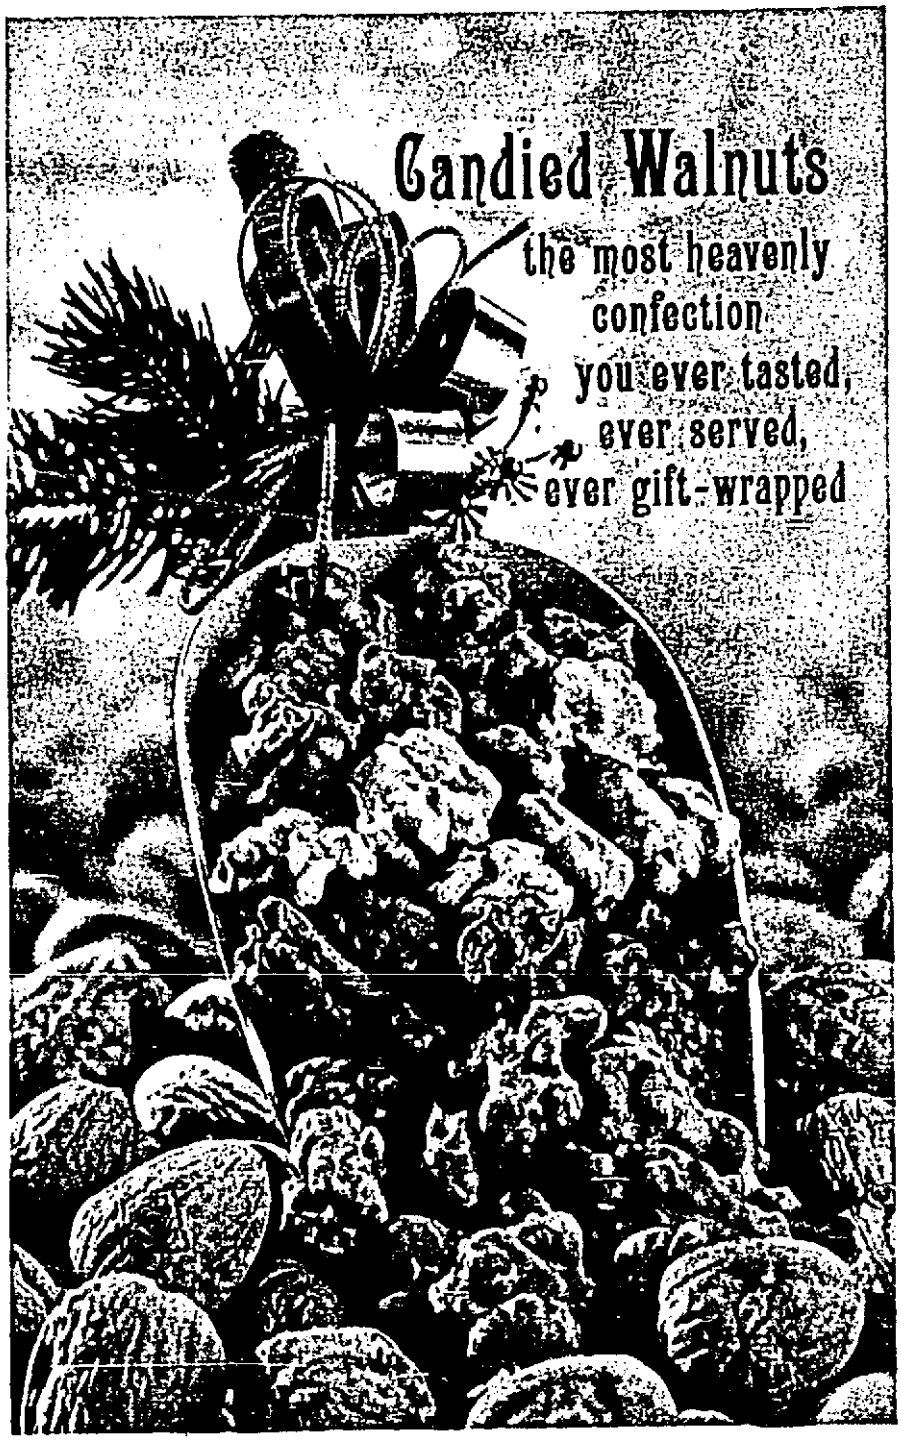

Invariably she wins, since few men believe, as the late Errol Flynn once declared: "The two sweetest words in the whole English language are 'stay single.'"

Watch out for the icebergs

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA.

THE GREATEST MISTAKE Mrs. Donald B. Schulze made was to let her husband learn how to water-ski five years ago in warm-water San Diego.

Now neither cold nor icebergs can keep Don from his favorite sport. These days he water skis where he works, in Alaska, where the waters of Iceberg Lake are just three degrees above freezing and where the hazards are extra-cold blue icebergs.

To ward off the cold Don wears gloves, hat and socks plus bathing shorts; however, nothing really helps when he gets dunked. The first time it happened he felt absolute warmth for one or two seconds, then suddenly went numb.

Does he recommend ice-water skiing?

"Not for the average skier," he says. "But if you make a good start and the boat is fast and doesn't turn too tight, it's just terrific. If you dunk and the pickup isn't fast enough, you're in trouble." Schulze is the first person ever to ski in Iceberg Lake. Who else could? ■

Old raccoon coat and towel are Don's after-ski wear.

Foreign service veterans, Bill and Janet Stoltzfus, admire Yemen souvenirs.

UNSUNG HEROES

in our Foreign Service

BY JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON, D.C.

A MEMORIAL PLAQUE in a State Department lobby reads: "William P. Botcler, killed by grenade, Cyprus . . . Robert Lee Mikels, burned attempting to save lives, Korea . . . Douglas S. Mackiernan, killed by gunfire, Tibet . . . Thomas C. Wasson, shot by sniper, Jerusalem. . . ."

This honor roll should help to dispel the distorted image that has grown up around the U.S. Foreign Service. To many Americans, the mere mention of the State Department conjures up a vision of lace-handkerchief diplomats wearing striped pants and exchanging pleasantries at glamorous cocktail parties.

To be sure, diplomacy was once an occupation for wealthy dilettantes. But today a Foreign Service officer may find himself scaling a mountain, plunging into a swamp, facing a man-eating tiger, rattling the bars of a native jail to rescue American citizens. And his wife may find herself organizing a makeshift hospital, sitting cross-legged on the floor eating chicken entrails with a native leader, ducking bullets to help her husband check on a revolution.

Some 3,750 Foreign Service officers form the elite of our diplomatic corps. They staff 290 posts in 103 countries. Of these posts, one-third are classed as "hardship."

The pay of these men is small ($5,000 to $27,000 a year) considering the risks and responsibilities. "On your decisions," President Kennedy has told them, "hang the well-being and the future of this country."

A typical Foreign Service couple of middle rank are crew-cut William Stoltzfus, Jr., and his delicately pretty wife, Janet (see photo). They recently returned from Yemen, where Janet presided over a kitchen with a cement floor so rough it could hardly be washed, a kerosene refrigerator and a balky stove.

After the recent death of the old Imam, who ruled Yemen as a feudal state, still holding slaves and cutting off heads and hands at whim, Janet risked her life to help her husband report to Washington on the short struggle for a successor. With bullets flying between rival factions, she took off for one part of the city and her husband for another.

Search Party

Across the world, in Ecuador, one Sunday morning last January, Consul Harry M. Lofton got word that 2 American adventurers had been lost for 8 days on the 17,750-foot-high Sangay volcano, marked "unexplored" on the maps. Lofton hastily recruited a couple of experienced mountain climbers and organized a search party.

One adventurer, Robert Kaupp, was found frostbitten, starving and delirious in a hut used by Indian hunters. After he was fed soup and venison, he reported that his friend, Frank Rocco, was still up on the mountain. They had scaled the Sangay volcano, been overcome by sulphur fumes and oxygen shortage and had taken the wrong way down. Kaupp had realized the error but had been unable to persuade Rocco to climb back to the top with him and start down the other side.

Lofton and his small team hacked their way 2,000 feet over sheet ice and crossed a lava bed, their gasping lungs clogged with fumes. They reached the top and went down the wrong side as far as they dared. Their calls brought only echoes. At last they were forced to give up before more lives were lost.

Over in the Congo, a few months before, pro Communist leader Antoine Gizenga had Mountain rescuer, Consul Harry Lofton, pauses for rest on Ecuador volcano.

The Foreign Service: today's pioneers set up a rump government in Stanleyville, and Foreign Service officer Frank C. Carlucci was sent there to protect Americans and to find out what was going on. He had previously broken up a riot in Leopoldville and once was beaten and stabbed by a Congolese mob.

On the plane to Stanleyville, he was the lone passenger. Shortly after his arrival, he was arrested on charges of coming to prepare an invasion by American paratroops. He was thrown into a fetid jail. There he was kept for four fearful days before Gizenga's men put him back on a plane for Leopoldville.

One of Carlucci's colleagues, quiet, mild-spoken Lewis Hoffacker, went with visiting Sen. Thomas Dodd (D., Conn.) to a cocktail party only to find on arrival that rebellious troops had just seized a UN representative, Brian Urquhart, and an American oilman, Sheridan Smith. They were being brutally beaten with rifle butts. A Belgian civilian who tried to help was also seized and clubbed.

135-to-1 Odds

Though outnumbered about 135-to-1, Hoffacker sailed in with both fists. Smith said later: "Hoffacker, with fantastic courage, leaped from the car and grappled with the commandos. He got the Belgian and me from the truck in which we were being carried away . . . He told the senator and myself to lie flat on the floor of his car as his driver went full speed through the crowd of paratroopers. We were certain they were going to shoot at us."

Bullets and bombs aren't the only hazard to FSO's and their families. Within a month, last summer, six died in air crashes.

A Royal Nepal Airlines plane crunched into a mountain at 11,500 feet, killing FSO's Sidney Jacques and Oscar Holder. Typically, one of the first to reach the wreck was another FSO, Consul Douglas N. Forman, Jr., who came from Katmandu, capital of the Himalayan kingdom, by helicopter, then had to hike two days over some of the world's toughest terrain.

A couple of weeks later, two more State Department men, Vance Rogers and Howard Harris, were killed in the crash of a Thai Air Force helicopter; and FSO John Baxter and his wife Helen perished in the wreck of a private plane in the jungles of Nicaragua.

Buzz Saw Mosquitoes

Disease has also taken its toll. Consider the short history of the American Embassy at Ouagadougo in the new African state of Upper Volta. Here the temperature stays above 100 degrees; the mosquitoes whirr like buzz saws; every drop of water must be boiled, every mouthful of food inspected.

The embassy was opened two years ago by FSO Roger Provencher, who spent his first nights on a bare cot in the customs house. The first embassy was an adobe-like building of seven rooms which had no lights, no phone and no air conditioning. The only equipment it had was two beat-up typewriters, one with a French keyboard. Provencher stayed long enough to see the first chargé d'affaires installed, then took off to set up another new embassy at Bangui in the Central African Republic.

The new man, Robert A. McKinnon, served barely a year before he was stricken with a serious liver ailment and had to be evacuated to an Army hospital in Germany. It was too late. At 37, the young diplomat died.

He was followed by Ambassador Thomas S. Estes, who also fell ill—with malaria and general fatigue. It took 40 hours, including 4 by bus over primitive roads, to get him to Germany for treatment.

Last year, more than 40 Americans serving the State Department in West Africa had to be evacuated for emergency medical care.

I have visited diplomatic posts around the world, and to the congressmen who attack the "cookie pushers" of the State Department, I would say there is no harder-working, more dedicated body of men and women. Far from being the pampered sons and daughters of society, they are pioneers—brave pioneers—in the finest American spirit. ■

The world's richest athletes

by PAUL GARDNER

THE $100,000 that President Kennedy will earn this year, while hardly starvation wages, seems a mere pittance compared to what some of the nation's top athletes will make during the same period.

If you know how to throw a punch or parry it, if you can wallop a golf ball properly, if you are a little man on a big horse, if you can smack a baseball with particular ferocity, if you can whip a bowling ball down a lane or drive a racing car at the risk of your life—you may be able to join a select group that earns more money a year than world statesmen or the heads of great corporations.

Floyd Patterson, spending little more than 2 minutes in a boxing ring with Sonny Liston, earned $1,500,000 from the gate, closed-circuit TV, rights from films, radio and other incidentals. This compares quite favorably with the yearly $300,000 salary of Roger M. Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel, and the $205,000 earned by Crawford H. Greenewalt, president of duPont.

Sets a Record

Never in sports history did an athlete get so much for accomplishing so little, for Patterson didn't even win the fight. Liston, who did, got the lesser purse, estimated at between $250,000 and $350,000.

Ring purses were not always thus. It took nearly a generation of battling for Joe Louis to gross $4,299,000, and his largest single purse was no more than $626,000—not enough to keep him out of financial difficulties. Patterson, to avoid such troubles, is to be paid off over a 17-year period for the Liston fight.

Up to the Patterson-Liston contest, the largest single boxing purse of all time was the $990,455 that Gene Tunney collected for outpointing Jack Dempsey in 1927. But Patterson's record may in time be broken, if boxing survives and if additional ancillary rights are uncovered. Within 10 years a boxer may gross $5,000,000 for a bout, predicts one closed-circuit and television impresario.

Boxing, while most personally lucrative of all the sports, is not in a class by itself. A golfer, Arnold Palmer, is due to wind up the second highest-paid athlete of 1962, with earnings estimated between $350,000 and $500,000. Palmer's earnings result in part from playing golf. The rest are from his participation in a number of corporations arranged by his adroit lawyer-business manager, Mark McCormack.

Rookie Jack Nicklaus shows concentration that will make him one of the top earners among U.S. golfers.

Right behind Palmer is a quiet South African, Gary Player, due to earn more than $300,000 in 1962. His tour winnings approximate $60,000, his interest in corporations (McCormack manages him, too) will run about $100,000, and fees, royalties, salaries, TV and exhibition money another $150,000. To their ranks came a rookie this year: Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Open champion, expected to gross $220,000.

As in boxing, golf earnings today make past earnings look like pin money. Horton Smith, top money winner in 1936, earned about $7,885 on tour that year. Gene Sarazen and Byron Nelson, then among the nation's top 10, won $5,500 each. Today's caddies occasionally make more. The Smiths and Sarazens picked up extra money by connections with sporting goods manufacturers, but the totals were still minuscule compared with those of the present.

On the other hand, tennis, which at one time was braced with golf, has proved a disappointment at the cash register. Lew Hoad received $125,000 to turn pro, and others have been similarly lured. But their earnings never later reached these high levels.

Jockeys Still up Front

Jockeys, though, still ride high, wide and handsome in the money division, with leading boys getting 10 per cent of the purses won by their mounts. Willie Shoemaker, top jockey for 7 of the past 10 years, will earn more than $200,000 in 1962. Milo Valenzuela, of Texas, and Manuel Ycaza, of Panama, are not far behind.

Another kind of rider, auto-racer Stirling Moss, earns about $150,000 a year by winning almost half the races he enters. But the high mortality rate suggests that this kind of sport does not lead to an old age in which to enjoy such earnings.

A newcomer among big-money sports is bowling. Don Carter and Dick Weber are earning more than $100,000 a year, while Frank Clause picked up $72,000 in jackpot bowling on TV. Bowling is exceptional on another count: it offers unparalleled opportunities for the women. Sylvia Wene and Marion Ladewig have each grossed close to $50,000 a year, far beyond the hopes of any other women athletes.

Players in team sports of necessity don't fare as well as such individual performers. Yet some superstars do reach the $100,000 mark: Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Willie Mays in baseball, Wilt Chamberlain and Bob Cousy in basketball. Frank Gifford of the New York football Giants is believed to be tops among the pro players with his $60,000. Outside earning sources help in all these cases.

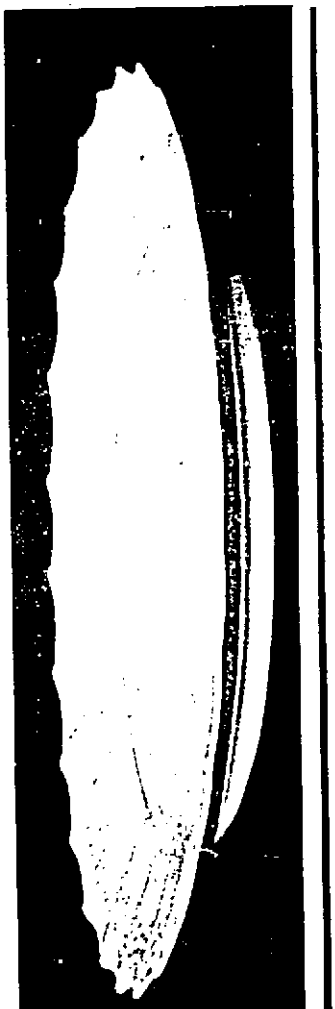

One team-sport athlete had to wait till his playing days were over to cash in. Al Schacht, who once pitched for the Washington Senators, opened a restaurant some years ago in New York. Recently he turned down $1,000,000 for the building and business. Had he accepted he probably would have joined the world's richest ex-athletes. ■

Champion Don Carter bowls so expertly he earns more than $100,000a year.

Thanksgiving Day Pies

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Traditionally the Thanksgiving feast must end with a pie or choice of pies. This year we offer variations on the time-tested favorites that will delight the most discriminating palates.

Apple Meringue Pie: Simmer 6 cups diced tart apples until just tender. Combine 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and 2 slightly beaten egg yolks; add to apples; mix well. Pour into pastry lined 9-inch pie pan. Cover apple mixture with circle of aluminum foil. Bake at 425° about 30 minutes, or until pastry is browned. Make a meringue of 2 egg whites and ¼ cup sugar; swirl on pie. Bake at 325° for 25 minutes or until meringue is tipped with brown.

Cranberry Claret Pie: Combine 2¼ cups sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ¼ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon mace. Add ¼ cup water and ¼ cup claret wine. Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Add 4 cups fresh cranberries; cook slowly until all the skins pop open. Add 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel. Pour into pastry lined 9-inch pie pan. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Top with crisscross strips of pastry or pastry cutouts. Bake at 425° for 30 minutes.

Candied Mince Pie: Combine 3 cups prepared mincemeat and 1 cup mixed, diced, candied fruits and peels. Stir in 2 teaspoons artificial brandy flavoring. Spoon into pastry lined 9-inch pie pan. Arrange pastry strips, lattice fashion, over filling. Bake at 425° from 40 to 45 minutes.

Pumpkin-Ginger Pie: Combine ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each ginger and cinnamon, ⅛ teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg. Stir in 1¼ cups canned pumpkin, ⅓ cup finely chopped candied ginger, 1 tablespoon each light molasses and melted butter, 2 slightly beaten eggs and 1¼ cups milk. Pour into pastry lined 9-inch pie pan. Bake at 425° for 40 minutes or until knife inserted near rim comes out clean.

Creamy Pecan Pie: Cream ⅓ cup butter or margarine and ¾ cup sugar until light and fluffy. Add 2 slightly beaten eggs, ½ cup dark corn syrup, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla; mix well. Stir in 1¼ cups chopped pecans and 1 cup dairy sour cream. Pour into pastry lined 9-inch pie pan. Garnish surface with whole pecan meats. Bake at 375° for 40 to 45 minutes.

Indoors or out—here's something new by PETER DRYDEN

A fresh taste for your water: A new filter makes it easy for homeowners and apartment dwellers to enjoy drinking and cooking water free of offensive tastes and odors. Attached under sink to the cold water line, it filters the water through a 7" carbon bed, removing chlorine, sulphur, other unpleasant tastes and odors. And a cellulose section screens out tiny bits of solid matter. $29.95 plus installation. Cuno Engineering, Dept. PP, South Vine St., Meriden, Conn.

A clear windshield for your car: Windshield washers often clog up because of dirt specks in the water. Now a little filter, quickly inserted in the hose line, solves the problem by trapping sediment before it can reach the tiny jets. 75¢. Fram Corp., Dept. PP, Providence 16, R. I.

Snow wing: Here's fun for kids—a delta-shaped wing (right) that outdoes a sled because it can go in light or deep snow. You can sit, kneel, "belly slam" on it. Two hand loops provide a secure seat. And it's easy to steer: a bottom runner keeps it moving straight until you lean left to steer left, right to go that way. 37" x 30". $5.95. Blazon, Dept. PP, Box 3622 PSW, Akron 10, Ohio.

Clean tank: Good news for an estimated 20,000,000 fish fanciers—the first automatic underwater vacuum cleaner for fish tanks. It operates on a single flash battery, weighs 1 lb., is 15" long. Lower it into water, press button, and it picks up and disposes dirt and waste from the gravel into a filter bag. $3.98. Wil-Nes Corp., Dept. PP, 220 E. 134 St., New York 51, N. Y.

Mrs. Louise Brown: She's calling an old friend.

Life-saving phone calls

Here's a way to help aged live-alones in every town

IN FRIENDLY Saginaw, Mich., Mrs. Clara Sample McClure had an elderly friend who lived alone and liked it. That is, until the day she slipped on her freshly waxed kitchen floor.

When she didn't answer her phone, Mrs. McClure and other friends assumed she was puttering in the garden or out shopping. No one knows just which phone ring was the last she heard. Mrs. McClure never stopped blaming herself.

From that all-too-typical episode, "Reassurance Service" was born. Thus, for the past five years, Saginaw's senior citizens who live alone can hear the telephone ring twice a day, morning and evening. If there's no answer, someone checks up at once.

The idea, an obvious boon to the nation's aged men and women, already has been adopted in other communities and is spreading fast. Any town, or any individual, can inaugurate such a service at negligible cost.

The need is great because many aged folk, retired and free of family responsibilities, do prefer to live alone—completely independent. But independence can bring problems.

Recently, one of the jolliest senior citizens of Phoenix, Ariz., bade her neighbors goodnight after a backyard barbecue and went through the hedge to her home. That was Thursday. On Saturday, a cross-town friend phoned and got no answer.

A Neighbor's Discovery

Days later, a neighbor peeked into the house and discovered the woman. She had suffered a stroke, but was still alive when the ambulance arrived.

Such cases are not uncommon. Very often, the elderly person living alone does so because pride will not permit him to "sponge" on relatives.

Reassurance Service was born to preserve this pride but eliminate the danger.

In many communities, subscribers pay a small sum each month to a non-profit organization—to cover costs of a central office and part-time secretary. Often, this small fee will be paid by a daughter, son, friend or even the subscriber's church.

The local police department or other responsible civic organization is permitted to have a key to the aged individual's house. Reassurance phone callers frequently are volunteers, elderly themselves and looking for constructive things to do.

Usually, Reassurance works in reverse, too. If the subscriber is not going to be home at normal phone-checking time, he's instructed to call in to the office. Repeated failure to do so means the service can be cancelled.

Fringe benefits of the service are important. In Los Angeles, a 78-year-old gentleman volunteered to call 10 other elderly persons a day. The sixth was a 72-year-old lady who, after a few calls, sent him a cake. They met, and one thing led to another. Now they are married.

While "service-connected" weddings are rare, the phone calls do lead to dinner parties, motor trips, gatherings of all types.

Rx for Loneliness

Soon after Saginaw pioneered it, Reassurance Service was started in nearby Flint, by the Junior League there. Mrs. Louise Brown researched the project for Flint, then helped kick off a service in Phoenix.

A church group, Kiwanis Club, parent-teacher association—almost any group of thoughtful people can launch a service.

Even where no service exists, fear can be alleviated by a simple arrangement between loved ones and friends. Two or more elderly people can agree to call one another daily.

One elderly West Coast man who became a volunteer caller declared, "This is the most fun I've had in years."

Beyond the enjoyment, there is still one other benefit to called and caller. It lessens the terrible loneliness that so many aging Americans feel.

A new Mark Twain discovery

ELMIRA, N.Y.

THE STONES BELOW and the poem written on them make up the newest and strangest addition to the works of Mark Twain. Unearthed this year, they have been presented to Elmira College.

Twain wrote the verses (see r.) in 1895 while at his summer home, Quarry Farm, here. It happened after a discussion about life after death with Mrs. Thomas K. Beecher, sister-in-law of the famous preacher, Henry Ward Beecher. Mrs. Beecher believed in immortality. Twain didn't.

"Now, friend Clemens," Mrs. Beecher said finally, "if we should meet in Heaven a million years from now, would you own yourself in the wrong?" Twain agreed that he would.

Next day, Mrs. Beecher got a package wrapped in tissue paper. Inside were the three stones, which she had once found in the woods and given to Twain, a fellow nature-lover. The stones fit together like a book. On the leaves Twain had carefully written, "Contract with Mrs. T. K. Beecher, Elmira, July 2, 1895," and added the verses.

Mrs. Beecher kept the stones, passed them along to her family at her death. This year, when Twain's acidulously antireligious Letters From the Earth were finally published 52 years after his death, "A Sermon in Stone" has particular interest.

Seated Twain contemplates cigar in old photo taken on steps to his study, now a part of Elmira College.

I

If you prove right and I prove wrong
A million years from now,
In language plain and frank and strong
My error I'll avow
To your dear mocking face.

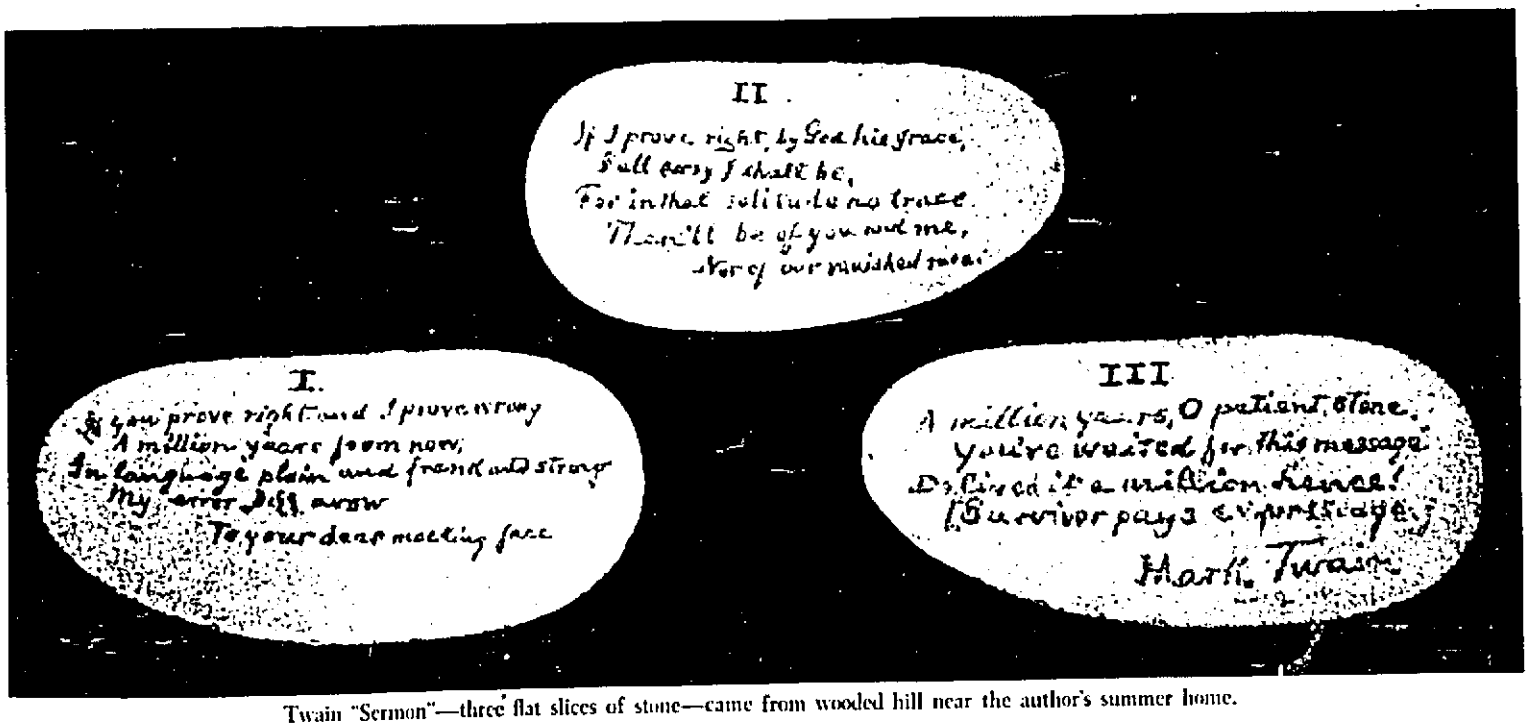

II

If I prove right, by God his grace,
Full sorry I shall be,
For in that solitude no trace
There'll be of you and me,
Nor of our vanished race.

III

A million years, O patient stone,
You've waited for this message.
Deliver it a million hence!
[Survivor pays expressage.]

The amazing Fred MacMurray

HOLLYWOOD.

THERE ARE three occupations which hold a monetary and magical fascination for poor boys the world over: boxing, bullfighting and acting.

In any of this trio a man can come from nowhere and, after a relatively short time, emerge a multimillionaire.

Take Fred MacMurray, the screen star. Tall, friendly Fred, seemingly easygoing and casual, is really loaded. He owns real estate from one end of California to the other. He's worth a fortune in cash, stocks and bonds. He owns an interest in a TV series, My Three Sons, worth $3,000,000 in resale rights.

He's landlord of a 2,500-acre cattle ranch in the Russian River area north of San Francisco valued at another million. He possesses oil interests of undeclared potential, plus, of course, his basic acting career, which earns him $200,000 and up per film. Most important yet, MacMurray finds that at age 54, after 27 years in Hollywood, he is more in demand than ever before in his lengthy, lucky career.

Disney Star

In the past few years, for example, Fred has starred in four of Walt Disney's major productions: The Shaggy Dog, The Absent-Minded Professor, Bon Voyage and Son of Flubber, a soon-to-be-released and wacky sequel to The Absent-Minded Professor.

In 1960, television producers wanted him so badly for a series that one of them, Don Fedderson, not only gave up a hefty chunk of the show—reportedly 50 per cent—but promised Fred that it would take only 13 weeks of his valuable time to shoot 37 episodes of My Three Sons.

The way MacMurray works in this series is incredible. Each of the scripts is broken down to isolate the scenes in which Fred performs. The star then reports to the Desilu studios to film those scenes, one after another, all alone.

During this jigsaw puzzle production, two script girls and a still photographer take down exactly what MacMurray is doing and wearing in every shot.

When Fred is finished, the rest of the cast is gathered, maybe six or seven weeks later, and MacMurray's previously isolated scenes are integrated with theirs.

The process calls for meticulous editing, and even if sometimes the editing is not so meticulous, the TV audience is none the wiser. They believe that because MacMurray and his partner, Bill Frawley, are shown together on the TV screen, that they actually worked side by side. The truth is, of course, that MacMurray was probably fishing for salmon in Oregon while Frawley's scene was filmed.

Anyway, it shows you to what length producers will go to hire Fred MacMurray.

The question is why?—especially when Fred is not what you would call a particularly masterful actor. His chances of ever winning an Academy Award are notoriously slim. When he made his first feature film, The Gilded Lily, with Claudette Colbert in 1935, he was considered so inept that Paramount wanted him removed from the picture. So much of the film had been shot by then that the executives decided "to take a chance, because it would be financially disastrous to throw him out now."

When The Gilded Lily was released, the fans wrote in praising MacMurray for his "natural, All-American, rugged personality," and MacMurray has been a Hollywood fixture ever since.

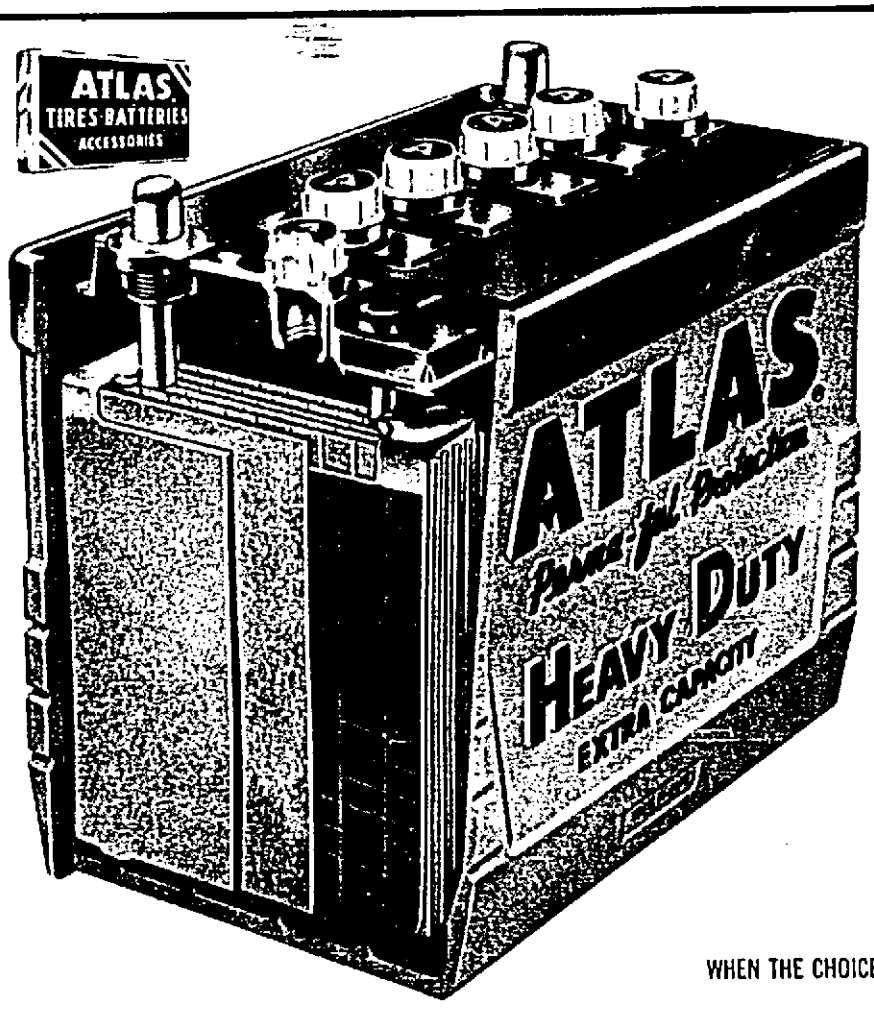

"His appeal is universal," explains Billy Wilder. "He's everybody's nice fellow. He gives people the feeling that he's kind to dogs, children, mothers and widows. That's why I've been able to cast him so effectively against type when I use him as a heel."

In his three most memorable film roles, two of which (Double Indemnity and The Apartment) he made with Wilder, Fred played a heavy. In the third (The Caine Mutiny) he also played a heel.

And in all three pictures he was enormously effective, largely because his portrayals generated a shock effect.

"Over the years," Fred explains, "the fans have expected me to be a good guy. When I play the nice fellow who turns out to be a heel, they're surprised, and that surprise is a good ingredient."

MacMurray modestly attributes his lengthy and lucrative career to "good luck, being in the right place at the right time."

Born a poor boy in a trunk—in Kankakee, Ill., where his violinist father was giving a concert—Fred was taught to play the fiddle as a child. By the time he was 6, however, his parents had separated, and the boy went with his mother to live in Beaver Dam, Wis.

The MacMurrays had very little money, and the memory of those days is undoubtedly most responsible for Fred's current reputation as "the thriftiest actor in Hollywood."

MacMurray learned to play the saxophone as a youngster, and in 1930 came to Los Angeles. Here, because he could read music and sing a little, he was hired by the California Collegians to join their musical group. A few years later an office boy suggested that he go to Paramount and apply for a screen test.

MacMurray assented and, miracle of miracles, was signed to a six-month contract.

'It Just Happened'

"I never started out to be an actor," he recalls. "It just happened. It seems everything just happens to me. I've been extremely lucky in practically everything."

MacMurray's only spell of bad luck came in 1953 when, after 17 years of marriage, his first wife, Broadway actress Lillian Lamont, died of cancer, leaving Fred with two adopted teenagers. But even in the love department, luck subsequently triumphed. A few years ago, Fred married former film star June Haver, who had once planned to become a nun.

June, 19 years his junior, suggested adopting a baby, but Fred declined. "I've been through it once before," he said. "Now let somebody else raise a family. Besides, I'm already a grandfather." But June persisted, and the MacMurrays adopted twin baby girls. "They've brought me nothing but luck," Fred declares of his daughters.

Says writer Claude Binyon, MacMurray's best friend: "Ever since those little girls arrived, Mr. Nice Guy has become even nicer—not only that but also younger, busier, bigger and better than ever!"

Armstrong One-Step Floor Care does both jobs thoroughly in one easy step! It cuts your work in half!

No matter how you look at it—the people who make Armstrong Floors have come up with an entirely new idea in floor care. It's called One-Step Floor Care. Made for linoleum and vinyl floors and floor coverings, asphalt, cork, rubber tile and terrazzo—One-Step takes up the dirt as it puts down the shine.

One-Step, you see, contains detergent blended with a special formulation of polishes. These ingredients do two jobs for you at once . . . saving you hours of work each month caring for your floors. Just pour out, spread around, finish with smooth strokes. That's all there is to it!

Use One-Step for regular cleaning—whenever floors get dirty or dulled. That way, your floors will always have a lustrous, freshly polished look. With One-Step, incidentally, you just rinse your applicator in a bucket of water to get rid of dirt . . . instead of rinsing the floor.

So much for speed and convenience. The other important thing to remember is that One-Step's detergent gives excellent cleaning action . . . and One-Step polishes like the finest polish. After all, if anyone should know how to make a good floor-care product, Armstrong should.

You can get new One-Step Floor Care at the stores where you usually buy waxes and cleaners. Look for the rainbow container. That's new One-Step Floor Care . . . in the introductory 22-oz. size, full quarts and economical half gallons.

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

PAY-TV. By 1965 Hollywood expects toll television to be sweeping the country. It anticipates a tremendous boom in production, hopefully looks forward to the day when a good show or movie will take in $10,000,000 on a single TV showing. Pay-TV is currently operating or on the way in Connecticut, Arkansas, Hawaii, Colorado, Texas and California. Biggest opposition to it stems from the three major TV networks and the nation's motion picture theater-owners. Two prime reasons why people are willing to pay for TV: (1) To avoid the loud, long, distasteful, interruptive commercials now on the air; (2) The fact that the viewer is already paying close to $200 a year for so-called free TV. It costs 4 cents an hour to operate a TV set, and approximately 3 to 4% of what you pay for many consumer articles goes for TV advertising of same. It comes to roughly $200 a year for the average family, whose members watch TV 6 hours per day.

TRAILER TALK. The newest market for trailers is not in the housing but in the commercial field. At the latest mobile home and trailer show, manufacturers demonstrated large mobile units, 60 feet long and 10 feet wide, which are being used for offices, restaurants, libraries, grocery stores. Several banks are considering purchase of these large trailers to be set up as field offices while new buildings are under construction. Trailers are also being used as offices by oil, electronics and movie companies in the field.

CAR PRODUCTION. It may come as a surprise to you, but there are now 18 auto-making states in the Union. Number one, of course, is Michigan, which last year turned out 2,113,377 cars, or 31% of the total. Know which states come next? California was second with 9.9% of production. Wisconsin third (9.8%), Missouri fourth (9.5%), New Jersey fifth (8.0%).

U.S. vs. SOVIET TESTS. Scientists in neutral nations studying the latest U.S. and Russian nuclear blasts point out one significant difference. At least half the weapons tested by the Soviets have been multi-megaton devices in the 10- to 50-megaton range. These are colossal weapons suitable for saturation and obliteration bombing, the destruction of whole cities. The American emphasis has been on weapons designed to knock out select targets such as rocket sites and to minimize the damage to cities.

BANK SECRECY. Long famed for its secret bank accounts identified only by number, Switzerland may pass a law revealing the identities of lost fortunes on deposit. The object is to have the government take over and distribute to Swiss charities the unclaimed funds which belonged to victims of the Hitler terror. There is no chance, however, of the Swiss repealing their traditional Bank Secrecy Act, since this constitutes the heart of their international appeal. At the moment new private banks are sprouting like mushrooms in Geneva and Zurich. Their vaults contain the secret accounts of Las Vegas gambling personalities, Middle East oil sheiks, Latin-American dictators and European munitions manufacturers. Recently a jealous Las Vegas wife reportedly informed the Bureau of Internal Revenue that her husband had deposited a million undeclared dollars in Switzerland. She offered to find out the number of his account so that she could obtain a pay-off. She wrote the bank. An official replied: "We are unable to provide you with information of any kind." For Swiss banks, that's S.O.P. (standard operating procedure), which is why they're doing such a landslide business.

"We're looking for others who like to draw"...says Norman Rockwell

The people pictured above have changed their lives through art—so can you

IF YOU LIKE TO DRAW OR PAINT—you must have toyed with the idea of "doing something" in art.

Why not explore the idea further? If you show talent—a group of America's most famous artists stand ready to give you the art training you need.

These distinguished men (listed below) own and run the Famous Artists Schools. They spent years pouring all they know about drawing and painting . . . all their priceless trade secrets . . . all their professional know-how . . . into a monumental series of art lessons. As one of their students, you can share this vast knowledge and experience—no matter where you live. You study at home, in your spare time.

America's 12 Most Famous Artists

NORMAN ROCKWELL	FRED LUDEKENS
JON WHITCOMB	BEN STAHL
AL PARKER	ROBERT FAWCETT
STEVAN DOHANOS	AUSTIN BRIGGS
GEORGE GIUSTI	HAROLD VON SCHMIDT
PETER HELCK	ALBERT DORNE

You Are a Class of One

Your instructors—who are themselves practicing professional artists—correspond directly with you. For each assignment you send in, they spend as much as two or three hours showing you ways to improve your work. They make separate drawings and paintings especially for you. They write you personal letters of advice and guidance. Eventually, they become your friends, eager to hear news of your success, eager to help in any way they can.

As you can see—from the small sample of Famous Artists students pictured above—this training works well.

Find Out If You Have Talent

To find others with talent worth developing, the famous artists created a special talent test. Formerly, the School charged for the test, but now they offer it free and grade it free. If you show talent on the test, you are eligible for Famous Artists training. But there is no obligation at all. To get a copy of the test, simply mail the coupon. It could be your first step to seeing your picture on this page.

"WHEN MAN INDISCRIMINATELY BROADCASTS CHEMICAL INSECTICIDES AND NUCLEAR WASTES IN HIS ENVIRONMENT..

"HE SERIOUSLY THREATENS THE FUTURE OF ALL LIVING THINGS INCLUDING HIMSELF!

"THESE POISONS AND CONTAMINANTS OF UNKNOWN POTENTIAL EVENTUALLY REACH THE SEA OF FRESH WATER BENEATH OUR CONTINENT'S ENTIRE SURFACE...

"AND THIS MOVING GROUNDWATER SUPPLIES MAN-MADE WELLS AND SURFACE SPRINGS, FLOWS INTO LAKES AND STREAMS, AND IS EVEN NOW FINDING ITS WAY INTO OUR DRINKING WATER

"FISH, BIRDS, WILD ANIMALS, LIVESTOCK AND HUMAN INHABITANTS OF SOME AREAS OF OUR COUNTRY HAVE ALREADY FELT THE DEADLY EFFECTS OF THIS EVER-SPREADING CONTAMINATION
